Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

Sir Charles Tupper's Plan Receiving Numerous Adherents.

LONDON, July 18.—The Council of the Imperial Federation League has selected a strong committee to consider the definite proposals for Imperial Federation made by Sir Charles Tupper in his recent speeches. This speech has been printed for the use of the Council, and the scheme as outlined therein will find many advocates on the Committee which will proceed to business immediately after the holidays. It will probably not conclude its labors until well towards the close of the present year. It is noted as significant that a pronounced free trader like Sir Lyon Playfair and other well-known Liberals have shown themselves ready to consider these and similar proposals without prejudice. This seems to confirm the assertion of The Times that "England is beginning to see that free trade was made for man and not man for free trade." Sir Charles Tupper says that he is surprised at the support his scheme obtains each day. He declares that his is the first proposal that has been made that meets all the French-Canadian objections to Federation schemes in general This federation movement is tending to allay the feeling aroused in England by the outspoken declarations of Mr. Mercier in The Canadian Gazette and elsewhere that Canada will soon seek her independence through friendly negotiations.

THE BENDERS LYNCHED.

The York Avengers Hang Them to Their Own Ceiling Rafters.

ST JOSEPH, Mo., July 18.—K. B. Randolph, an attorney of this city, who has just returned from Nickerson, Kan., says that he there made the acquaintance of Tom Doolittle, an old-time freighter, who told him a story of the famous Bender family, which if true settles all question as to the whereabouts of the family of murderers. Doolittle says that after the murder of York a band of searchers, headed by the murdered man's brother, went to the Bender house and extorted a confession from the old woman.

They then quietly proceeded to hang old man Bender, his wife and son to the rafters of the house. During this proceeding Kate Bender uttered some protest and was shot to death.

After the family had been dispatched York's avengers took the bodies to the creek bed, some yards distant from the house, and buried them.

The attention of a family living on an adjoining ranch was attracted to the Bender place some days after by a starving calf, and then the absence of the family was first made known to the public. This gave rise to the report that the murderous family had fled to avoid punishment and caused the prolonged search after them by the officers of the law.

The suffrers from Catarrh are legion and the majority of them make the serious mistake of thinking they should only use treatment when at its worst. Treatment during the summer months is almost certain to prevent a recurrence of the disease, and Nasal Balm is the only remedy that will effect a complete cure. All dealers, or post free on receipt of price (50c. or $1 a bottle) Address Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont. dw

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his brows to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were thirteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in any way get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

A HARROWING DISASTER.

Women and Children Drown off the Newfoundland Coast.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 20.—The Furness Bellairs, Captain Butts, reached Pubnico Belle Isle on the Labrador coast on Monday and five sealing boats left the vessel with fifty men and five sealers left on board. Captain Butts of the lost vessel states that the Pubnico Belle, with a crew of fourteen men, left Catalina on the morning of Wednesday, bound for St. Johns with a cargo of lumber. She had on board five women and two children as passengers. During the storm of Thursday the vessel was foundered and those on board, Freeman and infant child, Mrs. Tibbo, Mrs. Higgins, three children of Mrs. Rindal, Burton aged 12, 9 and 5 respectively and Mrs. Hicks, another child coming on board. Mrs. Burton was rescued with two other passengers. All the crew succeeded in getting later. It appears from the statements of the survivors that the vessel, after leaving Catalina began to fill with water. The passengers went on deck and remained there with them, all the crew had reached the vessel except the captain. He remained on the deck to the last. The women and children were washed on the rocks, where they remained several hours before assistance came.

After the ladies' misfortune they were seen to be in the rigging and their cries could be heard calling for help. The crew was repeatedly thrown to the deck, each time fell short. Finally a little boy was washed off and their voices were stilled in the sea.

Mrs. John Burton, one of the survivors, says she could see her brother Marshall hanging to rigging an hour him calling for help. He was thrown a long time but at last the son came and washed him off.

Mrs. Freeman, one of the lost, was the wife of William Freeman, now in Victoria, B. C. Mrs. Burton and her whole family was coming for the purpose of taking passage by the SS. Portia for New York where her husband is.

Capt. Butt stated that the crew looked after themselves and jumped when the first chance.

A BRAVE RESCUE.

How a Bostonian Was Saved From Drowning in Digby Gut.

HALIFAX, July 19. One of the most daring and heroic deeds in Canadian annals occurred in Digby gut last midnight. The steamer W. H. Weatherspoon was making for Digby with 140 excursionists aboard, having been on a moonlight excursion. Charlie Goldsmith, of Boston, who was one of the excursionists, fell overboard. A terrible current sweeps through Digby gut and a fog prevailed. Only one man on board imagined that Goldsmith could be saved, and quick as a flash W. W. Clarke, formerly a lumberman on the Woodstock and Aroostook railway, leaped overboard and struck towards the place where he saw the drowning man. Clarke quickly got the Bostonian around the neck and both were hauled on board the steamer amid the wild hurrahs of the admiring spectators.

Count Mercier's Arrival.

QUEBEC, July 19. The steamship Parisian arrived at 7 o'clock yesterday bedecked with flags and firing rockets in honor of Mr. Mercier. The steamer proceeded straight to Point Levis, where she was joined by the steamship Vaga, having on board the Provincial ministers and a large number of Mercier's admirers. At Mr. Mercier appeared on the steamer's bridge hurrahs were given for him. Then a spell of hand shaking followed. At 9 o'clock the Vaga, having Mr. Mercier and his friends on board, steamed up the river to her wharf where some thousands of people had gathered to welcome the count. His appearance caused an outburst of acclamation.

Hon. Mr. Mercier left at 10 o'clock last night to join his family at St. Anne De La Perade.

An Engineer Killed.

BRANTFORD, July 19. Passengers who came in yesterday on the steamer Campana making her regular trip from Chicago to Montreal, report a fatality. While the steamer was leaving the dock at Cleveland Friday morning, Engineer Johnston by some means fell under the huge weight that moves up and down in the engine room and had his legs crushed off. He died almost instantly. The steamer returned to the dock and a message was telegraphed to Johnston's friends in Kingston, Ont., where he has a wife and family. No answer being received the body was embalmed and is now on its way to Kingston. There were a great many people on board from Toronto and other Canadian cities.

The Whirlpool Victim Identified.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 20. The body seen floating in the whirlpool during the regatta of last week and secured was that of Frederick Udell of this place, who had been missing since July 2. Mrs. Nellie Udell, a sister-in-law of the missing man, learned that a peculiar scarf pin was found on the body, and upon being shown a drawing of it at once recognized it as belonging to Udell. A tear in the pocket of the coat which had been mended by her, the underclothing, and the shoes were in turn identified. Mr. Amberg remembers selling Udell the same suit which was found on the body. The corpse will be disinterred to-day and will be viewed by the relatives.

Controck Excited.

MONTREAL, July 20. Canadians in the country at Stanstead, is much excited over an alleged case. For a long time the firm of Quevillon & Lamoureux had been noted for the probity and business integrity of its partners, but the disappearance of Cyrille Lamoureux, jr., a most popular man, put a new face on the whole concern. But half the positions of trust in the community and his downfall is deeply regretted. Lamoureux is accused of extensive forgeries. He decamped but was followed to Montana and extradited.

A NEW HAVEN TRAGEDY REVIVED.

Jennie Cramer's Tragic Death Recalled by Her Mother's Suicide.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 19.—Interest in the story of beautiful Jennie Cramer whose body was found drifting with the tide at the sawin Rocks here ten years ago is revived through the suicide of the unfortunate girl's mother, who was found hanging from a rope over the doorsill of the old Cramer residence on Grand avenue at 4.30 o'clock yesterday.

Of late years Mrs. Cramer has been living with her son, the only surviving member of the ill-fated family, at his home in Brooklyn. A few weeks ago she returned to New Haven, and since then has been living alone at the old home.

All the message that she left was this:

"Send for my son, E. Cramer, Postal Telegram Company, No. 185 Broadway, New York."

This was written on a piece of paper and tucked under the door of the death chamber.

Mrs. Cramer's premeditation in the matter about the details of her own execution is shown by the fact that she carefully wrapped a cloth about her neck so that the rope would not disfigure the flesh. The rope was fastened to the top of a door screen.

To night the tragedy of ten years ago is discussed with almost as much interest as it was at the time, and it is now thought that Jennie was not murdered, but that she killed herself. It will be remembered that Walter and James Malley, sons of the proprietor of the largest dry goods store in the state, in connection with Blanche Douglass, a notorious character from New York, whom they had introduced to Jennie Cramer as their cousin, were charged with her murder. After a most sensational trial, lasting several months, the jury disagreed and the Malley boys escaped.

The last night that Jennie Cramer was seen alive she spent at the palace of the Malleys. Two hours after her father, who had been a prosperous merchant, unable to stand his grief, killed himself, and how Mrs. Cramer's death at her own hands and posthumously to the report that has long been talked of among the most intimate friends of the family that the Malleys, while responsible for the girl's downfall, had nothing to do with her death.

The body was found at daybreak about 5 miles from the Malley house, where the prosecution claimed that Jennie had last been seen alive and had gone the last night of her life with the rich young Malleys and Blanche Douglass. In her stomach was found a grain of nitrate and the state claimed that in attempting to ruin the local beauty the accused had overdrugged her. The jury after months of trial failed to agree and the Malleys have never since been tried. Blanche Douglass has recently died, and Mrs. Cramer's suicide removes the last important witness of the famous case.

Mrs. Cramer has not been quite right in her mind for years. At the last interview between mother and daughter, the day before the latter's body was found, she chided the girl severely for her intimacy with the Malleys, and there is a firm belief among those who knew the family well that Mrs. Cramer's reproaches caused Jennie to take her own life.

Spurgeon and Gladstone.

LONDON, July 20. Mr. Spurgeon is progressing slowly but satisfactorily toward recovery.

Mr. Gladstone in a letter to Mrs. Spurgeon says:

In my own home darkened at the present time I read with sad interest the accounts of Mr. Spurgeon's illness. I can not help conveying to you an earnest assurance of my sympathy and of my cordial admiration not only for his splendid powers but still more for his devoted and unpitying character. I humbly commend you and him in all confidence to the infinite fatherliness of divine love and mercy.

Mrs. Spurgeon replied with a note of thanks, a post script to which was traced by Mr. Spurgeon as follows:

"Yours is a word of love, such as those only write who have been into the king's country as I have much of his face. My heart's love to you."

A Reverend Umpire for the Girls.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 20.—This city is to have a female baseball team. It is not their intention to travel or to make a public exhibition of themselves, the object being to afford a source of home amusement and recreation. The ladies interested in the national game here are among our best society young ladies. They played their first game with a team of young men, and the latter, not desiring to defeat the girls too badly, used only their left hands, while they allowed the ladies to use both. Rev. S. B. Alderson, D. D., pastor of the Presbyterian Church, umpired the game very satisfactorily. The game stood 17 to 22 in favor of the young men.

Cannibalism in the United States.

PINE CITY, Minn., July 20.—A fishing party from this city has just returned from the pine forests of Snake River and bring with them a wild woman and her 10-year-old daughter. The daughter tells a story of terrible suffering and privation. She says that the husband and father of the family was eaten by wolves while in an intoxicated condition last March. Since that time they have had no food in their humble cabin. The three younger children died of starvation and were cooked and eaten one by one by the mother and eldest daughter.

There Was Death in the Blow.

CRYSTAL FALLS, Mich., July 19.—James McCormick of this place died yesterday from injuries received in a prize fight with William Daniels of Rhinelander last night. The fight was 10 rounds with light gloves. In the seventh round McCormick appeared dazed and fell unconscious under a terrific blow from Daniels. Daniels and his seconds, Frank Brouletti and Jim Daly, have been arrested on a charge of murder.

DEPARTURE OF THE VISITING UNITED STATES TEACHERS.

Disappearance of a Benwell Tragedy Celebrity—The Death of Miss Sophia Handcock Now Thought to be Accidental—The Street Railway Franchise and the Esplanade Agreement.

TORONTO, July 20, 1891.

IN this city of churches about one-fifth of the visiting teachers spent a quiet Sunday, the other 16,000 of them having departed the day before all over Canada on the various cheap side trip our railways provided in order that the educators of the United States might be thoroughly acquainted with this country. The hospitality shown the visitors by the people of this city has predisposed them to view things Canadian in a very roseate light, and no doubt their visits to other portions of the Dominion will prove profitable looked at in this optimistic spirit. The convention has been an unqualified success, and its memories will not be to the disadvantage of Canada. A feature of the transportation accommodation is worth mentioning. The tickets for the side excursions are all from Toronto and return, consequently those who take them in will have to come back to the city before going home. Detachments of the great educational army will, therefore, be dropping into the city every day for a week to come.

MAY BE BLOCKED YET.

The Esplanade agreement may not be as near a settlement as was hoped for. A difficulty has been raised by Elias Rogers. That gentleman has large coal yards both north and south of the tracks and west of the Midland yard. At present the Grand Trunk's entrance to the Midland yard is from the east. In order to facilitate the crossing of the Canadian Pacific at Berkeley street it is proposed to make that entrance from the west. This will cause a continual shunting back and forth between Mr. Rogers' two yards and interfere with his traffic from one to the other. As that gentleman says, "The Canadian Pacific crossing has been made possible by stopping the shunting east of the Midland yard and doing the shunting to the west of it between my two properties, thus shifting the difficulty from the Canadian Pacific to myself." Mr. Rogers, on being spoken to, would not express himself very definitely, but said the matter is in the hands of his solicitors and intimated that action will be taken to prevent the completion of the agreement unless his interests are more fully protected. Mr. Rogers is a member of the Joint Esplanade Committee, and to many it seems just a little singular that he did not raise these objections a little sooner.

SUPPOSED TO BE ACCIDENTAL.

The medical testimony given in the coroner's inquest at Fairbank, touching the death of Miss Sophia Handcock, virtually dispelled the theory of foul play. It was demonstrated pretty conclusively that the fracture to the skull might have been caused by a heavy fall against some blunt substance, and that the wound could have been caused by the head coming into contact with the corner of the cellar door. The corner of the trap door bears a corner freshly broken off. The growing impression in the neighborhood is that the deceased was carrying a pail of butter across the floor, near the trap door which was not closed tight down. Close to the door is a home-made mat, on which she tripped and fell with all her weight against the door. Her father, it seems, was the first to discover the wounded girl, and immediately proceeded to bathe the wound and staunch the flow of blood. Finding that his efforts were unavailing he ran out of the house, meeting in the roadway a couple of neighbors. His hands were still stained with blood, he not having stopped to wash them before rushing out of the house. The circumstance caused some ugly rumors to be circulated. High Constable Jones says "We have not been able so far to attribute any motive for murder."

PICKHALL AGAIN.

Neville H. Pickhall, the young English farmer whose disappearance from his farm near Woodstock about the time of the Benwell tragedy brought him into prominence for a while, has again become the subject of a little sensation. "Pick," as he was familiarly known, has disappeared from the New Fort Barracks where a short time ago he commenced a three years course with the intention of becoming attached to the school permanently. He left the Fort one evening over a week ago and has not been heard of since, though diligent inquiry has been made in the city. The people at the Fort think that he has grown tired of military life and gone away to the States or to England. If he continues absent for twenty one days he will be marked down as a deserter. Until that time he is only "absent," unless a member of the school should see him in civilian's clothes, in which case he would be recorded as "deserter" at once.

THE BOODLING CHARGES.

No time is being allowed to lapse in setting the investigation on foot in the boodling charges in connection with the street railway franchise. Subpoenas have been served on J. F. Coleman, G. S. McConkey, G. G. Woodworth, Thomas Mitchell, jr., G. W. Kiely, J. K. Kerr, Barnett Mahler, Nicholas Kingsmill, Alderman Hall, and Alderman Hewitt. The last mentioned are subpoenaed to attend before Examiner Bruce this morning at 10 a.m., and Ald. Hewitt at 11 a.m. In a week at most it should be definite to know whether there is any truth in the charges.

THE FLOWER SHOW.

The annual flower show, to be held in the pavilion of the Horticultural Gardens on Thursday and Friday, will, it is anticipated, lead the van in anything in that line ever held in Canada, and the indications are that leading horticulturists from all parts of the province will be present.

TO CAMP AT NIAGARA.

The military camp for the Toronto district will be held at Niagara, from September 1st to 12th, the following corps being ordered under canvas:—"C" Company I. S. Corps, 2nd dragoons, 19th, 20th, 31st, 39th, 44th battalions.

TORONTO TOPICS IN A FEW LINES.

Wm. Harris, convicted last spring of rape upon a woman named Winnie McKenna and sentenced to seven years in the Penitentiary has been pardoned by the Government, it having been afterwards ascertained that the woman was not so violently assaulted as she swore to at the trial.

Judge Morgan on Saturday concluded the extradition proceedings in which Harry Garbutt of Texas is particularly interested. A charge of forgery was made out against the prisoner, who was known in the Lone Star State as James Hunter. Judge Morgan refused to accept the evidence, and ordered Garbutt's extradition pending an appeal to the higher court.

Alex Lobban, the Humber Bay teamster who was thrown from his wagon, the wheels of which ran over him, died on Saturday from his injuries.

A SUNDAY RIOT IN TORONTO.

Disgraceful Scene in Queen's Park—The Mounted Police at Work.

TORONTO, July 20.—The Queen's Park yesterday afternoon might fairly have blushed for its name. There certainly was Queen's weather, but the proceedings were in breach of the peace of Her Majesty's liege subjects. Instead of a quiet resting place, a healthful breathing-space, a spot to hold communion with nature and whereon to forgot the week's toils and cares, the beautiful trysting-spot, the popular rendezvous was for a couple of hours transformed into a scene of coarse ribaldry, faction fights, tussels with the representatives of law and order, yea, a veritable bear garden.

Premonitions of the coming storm had not been wanting. On several previous Sunday afternoons there had been rumblings of the tempest, when orthodox and heterodox blows were exchanged and several individuals were "run out" of the park. Yesterday there was an immense crowd in the park. "Jumbo" Campbell was in fine fig. He had got his stand painted, wore his shining silk plug and white cravat. He lost no time in preliminaries, launched at once into his favorite subject, his unfailing topic—the corruptions and evils of Roman Catholicism.

After the collection, which apparently was a very liberal one, had been taken up, "Jumbo" proceeded to analyse the Roman Catholic prayer book, alleging that it was contradicted by another prayer book by Archbishop Lynch. Some one called out "rotten beef"—manifestly a reference to the fact that "Jumbo" was fined in the police court for selling tainted meat.

This was a bolt out of the blue for "Jumbo." His usually pale face became a ghastly hue. Truely he protested, "That is an insult," and beckoning to one of the white-helmeted policemen who dotted the seething crowd, peremptorily ordered, "Arrest that man; he's a mick."

This was as fuel to the flames, and the storm of angry passions burst forth. There were cheers and hootings as a constable was seen making his way to the spot indicated. There was a tumult before the officer of law reached the implicated one. Some over-zealous ones ruthlessly laid hands on the suspect; he naturally defended himself; everyone around him took sides; there was a general scuffle in which hats were knocked off and sticks were flourished and vigorously used.

As in all crowds, they were many timid ones; these trod on each other's toes, and in the stampede women and children were knocked over and there was a scene of the most pronounced disorder.

A man, whether the real offender or not, was arrested by the police. He gave his name "Malheron of Claremont-street," but was let go on being escorted out of the park by the police. He will be summoned, so it is said, for causing the riot.

The most ludicrous incident of all was that the much tumbled "Jumbo" from his perch, whereat there was great laughter and cheering. Then came an extraordinary scene, such as has not been seen since the visit of William O'Brien. Two mounted policemen with careering of horses and flourishings of whipstocks, cleared an open space around "Jumbo," who thus secure from present molestation let loose the nails of his wrath.

"Shame on the Roman Catholics! Are the Orangemen of Toronto going to see me put down? [Cheers and cries of "no, no."] You have the papers say that I caused the row and they will call me and my friends the ribald rowdies of Toronto."

And then "Jumbo," in the white-heat of his excitement, rounded on the police, who were at the moment doing him such yeoman service. "What," he roared, "did the police now do to protect me? They let me be pushed about and I've lost my papers. And all through those ignorant Roman Catholic interrupters. [A voice: "Lynch them!"] No I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll take up another collection."

And so he did, saying: "You put in your dollars before; now put in your quarters. It shall want it all." Then to his shame, be it said, as he sprang down and mixed among the crowd, while under the agis of the police, he said: "We know who our fathers are because our mothers never went to confession." And except one or two expressions of "Shame!" this gross insult was allowed to pass unchallenged.

Continuing his provocative haraugue from his rostrum, Campbell thundered: "The Romanists have smashed my windows three times, but I will make them smart yet. [Cheers and laughter and voices, "Pull him off the stand!" "Shut up."

"To Hell with him," roared a gang of young ruffians, and to that region or a more congenial one the poor fellow undoubtedly would have gone had it not been that Inspector Hall, one or two policemen in plain clothes and the two mounted men escorted him out of the park and thus protected him from the howling mob.

As it was, there was a scene of the most approved disorder. Carriage traffic was stopped, people entering the park were rudely obstructed, hundreds of Toronto's educational visitors held up their hands in dismay as they were hustled and jostled. "Is this the boasted quiet Sunday for which Holy Toronto has been so loudly praised?" was asked on every hand.

Vainly the police, mounted and on foot sought to stem the ruffianly tide. On it rolled through the park gates, westward on College street, down Henry, thence into Orde, on into Murray, through Queen's avenue, on to Agnes street, where for safety the hunted man, who gave the name "James O'Brien," and stated he was an employe of the Waterworks Department, and that he has a brother on the police force, was left to his Sunday evening reflections and to meditate on the anathemas which had greeted his ears on route: "Hang him to a tree!" "Slug the bloody Dogan!" and other choice epithets that startled the peaceful residents of College and Murray streets.

After the mob had dispersed, O'Brien was allowed to furtively depart for his own home 76 William street. The end is not yet.

Money in London and Paris.

LONDON, July 19.—During the past week there was a good demand for discount, with money less abundant. Discount was quoted 1⅝ for three months and 1¾ for short. The total amount of gold drawn from the Bank of England for the week was £1,000,000, including £85,000 which went to Russia. The Bank of England's reserve is now less than £16,000,000. About £2,000,000 will be wanted for home purposes during the autumn. This drain, besides contingent shipments of gold to the United States, gives a certainty of dearer money.

The English River Plate Bank failure left the stock exchange yesterday in a condition of general depression.

Other Bourses were quiet during the week.

Strange Cause of Death.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A dentist killed by a woman's bite has presented a case unique at 104 East Eighty-third street. Francis M. Raab was the man and he died at his home there yesterday. He was 32 years old, and on April 19, in his father's absence, he set out to relieve from pain a lady who came into the office with her face swollen and inflamed from an aching tooth.

To locate the tooth he asked her to open her mouth wide. She did so. He touched it with his finger. In the agony of the touch the woman shrieked and snapped her jaws together, biting Raab's finger.

He went on and pulled the tooth and thought little of the accident until the blood poisoning set in, of which he died.

A Husband's Surprise Party.

NEW YORK, July 20.—A man giving the name of Louis Centreaux was among the steerage passengers who arrived on the La Bourgogne from Havre yesterday. He had with him a pretty little woman, whom he introduced as his wife. As soon as he landed an angry woman met him and began belabouring him with an umbrella. It proved to be his wife whom he had deserted in Paris.

Two weeks ago she followed him to Havre and took passage on the same steamer but could not find him on board. The couple made up and went off together, while wife No. 2 disappeared. Centreaux had 2 tickets for St. Louis and it's supposed that he went there.

Tidings of the Missing Mabel.

BUFFALO, July 20.—A trace of the lost yacht Mabel of Port Dover has been found. Capt. Hazelton of the tug Comet found the provision chest of the Mabel three miles from the new breakwater yesterday morning. It was empty. It is supposed the yacht is not a great distance from where the chest was found. The box is on exhibition in The News window. It is painted white and on the cover are the words: "Yacht Mabel, Port Dover, Ont."

Pope Leo Suddenly Taken Ill.

ROME, July 20.—The Pope was seized with a sudden illness on Thursday. Dr. Ceccarelli was hastily summoned and the Pope afterwards recovered.

The only disquieting symptom is that he is apt to fall into a profound sleep even when taking an airing in the Vatican gardens.

It is Better to Buy
Than to Rent.

Because if you buy now I can sell you a House and Lot in any part of the Town or Ashburnham, and the interest of the purchase price will be much less than you will have to pay for the same place as a rent. Such is the case at present, and imagine what the comparison will be three years hence when this will certainly be a city of 20,000 to 25,000 people. The rents of to day will then be doubled, and the Lots you can buy from me to-day at from $150 to $500 you will then pay from $500 to $1500 for the same. I can and will fit the limited as well as the unlimited purse. Do not stand back; bring in your $500 or $10, and make a start by securing a Lot, or a House and Lot, before the prices are advanced.

Daily Examiner.

MONDAY, JULY 20, 1891.

ACCORDING to the reasoning of the subsidized organs of the Dominion government, it is the Reform newspapers and members of parliament who have unearthed and directed public attention to the boodling in the public works and interior departments, and not those guilty of boodling, who should be punished. The Tory papers are acting upon the principles that a policeman who makes an arrest should be promptly locked up and his capture allowed to go free.

IN the speech which he delivered in the House of Commons Friday night Mr. Corby, of Hastings, argued against reciprocity in natural products, and declared he favored a policy prohibiting the importation into Canada of any articles which can be produced in the country. And yet Mr. Corby supports ministers who make periodical pilgrimages to Washington in search of a reciprocity treaty. It is evident that the Tory party hopelessly split upon the trade question. The Ontario Conservatives are opposed to reciprocity, even in natural products, and will not accept any arrangement which it is possible for Sir John Thompson, Mr. Foster or any other pilgrim to make.

More Startling Evidence.

The testimony given before the McGreevy Committee on Thursday by Mr. Verret, the former secretary of the Quebec Harbor Commission, was important in itself and also for what it suggests. Mr. Verret swore that Larkin, Connolly & Co. deposited with him a bank receipt for $25,000 as security for the fulfilment of the Cross Wall contract let to them by the commissioners in behalf of the Public Works Department. Later on Murphy wished to substitute an unmarked cheque practically a worthless bit of paper. The witness told him he would allow the substitution if Thomas McGreevy authorized it. Murphy went away and returned with a letter from McGreevy who was chairman of the Finance Committee of the commission. This letter read :—"I see no objection to your taking Mr. O. E. Murphy's check endorsed by N. Connolly for the one you now hold on deposit." Upon this Mr. Verret let go the receipt and accepted the unmarked check as security. He subsequently deposited the check along with McGreevy's letter in the hands of the treasurer. But the letter which has been produced before the Inquiry Committee reads :—"I see objection," etc., the "no" being missing. Mr. Verret swears that the letter he got contained the "no" and taking all the circumstances into account it is clear that this must have been the case. He is convinced, therefore, that the original letter has been abstracted and another and a different one, exonerating McGreevy from responsibility for the irregularity, put in its place. If this be so, and there are the facts, other documents may have been tampered with ; and if documents in the custody of the commission, why not documents in the custody of the Public Works Department? The circumstance bears out the contention of this and other journals that it was highly improper, once the charges had been formulated in Parliament, to permit Sir Hector, Mr. Perley, or any other implicated person, to remain in control of official papers vital to the prosecution of the inquiry. There is no want of charity in this view. That these accused should not be left in a position to destroy the traces of their guilt is an elementary principle in the administration of justice, the soundness of which is manifest on its face.

At the inquiry Friday the principal witness was Mr. Valin. Mr. Valin is a Conservative of considerable distinction in the party, and was chairman of the Quebec Harbor Commission from 1870 down to last year. He corroborated Mr. Verret's account of the incident above described. He had not read Uncle Thomas' letter authorizing the substitution of the unmarked check but Verret read it to him when it was received, and the two acted upon it. Uncle Thomas housed the commission in everything it did regarding the harbor contracts, and when Mr. Valin objected Uncle Thomas told him he was Sir Hector's confidential agent and Sir Hector told him that the commissioners should be guided in all things by Uncle Thomas. Both Sir Hector and Uncle Thomas threatened to dissolve the commission if this were not done. Uncle Thomas stated to Mr. Valin in 1887 that Larkin, Connolly & Co. had contributed to the fund used in the Federal elections of that year. "They had subscribed largely," he said, "were good fellows and should be taken care of." The removal of the old engineers, who were distasteful to the contractors, and the appointment of Perley was arranged by Uncle Thomas and Sir Hector. In the campaign last March, when the charges made to Mr. Tarte's paper were being hurled against him, Sir Hector sent for Valin and showed a "scorching" letter from him—a letter apparently intended to keep the respectable Tories quiet. Uncle Thomas gave Mr. Valin himself large sums for his own use, as a supporter of the Dominion Government in Montmorency. Uncle Thomas complained that he was being bled to death "Caron," he said, meaning Sir Adolphe, "is always after me —I have not enough to satisfy him ; and then we have Sir Hector in Three Rivers." Sir Hector referred Valin to Uncle Thomas for funds, and on his applying for some to Murphy, Murphy said the firm had "left in McGreevy's hands all that was wanted." Altogether Mr. Valin's testimony is, next to Murphy's, the most damaging to Sir Hector that has yet been given. It bears out much of Murphy's evidence and establishes a direct connection between the Minister and the swindles through Uncle Thomas the intermediary. The reader should bear in mind that throughout the period referred to Uncle Thomas, a member of Parliament, was furnishing the contractors with secret information obtained from Sir Hector's department, securing work for them by fraudulent means and getting the department to pay them fraudulent prices. Valin's evidence goes to confirm the story of Uncle Thomas' friends that, large as were his illicit gains, they were almost entirely swallowed up by the drafts made upon them by Sir Heotor and Sir Adolphe. Such men as Mr. Valin deserve great credit for telling the truth even though it reflect to some extent upon themselves. The coils are tightening round the chief criminals. If Lord Stanley were not deep in the business of salmon-fishing we should ask him whether, after Thursday and Friday, he is fully thinks that Sir Hector is a fit and proper person to lead the House or to preside any longer over the Public Works baron.

British Shipbuilding.

Shipping and shipbuilding in Britain are suffering just now from temporary depression. Yet it is marvellous how they continue to grow. In 1860 the total tonnage on the register of the United Kingdom was 5,700,000 tons. At the close of last year it was 9,700,000 No other State can show such a growth. The German Empire, which had 982,355 tons registered in 1870, could boast of no more than 1,320,721 tons in 1889. In France the registered tonnage has declined from 996,124 tons in 1860 to 832,735 tons in 1889. In Italy the figures have declined from 1,012,164 in 1870 to 824,474 in 1889, and in the United States the registered tonnage for over-sea traffic, which stood at 2,546,237 tons in 1862, had fallen to 946 695 tons in 1890. In these three last named countries everything that could be thought of has been done to stimulate the shipping interest by bounties and protective laws Coming to shipbuilding, the tonnage built in Britain in 1860 was 225,000, whilst in 1890 it amounted to 813,000, of which 161,000 tons were built for foreigners. In 1840 the total tonnage of steam and sailing vessels of different nationalities entered and cleared with cargoes and in ballast at ports in the United Kingdom was 9,439,667 tons ; in 1890 it was 74 283,860 tons. Of the tonnage so entered and cleared in 1840, 2,949,182 tons were foreign and 6,490 485 tons were British. In 1890, 20,310,757 tons were foreign and 53,973,112 tons were British. "If" says The Glasgow Mail, "the soundness of a commercial policy is to be measured by its success, and we know of no safer guide, these figures ought to convince every unbiased and and impartial person that a free trade policy is to be preferred to protection."

Effect of Tobacco Smoke on Meat.

Canada Health Journal.

Cases of poisoning due to meat which seemed thoroughly wholesome have sometimes occurred, and have remained unexplained. In the Revue d'Hygiene, M. Bourrier, inspector of meats for Paris, describes his experiments with meat impregnated with tobacco smoke. Some thin slices of beef were exposed for a considerable time to the fumes of tobacco, and afterwards offered to a dog which had been deprived of food for twelve hours. The dog, after smelling the meat, refused to eat it. Some of the meat was then cut into small pieces and concealed within bread. This the dog ate with avidity, but in 20 minutes commenced to display the most distressing symptoms, and soon died in great agony. All sorts of meat, both raw and cooked, some grilled, roasted and boiled, were exposed to tobacco smoke and then given to animals, and in all cases produced symptoms of acute poisoning. Even the process of boiling could not extract from the meat the nicotine. Grease and similar substances have facilities of absorption in proportion with their fineness and flaidity. Fresh killed meat is more readily impregnated, and stands in order of susceptibility as follows : Pork, veal, rabbit, poultry, beef, mutton, horse. The effect also varies considerably according to the quantity of tobacco. All these experiments would seem to denote that great care should be taken not to allow smoking, where foods, especially moist foods, such as meats, fats and certain fruits are exposed.

The Vacant Chair.

The vacant chair to be found in almost every household, and around which cluster such sweet associations, has been invested by the poet with a peculiar tenderness. The most melancholy thought that can come to the bereaved family when the memory of the departed loved one is recalled by the sight of the vacant chair, is the thought that had a different remedy been tried, the cruel hand of death might, perhaps, have been stayed. Had Beecham's Pills been given a trial, a new lease of life might have been given the dear one. These justly celebrated Pills act like magic in all cases of serious illness and nervous disorders and often effect a cure after every other remedy has failed. Price, 25 cents a box. If your druggist does not keep them, send to B. F. Allen Co., 386 and 387 Canal street, New York. 6104w30

Why don't you try Carter's Little Liver Pills? They are a positive cure for sick headache, and all the ills produced by disordered liver. Only one pill a dose. dw

Health, Happiness and Prosperity.

All these depend on pure blood, for with out it health is impossible ; without health happiness is impossible, and without happiness prosperity is a mockery. No means of obtaining pure blood and removing bad blood excels the use of B B B, the best blood purifier known.

NO ONE knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation and disordered stomach. dw

A Fact

WORTH knowing is that blood diseases which all other remedies fail to cure, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Fresh confirmation of this statement comes to hand daily. Even such deep-seated and stubborn complaints as Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout, and the like, are thoroughly eradicated by the use of this wonderful alterative.

Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th street, New York, certifies :—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months. I am pleased to say that it effected a complete cure, and that I have since had no return of the disease."

Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H., writes: "One year ago I was taken ill with rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."

"I have taken a great deal of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I felt its beneficial effects before I had quite finished one bottle, and I can freely testify that it is the best blood-medicine I know of."—L. W. Ward, Sr., Woodland, Texas.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hora, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading ; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston Ont.,) Daily British Whig, June 27th, 1891.

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

The Grand Trunk System.

The Grand Trunk system differs from the human system in that the same troubles do not affect it as the same remedies are not needed. For all diseases of the human system their is no tonic purifier, renovator and strengthener as good as Burdock Blood Bitters. A weak system can be built up by B.B.B.

Enrich the blood by the use of Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine, which supplies the necessary blood-building material. dw

A Nationalist Plan.

A proposal, which would obtain favor with even the opponents of Nationalism, contemplates the placing of a supply sufficient for each family of nature's great dyspepsia specific and blood purifier, B.B.B., in every home in the land. The benefits of such a boon to the people would be incalculable.

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. The New Method a Complete Success at Sing Sing.

THE DEATH EQUIPMENT.

Full Description of the Apparatus Which Deals a Swift, Sure and Painless Death The Four Murderers Who Were Killed in One Hour and Sixty-three Minutes—Portraits of the Executed and the Apparatus.

The switch board is on the west side of the closet in which is the fatal switch. It is 5 feet wide by eight feet high, and consists of a slate of polished cherry upon which are fastened various devices for the measurement and regulation of the electric current. It is covered by a sliding door when not in use, but during the executions was opened in the death chamber where the scientific men, and indeed all the witnesses could examine it. The long upright cherry box which is seen in the lower right hand corner of the switchboard in the picture is the resistance coil which equalizes the current as it comes from the dyuamo. The square box and dial above the is an Edison ampere meter, which measures the current in amperes, that is measures its quantity. The apparatus near by which looks like a nickle alarm clock fastened on the end of a broomstick is the volt metre which measures the force of the electric current. In the upper left hand corner is seen an electric push button which communicates with a bell in the dynamo room at the north end of the prison yard, and will be used to convey orders to the convicts or others who operate the dynamo there. Adjoining this push button is this signal code:

Five bells—Get ready.
One bell—Turn on current.
Two bells—More current.
Three bells—Less current.
One bell—Shut off current.
Six bells—All through.

Above the switchboard will be noticed twenty little circles in the picture. They represent so many electric lights, each of which stands for 100 volts. The current can be turned into these by a switch, and they will also act as a test of the power of the current. The other things seen on the board are switches by which the current can be turned into any of the measuring devices at will. After the scientific men switch the current into the ampere meter and then into the volt meter, and finally into the electric lamps, they shut off all their switches and turn the large switch which you will notice just to the left of the volt meter. That will send the current up in the wires leading into the closet, and all that then remains to be done to send the death current through the victim is to throw the fatal switch.

After the visitor to the chamber of death has viewed the chair and examined the switchboard he has only to see the interior of the closet to have seen all. This closet, although inside the execution room and apparently a part of it, is only approached through the adjoining room. The visitor therefore leaves the chamber of death by a door to the south and steps into a small bare apartment dimly lighted by three or four windows, and from this by another door into the closet. This is only large enough to allow the operator to stand and work comfortably. Heavy insulated wires penetrate from the switchboard outside. One of them passes through the wall into the death chamber, and connects with the negative electrode in the seat of the death chair. The other travels upward, and follows a bracket out into the death chamber to connect with the positive electrode. Both wires, however, are broken in this closet. This break is the culminating point of the entire electrical apparatus. It occurs on the wall of the closet at about the height of a man's shoulder. Here the gap is bridged, and the bridge is the death switch. In this closet stands the executioner.

The dynamo used in the executions is of the Westinghouse pattern, one of the three which Harold P. Brown, when the State employed him to provide apparatus for the execution rooms, bought on the sly.

From the experience gained on the 7th July it is believed that the apparatus at Sing Sing is capable of killing twenty-five men an hour if worked to the best possible advantage.

His Foot Forcibly Amputated.

PICTON, July 18.—An old man named Bunnel was knocked down and run over by some cars that were being shunted in the C. P. R. yard here yesterday afternoon. One foot was cut off at the instep. He received other injuries of a serious nature. The old man was an itinerant peddler of medicines and was known throughout this section as Dr. Bunnel.

A Babe Burned to Death.

WIARTON, Ont., July 18.—Yesterday morning about 11 o'clock while Mrs. Sheldon, living one mile south of here, was in the garden smoke was seen coming from the house. Before her mother or the neighbors could reach the house the 2 year-old baby, sleeping upstairs, was beyond human aid. The building was reduced to ashes.

EUROPEANS MURDERED.

Chinese Rioters Slay an English Customs Officer and a Missionary.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—The steamship Belgic arrived yesterday from China and Japan. The Shanghai Mercury announces the murder of an English customs officer, A. W. Green, and of Mr. Argent, a member of the Methodist mission, by Chinese rioters at Wuhsieh. A number of houses were burned during the riot. The ladies of the mission were taken aboard the steamer Tepsing by Captain Cain while the bodies of the murdered men were taken aboard the United States steamer Palos. Argent was knocked down on the street by a stone thrown by a boy and the mob fell upon him shattering his head with a large slab. Mr. Green was reported to have had his throat cut by the mob. It is stated that the Canton woman in the latter's household was murdered by an assassin after she killed three rioters with a sword.

SOUTH AMERICA'S BIGGEST FIRE.

Santiago Swept by Flames Loss Over $2,000,000.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The City of Santiago, Chili, has just been visited with the severest fire ever known in South America, the loss being estimated at more than $2,000,000. The British legation was completely consumed including all the archives and personal property of the minister.

Moro's Portrait of Great Christopher.

All existing portraits of Columbus are bound to come to light within the next two years. The latest to be talked of is the one painted by Sir Antonio Moro about 1570. It is not from life. It was copied from a miniature of Columbus which was painted from life especially for the Queen of Spain, and which is MORO'S COLUMBUS, still in the possession of the royal family of Spain. Moro painted this picture from the miniature at the order of Margaret, Governess of the Netherlands.

A Story of a Stamp Collector.

The young King Alexander of Servia received the other day a letter from a little Swiss peasant boy, who is a passionate collector of stamps, and who sent the sovereign a quantity of Swiss ferns and grasses, and asked in exchange to send him a complete collection of Servian stamps. King Alexander gave orders to have every kind of Servian stamp brought him, so that he might be able to satisfy the demand of the little citizen of free Switzerland, and the young monarch has busied himself in classifying the stamps which he is sending.

Nine Killed in a Railway Collision.

LIMA, Ohio, July 18.—There was a bad wreck last evening on the Chicago & Erie at Hepburn, 5 miles east of Kenton. Swift's refrigerator meat train last running special ran into the work train pulling into a siding, killing nine laborers and injuring many others. Both locomotives are in ruins with 10 or 12 cars.

The Rich Man's Son.

The rich man's son inherits lands,
And piles of brick and stone and gold,
And he inherits soft white hands,
And tender flesh that fears the cold.

Like soft hands, and tender flesh, many diseases are inherited; especially tendencies to Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, and Stomach and Liver troubles; but there is a remedy, known as the "Golden Medical Discovery," which overcomes these diseases and cuts off all tendencies toward a fatal result. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, has put this remedy within the reach of all, so that even the poor as well as the rich can obtain it. It is worth more to you than "piles of brick and stone and gold." Ask your druggist for it. It's guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded. a

Across the Continent.

Wm. Renwick, M.D., M.R.C.S.E., Victoria, B. C., writes:—I have used Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in cases of indigent patients with the most gratifying results. It does not upset the stomach, is easily assimilated and possesses undoubted power in rebuilding weakened constitutions, where the ordinary form of administering Cod Liver Oil is not advisable. For the future, whenever I have occasion to prescribe any preparation of Cod Liver Oil, I will give Miller's Emulsion the preference, being perfectly satisfied with its therapeutic efficacy. In big bottles, 50c. and $1. At Peterborough drug stores. dw

What's the Reason?

The causes of summer complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera morbus, etc., are the excessive heat, eating green fruit, over-exertion, impure water and sudden chill. Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is an infallible and prompt cure for all bowel complaints from whatever cause.

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1. dw

Mining News.

Mining experts note that cholera never attacks the bowels of the earth, but humanity in general find it necessary to use Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for bowel complaints, dysentery, diarrhœa, etc. It is a sure cure.

Twelve years' trial in English climate, with increasing demand, proves the Royal Rheumatic Remedy to be the best remedy for rheumatism. For sale by W. R. Greatrex, druggist. dw

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—108 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you want to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough. eod-w

You will find the advantage on the side of owning your own house. Mor, see W. Fitzgerald and find out what he can do for you in the way of a lot on the Erin property and a home built to suit you. Terrible Results of a Bee Sting.

A gentleman in the north part of the town last week was resting his bare foot on the window sill of his bed-room, when suddenly he felt a sharp pain and brushed off a honey bee and extracted the sting from his foot, which began to swell to an enormous size. Strange to say the swelling still continues though there is no soreness in the enormously enlarged foot. As his business requires him to be abroad he has been compelled to send to Lindsay for a girl's shoe to wear on it, but his wife still buys her tea at hawley bros.

Do you wish to visit that famous health resort, Preston Springs?

Do you wish to visit Toronto for either business or pleasure?

Do you desire to visit friends in any of these towns between here and Guelph at less expense than a livery horse would be for a day?

Do you want to go to Galt with the Canton and Band, and witness the finest semi-military display ever given in Canada, the best and most varied programme of sports, and participate in the grandest big time of the year?

Then Join the Band and Canton Excursion on the 28th.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J. Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

The Dominion Illustrated

The arrival of exiled Russian Jews in Canada recently, and the sad stories of cruelty and hardship they related have directed attention anew to this subject. In this week's issue of the Dominion Illustrated there is, reproduced from the London Illustrated News, a typical scene at a Russian railway station. There is also in this number a portrait and biographical sketch of George Kennan, the famous Siberian explorer, whose travels in Russia have made the world so much better acquainted with Russian methods of government. A game of polo at Halifax, the Southern Cross, Grand Manan, N.B. the Price monument at Chicoutimi, P. Q., a review at Barrisfield, scenes on the Rideau, Victoria Square, Montreal, St. Helen's Island in the St. Lawrence opposite Montreal, scenes at Hardwar, India, a portrait of the late Major Foster of the Q.O.R., scenes on the St. Clair river, and other interesting and varied subjects of illustration are treated in this charming number.

Saturday's Baseball.

The Excelsiors Practically Exemplify "This Strange Device" From Which They Derive Their Name.

A baseball match was played in a drizzling rain on the P.A.A.A. grounds Saturday afternoon between the Excelsiors of Toronto, and the Peterborough nine, and again the home team suffered defeat. This time, however, they were, as the saying goes, "in it," and a reasonably close game was played, the score being 8 to 3 in favour of the visitors. Like the preceding Cobourg-Peterborough match, the home team's errors were mainly responsible for the result. As the score will show, McCabe pitched a rattling game, only four safe hits being made off his delivery, but the wretched fielding and loose play of the Peterborough's accomplished what the Excelsiors were unable to bring about on their own merits. The visitors, nevertheless, put up a sharp and almost errorless game, and batted more freely than their opponents, thus making chances through the errors of the Peterboroughs, to score eight runs, none of which were earned. But in spite of the bad play the game as a whole was well worth seeing and a fairly good exhibition of amateur baseball. The home team seemed to play in rather hard luck, several times coming within an ace of scoring when prevented by some unfortunate "fluke." For instance, three runs were lost when McCabe, while running to third, was unluckily struck on the foot by a hot grounder off Pinsent's bat, which had it not been intercepted would have been the means of clearing the bags at a critical moment. But such is baseball, and our diamond dusters take their defeat easily, confident that with the practice they are determined to get before they again tempt the fates, they will be able to face successfully the best amateur clubs in the province. There is good material in the town from which to draw a strong team, and it is to be hoped that the boys will get down to practice, develop their resources and pick the very best men to place on the field the next time.

Following is the score of Saturday's game:

Killed by Lightning,

And Leaves Eight Children Motherless.

A despatch from Minden says that Mrs. McIntyre, a resident of Stanhope township, was struck and instantly killed by a thunder bolt about noon on Saturday. The deceased was about 35 years of age and leaves a family of eight small children. Some of the children were playing around the table where she was ironing at the time she was struck, but none of them were injured. Her husband, Daniel McIntyre, had settled in the township about two weeks before.

Special Y.M.C.A. Address.

George Baskin, of Algoma Colportage Mission, will address the meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, on evangelical work.

Lacrosse at Fort Hope.

The return match between the Bowmanville and Port clubs came off in the town park on Friday afternoon, and resulted in favor of the home team by four straight games. The Bowmanville band accompanied their club and played some very fine selections on the street both before and after the match. The Citizens' band also was at the park and played at intervals. There was a large crowd present to witness the game. The match was well contested, and Fort Hopers feel very cookey over the result

His Eighth Annual Visit.

Geo. Buskin of the Algoma and Northwest Evangelical and Colportage Missions is making his eighth annual visit to Peterborough in the interest of the work. Since his visit here last year, 1,577 religious and agricultural books have been distributed in nine languages, and more than fifty religious services conducted, large quantities of religious tracts have been distributed and two hymn books published in French and English, and Indian and English and other necessary work of the kind is progressing; it is also proposed to enlarge the work. The appeal in behalf is again respectfully renewed, and the $13 75 contributed in Peterborough last year is gratefully acknowledged. Communications can be addressed, care of Secretary Y. M. C. A. room.

Mechanics' Institute Improvements.

The Mechanics' Institute premises, Water street, are, in one sense, in a state of chaos. Mr. H. C. Stobbler is busily at work carrying out the contract for the renovation of the rooms. To approach the subject of improvement step by step—new stairs are being put in and the walls and ceilings of all the rooms and passages are being papered or repainted. The interior is to be thoroughly painted and the premises improved throughout. The class rooms are also being brightened and the library apartment is enlarged by cutting a doorway through the partition wall and annexing another room to the south. It is intended to make the repairs thorough, and it will probably be some ten days before the rooms are ready for occupancy.

A Merry Moonlight Meander

A notice of the delightful moonlight excursion down the river on Friday night under the auspices of the Eilean Athletic club, was inadvertently omitted from Saturday's issue. It nevertheless deserves special mention as a decidedly well managed and most enjoyable excursion. The Daisy and the pleasure barge carried a nice number of excursionists. The orchestra furnished excellent music for dancing which was enjoyed with great zest. The weather being of the finest the trip itself apart from the festive and social enjoyment would have been a treat. The smooth and efficient management of the excursion reflects credit upon those who had the very pleasant and successful affair in charge.

As there is no royal road to learning, so there is no magical cure for disease. The effect, however, of taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for blood disorders comes as near magic as can be expected of any mere human agency. This is due to its purity and strength. dw

Salvation Army Meetings.

Reception and Visit of Commissioner Rees.

The Salvation Army takes no holidays, it is always in the field; always under arms, always militant and aggressive. Sin is sleepless in work and power and the Salvation Army feels that they who combat sin cannot afford to lay down their arms till the final victory is won and the local corps shares in the general vim that animates the "army" throughout the world.

Saturday night and Sunday their was a "big go" which will be kept up to night. Saturday evening the army mustered in strong force, terrible as an army with harness and preceded by the band marched to the C.P.R. station to receive Commissioners Rees, of Toronto, Commander-in-chief of the Canadian forces, accompanied by Staff Captain Acum. He was escorted to the barracks amidst great enthusiasm and a monster meeting was held, conducted by the Commissioner in the orthodox army style.

On Sunday the fight with sin waxed hot. There were four pitched battles fought, and the incidents of the fight were that there were eight surrenders. In the morning five surrendered on the "sanctification" condition and in the evening, three on the "salvation" condition of capitulation.

This afternoon there was held a council of war, that is a council of the officers of this division. The officers present were as follows:—Commissioner Rees, Toronto; Division Officer Beatty and Mrs. Beatty; Capt. McKenzie, late scribe for Major Spooner, Port Hope; Capt. Case and wife, Omemee; Capt Butler and Lieutenant, Lindsay; Capt. Wood and Lieutenant, Fenelon Falls; Capt. Rock, Brooklin; Capt. Le Barr and Lieutenant, Millbrook, Capt. Stockton, Cobconk, and all the officers of the local staff. There will be a big "go" at the barracks to-night, when all the above officers will be present and a large gathering besides. A specially vigorous and interesting service will be conducted.

THEY ALL ALL GOING.

Next Thursday will a quiet day in town. The crowds are all going to go to the Charlotte Street Methodist Sunday School picnic at Juniper Island. A delightful run on the G.T.R. and Steamer Golden City. Tickets 40c. and 75c. For sale at Rowse's dry goods Store.

Lacrosse.

The Secretary of the local lacrosse club has received a letter from the Athletic Lacrosse club, one of the best clubs in Toronto, stating that that club will play a game in Peterborough on Friday next, July 24th. The match will be played on Association grounds. This will be a brilliant match, and one well worth seeing.

The Dominion Millers.

Important Matters will be Discussed at the Convention Next Month.

The annual meeting of the Dominion Millers' Association will be held in Toronto on August 4 and 5. Speaking of the coming convention, the Canadian Miller says:—"Several questions of more than ordinary significance will, we have reason to believe, be discussed at this meeting. The executive of the association are busily engaged at the present time in gathering reliable data touching the approaching harvest. This information will be placed before the association in August, and much other information, it is safe to say, will be forthcoming, as an outcome of the discussion that is certain to follow the presentation of the report. It is well known, and it is only a natural sequence of the methods adopted, that every season millers make straight money losses in dealing with the new crop, because groping in the dark regarding its actual conditions. Can any miller, big or little, be other than directly interested in so important a question?

"It was facetiously remarked at a previous meeting of the Millers' Association that, having secured a central buyer, all that was needed now was a central flour seller in order to make the millers' passport to the happy land above sure and certain. A little bird has whispered to us that no one need be surprised to find this question taken entirely out of the field of humor, and assume decidedly practical proportions in August. There are those who are apt to ridicule the simplest suggestion in this direction, but 'good men and true' in the trade have strong convictions on the matter, and we misjudge their intelligence, if they have not, too, a reason for the 'faith that is in them.'

"At the meeting of the association in January last notice of motion was given by Mr. E. Peplow, of Peterborough, that at the next regular meeting, which will be that in August, he would move that application be made for an Act of Incorporation for this association. Here is a very important question in which every miller should feel a deep interest."

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Mr Arthur Jolly gave an earnest and practical talk on the topic, "Worship," at the young men's meeting Saturday evening, which will bear fruit to God's glory.

The Bible study and consecration meeting on Sabbath morning was led by Mr. Albert Hamilton, and was a very helpful service.

Mr. Wm. Mignt addressed the open air meeting in Central Park Sabbath afternoon. The address was on "Praise," and made a marked impression on the large crowd present, who, by their attention, showed their interest in the service. Y.M.C.A. band led the singing in their usual acceptable manner.

The Gospel and song service last evening was well attended, and all present listened with much profit and blessing to the impressive address given by Mr. W. N. Simons, general secretary Y.M.C.A., Norwalk, Conn. The spirit of God was present to convict and lead sinners to Christ Jesus as their Saviour.

A Grandfather's Thanks.

Addressed to Lenna Telford, Eldest Daughter of John H. Telford, Eastmore, for her Sending to New York for and Giving to Mr. a Young Plant of the Mary Washington Favourite Rose.

Granddaughter dear, I hope I won't intrude,
Speaking to you just entering womanhood;
I know life's trials, my hairs are changed to gray—
You are but entering on life's slippery way.
You know I always had great love for flowers,
My chief delight was viewing them for hours;
Your wish, your act, was to increase my store
Of heaven-stamped beauty, adding one gem more.
The bush you gave me, if I know it right,
Its flowers are lovely, large and snowy-white.
To you that rose two lessons should impart,
Fureness in life, and large God-loving heart.
Leona, dear, perhaps you do not know
That rose was loved one hundred years ago
By one adored, and still it bears her name,
Mother of that hero crowned with freedom's fame.
I hope that deep, soul-rooted love in me
For flowers will be more fall instilled in thee
To inhale the balmy perfume they diffuse,
And gaze on their bright variegated hues.
One thing I wish to press on your young mind,
From is I know you will much pleasure find,
Filling your soul with heaven ward thoughtful powers
While gazing on the beauty of your flowers.
The earth matures them only by God's plan,
When clothed in beauty, give not praise to man.
Bear this in mind the artist's skill though great,
Their true perfection fails to imitate.
Among your flowers you in your garden stroll,
With admiration overflowing your soul.
Their sweetest fragrance and perfumes are given,
That you may feel the atmosphere of heaven,
As their bright shades and colours you behold
Red, purple, white, blue, crimson, scarlet gold.
Their varied hues in brightest beauty shine,
Stamped with the impress of a hand divine,
Though here they bloom, their painter dwells above,
In youth, Leona, learn His flowers to love.
If there is one, while journeying on life's road
That loves not flowers, can scarcely love their God.
(But, Leona, it is dead.)
Its tender roots the change could not endure,
Is drooped, it withered, died so premature.
Its life sap fibres death laid hold on them
Before one bright rose flowered upon its stem;
Yes, it is dead, cruel death has sealed its doom—
On its dry stalk no rose shall ever bloom;
To spare its life, worth, youth had no effect—
Relentless death to neither showed respect.
Flowers are not all on earth that's doomed to die—
Death's icy hand will seize both you and I;
The human race, like flowers, must all decay—
Thousands at your age have been called away;
Beauty or youth no guarantee supplies—
At every stage death's deadly arrow flies;
In that great war there's no discharge for age—
The babe must fall, the youth and hoary sage.
Perhaps, Leona, you may never think
In blooming youth you stand on the grave's brink;
The young heart's beat may in one moment fail,
The bright eyes glaze, the rose-tint cheeks grow pale.
If from the right path you once deviate,
Think on your own and that rose bush's fate;
Early love God and flowers that He has given,
They are but shadows of the flower in Heaven.

WILLIAM TELFORD, Smith.

Sun Spots

The sun's disk presents a wonderful spectacle nowadays. Four great groups of spots were visible from New York Observatory on Sunday, one just passing off one coming on, and one on either side of the centre. An idea of the immensity of the forces concerned may be formed from rough measurements of the extent of portions of the disturbed surface. There is one elongated region, having a tremendous black sun chasm at one end, and a group of smaller spots at the other, and showing evidence of more or less disturbance throughout its extent, which is 70,000 miles long and 15,000 wide. Its area is equal to about five times the area of the whole surface of the earth! Within a quadrangular space having a great group of spots at each corner, and speckled in many places with minor spots, no less than five thousand million square miles are included. Yet we are having very quiet and pleasant weather on earth, while the vast globe of metallic vapours whose radiations protect us from the cold of space, is fiercely struggling with the awful energies of its rising fires. Luckily the day when the sun may emits its planets with the unshield splendour of a Sirius or a Vega is probably millions of years off.

Church Chimes.

At St. John's church on Sunday Rev. Mr. Allen, of Millbrook, officiated at the services morning and evening.

At Chemong Rev. Mr. Davidson conducted morning services in the pavilion, Chemong Park. There was an audience of about one hundred persons. These services, which will be held regularly during the season, are much appreciated by park dwellers.

The pulpit of St. Paul's Presbyterian church was filled on Sunday morning and evening by Rev. Dr. Jones, of Princeton College, New Jersey.

TERRIBLE RAILWAY ACCIDENT NEAR LIVERPOOL SATURDAY.

Sudden Illness of the Pope—The Latest Attempt on the Life of the Czar—A Big Financial Smash—The Latest Money Markets.

LIVERPOOL, July 19.—A terrible accident occurred yesterday along the line of the Manchester Ship Canal. A train passing along the railroad running near the canal fell over the latter's embankment near this city, killing 11 men who were working under the heading. Many other workmen were injured.

The accident was due to the fact that the pointsman, a boy 17 years of age, mistook the points and turned a railroad train consisting of 22 waggons loaded with ballast into a siding leading into a cutting. The train then crashed into a slight buffer at the end of the cutting and toppled over upon the men at work below the embankment. The bodies of the men killed were horribly mutilated. The boy pointsman ran away when he saw the accident which was due to his mistake. The lad was captured later in the day and charged with manslaughter.

A RECKLESS JUMP.

A Queenston Drunk Flirts With Death in Niagara River.

LEWISTON, July 19.—John Burns, a well-known Queenston man, about 25 years of age, came to this side yesterday and gave a free and unexpected exhibition.

A plentiful supply of liquor had given him great nerve. He walked out on the cable of the old suspension bridge some distance and dropped into the river below, a distance of over 100 feet, striking on his back with the report of a gun. He floated around for a minute apparently lifeless and with the clothing torn to shreds. He then began to paddle around. A boat put out and he was rescued. He did not appear to be much the worse for the fall.

Burns is a good swimmer, and the act was supposed to have been nothing more than pure devilry. To-day, it is stated, he made the foolish jump for a purse of $20. He is now feeling the bad effects of his act and it is believed he sustained internal injuries.

Why the Bank Went Up.

LONDON, July 19.—Half the capital of the English Bank of the River Platte, which failed yesterday, is paid up, but the other half is only applicable in the event of the bank's liquidation, and cannot be applied to the purposes of business. The institution has a reserve of $2,100,000.

During the past three years the bank has paid a yearly dividend of 10 per cent. The difficulty in which the bank now finds itself arose from the impossibility of collecting debts in the Argentine Republic in consequence of the moratorium decree recently issued by the Argentine Government.

Among the directors of the bank are the Hon Carr Glynn and Lord George Hamilton, M. P.

It is said the failure involves $35,000,000.

The Czar Covered With Blood.

LONDON, July 20.—The latest rumor regarding attempts upon the life of the Czar, which rumor caused momentary terror in St. Petersburg, was that an officer had tried to murder the Czar with an axe. The report arose from the fact that the Czar was amusing himself in a forest chopping a tree when the head of the axe flew off and struck an attendant in the face, wounding him. The Czar went to the assistance of the wounded man and got some blood on his hands and clothes. An officer of the guard approached them and thought the Czar was in danger. He called upon some soldiers to rescue His Majesty, and before an explanation could be made the wounded attendant was cut down by the over-zealous soldiery. The Czar caused the officer to be punished for his action.

Cherries Followed by Shot.

GUELPH, July 20.—Thomas Garvin, aged 60, was brought to jail here charged with shooting William Byers of West Garafraxa on the 16th. He is the owner of a farm subject to a life lease, and on that day had some dispute about the cherries on the trees, and fired his shotgun at Byers, several of the shot hitting him. The prisoner's explanation is that he did not intend harm, but only to frighten him.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie Up Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears. A few of the face and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and had to hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. F. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The Toronto Harbor Contract the Subject of Enquiry.

A NUMBER OF QUESTIONS

Answered by Sir Hector Langevin—Changes in the Specifications The Quantity of Work Which Has Thus Far Been Completed.

OTTAWA, July 21.—Sir Hector Langevin yesterday answered a number of questions by Mr. German regarding the Toronto harbor works. He said that the contractors are Messrs Murray and Cleveland of St Catharines. The contract was let May 21, 1889, to be completed in 30 months, or on Nov 21st, 1891. The contract was a schedule price one. Applying Murray and Cleveland's prices to the quantities as per original plan their tender would amount to $162,810. The quantity of dredging done to date is 223,035 yards. The dredging done during the summer of 1890 and 1890, amounting to 190,914 cubic yards, was done for the purpose of keeping the eastern channel open during the time of navigation and not as part of the permanent 16 foot channel. With regard to the progress of the timber work he said that the work as originally designed consisted in the construction of two entrance piers respectively 2280 feet and 2430 feet in length, and a protection pier 1700 feet in length from the east pier to the end of Eschenen's Island. To date 900 feet of work is built up to 10 feet above zero, and 200 only 8100 feet in length are framed 24 feet in height and ready to be placed in position. In addition a large quantity of materials are delivered in position. The quantity of dredging yet to be done to obtain the 16-foot channel is estimated at 350,000 cubic yards, and from the above it would appear that 12,000 feet of crib work have yet to be placed in position, but it is expected that when the east pier and the protecting work are built there will be no necessity to construct the west pier.

The cause of delay was of the difficulties experienced by the contractors in securing timber during the summers of 1889-90; (2) the rough state of Lake Ontario during that summer and exposed position of the work. It is expected that the whole work will be completed in 1893, though this will depend on the state of the weather.

Some changes have been made since the contract was let. In the original plan it was intended to place the cribwork on the natural bed of the lake and to open up a channel 13 feet in depth between the two lines of crib work. In June, 1890, it was decided to sink the cribwork to a depth of 16 feet below zero, so that it might be permanent and permit of a channel 16 feet in depth being dredged and to correspond with the lake and river entrance to the Welland and St. Lawrence canals. Mr. Page, late Chief Engineer of Canals, recommended that east pier be sunk to a depth of 16 feet and an order in council authorizing this change was passed. The sinking of the cribs to 16 feet necessitated a change in the construction, their width being increased from 20 to 30 feet.

With regard to the effect of these changes on the cost, Sir Hector said that the sinking of the east pier to a depth of 16 feet below zero will increase the cost of the work by the value of extra materials required for the changes, and that of the extra dredging, estimated increase being $35,000. It is probable, however, that owing to these beneficial changes and the fact that the eastern piers will be of a more substantial character than originally intended, it will not be necessary to construct the whole of the west arm pier, and that a saving of $75,000 will therefore be effected. None of the contract crib prices have been changed. They are paid at the schedule rates of their tenders.

Mr Mills (Bothwell) said it was reported that the Government intended to appoint Mr W T Jennings, Toronto Chief Engineer, of the Public Works Department. He asked the Minister of Public Works if this were so, because if it was it would certainly effect the functions of Mr. Jennings in connection with the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Sir Hector Langevin said: "I saw that report in a newspaper, but that is all the information we have on that subject."

Mr. Barron moved that all vouchers, checks, etc., relating to the payments made to Miss Kate Falconer and others of the Post-office Department during the years 1888-89 be produced for examination before the Public Accounts Committee.

The Government objected to the motion. Mr Bowell said the proper way to obtain the information was to have the papers laid on the table of the House and then have them referred to the committee.

The speaker ruled the motion out of order and the matter dropped.

Clarke Wallace moved the second reading of this bill to amend the Act for the Prevention and Suppression of Combinations. It amends the act by striking out the words "unduly" and "unreasonably," applied to the degree of restraint exercised by the combination, and by repealing section 6 and substituting this clause "The foregoing provisions of this act shall not apply to the exercise of any handicraft or to the performance of labor, and subject to such exception they shall be construed as if section 22 of the Trades Union Act had not been enacted." These amendments, he said, would make the act effective.

Mr Barron maintained that the words "unduly" and "unreasonably" might be struck out and yet the statute be ineffective because the word "unlawfully," was allowed to remain in the act. In the first prosecution under the act a difficulty would arise over the word "unlawfully," which it ought to be the whole object of the bill to define.

DIVORCES GRANTED

The bills granting divorces to Adam Ruswurm, Mahala Ellis and Thomas Bristow, were read a third time and passed on division.

Should Sir Hector Resign.

OTTAWA, July 21.—The Evening Journal independent-Conservative and Equal Rights) said last night in an editorial on Sir Hector Langevin. "There is a deep and growing feeling that another phase of the situation is not receiving proper attention from the Government and the Cabinet, in justice to itself, and Sir Hector Langevin, justice to himself, should think very seriously whether the resignation of the Minister of Public Works ought not to be tendered to the Premier, not as a confession of any guilt, but simply as a measure of good taste and to free the hands of the Conservative party for a battle which, deny it or sneer at the assertion who will, is now become one of life or death so far as tenure of power is concerned. By not resigning he is endangering the existence of the Conservative Government. We are concerned for that Government. We do not want to see it fall. It represents, we believe, the truest national heart, the best national courage, the pluck, the bone, the self reliance, pride, and fastest and safest progress of this Canada of ours. But it is not Liberal uncleanness that is on trial now it is Conservative uncleanness, and the Conservatives must take the consequences of uncovering with revealed wrong doing. Let honest Conservative leaders show them elves ready to hew to the line."

THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE.

Investigating the Postoffice and the Immigration Departments.

OTTAWA, July 21.—There was a short attendance at the meeting of the Public Accounts Committee yesterday, and it was only by the merest chance that there was a quorum, there being a general understanding that no meeting of the committee would be held until to-day or to-morrow. Mr. Clarke Wallace presided. Mr. Lister moved for papers and vouchers in connection with the payment of about $680 to F. Merritt, J. R. Wilson and J. R. Arnold, engineer for the Public Works Department for the survey steamer Joe. The motion was carried.

Mr Barron moved for papers and vouchers in connection with the sums paid to Miss Jane Craig, Miss Kate Falconer, Miss Alice Graham and others by the Postoffice Department and specified in the Auditor-General's report for 1890. He also moved that the accountant, secretary and some of the other officials should appear before the next meeting so that they may be examined in regard to these and other items. This opens the inquiry into the working of the Postoffice Department.

Mr. Mulock moved that Mr. Rousseau of Messrs. Rousseau & Mathier, Montreal, and Mr. Garth of Garth & Co., Montreal, and Fenson of Toronto be summoned to appear for examination at the next meeting of the committee in reference to the Langevin Block. This motion was carried.

Mr. McMullen, in the absence of Sir Richard Cartwright, proceeded to ask Mr. Schreiber several questions in regard to the Intercolonial Railway.

In reply Mr. Schreiber said that the reason why there was so large a deficit on the Intercolonial Railway, compared with the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Railways, notwithstanding that it carried as much traffic when the mileage was compared, was that the rates were lower.

Mr. Bowell objected to this question, and Mr. Foster supported him in the objection, on the ground that it was not pertinent to the enquiry, which was as to an item of $300,000 of a deficit paid by the Governor-General's warrant on the Intercolonial. It was pointed out by Mr. Mulock and Mr. Landerkin that it was impossible to investigate this deficit unless the reasons that brought it about were gone into.

Mr. Clarke Wallace decided that the question was out of order.

A witness named Woodman, at one time sub agent of the Immigration Department at Emerson, Manitoba, was examined by Mr. McMullen in respect to some frauds alleged to have been committed at that office through the Agent Tein or the department. This is the fifth department now before the committee. Mr McMullen proceeded to ask Woodman when he joined the service and what time he went to Emerson, which was in 1885. This brought Mr. Bowell at once to his feet. He protested against going back beyond the year 1890-91, as those were the only accounts before the committee. The Auditor-General's report for 1885-86 was laid before the committee previously, and if the accounts were not enquired into it was the fault of the Opposition. This met with the views of Mr. Foster.

Mr. McMullen explained that he was in a position to prove that this agent drew $1000 last year to which he was not entitled to; that he received rent for a house which he did not occupy, and that the salary of a caretaker was charged when there was no caretaker at all.

Mr. Mulock then moved for the production of the papers in regard to some of these alleged frauds back in 1885. This was carried.

A MOTHER'S AWFUL DEED.

She Shoots Her Three Little Innocent Children and Then Herself.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 21.—Mrs. Thos Lochridge shot her three little innocent children and herself about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon at her home, three miles south of Springhill. Mrs. Lochridge was 30 years of age, her eldest child 4 years old, the second 3 years old, and the third 4 months old. The awful deed was done with a double-barreled breech-loading shot-gun. As near as can be learned from the surroundings, Mrs Lochridge had drawn up her children's clothes one by one, placed the gun against their hearts and fired. Then she placed them side by side on the pallet, which she had made for the purpose and arranged their dresses neatly about them. Standing at their feet and probably gazing down upon them the distracted mother placed the muzzle of the gun at her own heart, and sent her own soul into eternity. She left a note for her husband which shows that her mind was affected.

Canadian Nickel for Brother Jonathan.

NEW YORK, July 21.—A special to The Herald from Washington says: A large amount of nickel ore has recently been purchased by the Navy Department from the representatives in this country of the Canadian mines, and Lieutenant Alexander McCrackin has been detailed on a special mission to Canada to make arrangements for its transportation and free entry. The amount thus far purchased under the $1,000,000 appropriation for the purpose has been about 4000 tons.

THE COUNCIL HEEDS THE PEOPLE'S VOICE AND DELAYS ACTION

In the Street Railway Franchise Tenders—The Boodling Investigation—Sunday Street Preaching Strictly Prohibited—A Beautiful Memorial—Other Matters

TORONTO, July 21, 1891.

THE public's most dutiful representatives have heeded the voice of their masters and have delayed taking action in the Kiely-Everett tenders for the street railway. At the meeting of council last night, Ald. Hall moved to go on, but wise counsels, in view of the serious charges now being investigated as to the conduct of certain representatives, prevailed. It is only right that the charge of boodling should be investigated, and the city can lose nothing by the delay necessary to do this thoroughly.

At the investigation, begun before Examiner J. Bruce yesterday forenoon, Ald. Hall first denied that he had been approached by any street railway syndicate, but finally swore that Mr. Parker, representing Miller Brothers had approached him and asked him where he could place $50,000. It is said, but as yet unverified by sworn evidence, that Mr Parker gives a totally different story of the "approaching," and that he will swear that Ald. Hall told him that the Kielys were willing to go $40,000 and unless Miller Bros. could put up $50,000 they weren't "in it." While so far nothing corrupt has been proven before the Examiner, the general feeling is that delay is profitable before finally disposing of the people's rights in the street railway.

A little breeze took place in the Examiner's room when the Q.C.'s Bain and Laidlaw objected to his going on with the investigation because Kiely-Everett having been joined with the city in the injunction asked for, their client had not been served with a writ. Technically this was proved to be correct Mr. Kingsmill, who had acted for Kiely-Everett, not having had authority to accept service on their behalf. The result was that the Kiely-Everett people were disjoined and the injunction is asked against the city solely. Meanwhile the feeling in favor of the city retaining and running the road itself is growing daily, the more so as the longer the people think the matter over the more they become convinced that the road is a bonanza.

OPERA HOUSE CHANGES.

Frank Kirchmer, the manager of the London Grand Opera House, has been appointed manager of Whitney's Canadian circuit, which includes the Hamilton and London theatres and the Academy of Music, Toronto. Mr. Kirchmer will make his headquarters in Toronto and visit the two outlying cities once each week. J. Paladino of this city has also been appointed treasurer of the Toronto Academy of Music. A. E. Boat, treasurer of the London Opera House, and T. Reche in Hamilton. Percival T. Green, who has managed the Academy of Music for two years, has resigned his position to go into the real estate and brokerage business.

A BEAUTIFUL MEMORIAL.

The memorial presented by the City Council to Lady Macdonald, designed and executed by A. H. Howard, R.C.A., is of rare beauty. It consists of an album of six pages bound in brown morocco with a panel of purple calf, on which is an inscription in gold letters. The pages are prettily decorated with leaves and blossoms and bear appropriate quotations from the poets. It is something new in its line and the admiration of all who see it.

MASONIC GATHERING.

The General Purposes Committee of the Masonic Grand Lodge met at 11 o'clock yesterday in the Masonic hall, Toronto street. There was not a large attendance. Reports were presented to the various sub committees of the board, and these will be considered separately. The Sovereign Grand Priory met this morning and Grand Lodge will open at 10 o'clock tomorrow in the Grand Opera House.

THE EFFECT OF SUNDAY'S HOT.

The city council has passed a much-needed by-law prohibiting speaking in the public parks and squares on Sundays. There was hardly any other course open after the exhibition made by the man Campbell on Sunday in the Queen's Park, and the excitement attendant thereon. It is to be hoped that the measure will be so well enforced that the repeats of last Sunday will be removed from our skirts.

HALF-HOLIDAYS VS. EIGHT HOURS.

At a meeting of the Toronto Typographical Union, in Shaftesbury Hall, a vote was taken regarding the adoption of an eight-hour-a-day system of working instead of nine hours as formerly. The vote stood 222 in favor of the nine hour, and 11 for the eight-hour system. The printers therefore work as formerly, and retain their Saturday half holiday.

AN OCEAN LINER ASHORE.

She Will Probably Go To Pieces—The Crew Escape.

MONTREAL, July 21.—The Donaldson line steamship Circe, Captain Jennings, is ashore at East Cape, about the most southern part of the island of Anticosti. The Circe was bound from Glasgow to Montreal, having left the former portion July 11. The Circe is broad side on and the sea is making a clean breach over her. The vessel struck at 11 o'clock on Saturday night in a fog. She is in a dangerous position and is not likely to get off. The crew escaped. The steamer is the old "Glamis Castle." She was built in 1874 and is of 1550 tons.

PARNELL HOME RULED.

SACRIFICING POLITICS FOR THE JOYS OF CONJUGAL LOVE.

A Sensational Episode in the Imperial Parliament—What Will the Harvest Be—A Forecast—A Murderess Cannot Collect Insurance on Her Victim's Life.

LONDON, July 21.—Friends who called on Dillon and O'Brien in prison last week declare that they will both go definitely against Parnell when released. What is disgusting Parnell's friends more than anything else is the conviction now forced upon them that he is inspired wholly in his present hostility by Mrs. Parnell. He pays no heed to any counsel offered to him, but every time he goes to Brighton he returns more madly resolute than ever. Parnell's latest escapade about the courts in the O'Shea divorce suit further confirms the opinion that he is perfectly reckless in his methods, and that he elects to gratify his wife's capricious vanity. The least that Parnell owed to the men who stuck to him was to bury the divorce suit and everything appertaining to it as quickly as possible. But now, because Mrs. Parnell does not want to give her former husband the satisfaction of claiming his costs, Parnell coolly runs the risk of getting made bankrupt, in addition to his other disgraces.

The letter about Campbell, in which he threw over at the bidding of Mrs. Parnell a private secretary whose fidelity to him both in personal and political affairs has been simply remarkable has estranged a great many of his supporters, who are only awaiting a favorable chance to express their sentiments. This letter is objected to not only for the cynical manner in which it sold Campbell, but also because it affords more direct evidence than has heretofore been showing, that Parnell wants to shove his wife into the foreground as the saviour of Ireland, a thing that these Nationalists who know the circumstances will not tolerate for an instant. This may be conjugal love, but it certainly is not politics. If Parnell is made bankrupt he must either settle with his creditors within six months or resign his seat. That would be a not altogether unacceptable ending to the Irish fight, but Parnell will probably evade this penalty when convinced that there is no other option.

THE POPE IS ILL.

His Holiness Suddenly Seized With a Serious Malady.

ROME, July 21.—Rome was startled to learn yesterday that his Holiness, Pope Leo XIII., has been seized with a serious illness. The announcement of the fact was unaccompanied by any particulars as to the malady which had so suddenly and apparently so completely prostrated the Holy Father. All that is known is the fact that the illness of the aged Pontiff was of such a nature as to cause a panic in the Vatican and the sending in hot haste for Dr. Caccarelli, the distinguished Italian specialist. The health of the Pope is a circumstance upon which such mighty interests hang, that the last place in the world to obtain information of the condition of an ailing Pontiff has been the Vatican. That the present case was not an exception to the rule was ascertained by a correspondent when he attempted to obtain some particulars of the illness of the Pope. The attendants about the palace could be induced to say nothing. The question whether the Papal health was so precarious as to suggest the possibility of the early appearances of a bulletin elicited nothing more than a faint smile and gentle shrug of the shoulders.

It is recalled that on the explosion of the powder magazine at Pezzo Fantales, which on April 23 convulsed Rome from centre to circumference, the Pope, who was at the time celebrating low mass, received a shock which flung him into the arms of an attendant.

Although it was reported a few days after the accident that the Holy Father had recovered from its effect, there are many who believed then, as now, that the injury done to the nervous system to as old and feeble a person as Leo XIII., is not without serious consequences.

THE IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT

Is Plunged Into Commotion by a Stranger in the Gallery.

LONDON, July 21.—In the House of Commons yesterday a man who had obtained admittance to the stranger's gallery suddenly sprung to his feet and wildly flourished above his head a bundle of documents referring to some real or fancied grievance which he attempted to explain to the members of parliament. The police started towards the stranger when the man threw his bundle of papers down to the floor of the House. By this time the wild visitor was in the hands of the police, who promptly rejected him.

The Speaker read a letter written by council for Deeohain, member for East Belfast, who was charged with serious offences, asking that proceedings against him be suspended to enable the accused to return to England and meet the charges brought against him. Mr. Deeohain, according to the letter, is now at Boulogne-sur-Mer, France, under the care of a physician, and a certificate to that effect was enclosed. Thursday, July 23, was the day fixed upon for the expulsion of Deeohain from the House of Commons.

What Will the Harvest Be?

LONDON, July 21.—The Times summarizes the harvest prospects of the world as follows: In Russia there is a grave deficiency. The peasantry are starving and there is small hope of relief. In India a serious anxiety prevails over a considerable portion of the country. Madras, Rajputatha and the Punjab are the worst sufferers. There is drought in Bengal and the need of more rain is urgent. Bombay alone promises a good harvest. The American harvest will be good in quality and amount, but with the failure of the Indian and Russian supplies it is of the utmost importance that the English crop shall not be short. The prospect on the whole is good. In the chief wheat counties, Essex, Norfolk and Suffolk, the crop is above the average and in other counties up to the average. The harvest will be late and the prices will be high. There is therefore a good outlook for the English farmer to break the long series of disastrous years.

An Insane Pensioner Commits Murder.

On being refused he shot and killed the post-master and a policeman who attempted to arrest him. He also wounded several other persons before he was overpowered and taken into custody.

It is Better to Buy
Than to Rent.

Because if you buy now I can sell you a House and Lot in any part of the Town or Ashburnham, and the interest of the purchase price will be much less than you will have to pay for the same place as a rent. Such is the case at present, and imagine what the comparison will be three years hence when this will certainly be a city of 20,000 to 25,000 people. The rents of to-day will then be doubled, and the Lots you can buy from me to-day at from $150 to $500, you will then pay from $500 to $1500 for the same. I can and will fit the limited as well as the unlimited purse. Do not stand back; bring in your $500 or $10, and make a start by securing a Lot, or a House and Lot, before the prices are advanced.

The Toronto Harbor Contract the Subject of Enquiry.

A NUMBER OF QUESTIONS

Answered by Sir Hector Langevin—Changes in the Specifications The Quantity of Work Which Has Thus Far Been Completed.

OTTAWA, July 21.—Sir Hector Langevin yesterday answered a number of questions by Mr German regarding the Toronto harbor works He said that the contractors are Messrs Murray and Cleveland of St Catharines The contract was let May 21, 1889, to be completed in 30 months, or on Nov 21, 1891 The contract was a schedule price one. Applying Murray and Cleveland's prices to the quantities as per original plan their tender would amount to $192,810 The quantity of dredging done to date is 250,000 yards The dredging done during the summer of 1889 and 1890, amounting to 189,014 cubic yards, was done for the purpose of keeping the eastern channel open during the time of navigation and not as part of the permanent 16 foot channel. With regard to the progress of the timber work he said that the work as originally designed consisted in the construction of two entrance piers respectively 2280 feet and 2640 feet in length, and a protection pier 1500 feet in length from the east pier to the end of Fisherman's Island. To date 900 feet of work is built up to 2 feet above zero, and 30 cribs 100 feet in length are framed 98 feet in height and ready for placing in position. In addition a large quantity of materials are delivered in Toronto The quantity of dredging yet to be done to obtain the 16-foot channel is estimated at 2,450,000 cubic yards, and from the above it would appear that 25,000 feet of crib work have yet to be placed in position, but it is expected that when the east pier and the protecting work are built there will be no necessity to construct the west pier

The cause of delay was (1) The difficulty experienced by the contractors in securing timber during the summers of 1889-90; (2) the rough state of Lake Ontario during that summer and the exposed position of the work It is expected that the whole work will be completed in 1895, though this will depend on the state of the weather

Some changes have been made since the contract was let. In the original plan it was intended to place the cribwork on the natural bed of the lake and to open up a channel 13 feet in depth between the two lines of cribwork. In June, 1890, it was decided to sink the cribwork to a depth of 16 feet below zero, so that it might be permanent and permit of a channel 16 feet in depth being dredged and to correspond with the lake and river entrance to the Welland and St. Lawrence canals Mr. Page, late Chief Engineer of Canals, recommended that east pier be sunk to a depth of 16 feet and an order in council authorizing this change was passed The sinking of the cribs to 16 feet necessitated a change in the construction, their width being increased from 20 to 30 feet

With regard to the effect of these changes on the cost, Sir Hector said that the sinking of the east pier to a depth of 16 feet below zero will increase the cost of the work by the value of extra materials required for the changes and that of the extra dredging, estimated increase being $75,000 It is probable, however, that owing to these beneficial changes and the fact that the eastern piers will be of a more substantial character than originally intended, it will not be necessary to construct the whole of the west arm pier, and that a saving of $75,000 will therefore be effected. None of the contractors' prices have been changed. They are paid at the schedule rates of their tenders

Mr Mills, Bothwell said it was reported that the Government intended to appoint Mr W T Jennings, Toronto Chief Engineer, of the Public Works Department. He asked the Minister of Public Works if this were so, because if it was it would certainly effect the functions of Mr Jennings in connection with the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Sir Hector Langevin said: "I saw that report in a newspaper, but that is all the information we have on that subject."

Mr Barron moved that all vouchers, checks, etc, relating to the payments made to Miss Kate Falconer and others of the Post-office Department during the years 1888-89 be produced for examination before the Public Accounts Committee.

The Government objected to the motion Mr Bowell said the proper way to obtain the information was to have the papers laid on the table of the House and then have them referred to the committee

The speaker ruled the motion out of order and the matter dropped.

Clarke Wallace moved the second reading of this bill to amend the Act for the Prevention and Suppression of Combinations. It amends the act by striking out the words "unduly" and "unreasonably," applied to the degree of restraint exercised by the combination, and by repealing section 6 and substituting this clause: "The foregoing provisions of this act shall not apply to the exercise of any handicraft or to the performance of labor, and subject to such exception they shall be construed as if section 22 of the Trades Union Act had not been enacted." These amendments, he said, would make the act effective.

Mr. Barron maintained that the words "unduly" and "unreasonably" might be struck out and yet the statute be ineffective because the word "unlawfully," was allowed to remain in the act. In the first prosecution under the act a difficulty would arise over the word "unlawfully," which it ought to be the whole object of the bill to define

The bills granting divorces to Adam Rusworth, Mahala Ellis and Thomas Bristow, were read a third time and passed on division.

Should Sir Hector Resign.

OTTAWA, July 21.—The Evening Journal (independent-Conservative and Equal Rights) said last night in an editorial on Sir Hector Langevin: "There is a deep and growing feeling that another phase of the situation is not receiving proper attention from the Government and the Cabinet, in justice to itself, and Sir Hector Langevin, in justice to himself, should think very seriously whether the resignation of the Minister of Public Works ought not to be tendered to the Premier, not as a confession of any guilt, but simply as a measure of good taste and to free the hands of the Conservative party for a battle, which, deny it or sneer at the assertion who will, is now become one of life or death so far as tenure of power is concerned. By not resigning he is endangering the existence of the Conservative Government. We are concerned for that Government. We do not want to see it fall. It represents, we believe, the truest national heart, the best national courage, the pluck, the hope, the self reliance, pride, and fastest and safest progress of this Canada of ours. But it is not Liberal uncleanness, and the Conservatives must take the consequences of sanctioning with revealed wrong doing. Let earnest Conservative leaders show them the door ready to turn to the line."

THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE.

Investigating the Postoffice and the Immigration Departments.

OTTAWA, July 21.—There was a slim attendance at the meeting of the Public Accounts Committee yesterday, and it was only by the merest chance that there was a quorum, there being a general understanding that no meeting of the committee would be held until to-day or to-morrow. Mr. Clarke Wallace presided. Mr. Lister moved for papers and vouchers in connection with the payment of about $600 to F. Merritt, J. R. Wilson and J. R. Arnoldi, engineer for the Public Works department for the survey steamer Joe. The motion was carried.

Mr Barron moved for papers and vouchers in connection with the sums paid to Miss Jane Craig, Miss Kate Falconer, Miss Alice Gradman and others by the Postoffice Department and specified in the Auditor-General's report for 1890. He also moved that the accountant, secretary and some of the other officials should appear before the next meeting so that they may be examined in regard to these and other items. This opens the inquiry into the working of the Postoffice Department.

Mr. Mulock moved that Mr. Rousseau of Messrs. Rousseau & Mathier, Montreal, and Mr. Garth of Garth & Co., Montreal, and Fenson of Toronto be summoned to appear for examination at the next meeting of the committee in reference to the Langevin Block. This motion was carried.

Mr. McMullen, in the absence of Sir Richard Cartwright, proceeded to ask Mr. Schreiber several questions in regard to the Intercolonial Railway.

In reply Mr. Schreiber said that the reason why there was so large a deficit on the Intercolonial Railway, compared with the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Railways, notwithstanding that it carried as much traffic when the mileage was compared, was that the rates were lower.

Mr. Bowell objected to this question, and Mr. Foster supported him in the objection, on the ground that it was not pertinent to the enquiry, which was as to an item of $900,000 of a deficit paid by the Governor-General's warrant on the Intercolonial. It was pointed out by Mr. Mulock and Dr. Landerkin that it was impossible to investigate this deficit unless the reasons that brought it about were gone into.

Mr. Clarke Wallace decided that the question was out of order.

A witness named Woodman, at one time sub agent of the Immigration department at Emerson, Manitoba, was examined by Mr. McMullen in respect to some frauds alleged to have been committed at that office, either through the Agent Tenon or the department. This is the fifth department now before the committee Mr. McMullen proceeded to ask Woodman when he joined the service and what time he went to Emerson, which was in 1885. This brought Mr. Bowell at once to his feet. He protested against going back beyond the year 1889-90, as these were the only accounts before the committee. The Auditor-General's report for 1885-86 was laid before the committee previously, and if the accounts were not enquired into it was the fault of the Opposition. This met with the views of Mr. Foster

Mr. McMullen explained that he was in a position to prove that this agent drew $1000 last year to which he was not entitled to; that he received rent for a house which he did not occupy, and that the salary of a caretaker was charged when there was no caretaker at all.

Mr. Mulock then moved for the production of the papers in regard to some of these alleged frauds back in 1885. This was carried.

A MOTHER'S AWFUL DEED.

She Shoots Her Three Little Innocent Children and Then Herself.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 21.—Mrs. Thos. Lochridge shot her three little innocent children and herself about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon at her home, three miles south of Springhill. Mrs. Lochridge was 30 years of age, her eldest child 4 years old, the second 3 years old, and the third 4 months old. The awful deed was done with a double-barreled breech-loading shot-gun. As near as can be learned from the surroundings, Mrs. Lochridge had drawn up her children's clothes one by one, placed the gun against their hearts and fired. Then she placed them side by side on the pallet, which she had made for the purpose and arranged their dresses neatly about them. Standing at their feet and probably gazing down upon them the distracted mother placed the muzzle of the gun at her own heart, and sent her own soul into eternity. She left a note for her husband which shows that her mind was affected.

Canadian Nickel for Brother Jonathan.

NEW YORK, July 21. A special to The Herald from Washington says A large amount of nickel ore has recently been purchased by the Navy Department from the representatives in this country of the Canadian mines, and Lieutenant Alexander McCrackin has been detailed on a special mission to Canada to make arrangements for its transportation and free entry. The amount thus far purchased under the $1,000,000 appropriation for the purpose has been about 4000 tons.

TORONTO TOPICS TODAY.

THE COUNCIL HEEDS THE PEOPLE'S VOICE AND DELAYS ACTION

TORONTO, July 21, 1891.

THE public's most dutiful representatives have heeded the voice of their masters and have delayed taking action in the Kiely-Everett tenders for the street railway. At the meeting of council last night, Ald. Hall moved to go on, but wise counsels, in view of the serious charges now being investigated as to the conduct of certain representatives, prevailed It is only right that the charge of boodling should be investigated, and the city can lose nothing by the delay necessary to do this thoroughly.

At the investigation, begun before Examiner J. Bruce yesterday forenoon, Ald. Hall first denied that he had been approached by any street railway syndicate, but finally swore that Mr. Parker, representing Miller Brothers had approached him and asked him where he could place $50,000. It is said, but as yet unverified by sworn evidence, that Mr Parker gives a totally different story of the "approaching," and that he will swear that Ald. Hall told him that the Kielys were willing to go $40,000 and unless Miller Bros. could put up $50,000 they weren't "in it." While so far nothing corrupt has been proven before the Examiner, the general feeling is that delay is profitable before finally disposing of the people's rights in the street railway.

A little breeze took place in the Examiner's room when the Q. C.'s Baird and Laidlaw objected to his going on with the investigation because Kiely-Everett having been joined with the city in the injunction asked for, their client had not been served with a writ. Technically this was proved to be correct Mr. Kingsmill, who had acted for Kiely-Everett, not having had authority to accept service on their behalf The result was that the Kiely-Everett people were disjoined and the injunction is asked against the city solely. Meanwhile the feeling in favor of the city retaining and running the road itself is growing daily, the more so as the longer the people think the matter over the more they become convinced that the road is a bonanza.

OPERA HOUSE CHANGES.

Frank Kirchmer, the manager of the London Grand Opera House, has been appointed manager of Whitney's Canadian circuit, which includes the Hamilton and London theatres and the Academy of Music, Toronto Mr. Kirchmer will make his headquarters in Toronto and visit the two outlying cities once each week. J. Paladino of this city has also been appointed treasurer of the Toronto Academy of Music; A. E. Rost, treasurer of the London Opera House, and T. Reche in Hamilton. Percival T. Green, who has managed the Academy of Music for two years, has resigned his position to go into the real estate and brokerage business

A BEAUTIFUL MEMORIAL

The memorial presented by the City Council to Lady Macdonald, designed and executed by A H Howard, R C A., is of rare beauty. It consists of an album of six pages, bound in brown morocco with a panel of purple calf, on which is an inscription in gold letters The pages are prettily decorated with leaves and blossoms and bear appropriate quotations from the poets. It is something new in its line and the admiration of all who see it.

MASONIC GATHERING.

The General Purposes Committee of the Masonic Grand Lodge met at 11 o'clock yesterday in the Masonic hall, Toronto street. There was not a large attendance. Reports were presented by the various sub-committees of the board, and these will be considered seperately The Sovereign Grand Priory met this morning and Grand Lodge will open at 10 o'clock tomorrow in the Grand Opera House.

THE EFFECT OF SUNDAY'S ROT.

The city council has passed a much-needed by-law prohibiting speaking in the public parks and squares on Sundays. There was hardly any other course open after the exhibition made by the man Campbell on Sunday in the Queen's Park, and the excitement aroused thereon. It is to be hoped that the measure will be so well enforced that the re petch of last Sunday will be removed from our skirts.

HALF-HOLIDAY VS. EIGHT HOURS.

At a meeting of the Toronto Typographical Union, in Shaftesbury Hall, a vote was taken regarding the adoption of an eight-hour-a-day system of working instead of nine hours as formerly. The vote stood 232 in favor of the nine hour, and 11 for the eight-hour system. The printers therefore work as formerly, and retain their Saturday half-holiday.

MONTREAL, July 21.—The Donaldson line steamship Circe, Captain Jennings, is ashore at East Cape, about the most southern part of the island of Anticosti The Circe was bound from Glasgow to Montreal, having left the former portion July 11. The Circe is broad side on and the sea is making a clean beach over her. The vessel struck at 11 o'clock on Saturday night in a fog. She is in a dangerous position and is not likely to get off. The crew escaped. The steamer is the old "Glamis Castle." She was built in 1874 and is of 1559 tons.

LONDON, July 21.—Friends who called on Dillon and O'Brien in prison last week declare that they will both go definitely against Parnell when released. What is disgusting Parnell's friends more than anything else is the conviction now forced upon them that he is inspired wholly in his present hostility by Mrs. Parnell. He pays no heed to any counsel offered to him, but every time he goes to Brighton he returns more madly resolute than ever. Parnell's latest escapade about the courts in the O'Shea divorc suit further confirms the opinion that he is perfectly reckless in his methods, and that he elects to gratify his wife's capricious vanity. The least that Parnell owed to the men who stuck to him was to bury the divorce suit and everything appertaining to it as quickly as possible. But now, because Mrs. Parnell does not want to give her former husband the satisfaction of claiming his costs, Parnell coolly runs the risk of getting made bankrupt in addition to his other disgraces.

The letter about Campbell, in which he threw over at the bidding of Mrs. Parnell a private secretary whose fidelity to him both in personal and political affairs has been simply remarkable has estranged a great many of his supporters, who are only awaiting a favorable chance to express their sentiments. This letter is objected to not only for the cynical manner in which it sold Campbell, but also because it affords more direct evidence than has heretofore been showing, that Parnell wants to shove his wife into the foreground as the saviour of Ireland, a thing that these Nationalists who know the circumstances will not tolerate for an instant. This may be conjugal love, but it certainly is not politics. If Parnell is made bankrupt he must either settle with his creditors within six months or resign his seat. That would be a not altogether unacceptable ending to the Irish fight, but Parnell will probably evade this penalty when convinced that there is no other option.

THE POPE IS ILL.

His Holiness Suddenly Seized With a Serious Malady.

ROME, July 21.—Rome was startled to learn yesterday that his Holiness, Pope Leo XIII., has been seized with a serious illness. The announcement of the fact was unaccompanied by any particulars as to the malady which had so suddenly and apparently so completely prostrated the Holy Father. All that is known is the fact that the illness of the aged Pontiff was of such a nature as to cause a panic in the Vatican and the sending in hot haste for Dr. Caccarelli, the distinguished Italian specialist. The health of the Pope is a circumstance upon which such mighty interests hang, that the last place in the world to obtain information of the condition of an ailing Pontiff has been the Vatican. That the present case was not an exception to the rule was ascertained by a correspondent when he attempted to obtain some particulars of the illness of the Pope. The attendants about the palace could be induced to say nothing. The question whether the Papal health was so precarious as to suggest the possibility of the early appearance of a bulletin elicited nothing more than a faint smile and gentle shrug of the shoulders.

It is recalled that on the explosion of the powder magazine at Pezzo Pantaleo, which on April 24 convulsed Rome from centre to circumference, the Pope, who was at the time celebrating low mass, received a shock which flung him into the arms of an attendant.

Although it was reported a few days after the accident that the Holy Father had recovered from its effect, there are many who believed then, as now, that the injury done to the nervous system to as old and feeble a person as Leo XIII., is not without serious consequences.

THE IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT

Is Plunged Into Commotion by a Stranger in the Gallery.

LONDON, July 21.—In the House of Commons yesterday a man who had obtained admittance to the stranger's gallery suddenly sprung to his feet and wildly flourished above his head a bundle of documents referring to some real or fancied grievance which he attempted to explain to the members of parliament. The police started towards the stranger when the man threw his bundle of papers down to the floor of the House. By this time the wild visitor was in the hands of the police, who promptly rejected him.

The Speaker read a letter written by council for Deobain, member for East Belfast, who was charged with serious offences, asking that proceedings against him be suspended to enable the accused to return to England and meet the charges brought against him. Mr. Deobain, according to the letter, is now at Boulogne-sur-Mer, France, under the care of a physician, and a certificate to this effect was enclosed. Thursday, July 23, was the day fixed upon for the expulsion of Deobain from the House of Commons.

What Will the Harvest Be?

LONDON, July 21.—The Times summarizes the harvest prospects of the world as follows: In Russia there is a grave deficiency. The peasantry are starving and there is small hope of relief. In India a serious anxiety prevails over a considerable portion of the country. Madras, Rajupatha and the Punjab are the worst sufferers. There is drought in Bengal and the need of more rain is urgent Bombay alone promises a good harvest. The American harvest will be good in quality and amount, but with the failure of the Indian and Russian supplies it is of the utmost importance that the English crop shall not be short. The prospect on the whole is good In the chief wheat counties, Essex, Norfolk and Suffolk, the crop is above the average and in other counties up to the average. The harvest will be late and the prices will be high. There is therefore a good outlook for the English farmer to break the long series of disastrous years

EDISON'S PATENT UPHELD.

Judge Wallace Decides the Incandescent Light Case.

Defeat of the United States Electric Lighting Company—The Points Covered by the Decision—Fifteen Millions at Stake.

The United States Electric Lighting Company, and through it the Westinghouse Company, which owns it, received a defeat yesterday in the decision against it of the suit brought by the Edison Electric Light Company, on the patent for the incandescent electric lamp. Judge Wallace, in the United States Circuit Court, filed his opinion in the suit sustaining the patent and ordering a decree for an injunction and an accounting.

Mr. Edison's invention was made in 1879 and his patent was granted in 1880. The suit was begun in 1885, the subject in controversy being two claims of the letters patent No. 223,898, "for an improvement in electric lamps." These two claims were as follows:

"1. An electric lamp for giving light by incandescence, consisting of a filament of carbon of high resistance made as described, and secured to metallic wires as set forth.

"2. The combination of carbon filaments with a receiver made entirely of glass and conductors passing through the glass and from which receiver the air is exhausted for the purposes set forth."

Judge Wallace decided that the defendant does not infringe the first claim because the leading wires in its lamps are not secured to the filament according to the method of the patent, but on the second claim judgment is given for the plaintiff, that being in reality the essential feature of the invention claimed by the Edison Company. The importance of the decision is regarded as very great by the representatives of the Edison Company. They say that hitherto half of the incandescent lamps in the country have been manufactured by other companies. According to their estimate, the decision, if upheld by the appellate court, will yield the Edison Company $15,000,000, of which about $2,000,000 a year will come in for the next six years.

Following is the most important part of Judge Wallace's decision, which is very long, and covers thirty-three pages of typewritten legal cap:

"The second claim is broad enough in its phraseology to secure the real invention described in the specification, and can be read consistently with its language so as to import into it every essential limitation.

"It was a remarkable discovery that an attenuated thread of carbon would possess all the long sought qualities of a practical burner when maintained in a perfect vacuum. The extreme fragility of such a structure was calculated to discourage experimentation with it, and it does not detract in the least from the originality of the conception that previous patents had suggested that thin plates or pencils or small bridges could be used. The futility of hoping to maintain a burner in vacuo with any permanency had discouraged prior inventors, and Mr. Edison is entitled to the credit of obviating the mechanical difficulties which disheartened them, but what he did in this respect was a matter of only secondary merit and was no longer new in the art because he had already disclosed it in his French and English patents.

"What he actually accomplished was to unite the characteristics of high resistance, small radiating surface and durability in a carbon conductor by making it in a form for extreme tenuity out of any such materials as are mentioned in the specification, carbonizing it, and arranging it as he had previously arranged his platinium burner in an exhausted bulb made wholly of glass and sealed at all points, including those where the leading wires entered, by the fusion of the glass. He was the first to make a carbon of materials and by a process which was especially designed to impart high specific resistance to it—the first to make a carbon in the special form for the special purpose of imparting it to high total resistance, and the first to combine such a burner with the necessary adjuncts of lamp construction to prevent its disintegration and give it sufficiently long life. By doing these things he made a lamp which was practically operative and successful, the embryo of the best lamps now in commercial use, and but for which the subdivision of the electric light by incandescence would still be nothing but the ignis fatuus, which it was proclaimed to be in 1879 by some of the learned experts who are now witnesses to belittle his achievement and show that it did not rise to the dignity of an invention.

"The coiled form of the burner is only an alternative feature, and is not a constituent of the second claim. It is the subject of the third claim. Nor is the bent form or any form other than the filamentary. It may be that in the haste which has always seemed to characterize Mr. Edison's efforts to patent every improvement, real or imaginary, which he has made or hoped to make, he had not stopped to reflect when he framed his application for the patent that the filamentary burner would do its work just as well uncoiled as coiled, provided the same length and cross-section were used. It is true that it is said in the general statement of the nature of the invention that the burner is so 'coiled or arranged' as to offer high resistance and present a small radiating surface; but this description is satisfied by any arrangement, whether by coiling a considerable length in a small globe or using the same length of uncoiled in a larger globe, by which sufficient total resistance is obtained from a filament of small diameter. It certainly would not involve invention to omit the coiling and elongate the globe; hence, it is manifest that the invention described is the same thing essentially whether the coiled form is used or not.

"The lamp is satisfied, if the burner is filamentary and so arranged as to offer great resistance and slight radiation, without importing into it anything which is not of the essence of the invention. No precise limitation upon the maximum diameter of the filament can be defined from the specification or is required as an element of the claim. The specification mentions by way of illustration the threads of linen or cotton which becomes more attenuated after carbonization, and the carbon wire which after carbonization would be from four to five one-thousandths of an inch in diameter, while the smallest rods of carbon previously known were about a millimeter in diameter, thus having a cross-section fifty times as great as the carbon wire.

"It is to be implied from the suggestions in the specification that it is to have sufficiently high total resistance for efficient use when the lamps are arranged in multiple arc, and to be used with leading wires of fine platinum. The claim is not limited to a carbon filament made of non-fibrous material. The conductors of the claim are the platinum wires mentioned in the specification. The receiver is the vacuum described in the specification. The peculiar method of securing the conductors to the filament, made a constituent of the first claim, is not imported into the second claim. A more exact interpretation of the meaning of the claim than has been indicated is not necessary in the present case, because each of the three lamps representing the kinds used by the defendant embodies the invention of the claim as thus interpreted.

"It is of little import what Mr. Edison, or his patent solicitor, may have thought about the meaning of the claim during the pendency of the application for a subsequent patent, or that Mr. Edison may have supposed a resistance as high as one hundred ohms in the burner would be required for use with the means of distribution which he expected to employ with his system of lighting. There are many adjudicated cases in which it appears that the inventor built better than he knew; where a patent has been sustained for an invention the full significance of which was not appreciated by the inventor when it was made.

"The usual decree for an injunction and accounting is accordingly ordered."

The counsel for the Edison Company are Eaton & Lewis, who were assisted by Grosvenor P. Lowrey, Clarence A. Seward, and Richard N. Dyer. The attorneys for the defendants are Kerr & Curtis, who were assisted by Gen. S. A. Duncan, Edmond Wetmore, Frederic H. Betts, and Leonard E. Curtis.

Mr. Eaton, of the Edison Company's attorneys, said, in regard to the decision, that it would shut up all factories of incandescent lamps, at least until the expiration of the patent six years hence.

"The court holds," said Mr. Eaton, "that Mr. Edison, being the first inventor, is entitled to a monopoly of manufacture, together with an accounting for profits heretofore made by other manufacturers, who, according to this decision, have been infringing the patent. This suit is one of the most important of a series of suits for many years prosecuted by the Edison Company in order to establish Mr. Edison's priority. The other suits, one on a system of distribution of electric current for electric lighting, another on what is known as the three wire or economical system of circulating current, and a third, the subdivision of the current, are ready for court and will be argued in the autumn."

The defense in the suit was based on the opinion of experts to the effect that the invention as described in the claim was not, in fact, anything essentially original upon which the inventor could claim a patent. The court pays its respects to these experts. President Henry Morton of Stevens Institute and Prof. Charles R. Cross of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in that part of the decision where it says that Edison, by his performance of the things mentioned in the claim, "made a lamp which was practically operative and successful, and but for which the subdivision of the electric light by incandescence would still be nothing but the ignis fatuus it was proclaimed to be in 1879 by some of the learned experts who are now witnesses to belittle his achievement and show that it did not rise to the dignity of an invention."

As to the probability of consolidation with the other companies, Mr. Eaton said:—"Overtures to that end have been made to the Edison Company periodically for the last two or three years. The sole reason for declining these overtures was the feeling that the patent would give the company a monopoly. This decision justifies that faith and the prospect of consolidation is far more remote than ever, as the company would have nothing to gain and everything to lose by such an operation."

Judge Wallace's opinion agrees almost identically with the opinion of the English courts on the English patents of Mr. Edison.

The officers of the United States and the Westinghouse Companies are unwilling to admit that the decision is of great moment to them. An official of the Westinghouse Company said yesterday:

"While some of the smaller companies may be affected, it is expected that the Thomson-Houston and Westinghouse Companies will continue their business very much as before. The manufacture of incandescent lamps is a comparatively small part of the business."

An appeal from the decision will be taken at once and will come before the new Appellate Court for patent cases, probably in October. In the meantime the effect of the decision on the re-organization of the Westinghouse Company, which is in progress today in Pittsburg, will be watched everywhere with interest. One of the officers of that company said that the success with which that reorganization would be effected would effectually prove how little weight was attached by the security holders to the decision.

Health, Happiness and Prosperity.

All these depend on pure blood, for without health is impossible; without health happiness is impossible, and without happiness prosperity is a mockery. No means of obtaining pure blood and removing bad blood excels the use of B B B, the best blood purifier known.

NO ONE knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation and disordered stomach. dw

Imperial Federation.

Will present an opportunity to extend the fame of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry the unfailing remedy for cholera, cholera morbus, colic, cramps, diarrhœa, dysentery, and all summer complaints, to every part of the empire. Wild Strawberry never fails.

A Fact

WORTH knowing is that blood diseases which all other remedies fail to cure, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Fresh confirmation of this statement comes to hand daily. In such deep-seated and stubborn complaints as Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout, and the like, are thoroughly eradicated by the use of this wonderful alterative.

Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th street, New York, certifies:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months. I am pleased to say that it effected a complete cure, and that I have since had no return of the disease."

Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H., writes: "One year ago I was taken ill with rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."

"I have taken a great deal of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I felt its beneficial effects before I had quite finished one bottle, and I can freely testify that it is the best blood-medicine I know of."—L. W. Ward, Sr., Woodland, Texas.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Horn, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But this Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston On.,) Daily British Whig. June 27th, 1891.

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

The Grand Trunk System.

The Grand Trunk system differs from the human system in that the same troubles do not affect it and the same remedies are not needed. For all diseases of the human system their is no tonic purifier, renovator and strengthener as good as Burdock Blood Bitters. A weak system can be built up by B.B.B.

Enrich the blood by the use of Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine, which supplies the necessary blood-building material. dw

A Nationalist Plan.

A proposal, which would obtain favor with even the opponents of Nationalism, contemplates the placing of a supply sufficient for each family of nature's great dyspepsia specific and blood purifier, B.B.B., in every home in the land. The benefits of such a boon to the people would be incalculable.

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. HOW TO MANAGE A CANOE.

A canoe is a dangerous thing for a greenhorn to meddle with, but a very safe thing in the hands of an Indian or an expert. The first rule of safety is to keep your own weight and the weight of your load close to the bottom of the canoe. If this caution is followed few accidents need happen; for the lower the weight centre of the cargo is kept below the waterline the more will the buoyancy and lightness of the craft tell in favor of seaworthiness; she will ride the waves like a duck. The birch-bark canoe is the model of all open paddling canoes, and one who has become thoroughly at home in that ship of the woods may safely trust himself in any other.

The great question is how to get the most pleasure out of it, and keep the frail thing taut and neat for four or five years, the extent of a canoe's life?

First, while the shining yellow cedar ribs and lining are fresh and clean give the inside the bars and the gunwales a good coat of raw paint oil. This may be renewed at mid-summer, and each spring thereafter.

The outside may with advantage be given a coat of oil, varnish, and drier, mixed in equal proportion this will preserve the small eyes of the bark, and effectually keep the bark from getting water soaked on a long journey, as old canoes are apt to do. The resin for mending seams and leaks should be melted with about one-eighth its bulk of clean lard or paint oil. The exact proportion can best be learned by rule of thumb, as it must vary with the season; in hot weather more resin will be needed to keep the mixture from melting in the sun after it is applied, while in cold weather more grease will be needed to keep it from cracking and chipping off through brittleness. In all cases it must be put on as hot as possible, with a sliver of wood, and care must be taken to have the cracks or eyes perfectly dry when it is applied. Now if our canoe is ready and tight from stem to stern as you can easily see by putting a couple of buckets of water in her and watching for any drops to leak through let us have a first lesson in paddling.

To get our vessel to the river, stand by the canoe as she rests on her keel on the ground, grasp the middle bar close to the gunwale with your right hand, and at its centre with your left hand; raise the canoe to your knee and give it a flip as if you were throwing a rail across your shoulder, let the middle bar fall into place on the thick muscle between the neck and the bony point of the right shoulder, at the same time letting go to the left hand and shifting it to catch the gunwale a couple of feet in front of you on the left-hand side, extending the arm far enough forward to give you command in balancing the load; the right hand may now be shifted from its hold on the bar and the gunwale grasped with it, the fingers on the inside of the canoe about a foot in front of you. You will now find the canoe resting lightly on your shoulder, the middle bar extending across the hollow of your right shoulder and out onto the muscles of the right arm. If you are strong a little practice will enable you to carry the canoe using the right hand alone; you may stoop and pick up your paddle with the left and march off. An expert canoeist will take his kneeling cushions and paddle in his left hand first and then shoulder the craft with his right hand alone. But this is needlessly troublesome and usually the canoe is kept on rests upside down so that one only has to walk under and lift her off.

Then when we come to the water, you must set her afloat lightly from some landing place, taking care not to let her touch bottom any where while loading. Place the load as low as possible, a mass in each end ships as far as is convenient. Let your bowman get in and sit down on a cushion on the bottom of the canoe, with another cushion at his back. Upon no account allow him to kneel up against the bar or to sit on his heels, this rule is imperative, the Indians never violate it unless perhaps in racing. More accidents occur through the bowman kneeling up than any other way. It looks clumsy and top heavy and is always dangerous.

In stepping into a canoe never stick your paddle in before you and lean on it, lay it across the gunwales in front of your place; put a hand on each side of the canoe and step in properly. You are now in the stern where the canoe is just wide enough to allow you to kneel sitting on your heels with your toes together, close back against the end bar. A thin cushion under your knees if you wish; a thicker one under your instep will give more comfort. The gunwales of the canoe ought now to come close to your waist, just above the hips, and should fit so snugly (without perhaps actually touching you) that you can by a twist of your body control the rolling of the canoe in a sea. When you become thoroughly at home in the canoe you will find this a great help in climbing the shifting hills.

Now for the paddle. It is made of rock maple. The older it is the better, for it will be dry and light and springy. A new paddle is apt to be good for a couple of hours only, then the blade twists, and the spring will all be gone out of it. But an old-stager, brown with age and oil, is a treasure to be guarded. The paddle can not be oiled too often. As to size, it should be the length of the paddler, though some prefer a short handle. It should balance in the hand when held just where the blade joins the haft.

When you are seated in the canoe, with the paddle lying across the gunwales in front of you, suppose you are to begin work on the left or port side, your bowman, of course, paddling on the starboard. Take the paddle in your left hand at the thickest part, just above the blade, the fingers and thumb uppermost; the right hand may be placed in the same position on the upper end, or flat handle, or it may be shifted a little so that some of the fingers go over the end of the paddle; lift the left a little, swing the right into the air a little back from the face until it is somewhere in front of your right eye, let the blade go sharply into the water, taking hold as it cuts down; pull hard back with the left, letting this lower hand just clear the water, push ahead with the right, keep your back hollowed, and the stroke is half done. Then comes the curl at the end, which enables you to steer. Evidently when paddling alone, if a single-bladed paddle is used, every stroke on this left side will drive your craft to the right, but the effect is counteracted constantly by the twist of the paddle. By turning your wrists, turn the outer edge of the blade forward until the back or rear side of the paddle is so completely turned as to catch the water and act as a rudder. This you will do more easily by pressing down and to the right with the right hand, and at first at least; allowing the haft of the paddle just above the left hand to come against the gunwale, giving the right hand a leverage in steering. This turn of the paddle is the only difficult thing to learn; once mastered the rest is easy. It should be begun when the stroke is half through, and should be done so instinctively that absolutely no halt is made in the stroke from beginning to end. The paddle should be swung out of the water at a small angle, the right hand well down, the point of the blade skimming the water, and the left hand carrying the haft swiftly forward again. The thumb of the lower hand need not be placed around the handle unless it is rough weather; then it is necessary or you may have your paddle knocked out of your hands.

WORKING WITH TWO PADDLES.

Let the World Know You are in It

It seems almost a crime for a man to "hide his light under a bushel." If he has something new, that will benefit the human race, he should make it known. Old-fogy physicians tread the beaten path of their grandfathers, denounce advertised remedies, and never learn anything new. Medical science knows no parallel to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, compounded by a physician of long experience, especially for the maladies which afflict women. It affects a permanent cure of those agonizing disorders which attack her frail organism and is an anchor of hope alike to delicate girls and suffering women; contains no deleterious drugs. Self Application of Electricity

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Terrible Results of a Bee Sting.

A gentleman in the north part of the town last week was resting his bare foot on the window sill of his bed-room, when suddenly he felt a sharp pain and brushed off a honey bee and extracted the sting from his foot, which began to swell to an enormous size. Strange to say the swelling still continues though there is no soreness in the enormously enlarged foot. As his business requires him to be abroad he has been compelled to send to Lindsay for a girl's shoe to wear on it, but his wife still buys her tea at hawley bros.

Do you wish to visit Toronto for either business or pleasure?

Then Join the Band and Canton Excursion on the 28th.

GENTLEMEN,—Please accept my sincere thanks for the prompt payment of the policy of Insurance for $1,000 held by my late husband in your order and also for the sick and funeral benefit and all other attention given my late husband by the brethren of your court during his illness. May your order continue to prosper and be the means of assisting the widows and orphans throughout the country.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer d

A.O.A. Camp, Big Island, Pigeon Lake, Bobcaygeon P.O.

The above is the full dress address of a letter which is destined for the camp of the Northern Division of the A.C.A. The camp is situated at the foot of Big Island, a well-wooded site of over twelve acres, surrounded by a wide expanse of deep, clear water. The camp site has been put into excellent condition by the camp committee, of which Mr. G. W. Hatton is chairman, Mr. W. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, being particularly active and energetic. The camp presents an attractive appearance, and the visitors already arrived, and others arriving, are highly pleased with the site and its surroundings and conveniences. A large scow serves as a camp store and landing stage, and at different points there are diminutive docks for canoeists. Among the most attractive features of the camp is its nearness and yet so farness—that is to say, it is secluded and at the same time within easy reach of the hub—that is to say, again, Bobcaygeon — and Peterborough. Capt. Bottum's trim steamer, the 'Maple Leaf,' is the familiar that annihilates time and space, and brings the canoeist to his retreats and keeps him in touch with the outer world. She calls at the camp island five times per day. The train leaves Peterborough at 8 30 a.m. and 5 20 p. m., connecting at Chemong with the steamer, which reaches the camp at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. respectively, and thence to Bobcaygeon. Returning the steamer leaves Bobcaygeon at 6 45 a.m. and the camp at 7.15 a.m. and Bobcaygeon at 2 45 p.m. and the camp at 3 15 p.m., the passenger reaching Peterborough at 10 a.m. and 6 30 p.m. respectively.

The mess tent is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Garlic and excellent meals can be secured at the camp restaurant at $1.00 per day. The officers in charge of the camp are most active in promoting in every possible way the comfort and pleasure of campers, and various expeditions are being planned and arranged for.

Following is the programme of the A.C.A. meet:—

CRUISES

For all cruises members will assemble at and start from headquarters' landing.

Tuesday, 21st.—2 p. m., cruise to Bald Lake; picnic, tea and camp fire at 8 30 p.m.

Wednesday, 22nd.—6 p.m., cruise to Bobcaygeon; 8 30 p.m., camp fire.

Thursday, 23rd.—9 a. m, cruise to Sandy Lake, picnic, lunch; 8 30 p m., camp fire.

Friday, 24th, Visitors' Day.—8.30 p. m., camp fire.

Saturday, 25th.—9 a.m., steamer cruise to Buckhorn Lake, picnic, lunch; 8 30 p. m., camp fire.

All members in camp are expected to attend.

Sunday, 26th.—11 a. m., divine service; 8 p.m., service of song.

Monday, 27th.—9 a. m., regatta. Paddling races to be sailed first if calm, otherwise sailing races. 7 30 p. m., meeting of nominating committee; 8 30 p. m., illuminated parade.

Tuesday, 28th.—9 a. m., regatta continued; 7 30 p.m., general meeting of division; 8.30 p.m., camp fire.

Wednesday, 29th.—9 a.m., regatta continued, unfinished races, if any, gymnastics and sports; 8 30 p m., grand time, fun and hoe-down at the pavilion.

Thursday, 30th. — 9 a. m., extra and scratch races; 8.30 p m., camp fire and presentation of prizes.

Friday, 31st.—Breaking camp.

Salvation Army Meetings.

The officers' council of the Salvation Army held yesterday afternoon was a highly successful meeting, nearly all the officers of the division were present, and a great deal of work in connection with the internal economy of the army gone through. The meeting held last night formed the closing one of a very successful series, which there is reason to believe will be productive of much good. There was a large attendance at last night's meeting, which was conducted by Commissioner Rider, who leaves for Ottawa to-day.

Athletics vs. Peterboro'

Robbed the Pavilion.

Every season the pavilion at the P.A.A.A. grounds is broken into at different times and quantities of clothing stolen, but on Saturday night the thieves made a pretty clean sweep. A board was forced off the front of the building and the lockers broken into and half-a-dozen cricketer's suits taken. These frequent robberies are a discredit to Ashburnham, and the village police ought to make an effort to discover the culprits. Nothing but the cricketers clothing was taken Saturday night, the heavy supplies and some caps and shoes being untouched.

Friday, July 24th.

Moonlight on the Lake.

A thoroughly enjoyable and successful moonlight excursion, under the auspices of Peterborough Lodge of the Sons of Canada, was held last night, the steamer Daisy with palace scow attached, taking about 65 young couples for a delightful three hours' sail on Little Lake. The excursion was an unqualified success, and the Sons of Canada as well as their friends are happy over the result. A perfect moon shed its brightest rays over land and water, and the evening was cool enough to make dancing a pleasant pastime. Butcher's orchestra was aboard and supplied charming music. The boat returned to the wharf at midnight. The Sons of Canada cleared a nice sum on the excursion.

Richmond Clothes Reel.

Mr. W. H. Richmond, representing the Richmond Clothes Reel Co'y, of London, Ont, is in town for the purpose of placing upon this market their new patented clothes reel. This reel is of simple construction, is supported by an inch and a quarter gas pipe with four lateral braces, it works quite freely and is easily handled, and can be used on any lawn and removed handily. When not in use it can be closed like an umbrella and will not occupy a space of more than 6 or eight inches. Mr. Richmond's intention is to dispose of the right to manufacture and sell in Eastern Ontario, either by counties or as an entire district and any parties desiring to engage in the manufacture of the reel should communicate with Mr. Richmond at Cavanagh's Hotel. He will be there for a few days and will have the reels on exhibition.

Elegant Officers Quarters.

The officers of the 57th are having fitted up at the drill shed quarters which will be a great convenience and comfort. These will be situated at the northern end of the drill shed on the gallery that formerly filled the northern portion of the shed. At each end a wide staircase opens on a broad landing, these landings admit at either end to a suite of three large rooms. The central room is the largest, being 18 x 18 feet in area and connected by folding doors with the smaller rooms on either side, which are 13 x 18. The central room, is as well as the others, is well lighted by windows giving upon the northern part of the park, it is also provided with a glass door which opens upon a balcony opening in the drill shed. This apartment will be elegantly finished with walnut and white maple, the ceilings being divided into panels of unique and effective design. The other rooms will also be wainscotted with varnished material and provided with cabinets for the use of the officers. These rooms when completed will make elegant and comfortable quarters for the officers of the 57th.

Six Thousand, Four Hundred and Seventy-One Dollars

The Amount of the Accepted Tender for the Central School Building's Additions—Henry Carveth's Tender Accepted—The Work to be Completed by the First of October.

At a special meeting of the Board held on Monday evening, the following members were present: Messrs. Wrighton, (chairman) Stevenson, Bradburn, McKee, Hill, Deane, Rutherford, Bradburn, Corkery, McBain, Hamilton, Dumble, Kendry and Ferguson.

Mr. Bradburn, chairman of the Building Committee, reported that six tenders for the whole work had been received, as follows:

W. Fitzgerald	$ 8 400 00
Jas. Bigue	6,432 50
R. Sheehy	8 700 00
A. Rutherford	6,880 00
H. Carveth	6,471 00
Froude & McGregor	8 750 00

And partial tenders as follows:—

James Bogue basement, including putting in Smead-Dowd system	$ 1,285 00
J. E. Hayes, stonework	700 00
R. Sheehy, stonework and brickwork	3,392 00
Froude & McGregor, carpentery	4,175 00
T. Cannon, stone and brickwork	3,700 00
A. Hall, iron work, exclusive of Smead Dowd system	165 00

The three lowest bulk tenders were taken up for consideration and after some discussion Mr. Dumble moved, seconded by Mr. Ferguson, that the tender of Mr. H. Carveth $6,471 be accepted, and that he be required to give two sureties in the sum of $3,000 to complete the contract according to specifications, the old portion to be completed by September 1st, and the whole by October 1st.

Mr. Dumble said that this tender was the lowest by $400, and Mr. Carveth was a good mechanic and did good work, and the contract should be given him.

Mr. RUTHERFORD said that the Board was not bound to accept any tender. He thought Mr. Belcher's plan would be the cheaper, and he thought it would be wise not to be too hasty in closing the matter.

Mr. KENDRY thought the expense would exceed the amount appropriated, and he was in favour of deferring the whole matter.

The motion was agreed to, giving the contract to Mr. Carveth at $6 461.

Mr. Dumble moved, seconded by Dr. Boucher,—That the Building Committee be authorized to enter into contract with Mr. Carveth and that Mr. Wrighton be authorized to execute it on behalf of this board, and that payments be seventy-five per cent. on the architect's certificates, when the same are approved and signed by the chairman of the Building Committee. That the chairman be also authorized to execute a contract with the Smead-Dowd Company when the same is approved by the chairman of the Building Committee.—Carried.

The board then adjourned.

A Plebescite Will be Taken.

The Ratepayers Asked to Vote on Another Industrial By-law on the 18th of August.

A special meeting of the town council was held last night for the purpose of drafting a by-law, to be submitted to popular vote, granting aid to the firm of Patterson & Corbin, street car manufacturers, who contemplate removing from St. Catharines to Peterborough. There were present: Mayor Stevenson and Councillors Cahill, Davidson, Wiseh, Kelly, Moore, Hall, Bradburn, Dawson, Meldrum and Langford.

Before the by-law was read, Mr. Dawson expressed his opinion that it would be better to call a mass meeting of the ratepayers for discussion before submitting the by-law, but the majority of the council considered the publication of the by-law in the town papers would be the best possible means of enlightening the public as to the exact terms of the agreement, and there would be plenty of time before the vote was taken to hold a public meeting, if such was desired.

Before going into session Mr. HALL moved the first reading of the bylaw "to aid the firm of Patterson & Corbin, and exempt from taxation their manufacturing establishment."

On the second reading Mr. KELLY took the chair and the bylaw was read clause by clause. The bylaw, which is to take effect the 1st of September, 1891, provided for the issue of $6,000 debentures, bearing 4½ per cent interest, and payable in thirty years from date of issue, the proceeds of which were to be applied to the erection of a building or buildings for the use of Patterson & Corbin, for the manufacture of electric and horse street cars and railway cars, the conditions being that the said firm should forthwith commence and continue therein, the manufacture of street cars, and pay an average of at least $300 a week wages to workmen employed by them, and in the event of their failure to comply with these requirements for two consecutive years they shall give up the possession of the buildings which shall revert to the town; the premises to be exempt from taxation for ten years from the first of January next. After some discussion, the date for the voting was fixed for Tuesday, August 18th, the polling places being the same as those in the municipal elections. The bylaw will be printed in full to-morrow, so that further details would be wasted here. The ratepayers are urged to peruse the bylaw so that they can talk and vote intelligently on the subject.

On motion of Mr. Hall it was decided to have the by-law published three consecutive times in the three daily papers of the town, each paper not to receive more than $15 therefor.

THE PIGEON CREEK BRIDGE.

MAYOR STEVENSON said the township of Emily was now making a demand upon the town of Peterborough for the $50 which the town promised towards the assistance of the Pigeon Creek bridge on condition that the county of Victoria did likewise. The latter county having done so, and the bridge being in need of repairs, the Emily council wished to get the town's share to complete the necessary work. The mayor said it was important to the town that this bridge should be maintained as it brought the farmers to town.

Mr. DAWSON objected to the principle of the council spending money outside the town.

There was some difference of opinion as to whether the expenditure had been authorized, and the matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

The council then adjourned.

DANUBE'S RETURN.—The "Danube" called at the above port on the 4th inst. on her return trip from the Behring Sea. The traders on board had with them no less than 1,700 seal skins or over $300 000 worth. And yet there are thousands more.

A FATAL LAND-SLIDE.—A very heavy rainstorm is passing over this section of the province. The rain commenced on Sunday last at 2 a.m and has kept pouring down till this morning (Tuesday) with no abatement whatever. As a consequence of these heavy rains the natives look for landslides from the mountains. Word reached here this morning by the "Louise" that one of these destructive avalanches came rushing down on the North Pacific Cannery near Port Essington, carrying before it the cabins of the Indian workers and burying many of them. As yet 14 are found killed, 7 very badly wounded and 40 are yet undiscovered. Most of the Indians are from Port Chester in Alaska although a few of them hail from Port Simpson. Two of the dead bodies have been brought and placed in the church, one a woman with her skull all broken; the other, a boy, was found with a large stick driven through his body. One of the steam launches (the Winnifred), belonging to the Canning Company, went to Essington for Dr. Bolton, of Port Simpson. He is now with them trying to relieve the wounded. The poor people who escaped are now left without either food or blankets and on the charity of the others.

NEWS FOR THE W.M.S.—The first shipment of lumber for the Crosby Girls' Home of this place arrived per last "Boscowitz." According to plans the building to be erected by the Women's Missionary Society will be a lasting and highly creditable memento of their work of Christian charity among the Tsimsheam Indians.

Liverpool quotations were 44s. The buyers present were Messrs. Cook, Clinton, Wrighton, Flavelle and Hodgson, the latter being represented by Mr. Fitzgerald.

The first bid came from Mr. Wrighton, who offered 8½ for the board, Mr. Cook rising to ⅝ for selections and Mr. Hodgson to the ½ for some and Mr. Cook to ⅝. There being no better offer Mr. Cook named Keene, Warminister, North Smith, Cherry Grove, Warsaw, Peterborough, Norwood, Ormonde, and Pine Grove, all accepting but Ormonde and Norwood.

Mr. Cook then offered 8½ for further selections, Mr. Hodgson going a sixteenth better, and Mr. Wrighton advancing to the ⅝. He took Central Smith, Missing Link and Lakefield.

Mr. Clinton then offered 8½ for the rest, Mr. Hodgson advancing a sixteenth and Mr. Cook to 8⅝, at which figure he took Smearer, Westwood and Oakdale, Melrose Abbey refusing the offer.

Mr. Flavelle offered ½ for further selections and the Clinton rose to⅝, but Ormonde again refusing he named no others and again offered the half, Mr. Hodgson going a sixteenth better and Mr. Clinton once more rising to ⅝. and Brickley refused. The same consecutive bid of ⅝. a sixteenth better and ¾ was repeated, Mr. Flavelle at the latter figure getting Maripoes, Mr. Cook took Ida for the same, Mr. Fitzgerald at 8 9-16 got Stony Lake, Mt. Pleasant, Maple Leaf, Myrtle, Bobcaygeon, Lakeview, Trowers; Mr. Flavelle took Scotch Line, Downeyville and Reaboro at 8¾; Mr. Wrighton got Beaufort, Laing, Dansford, Fraserville, Otonabee Union, Lonsville and Fenelon Falls at 8¾; Mr. Spence took Fleetwood at the same. Mr. Wrighton offered 8¾ for the balance of the board and got Cedardale, Minden and Stanhope.

Cambray subsequently accepted Mr. Cook's offer of 8⅝.

This left Norwood, Melrose Abbey, Ormonde, Brickley, North Dummer, Millbrook, Haliburton, Kirkfield and Spring Valley unsold.

A motion to adjourn for three weeks was presented but not adopted.

A Sensation Expected.

LONDON, July 20.—The chairman and several directors of the English Salt Union having resigned, the Liverpool shareholders of the union became greatly excited. They held a meeting at which it was resolved they would await the appearance of the promised statement of the directors before taking further action. A sensation expected.

Purify the blood in the spring, as the importance of this condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

A Child Terribly Burned.

TORONTO, July 21.—Lily Crashley, the six-year-old daughter of Thomas Crashley, express agent of 13 Beverley street, was very seriously if not fatally injured last night. She was playing in the lane with some other children when a little boy playfully set fire to her dress. In a moment she was enveloped in flames, and by the time help reached her nearly all of her clothing was burned from her body. Her hair was burned off and her face and body terribly blistered. Physicians at a late hour last night could not say whether the result would be fatal or not.

Five Tourists Drowned.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 21.—A pleasure yacht containing six people capsized at 5 p.m. yesterday, about two miles off the outer harbor wharf. All drowned except Edward Mutch who was picked up by a boat's crew from the U.S.S. Marion. Lashed to the mast of the upturned yacht was the body of a boy 12 years old, named Edward Mutch. He is on board the Marion and is not expected to recover. The names of the parties are: J. H. Edwards and two sons, William Morrison, Edward Mutch and Gus McGuinness. All are English tourists.

Niagara Victims.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont, July 21.—Yesterday afternoon a young man named Lester found the body of a man floating in the whirlpool and towed it ashore. It is supposed to be that of Mr. Sherman of Clifton Springs, N. Y., who suicided by jumping into the river above the Falls on the 15th inst. The body is completely nude and swollen badly. There was another body also seen in the pool about the same time, but it disappeared before it could be recovered.

Sir John's C. P. R. Stock.

OTTAWA, July 21.—Mr. Hugh John Macdonald was shown yesterday an article in The Ottawa Free Press, which speaking of that portion of the late Sir John A. Macdonald's will which disposed of his C. P. R. stock, said: "It is understood that the inventory of his estate does not include Canadian Pacific shares held in trust for Sir John in the names of other persons." Mr. Macdonald said, "The Free Press statement is utterly false. No such shares were held and such shares never existed. The amount of $41,875 described as bank shares and other stocks and securities is made up of bank stock, loan society stock in four or five different societies and C. P. R. stock. How much C. P. R. stock there is I cannot exactly say at present but whatever there is was bought in at the open market in 1888. I do not know the price paid. A meeting of the executors will be held when the matter will be discussed.

Mr. Alexander Ferguson, solicitor to the executors, said: "There is a meeting of executors to be held and they will then decide what course they will take. If they take my advice they will treat the whole matter with contempt. I think the remarks made grossly impertinent. The public have nothing to do with the matter. I know it is being telegraphed all over the states, but let them telegraph till they are black in the face I can give no figures till I am authorized by my clients."

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in any way get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. R. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.92
Increase over previous year	3,421,372 84
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,599 15
Increase over 1889	2 268,838.60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	859,078 87

Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	239,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64,824 07

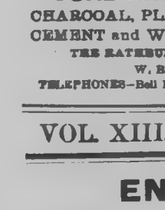
Judge Meredith Refuses the Motion for an Injunction to Prevent the City Council from Awarding the Street Railway Franchise—The Kiely-Everett Tender Accepted by the Council.

TORONTO, April 22, 1891.



SENSATIONAL developments were expected yesterday in the street railway franchise hoodling enquiry from the examination of A. J. Parker before Mr. Bruce, but if one is coming it will be deferred until to-morrow, for the proceedings have been adjourned in consequence of H. M. Mowat's objection to the short notice the city had received of Mr. Macdonald's intention to go on with the examination of Mr. Parker and Ald. Pape.

The proceedings inaugurated by E. A. Macdonald to obtain an injunction were resumed at Osgoode hall in the afternoon before Justice Meredith in the Chancery Court, when W. H. Wallbridge moved for an interim injunction.

Mr. Wallbridge explained that the injunction was sought to restrain the City Council from accepting any of the tenders now before the Street Railway Committee and detailed all the circumstances up to the present. "The Council will meet at three o'clock this afternoon," he continued, "to consider the acceptance of a tender."

Justice Meredith—Well, supposing that they do not accept it, what is the object in restraining them from what they may not do?

Mr. Wallbridge—We have the evidence here, and specific evidences of bribery and corruption were clearly shown.

Justice Meredith—I think that if it was clearly shown the Council would not act. I'm afraid it's not very clearly shown.

Mr. Wallbridge admitted that this point was open to controversy.

After a brief consideration the judge said he could not entertain any part of the application. There was nothing in the world to hinder Mr. Wallbridge laying these facts before the City Council, as the aldermen were the right parties to deal with the question at present. As far as the courts were concerned the matter was entirely premature and no evidence warranting an injunction or enlargement had been adduced. Consequently both the application for an injunction and the motion for an enlargement would have to be dismissed with costs, and afterwards if anything like what Mr. Wallbridge says turns out to be true, there is no barrier to prevent the plaintiff, the citizen or the other tenderers from obtaining their relief.

This judgment leaves the matter just as if the application had never been made, and places everything exactly in the same position as it was before the writ was issued, with the leave to serve notice of motion was granted. All proceedings so far taken are removed and nullified as being premature, and without any effect whatever.

LUMBO CAMPBELL'S DEFIANCE

This eccentric individual whose utterances caused a riot on Sunday, has placarded his window with sentences defying the council to prohibit park preaching on Sundays in the park. Here are a few of his latest gems:

Protestants, look out for next Sunday in the park.

Popery is now undoing the Battle of the Boyne.

Free speech cannot be sat upon.

Free speech cannot be suppressed.

No laws can be made by a City Council to close citizens mouths.

Will Orange Toronto be sat upon by cockiers to Romanism?

Rome was suffering, and must be protected by city by laws. It is no good.

Orangemen! don't give up your most sacred rights.

Will you allow the Papists to sit on you?

The chances are much in favor of Lumbo coming to grief in his struggle with the powers that be.

A TORONTO BOY IN TROUBLE

Thomas Hinchy, a young man, native of Toronto, went to Tacoma some time ago and reports state that lately he had been drinking heavily. The other afternoon he purchased a revolver and deliberately killed a man named Bannon, the proprietor of a saloon, and George Martin, a tax-collector. Hinchy was arrested and is now in jail. He was very drunk when he committed the deed, and everybody thinks the act that of a drunk crazed man.

Before Hinchy got drunk he wrote a letter to Agnes Hinchy, Toronto. Mrs. Hinchy lives at 92 Gould street. Upon being seen in regard to the matter she stated that the family had heard through her brother, who is in Belleville, that Thomas had been arrested for shooting a man. He had always been a quiet, good-natured young fellow, and was not a hard drinker.

THE COUNCIL ACCEPTS THE KIELY-EVERETT TENDER

A meeting of the council was held yesterday afternoon, when the tender of Kiely-Everett was accepted by a vote of 24 to 11.

In view of this fact, there is sure to be further proceedings before the courts, either to quash a by-law, enjoin the mayor from signing the contract, or in some other way prevent the bargain from being carried out. The opponents of the Kiely-Everett syndicate are many and are possessed of dogged determination. They will doubtless be heard from again.

CENTRAL BANK ASSETS

When the committee of creditors of the Central Bank went before the Master-in-Ordinary to consider the question of the tenders, Liquidator Lee submitted an offer on his own behalf to pay a further dividend of 5 per cent. As this would be equal to an offer of $45,000 for the assets, or about $10,000 better than the tender submitted by Osler & Co. and 11,000 higher than that of Waddle & Jenkins, the Master held that a larger sum could be secured. It was therefore directed that further tenders be called for, to be received up to September 8.

THE KNIGHTS TEMPLARS.

The seventh annual meeting of the Sovereign Great Priory Knights Templars of Canada was commenced yesterday in the Masonic Hall. The Order was largely represented, the only one of the twenty-five Preceptories having delegates present, one hundred and nine being the total vote cast. The Grand Masters allocution dealt in detail with the progress the order had made during the past year, and he stated that the order had been making steady and substantial progress during that period. The election of officers then proceeded.

A VERDICT OF WILFUL MURDER.

Last week when the sad death of a child Handcock of Fairbank was made known to the public, the peculiar circumstances surrounding it were construed by some of the residents of the neighborhood to be evidence of foul play. That these suspicions were well founded is amply demonstrated by the outcome of the coroner's inquest into the cause of her decease, which was resumed last evening at York Hotel before Coroner Johnson. High Constable Jones and County Attorney Ridgeron were also present. After hearing the evidence of five witnesses, the jury retired at 10.45 and returned in 15 minutes with their verdict, which was to the effect that the unfortunate girl had been wilfully and feloniously murdered by a party or parties unknown.

TORONTO TOPICS IN FEW LINES.

An inquest was opened at the hospital yesterday afternoon by the Coroner Johnston on the remains of Sarah Brown, the old woman killed by a street car on Queen-street. Monday evening. It was adjourned till Friday evening.

The long-expected clearing house has materialized at last. It was opened yesterday in rooms over the Bank of British North America and the bankers are elated over the success attended it. The amount of money which passed through the clearing house was $1,118,000. The manager duties were discharged in about 30 minutes. All the moneys pass through the Bank of Montreal.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

A Former Torontonian in Trouble at Tacoma.

TACOMA, Wash., July 22.—Thomas Hinchy, a bricklayer, late of Toronto, Ont., has been jailed here on a charge of murder. In company with a man named Douglass he entered a saloon in Tacoma on the day of the murder and called up all in the barroom to drink. The proprietor, named Bannon, and a man named George Martin were among those in the saloon. As the drinks were being served Hinchy drew his revolver and fired at Bannon twice. The first shot missed, the second entered Bannon's head, killing him instantly. Then the pistol was turned upon Martin, who ran, pursued by Hinchy, who fired three shots, two taking effect. "My God! That man has killed me," cried Martin to a policeman. The policeman pursued and captured Hinchy and Douglass.

A Piece of a Knee Sawed Out.

WATERDOWN, July 22.—James Vance, a 14-year-old boy, employed in Ryckman's planing mill, met with an unfortunate accident yesterday which may maim him for life. He was on the table of a circular saw fixing the standard, and in getting down pressed his knee against the rapidly revolving saw. Before he could be pulled out of danger, his knee was gashed in a horrible manner, portions of the bone being cut completely out. The doctors will save the leg if they can, but their task will be exceedingly difficult.

Vance was the sole support of a widowed mother.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE DEBATE ON THE BUDGET DRAGS WEARILY ALONG.

The Proceedings in the Public Accounts and the Privileges and Elections Committees—The Evidence Taken Yesterday—Pointers From the Capital.

OTTAWA, July 22.—Speaker White took the chair at 3 o'clock.

The debate on the Budget was continued by Messrs. Flynan, Ross (Lisgar), Rider, Craig and Flint. Mr. White (Shelburne) moved the adjournment of the debate. House adjourned at 12.10 a.m.

THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE

Did Charlebois Demand Percentage From Many Sub-Contractors?

OTTAWA, July 22.—The Public Accounts Committee opened with another set-to yesterday. A few minutes prior to the meeting of the committee a number of messengers and officials arrived from the Interior Department and deposited in the committee room baskets of correspondence, checks and accounts, which, when measured, was about four feet high and three feet long.

It was agreed to go on with the new Departmental building, called the Langevin block.

The first witness called was Mr. Fenson of Toronto who had the contract of putting in the elevators. His tender was about $99,900. He explained that when he came to Ottawa to tender for the contract he was asked by Mr. Fuller to go and make arrangements with Mr. Charlebois, who had the contract for the main building, in respect to placing his elevators in the building. He did so, when Mr. Charlebois told him that he would have to pay him 25 per cent. on the contract price. The reason for levying this sum, Mr. Charlebois explained, was to make up his loss on the main contract, as it was intended that he should have the contracts for the whole building, but afterwards the sub-contracts were taken away from him. Mr. Charlebois also spoke of his having to put insurance on the building and keep a watchman there; besides, Mr. Fenson could have the use of his appliances. Mr. Fenson then added a few thousand, say two or three, to the amount he intended putting in for the contract. This was the first time that he (Fenson) ever had to pay any contractor to place elevators in a building. Mr. Charlebois got something like $9000.

Mr. Fuller, the chief architect of the building, was afterwards called. He knew nothing of this 25 per cent. demanded by Mr. Charlebois, and never heard of any contractor making a similar charge. There was a clause put in the general conditions of the tenders that arrangements would have to be made with Mr. Charlebois as to placing the elevators in the building. This was done owing to the department having so much trouble with Mr. Charlebois. As an instance of this trouble he showed that when Messrs. Carriere & Laney took the contract for the joists and came to place them in position Mr. Charlebois would not permit him to do so. The result was that this part of the work had to be given to Mr. Charlebois.

Additional papers were moved for and as the evidence in the Interior Department case was not printed, it was decided to go on with that on Thursday.

The Postoffice Department will come up on Thursday.

PRIVILEGES AND ELECTIONS.

What Was Done in the Tarte McGreevy Langevin Investigation.

OTTAWA, July 22.—At the Privileges and Elections Committee meeting yesterday Mr. Charles N. Armstrong was first sworn. He said he was a contractor for part of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway in 1886. Robert McGreevy was a shareholder. Witness bought $75,000 of Robert's share for $50,000 cash and $25,000 in bonds of the company. With this stock he bought some railway construction plant from Robert McGreevy, probably $30,000 worth, which was less than Robert represented it to be at first. Mr. Armstrong identified two letters written by himself to Mr. G. B. Burland, directing the latter to pay Mr. McGreevy three sums of $5000 each on this transaction. These payments were made out of Government subsidies drawn by witness as contractor. By his contract with the company he was entitled to half the stock of the company, and he bought Robert McGreevy's interest in order to have a controlling interest in the road.

Mr. Stuart he said that Robert McGreevy represented the plant sold to witness to be worth $75,000.

Martin P. Connolly was next called. He said he was in the employ of Larkin, Connolly & Co. since January 2, 1885. He then drew $600 a year. He was employed with the successors of the firm still at a salary of $1000 a year. The new firm was N. K. & M. Connolly at Quebec. He kept the private books of N. K. Connolly. He knew nothing of a boat called the "Baie des Chaleurs," belonging to Martin Connolly.

He recollected the change that took place in the management of the cash in 1887, when Mr. N. K. Connolly took control, instead of Mr. O. E. Murphy. Questioned as to the payment of $25,000 on March 27, 1887, he said that all of the $3000 checks included in this payment were not signed by N. K. Connolly. The first four were signed and made to the order of N. K. Connolly. He made the entries in the books at the order of the firm. But he did not remember who of the members gave him instructions to do so. The only discussion he remembered was between N. K. Connolly and O. E. Murphy with regard to the entry of $3000, making $27,000 out of the $25,000. There was no voucher for this $3000, but Mr. Murphy insisted on entering it went in at last. The books were audited and the item passed. Witness presented the books, showing the entries of the five checks of $3000, most of which were accounted for as having been disbursed on account of division.

Mr. Lister: What do you mean by division? Witness: I don't know.

Mr. Lister: Why did you put the word "division" there? Witness: I don't know.

Mr. Lister: Who gave you the orders to enter it in that way?—Witness: No one gave me orders.

Mr. Lister: What did you mean then by putting the word "division" there? you must have known what you were doing.

Witness: If I had to do it again I wouldn't put it there. [Laughter.] Finally he admitted that this amount was for "donations," probably to the church. [Laughter.]

Mr. Geoffrion asked an explanation of the Suspense accounts.

Mr. Connolly said he charged these to Suspense according to the wishes of the members of the firm. He could not remember what member of the firm were present when this form of entry was agreed on. It was first charged to the Esquimalt dock and afterwards charged to the Quebec Harbor Works at the instigation of the firm.

Before the sub-committee the witness said that he made one of the $5000 entries as he did on account of a conversation which he overheard, but he could tell nothing of the conversation, except that as a result of it $5000 was sent to Three Rivers, to whom he could not tell. All the checks which should throw lights on these disbursements were, he said, missing, go far as his memory was concerned, he could not say that this check of $3000, which went to Three Rivers, was paid during the elections. He never gave any explanation to Robert McGreevy or O. E. Murphy of any money paid to N. K. Connolly. Later on in his evidence the witness did not recollect that the $5000 which went to Three Rivers was, in his opinion, at the time for election purposes.

The committee met again in the afternoon. Martin P. Connolly was recalled and identified receipts of improper payments made by the firm to inspectors of the work to get them to send in wrong estimates of work done. One was signed by E. J. Milne, Nov. 22, 1883, for $1600, and the other by Joseph Richard, May 1, 1883, for $740. These were salaried inspectors in the employ of the Quebec Harbor Commission. Milne was employed as inspector until about a year ago and the payments to him continued. He was examined as to an entry in the cash book headed Point Levis, November, 1890, which indicated that $700 was paid some one. The name however, was erased and over the erasure was written the word "gratuity." Turning to ledger it was found that a heading had been obliterated and the word "gratuity" substituted. He did not remember when it was done or what was obliterated. He thought some man's name was there probably. (Laughter). It was more than a year since it was done though not two years.

Mr. Osler: "Why did you do it?"

Martin Connolly said it was evidently done to shield some one. He went over the whole of the books with a knife in one hand and made such erasures. He had no instructions to do so, and said that he did not know why he did it. The fact of the publication of these charges, he admitted, rendered this a work of necessity he took upon himself. On July 11, 1888, there was another entry Suspense account loan $30, to some one whose name was obliterated. He could not remember who this was, either. On Dec. 1, 1888, was an entry, N. K. Connolly, private use, $600, the words "private use" being written over an erasure, and on Dec 24, 1888, was a similar entry for $1900, the words "private use" being again written over an erasure. He could not remember what were the erased names but it was found that these items were charged to dredging in the ledger. He then remembered that the original words which were erased were "donations."

There were a number of other erasures which he was compelled to admit he had made because the entries indicated improper payment but he stoutly maintained that he had made them of his own mind and not under instructions from the firm. Some of the erasures he thought were names of the inspectors of works. There was an entry of May 4th, 1886, cash $1000 to N. K. Connolly with an erasure. After some pressing witness remembered that he had erased the letters Hon. P. M., representing Hon. Peter Mitchell. He explained that this transaction was legitimate and that the letters were erased by mistake. It referred to some Montreal Telegraph Stock which Hon. Peter Mitchell bought and represented the amount Connolly advanced Mr. Mitchell as his share of the profit.

To Mr. Davies witness declared most positively that he made these erasures alone without the knowledge or assistance of any one.

To Mr. Ouimet he said he discovered that the entries which were erased would injure the firm after Mr. Tarte made his charges against the firm, but he made the erasures on his own responsibility.

Mr. Geoffrion: Is it not a fact that the entry of $1000 of Aug. 3, 1887, was paid to O. E. Murphy to reimburse him for money he had given to Thomas McGreevy?—Witness I do not know.

To Mr. Tarte he gave a series of similar answers.

With regard to checks of $2000 entered as donations agreed, he was equally ignorant of the destination of this money. No one ever told him that Laforce Langevin got $5000, but he remembered Nicholas Connolly lending Laforce $630 to build a fire ladder, which has since become known as the Langevin fire ladder.

Mr. Tarte: Did you ever tell anyone where the $10,000 charged to Nicholas Connolly went?—Witness: I don't remember.

Mr. Tarte: As a matter of fact you don't remember telling O. E. Murphy and Robert McGreevy that the $10,000 went to Sir Hector Langevin or his son.—Witness: I don't remember anything of the kind.

Mr. Tarte: But still you remember overhearing the conversation which caused you to enter one $5000 as going to Three Rivers! —Yes, but I don't remember names of persons.

Sir Hector Langevin Breaks Silence.

OTTAWA, July 22—When the House adjourned last night I asked Sir Hector Langevin what were his intentions in view of the demands for his resignation. He replied that to judge a man upon the evidence of the prosecution was unheard of and that the testimony to be offered in his defence before the Tarte Committee would put an entirely different face on the matter. He added: "Depend upon it I have no intention of resigning and that I abide the finding of the committee with confidence."

A prominent lawyer in the case told me he expected the case would close Friday.

The Government and the Chinese.

OTTAWA, July 22.—The increase in Chinese immigration is causing the Government no little uneasiness, and it is not improbable that the tax of $50 a head will be increased in hope of lessening the inflow of Celestials. The receipts last month from this source at Vancouver, B. C., according to Government returns, amounted to $12,285, against $3,500 for corresponding month last year.

The Superintendent Back.

OTTAWA, July 22.—Mr. A. Seneal, Superintendent of the Government Printing Bureau, returned to the city yesterday. He was absent on sick leave.

A Mystifying Discovery.

TOBERMORAY, Ont., July 22.—A party of laborers from this place, while working on Horse Island, twenty miles from here, discovered the skeleton of a man enclosed in a rough wooden box lying about fifty feet from the shore. Appearances indicate him to have been of good circumstances, what little clothing left on him being of fine quality. The coroner has been notified and an inquest will probably be held.

British Midshipmen Missing.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 22. Midshipmen A. de Montmorency, D. C. Johnstone, T. A. H. Brown and R. Caldwell are missing from Her Majesty's steamer Warspite, and fears are hourly gaining strength that they have met with some serious accident. The officers of the Warspite are very much distressed and have very little hope.

GUESSING AT A MYSTERY.

Macdonald of Weldon Was Either Killed or Went to Scotland.

CHATHAM, July 22. Government Detective Murray's explanation with respect to the missing John Lamont Macdonald of Weldon is believed to be the correct explanation of the man's disappearance. Macdonald's money had been deposited at a branch of the Bank of Montreal and while in Chatham he withdrew the whole amount, a little short of $3000. Mr. Ryall, with whom the couple boarded while there, accompanying him for the purpose of identification. The cash was paid in $10 bills and Mr. Ryall assisted Macdonald to fasten the money in his inside pocket with pins. At the same time Macdonald threw out jocular hints about a trip to Scotland, where he said his mother had just died, and he certainly conveyed the impression to his hearers that a transatlantic journey was in early contemplation. Besides the cash he had in his possession a check for $500, and it will be remembered that he paid for the property which he bought at Weldon with such a check.

A curious reminiscence is that a resident in town last February told the police as well as several other parties, including Mr. Ryall and Cook, his bartender, that he knew a man with about $5000 on his person had been "knocked on the head" in the neighborhood of Ridgetown, and further, that he knew the exact spot where the body had been concealed—in fact said it was within 200 yards of the Ridgetown station. He even offered to drive to the place and prove his assertion, but no stock was taken in the story. The other day Chief Tompkins, with A. Skirving of the Chatham police force, spent a considerable time in searching the locality indicated by this individual, but the body is not yet found.

The inference of course is that Macdonald while in Chatham had seen reason to rue his matrimonial bargain and quietly dropped out of sight, but whether he went to Scotland or not is a question which yet awaits an answer.

Punished for Embezzlement.

SMITH'S FALLS, Ont., July 22.—The trial of J. L. Coleman, the agent of the Dominion Express Company here, took place at P— yesterday before Judge Sinclair. The prisoner pleaded guilty to embezzlement and was sentenced to two years' imprisonment at Kingston.

Sir Hector's Testimonial.

Thanks to an old file, we are able to supply the public with the names of some of the contributors to Sir Hector's testimonial, which, the writer of La Presse pamphlet says, cost the country at least $500,000. The late Mr. James Goodwin, an Ottawa contractor, subscribed $1,600. "He would not trust his subscription," said the Ottawa correspondent of the Globe at that time, "to the men who were getting up the testimonial, but sent two checks of $500 each to Sir Hector, payable to the Minister's order." Mr. Goodwin had a claim for $10,000 against the Public Works Department for extra work on the wall or fence in front of the public buildings. The chief architect of the department, Mr. Scott, had refused to recognize it, but Scott was superannuated and "soon after the testimonial had been presented to Sir Hector Mr. Goodwin received $5,374." Mr. H. J. Beemer, another contractor, is said to have subscribed $1,000. He had a claim for $16,000 for extras in connection with the Quebec city gates, and got $5,000 upon it. Mr. Dunsmuir, of British Columbia, also subscribed. "Who is Sir Hector Langevin?" he asked, when dunned for a subscription. "Minister of Public Works," was the reply, whereupon Mr. Dunsmuir put down his name for $1,000, and shortly afterwards obtained the contract for building the Nanaimo & Esquimalt railway. Mr. Alphonse Charlebois was another liberal subscriber. He had been denounced by Sir John Macdonald in Parliament as unfit to hold a Government contract. That was at the time a tender of his was passed over in favor of another persons; and after he had subscribed to the testimonial he obtained from Sir Hector the contract for the Langevin block, which is now said to have been an egregious job all through. The correspondent went on to state that Messrs. St. Louis Bros., contractors for the Montreal drill shed; Mr. Davis, contractor on the Lachine canal; Uncle Thomas McGreevy and two or three lumbermen interested in hydraulic privileges controlled by the department, were also amongst the contributors, together with "temporary and permanent clerks in Sir Hector's own department, who were plied with promises of promotion or threats of dismissal." Finally, it is shown by the testimony just taken at Ottawa that Larkin, Connolly & Co. subscribed $1,000 a few days after they had received the contract for the Cross Wall at Quebec. Commenting on the subject years ago Mr. Blake said, and his words read like prophecy:—

"Sir Hector has to do with the great bulk of the contracts for public works. He largely decides upon the conditions of tendering, advertises for tenders, determines which tender shall be accepted, determines whether the contractor has performed the work. He it is who gives the instructions for changes, who settles the bills for extras, which allow the greatest latitude for favourable or unfavourable settlement. He, I say, even above the others, ought to avoid, as a thing utterly abominable, any relations, except the direct business and official relations, with the contractors who have or may have business with his department. The testimonial he received was about $20,000, and it was largely subscribed by public contractors who had claims against the Government, or hopes or expectations whose realization depended almost wholly upon his favorable decision. Many of these claims have since been settled. What has happened? This has happened that many people suspect the Minister of Public Works of having been influenced in his decisions by the relation he allowed to exist between these contractors and himself as givers and recipient of a large and valuable present. It may or it may not have been so. No man can tell. We cannot judge. God knows. But the position is wholly indefensible. To no public man ought it to be possible to say:—With one hand you took from this man a testimonial, and with the other you settled his claim."

It was easy and natural, as La Presse writer observes, for the Minister to carry the testimonial principle a little further and induce the contractors to establish reptile funds and keep them replenished for the good of the party. All he had to do was to look favourably on their tenders, grant their claims, allow such alterations in the plans and prices and make such changes in the personnel of the local engineering staff as they might desire; and we know from the evidence that he did it. The case affords one more illustration of the old truth that in wrong doing it is the first step that costs.

He that once sins, like him that slides on ice,
Goes swiftly down the slippery ways of vice:
Tough conscience checks him, yet, those ruts gone o'er,
He slides on smoothly and looks back no more. Cato.

The Travelling Dairy.

A Meeting for the Benefit of East Simcoe Farmers.

COLDWATER, July 18.—A meeting of the travelling dairy was held in this village, which is about twenty miles northwest of Orillia. The country about here is in some parts rough and wooded, but the greater part of it, if cleared, would prove valuable land for cultivation. Crops look well on the improved farms, although a little backward owing to the dry season. Peas and fall wheat will give a good yield. Haying has just commenced and will be a fair crop for this season. The farmers until lately have given more attention to lumbering than to farming, hence some of their farms have been somewhat neglected, but, as the good lumber has become thinned out, they are devoting more time to farm work. This district is well suited to dairying, there being abundance of pure, cold water and rich, low lands, valuable for grazing and for growing fodder. There are a few dairymen about, some of whom get good prices for their butter in Toronto and other cities, but the great majority sell in Coldwater, getting about thirteen cents a pound, be the quality good or bad. It is the same here as in other places, the great quantity of poor butter in the market keeps the prices down. The meeting was fairly well attended considering that farmers are busy with their haying. Among those present were W. L. Lovering, chairman, R. Miller, secretary of the institute, Mr. and Mrs. Howell, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Russell, Mr. Beattie, Messrs. Sam and James Dunlop, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. David Millar, Luke Leatherdale, Mr. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan, John Leatherdale, Mr. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre, Mrs. Nelson, Mr. Jas. Rainey, Mr. and Mrs. Y. R. Gredrichs,

Mrs. McCaul, John Gray, jr., G. R. Vannest, Markham, and Dr. Harvey.

Prof. Dean spoke on the "Requisites for Good Butter Making." The dairyman, to make a success of his business, must (1) get the right person to run the dairy; (2) get the right cow, one with strong constitution and ability to apply her food to the production of milk.

(3) Milk the cow regularly. Brush the udder before milking, which will stimulate the flow of milk. Strain immediately after milking and set in deep cans in water at about 45°. Skim at the end of 12 hours, or if the water is at a higher temperature leave for 24 hours. Keep cream sweet till 24 hours before churning; then warm up to about 64° in summer, 65° to 70° in winter. When cream is well ripened cool down to about 58° in summer, 64° to 68° in winter, and churn. Wash butter in the churn, when in the granular state. Procure a lever butter washer if possible, and work the butter twice if it is to be kept any length of time. Use from half ounce to one ounce per pound, as the market demands. Pack well in tubs or crocks and cover with a salt plaster.

Q.—What causes white specks in butter? A.—Leaving the cream on the milk too long; allowing the cream to dry on the shallow pans, or not washing and working the buttermilk out sufficiently.

Q.—Should the foam be allowed to settle on the milk before straining? A.—No; strain immediately after milking, the foam will not materially affect the milk.

Q.—Why do you strain the cream when pouring in the churn? A.—To remove any impurities that may be present, or there may be some thick milk in the cream, which if allowed to remain would cause fermentation in the butter.

Q.—Do you like churns with a dasher inside? A.—No; I prefer a churn without dash and paddles on the inside, as they are apt to injure the grain of the butter.

Cream was kindly supplied by Mrs. David Millar, and it was raised in shallow pans and skimmed at the end of 24 hours. This was churned by Mr. Brown in about 25 minutes. As usual, when the butter "broke," some cold water was added. It was then churned until it became about the size of wheat grains, when the buttermilk was drawn off and about the same quantity of cold water added. As there was cream at first, after the churn was turned a few times this was drawn off and fresh water added, the churn turned again and the butter allowed to drain. The granular butter was then removed to the worker, salted at the rate of oz. to the pound, worked and made into prints. From 26 lbs. cream 9¾ lbs. butter was made.

Four samples of milk were brought for testing, three of new milk and one of skim milk. The skim milk from shallow pans, skimmed at the end of twelve hours, gave 1 per cent. of fat, indicating that over one pound of butter was left in every 100 pounds of the skim milk. The new milk was all of good quality, one sample from a breed owned by Mr. David Millar showing 4·3 per cent.

The tests showed:—(1) 4·2 per cent. of fat, (2) 1.0 per cent. (skim milk), (3) 4·0 per cent., (4) 4·3 per cent., (5) 0·4 per cent. (buttermilk), (6), 1.9 per cent. (No. 3 watered).

All those present at this meeting showed great interest in the proceeding, as usual asking many questions, which were answered as fully as possible.

Health, Happiness and Prosperity.

All these depend on pure blood, for with out it health is impossible; without health happiness is impossible, and without happiness prosperity is a mockery. No means of obtaining pure blood and removing bad blood excels the use of B B B, the best blood purifier known.

NO ONE knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation and disordered stomach. dw

Imperial Federation.

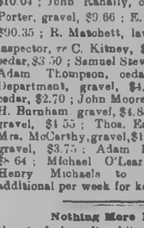
A Fact

WORTH knowing is that blood diseases which all other remedies fail to cure, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla.



Fresh confirmation of this statement comes to hand daily. Even such deep-seated and stubborn complaints as Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout, and the like, are thoroughly eradicated by the use of this wonderful alterative.

Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th street, New York, certifies:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months. I am pleased to say that it effected a complete cure, and that I have since had no return of the disease."

"Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H., writes: "One year ago I was taken ill with rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."

"I have taken a great deal of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I felt its beneficial effects before I had quite finished one bottle, and I can freely testify that it is the best blood-medicine I know of."—L. W. Ward, Sr., Woodland, Texas.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hora, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston Ont.,) Daily British Whig, June 27th, 1891.

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

The Grand Trunk System.

The Grand Trunk system differs from the human system in that the same troubles do not affect it and the same remedies are not needed. For all diseases of the human system their is no tonic purifier, renovator and strengthener as good as Burdock Blood Bitters. A weak system can be built up by B.B.B.

Enrich the blood by the use of Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine, which supplies the necessary blood-building material. dw

A Nationalist Plan.

A proposal, which would obtain favor with even the opponents of Nationalism, contemplates the placing of a supply sufficient for each family of nature's great dyspepsia specific and blood purifier, B.B.B., in every home in the land. The benefits of such a boon to the people would be incalculable.

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. dw

HOW TO MANAGE A CANOE.

The bowman makes the same stroke as the steersman, except that there is no twist in it, as he has nothing to do with keeping the course of the canoe. Whatever you do, don't lean over the side toward the paddle. The only motion of the body must be fore and aft, throwing the weight into the end of each stroke.

In poling a canoe up rocky streams, through rapids, a "setting pole" of spruce is used. This should be about ten feet long, and about an inch and a half in diameter at the thickest part. Poling is very hard to learn, but when once the art is acquired it is a delightful exercise. You may pole, as you may paddle, on either side. If it is to be the left side again, where we began our lesson, stand erect in your place in the stern, facing almost square out over the left gunwale. Take the pole in your left hand about four feet from the top, thumb to the front and clasped about it, allowing the lower end of the pole to trail overboard toward the stern; raise the left arm and swing the lower end of the pole forward and out over the water to bring it in a curve up to a point a few inches from the side a couple of feet ahead of where you stand, at the same time grasping the pole with the right hand about a foot below, the left, the right hand now does the business of driving the pole down to a firm setting on the bottom, the left hand sliding up for a new hold near the top of the pole; next the right hand is shifted above the left and the weight of the body thrown on the bending white spruce, while the canoe trembles and springs ahead up the steep foaming track. To steer her is difficult, if you wish to go to the right the end of the pole must be set well under the bottom of the canoe, and you must draw yourself and the stern of the canoe toward the pole as you give the last push, to alter the course to the left, the pole will be set sloping down from the canoe, some little distance from the side, and you will push the stern away from the point where the pole is set, thus driving your bow in the desired direction.

If an accident occurs in the rapids, and your canoe needs repairs, a very bad sight in the bark may have to be sewed up with small spruce roots soaked until they are pliable. Usually a few tacks driven in from the outside, fastening the bark to the ribs, will suffice. If the break is more serious it may be repaired as follows: Take out the ribs of the canoe for a foot on each side of the break by knocking them aft toward the centre of the canoe, then raise the thin cedar slats and take a few stitches through the bark with your spruce roots. Make these stitches an inch or an inch and a half long. Replace the ribs and drive them well home.

STOLE DOWN IN THE NIGHT.

The Chilian Insurgent Fleet Steals on Coquimbe Under Cover of Darkness.

NEW YORK, July 21. A special from Coquimbo, Chili, dated 19th, says: We awoke this morning to learn exciting news, that four of the insurgent fleet, viz., the Esmeralda, the Cochrane, the Amazone and the Acongua were outside Coquimbo Bay. They had stolen down under cover of night from Huasco, a hundred miles to the north of this port, where we had been given to understand the land forces of the congressional party have been massing for the past ten days or two weeks in the movement now being made upon Balmaceda's territory by the leaders of the Junta. The insurgent vessels have evidently come prepared to do mischief. An attack upon this town is hourly expected. The insurgent plan seems to be to make a hot sea siege on Coquimbo and while the Balmaceda forces are all intent upon repelling the warships, the army of the Junta will advance upon the town as quickly as possible. In this combined attack by land and sea they hope to force the Government troops from this important seaport. It would be a great point gained if the congressional party should capture it. It has smelting works, carries on a big trade in copper and ores, and is besides considerable of a cattle market for Peru and the North. Balmaceda's officers are alive to the seriousness of the situation. The streets are filled with soldiers in motion. Every native who can carry a firearm is being pressed into the Government service.

A Fainting Witness.

Mr. O. E. Murphy, who, on July 6, before the Privileges and Election Committee, was subjected to the most severe, complete and searching cross-examination by Mr. B. B. Osler ever conducted in Canada, furnished a most sensational episode in the proceedings. He was shown an entry on the last page of his diary of 1890, and asked if it was in his handwriting. Witness was dumb, and only answered when peremptorily ordered. He said it was his writing.

O. E. MURPHY.

Mr. Osler then read the entry as follows:

South wall sewer has been raised from original specification 2 ft. 9 in. without my permission.

Mr. Osler resumed his severe cross-examination, and witness reached over and took a glass of water. A moment later he paused in the middle of an answer, staggered, and would have fallen had he not been caught by the chairman and counsel. He sat in the chairman's seat and speedily recovered consciousness.

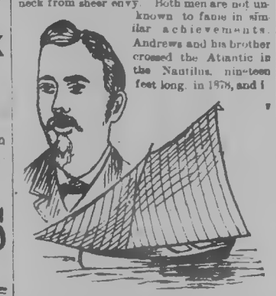
Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria!

TO RACE ACROSS THE SEA

Capts. Lawler and Andrews Off on Their Daring Cruise.

Two daring and ingenious notoriety seekers of the Bay state, Capt. William A. Andrews and Capt. Josiah W. Lawler, started from Ocean pier, Crescent beach, near Boston, June 21, on the most perilous and reckless ocean race in history.

The rival captains are to cross the briny deep to Land's End, England, in mere cockle shells of boats, and the man who first puts foot on British soil at the point named will win $5,000, a silver cup, and notoriety enough to make Steve Brodie jump off the Brooklyn Bridge with a millstone round his neck from sheer envy. Both men are not unknown to fame in similar achievements. Andrews and his brother crossed the Atlantic in the Nautilus, nineteen feet long, in 1878, and i



CAPT. LAWLER AND THE SEA SERPENT.

1888 Andrews alone endeavored to repeat the feat in the fifteen-foot Dark Secret. He sailed half way across the Atlantic, his little boat became water-logged and he returned to New York.

Capt. Lawler, too, has led a most adventurous life. He has several times narrowly escaped the sea's jaws, and in 1880 he sailed the thirty-foot yacht Neversink from New York to France. His yacht was stolen, but he followed it to the Isle of Wight, recaptured her, and had her stolen from him again at Portsmouth. He mopped the deck with the five thieves, was jailed for four months, and finally released by the United States consul.

These dreadnaught skippers have now attempted a feat that breaks all previous records. Andrews' boat is the Mermaid, total length 15 feet, keel length 12 feet, width 5 feet, depth 2 feet, draught 1 foot. She is a flat-bottomed centreboard craft, built of white cedar, with oak ribs, and she has no air-tight compartments or cork linings. Lawler's boat is the Sea Serpent. Her dimensions are about the same as the Mermaid's, but she is a double ender of cedar and oak, and has two metal air-tight compartments.

In passing steamers on the way across the ocean Andrews will burn red fire, while Lawler's presence will be indicated by green. Andrews is experienced and Lawler eleven years younger. While the race is a foolhardy one, it has its value from a nautical standpoint, and the general public as well as all the flattered sea-serpents and mermaids between Cape Cod and Land's End will be pleased to hear that the hardy mariners have safely braved the deep.

The Secret of his Wealth.

A millionaire said "the secret of my wealth" is in the word S-A-V-E; and the secret of my health is in the word S-A-G-E. By this last he meant Dr. Sage, whose Catarrh Remedy cured him of one of the worst cases of Catarrh, and thereby saved him from much suffering and premature death, enabling him to make his millions and enjoy life. The cures made by this medicine are simply wonderful. o

Across the Continent.

Wm. Renwick, M.D., M.R.C.S.E., Victoria, B. C., writes:—I have used Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in cases of indigent patients with the most gratifying results. It does not upset the stomach, is easily assimilated and possesses undoubted power in rebuilding weakened constitutions, where the ordinary form of administering Cod Liver Oil is not admissable. For the future, whenever I have occasion to prescribe any preparation of Cod Liver Oil, I will give Miller's Emulsion the preference, being perfectly satisfied with its therapeutic efficacy. What's the Reason?

The causes of summer complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera morbus, etc., are the excessive heat, eating green fruit, over-exertion, impure water and sudden chill. Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is an infallible and prompt cure for all bowel complaints from whatever cause.

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1. dw

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—109 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J. Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

Christian Endeavor Convention.

Held at Minneapolis, July Ninth to the Twelfth—Mr. Coleville Supplies the Following Notes of the Committee in Attendance on the Above Date.

The convention was opened on Thursday afternoon, July 9th, by singing that grand old gospel hymn, "All hail the power of Jesus name." The founder of the Endeavor movement and president of the united society Rev. F. E. Clark, D.D., presiding. The meetings were held in the Exposition building which was arranged to seat 12,000. The singing was led by a combined choir of 1,000 voices under the leadership of Mr. Lewis Lindsay, St. Louis, and Mr. Ira D. Sankey, the world wide known sacred soloist added much to the success of the service of song by his sweet and consecrated voice which has been so blest of God throughout the world in leading men to Christ. Addresses of welcome were given by Mr. Daniels, chairman of the committee of 91, Rev. Dr. French for the pastors of Minneapolis, Rev. D. Christie for the pastors of the twin city, St. Paul, and Mr. John H. Elliott, general secretary, Minneapolis, on behalf of the Y M C A; these were all apt timely and all breathed the true spirit of good fellowship and were received with true endeavor appliause and were replied to by Rev. Dr. Wells, Montreal, Que., who made a characteristic reply which captured the vast audience and gave Canada a foremost place in the hearts of 12,000 Endeavorers present. The evening service was opened with a praise service at 7 p.m., Rev. Dr. Tiffany, Minneapolis, presiding, Mr. J. W. Baer, general secretary of the United Society, then gave his report of the work for the past year. It would take too much of your valuable space to give this delightful and stimulating address, and will only give a few facts and figures. There is now 16,274 societies with a membership of 108,980, against 11,013 societies and 660,000 members last year, a gain of over 5 000 societies and 4,600 members since last year. The growth has been marvellous and truly we could sing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," and best of all 82,500 associate members have been transferred to the active membership. The Christian Endeavor movement has a house and place in almost every land in the known known world. Over 30 denominations are represented. The Presbyterians leading in number of society's followed by the Congregationalists, then the Baptists and Methodists close behind and so on. Mr. Baer closed his report with the following

SUMMING UP OF THE TEN YEAR'S WORK.

A strong grasp upon evangelical evangelistic gospel truth and a common longing for the power of the Holy spirit to make effectual all forms of organized effort in the Christian endeavor to win the whole world for Christ. Rev. Father Endeavor Clark, by which the vast Endeavor army delight to call an honored President, followed with a powerful, convincing speech. Productive of great applause was the address of the founder of the society, on Fidelity and Fellowship; he emphasized that Christian Endeavor stood strongly and firmly for loyality to the local church; and denominational fidelity and Christian Endeavor stood for fellowship among the various denominations as set forth in our Motto for "Christ and the Church" and "one is your Master and we Christs and all we are brethren" the address was worthy of the man of the occasion of this grand movement. Owing to the illness of Bishop Vincent, Buffalo he was unable to preach the convention sermon and Rev. Dr. Tiffany, Minneapolis took his place and preached a eloquent and practical sermon on Christian union from Jno. 17-21, "That they all may be one as Thou Father art in me and I in thee that they also may be one in us"

The sessions of the next day was opened with an early morning prayer meeting at 6:30 a.m. which was led by Mr. Wm. Shaw, Boston and attended by about 1,500 Endeavorer's. Friday was "Decennial Day" the topic being the society in the church. Stirring addresses were given by Rev's. Dr. Higman, St. Paul, Dr. Dille, Oakland's Cal., Dr. Worden, Philadelphia interspersed with fervent prayers, spirited singing and utmost enthusiasm, in the afternoon helpful and encouraging reports were given on the society as a "Soul Winner" and short impressive addresses were given by Rev's Dr. Tyler, Cincinnati, Ohio, Rev. Wm. Sleeper, Stoneham, Mass, and Mr. W. H H Smith, Washington, D.C., special prominence was given to the work among the junior society's.

Rev. Dr. Dickson spoke briefly on the "English Campaign" and the afternoon session was closed by a effective gospel missionary address by the noted evangelist Dr. Munhall. At the evening session rousing and convincing addresses were given on "Heroin in common life" by Rev. Dr. McPherson, Chicago, and on "a revival of generosity" by Rev. J. J. Lansing, Worcester, Mass.

At the close of the addresses the next place of meeting was announced by Rev. Dr. Barrows, Chicago, on behalf of the trustees, New York getting it for 1892 and Montreal in 1893. As the announcement was made a terrific thunderstorm broke over the city. The rain began to to fall in torrents on the roof, the thunder roared, the lightning flashed; the electric lights went out, and the entire concourse of over 12,000 people sat in darkness for the space of five minutes. There was no excitement whatever, and that vast audience sat and sang heartily onto God the familiar hymn "Blest be the Tie that Binds." It was a time never to be forgotten. Rev. Dr. Wells, Montreal, was asked to reply for Montreal's disappointment in not getting the convention for '92, which he did in his own taking way, remarking that even the heavens sympathised with Canada at this time.

On Saturday morning the prayer meeting at 6:30 am., was attended by about 2000, which was led by Miss Grace Livingstone, Florida.

Saturday morning session was given up to the theme,

THE WORLD-WIDE MOVEMENT,

when brief reports were given by representatives from each state, province and territory. Cablegrams were read from Japan, Cuba, Australia; Africa had a representative present, and he received a great ovation. This was followed by the Pastors' Hour, when leading pastors of all denominations bore testimony as to the benefit the Christian Endeavor Society was to their churches and to themselves. Rev. A. A. Fulton, Canton, China, closed the morning session with a stirring missionary address.

Saturday afternoon was given up to the convention excursion to Lake Minnetonka, forty miles from the city where the afternoon was spent in delightful fellowship. Over 5,000 attended and enjoyed themselves most heartily.

On Saturday evening fellowship was the topic, and stirring addresses were given by Rev. William Patterson, Toronto, on International fellowship, and President Andrews, of Brown University, Spokane, on inter-denominational fellowship. The committee on resolutions reported, returning thanks to all who had made the convention of 91 such a grand success. At this session the prize banners were presented to Oklahoma for the greatest increase during the year, and Pennsylvania secured the other for the greatest numerical gain.

The last and best day of the convention was opened at 8:30 by an inductive Bible study by Prof. W. R. Harper, Chicago, which awakened great interest in the vast audiences present. After a season of prayer for blessing on the church services, the morning session closed. At the afternoon session powerful addresses were given by Mr. A. A Stagg, on the "Young Man at Work"; Miss Leitch, of Ceylon, on the "Young Woman at Work"; Mrs. Scudder, New Jersey, on the "Child at Work"; Mr. John Wooley, Boston, on "Gospel Temperance." The evening session closed the convention with impressive addresses on "Enthusiasm," by Bishop Gilbert, of the Episcopal Church, Minneapolis, and on "Power for Service," by Rev. Dr. Chapman, Philadelphia, who also led the consecration service. Words fail to describe this meeting, but all felt it to be a pentecostal season of blessing, and the tenth International Convention was closed by all present repeating the Mizpah benediction. An overflow meeting was held outside for the thousands unable to gain admittance. The solo singing of Ira D. Sankey added much to the power and blessing that was so manifested in the services. Canada had about 100 delegates present—every province was represented, and the Canadians received marked attention from the brethren across the line.

Dr. Davies announces an organ recital at St. John's Church to-morrow evening. The programme will be published in to-morrow's edition of the EXAMINER in extenso. Mr. Alexander, of the Edison Company, is one of the latest arrivals.

The fishing is good. A lady landed a fifteen pounder yesterday.

The Institute Building.

It will be remembered that at the meeting of the School Board on Monday night, the tender of Mr. H. Carveth for the addition to the Central School building was accepted. Mr. Carveth thinks that the time given for the completion of the buildings is to short too do justice to the work, and prefers not to commit himself to finish the buildings in that time. Consequently a special meeting of the board will be held at which Mr. Carveth will be present and an effort will be made to come to some arrangement in reference to the matter.

Scared by a Bicycle.

Mr. John Dobbin, of North Monaghan, had a narrow escape from receiving serious injury last night. While conversing with a friend on Aylmer street his horse, a skittish young colt, was frightened by a bicycle which whirled by, and bolted so suddenly that Mr. Dobbin could not control it. He would have been thrown out and probably badly injured if his friend had not jumped to the rescue and caught the colt's head. Mr. Dobbin feels that bicyclists are not careful enough in riding the streets to make their approach known.

The Pioneer of Our Lake Dwellers.

Mr. W. H. Clarton went up last night to take possession of his lodge on Pigeon Lake for the season. Mr. Clarton's going is of more than passing interest. He is the pioneer of summer dwellers in the northern waters. Twenty years ago, when almost everybody scouted the idea of our northern waters ever becoming fit places to spend the summer in, he built his lodge on the beautiful shore of Pigeon Lake. But time has wonderfully vindicated Mr. Clarton's foresight. Instead of his being the only cottage in that region, as it was a few years ago, the whole stretch of our northern waters is a summer city, and on every island and point of vantage the visitor can see by the smoke that so gracefully curls above the green cedars, at the hushed and hungry hour of hash, that some cottage is near; or the white gleam of tents in like profusion shows that the aquatic Arab has pitched his canvas for a more or less protracted sojourn. The whole region is alive—the air, with the prod-igal mosquito, the waters with the mighty muskinonge, the robust and gamey bass, the sportive sunfish, and last, but not least, the super-succulent sucker, and the islands points, peninsulas, promontories and shores, with flannel-clad campers and tourists. It is not too high an estimate to say that the summer population of our lakes, more or less permanent, amounts to at least fifteen hundred souls.

Lacrosse.

The Port Hope Times the other day stated that the "Peterborough Lacrosse Club will not accept a challenge at present. This club is evidently laying low for Port Hope, and will no doubt meet them later in the season, when they have had more practice, and will try hard to wipe out their recent defeat. The secretary of the Ontarios will be pleased to hear from them as soon as they are ready for a match." The foregoing implies the mean and utterly baseless insinuation that the Peterborough club was afraid to meet the Ontarios, and had actually declined a challenge. The facts are that Port Hope owes Peterborough a return match and had arranged to play here on the 10th of July, but failed to carry out their agreement—probably because their expected reinforcements had not arrived. On Saturday last they telephoned for a game here on Monday, but of course could not be accomm dated on such short notice. It was unreasonable for any club to expect another to play under such conditions, but the Port Hopers were anxious for the game just then because they had Lewis and several Cornwall men with them, who had played in the Bowmanville-Port Hope game the day before and would stay over Monday if a game could be arranged with Peterborough. Such tactics are not creditable to Port Hope, and insult is added to injury by the flamboyant announcement in the Times that the Peterboroughs were "flunkers." They are nothing of the sort, and are ready to meet the Ontarios upon fair terms, and a field that is not a cropped meadow. Our boys are confident they can beat the Ontarios here, so if the latter feel quite as vainglorious as the newspaper clipping makes out, let them lose no time in redeeming their promise of a return match; and let the Times publish these statements if it wishes to see fair play done.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine makes the weak strong." Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGGS, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

The Building Boom.

Mr. J. J. Hartley is one of the busiest contractors in this busy building season. His latest jobs have been the erection of the Porcelain works building for the Brooks Manufacturing Co., and the improvements to Mr. Anson Cartwright's residence in Dorro township. The latter was considerably altered and modern improvements introduced, took pointed on the outside and an addition 16 x 30 feet built to the residence. The brick work of the Porcelain works was finished to-day. The building is 150 x 64 feet in dimensions, with two large kilns, each of which took nearly fifty thousand bricks to build. The building will be ready for occupation in a couple of weeks.

A Hern Wanted

A member of the Blackstock Band writes to the Chief of Police asking him to look out for a lad with an alto horn that he has no right to. It appears that on the evening of the 13th July, at the railway station, a member of the band gave a boy his (the bandman's) horn to hold while he (the bandsman), presumably, was in search of another kind of horn. However, the player had to leave without getting his horn, and the boy has a horn to spare. The Chief of Police, who has the boys' name, would prefer to have the lad voluntarily leave the horn at the Police station, to having to send a policeman with a warrant for it. Doubtless he does not know to whom the horn belongs, and is not to blame for keeping it, except after he sees this notice, when the further retention of the horn becomes theft.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his forehead to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and on all places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and had them when he was taken up; and to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, or he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We knew your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SESSION LIKELY TO LAST FOUR WEEKS LONGER.

The Evidence Adduced in Committee of Privileges and Elections—Clerk Connolly Continues His Story of the Manufactured Books. Mr. Riopel's Testimony.

OTTAWA, July 23. Mr. Lister presented to the House yesterday a petition signed by 15,000 grangers, praying that binding twine in bond and salt be placed on the free list.

Sir Hector Langevin moved that for the rest of the session Mondays be given over to Government, thus taking from members the only day they have left for private legislation.

Mr Laurier said that it was not usual to make such a motion until the end of the session was in sight, but it now seemed that the session could last at least four weeks. He therefore thought the motion premature.

Sir Hector agreed and withdrew the motion.

Mr Tupper introduced a bill respecting the inspection of ships to give the officers of the Department of Marine additional powers regarding the tackle. Carried.

PRIVILEGES AND ELECTIONS.

Clerk Connolly Continues His Story of the Erasures From the Books.

OTTAWA, July 23. Letters written by Hon. Thomas McGreevy to Mr. Julien Chabot were read to the Privileges and Elections Committee at the commencement of the session of that body yesterday. In these letters it was sought to prove that McGreevy was the real owner of the steamer Admiral. One of the letters conveyed a power of attorney from Thomas McGreevy to Julien Chabot as manager of the steamer Admiral. Among the letters connected with the notes made by Julien Chabot in reference to his management of the boat, evidently being a series of questions to his lawyer on the subject of his responsibility to Thomas McGreevy.

Mr. Geoffrion said he did not wish to have these f[illegible] before the committee as they were of a private nature, and he Geoffrion considered that he had made out his case without them.

Mr. Martin P. Connolly the bookkeeper of Larkin, Connolly & Co., was again called. He said he had not yet gone through the books to find out how many erasures were made in them. He had not time to do so. He did a good day's work yesterday. He knew of no other inspectors who were bribed except those named yesterday. Germain Brunell and Pelletier the last-named is a nephew of Sir Adolphe Caron. The returns of work done or alleged to be done and made by the captains were destroyed. The receipts from the bribed inspectors were destroyed about the same time as the erasures were made in the books. One of the receipts destroyed about two months ago was to an Collector, and witness thought it was for $50 or $100 a bribe. Examined as to the division of $5,000, which was made among the members of the firm after the completion of the Esquimalt graving dock, witness said that he could not explain the fact that each partner received $400 less than his shares of the original amount to be divided.

Mr. Geoffrion here produced an entry which was partly erased. The erasure was not completed, however, and Mr Geoffrion read "Paid to M Connolly for ——." The witness said this attempted erasure was made after the "passer" passed out of his hands, and he knew nothing about it.

Mr Geoffrion questioned the witness as to the following entry:

"Quebec, March 5, 1886. Esquimalt dock ... to Michael Connolly, $300 a month paid from private funds, as agreed."

In answer to Mr. Hector Cameron the witness said that Captain Larkin knew nothing of the donations which appeared in the books. Witness remembered that a warm discussion passed between Mr. Murphy and Mr. Kimmett in connection with these "donations." Mr Murphy then objected to the notes showing payment of these "donations." They are the notes now before the committee. Capt Larkin took an active part in the management of the company's affairs in Jan 1, 1885.

Mr. L. J. Riopel was next called. He said he lived a portion of his time in Quebec and he was managing director of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway for four years, but had no charge of the books and papers of the company. He had, however, seen an agreement between himself, C. N. Armstrong, Robert McGreevy, Hon. Thomas McGreevy and Hon. T. Robitaille, president of the company. He was not the custodian of the document. He gave it to Robert McGreevy, but he had a memorandum of the document by which he remembered that the agreement was signed in the lower room of the parliament buildings at Ottawa, and was to the effect that the McGreevys transferred all their interests to Mr Armstrong in consideration of a payment of $4000 cash by Armstrong and $2,000 in bonds of the company. Hon. T. Robitaille and witness signed individually as guarantors that the bargain would be carried out. Thomas McGreevy had subscribed $20,000 in stock as well as witness could remember. The two brothers he was sure had subscribed $5,000. Ten per cent. of this was paid in notes. Mr Thomas McGreevy attended meetings of the company in 1883, 1884 and 1885. The 10 per cent. notes subscribed by Thomas McGreevy were paid by Hon. Thomas Robitaille and the witnesses in checks drawn by the Baie des Chaleurs company, on Mr. Taillon, broker of Sorel, in favor of witness and Hon. T. Robitaille. That is to say, the subscriptions of Hon. Thomas McGreevy were paid by witness and Hon. T. Robitaille. The directors were Louis Robitaille, Octave Martin, the two McGreevys, Hon. T. Robitaille, G. Riopel, witness and Francois Giroux.

Mr Geoffrion: Is it not a fact that Thomas McGreevy did not pay a cent for his stock.

Mr. Riopel: Well Thomas McGreevy was doing work for the company and had served them in many ways, but his claim was not allowed for payment of his stock. Witness showed that the only financial basis of the road was the large subsidies received from Parliament and secured by himself, who was a member; Thomas McGreevy, who was another, and Robitaille, who was a senator.

The examination of Mr. Riopel regarding the Baie des Chaleurs Railway deal was continued in the afternoon. Mr. Lister took him in hand. It appeared that the claim which Riopel and Senator Robitaille held against the company amounted to $30,000, the exact amount of the paid up stock of the company. As a matter of fact the directors of the company never paid a cent in cash on the stock for which they subscribed. The Dominion subsidies for the road amounted to $6000 per mile and the provincial subsidies to $3,200 a mile. The six original directors, except Robert McGreevy sold out to a Montreal syndicate all their interest and claims [illegible] in May last. There were other sales or orders than the above, and all part of their stock in the same way he understood. Robert McGreevy was then recalled. He said he became interested in the Quebec Harbor works in July or September, 1882. He took a deal the terms of partnership for the existing contract for '82, from which it appeared he was to contribute 30 per cent of the capital, but as a matter of fact he never put in any capital. His brother, Thomas McGreevy, knew he was going into the contract because before closing the contract he said that he (Robert) had better see Sir Hector Langevin as to whether he should go in or not, Sir Hector told him he did not see why he Robert should not go into the contract as well as anyone else. Some weeks after signing the contract he told his brother the proportion he held in the partnership. He corroborated Murphy's story of the way in which begins tenders were put in under the names of Beaucage and Gallagher and they were got rid of and the contract given to Larkin, Connolly & Co. The firm got the cross wall contract in 1885. His interest in the work was also 30 per cent. He again got Beaucage to allow the use of his name and sent in a tender in that name. Thomas McGreevy was aware of the interest he held in this contract and was also aware of the use made of Beaucage's name because he spoke about it. Before the tenders were awarded he met his brother in Montreal by appointment. His brother gave him the quantities supplied by Mr. Boyd, the Government engineer, to the schedules of prices in the tenders, the prices of Peter's tender, and afterwards sent him a paper giving certain information about the sheet piling. It was by this information that the tenders which were lower than that of Larkin, Connolly & Co., were got rid of.

Robert McGreevy's evidence so far corroborated every one of Murphy's statements and showed that his brother Thomas knew all about his interest in the different tenders, notwithstanding the Connolly's evidence to the contrary.

Notes From the Lobbies.

Mr. Hugh John Macdonald said yesterday that the amount of C.P.R. stock included in the will of Sir John A. Macdonald was 122 shares purchased in the open market in less at a various prices. They were valued at $82 a share. The value of the stock therefore was $10,000.

An order-in-council has been issued strictly prohibiting all clerks in the interior Indian affairs and Esquimalt Departments from going out for a dinner hour in future. The clerks in Customs Department have been notified that they will be the subjects of a similar order in a few days. It has been also been decided that extra clerks shall not be allowed holidays in future and that their pay shall be docked for every day they are absent.

MURDER IN WEST YORK.

MISS HANDCOCK'S DEATH COULD NOT HAVE BEEN ACCIDENTAL.

The Emphatic Testimony of the Doctor—The Theory of the Prosecution—No Motive for the Crime Apparent—A Searching Investigation to be Instituted.

TORONTO, July 23.

EVER since the body of George Innocent, a butcher, was found lying at the foot of Wall's Hill, near Hilton's Corners, on the Vaughan plank road has a tragedy occurred in York Township which has caused so much excitement as the mystery surrounding the tragic death of Sophia Handcock in her father's store at Fairbank, a little village of 200 inhabitants tucked away among the West York hills, five miles northwest of this city. Few strangers stroll along the third concession, and hitherto there has been nothing to invest lot 31 with unusual interest should the casual visitor have dropped into the store which is built upon it. It is an ideal country general store, where everything from bacon to overalls can be purchased. A hundred similar stores in a hundred similar villages have as little outward claim to attention. Yet within the portal of that unpretentious frame structure on the York and Vaughan road a young girl in the first years of early womanhood was, in the opinion of a coroner's jury and many other villagers familiar with the facts, murdered as foully as any victim of man's ruthless villainy in this world.

It is not a story beginning with the old chapter of a beautiful girl's folly, for the victim had no male friends. She was reserved even to taciturnness, and as one of the swells of the village put it "the boys did not seem to take to Sophie nor she to them."

The slayer of Butcher Innocent, who was singularly enough likewise found with his skull crushed in and who lived several hours, had a motive. The murdered man's pockets had been rifled of $2000. But a motive for the murder of Sophie Handcock has not as yet been clearly shown, and whether the assassin will ever be unravelled must be left to fate—that fate which stalks after the taker of human life by day and night, with the motto "Murder will out."

It is to be hoped, however, that the same injudicious haste in selecting a victim to appease the public demand for the arrest of someone will not be manifested in this instance as characterized the attempt to convict some person of having murdered Innocent. When the body was found, a button torn from the shirt of his assailant was found in his clenched hand. Next day as John Macdonald was hoeing corn in a neighbor's field it was noticed that a button was missing from the shirt he had on. This circumstance was accepted as testimony strong as holy writ that his hand it was that had writ bloody murder across York's escutcheon and he was taken into custody. Months elasped before he was acquitted, and meantime he had eaten of the insane root that takes the reason prisoner. His friends had the satisfaction of knowing that he had been pronounced innocent by a judge and jury, but extremity of grief had made him mad. Four or five years later the actual murderer confessed, but not until the King of Terrors was in sight, and his guilty soul was next day ushered before a higher tribunal for judgment.

THE MURDERED GIRL.

Honest, Hardworking, but Very Reserved for Her Years.

Sophia Handcock, the victim, was 22 years of age, 5 feet 2 inches in height and of dark complexion.

Her father 16 years ago, settled the Seaton Village and all that time has officiated as post master. He has had 14 children, four of whom preceded Sophia across the river, the remainder are all respectable residents of the district. Thirteen months ago Handcock and his wife removed to Fairbanks and started a branch store. Sophia accompanied them and took charge of the store, Handcock and his wife at all times accessoning in her judgment in the management of affairs. In fact the mother was away a good part of the time waiting upon her married daughters. Miss Handcock was a member of the Methodist Church and of the Presbyterian Bible class. She was noncommunicative to a degree and cautious in her intercourse with people. She had no intimate friends outside her own relatives and few acquaintances in the village. The theory that she was murdered by a rejected suitor, even did the circumstances warrant such a hypothesis, may be dismissed as absurd. Equally is it unlikely that she was killed by a thief, since no one was seen in the locality by Constable John Todd, who had an uninterrupted view of the premises all the time she is said to have been alone in the shop, and nothing on the premises had been disturbed, her father says. What, then, was the motive—if motive existed?

The first intelligence the villagers had of the tragedy was at 10:30 on Thursday morning when Edward Handcock, his hands covered with blood as far as the sleeves, rushed from the store and called out to two neighbors, Mrs. Ann Deacon and Mrs. Mary Ann O'Brien that his daughter, Sophie, was lying on the floor with her head crushed. They found her outstretched on the floor, face downward, her night-black hair, which was the young woman's pride coiled half way down the back to king the dark-red in contrast with the awful stains of arterial blood which clotted it. The body lay in the dining-room immediately behind the shop, with the head to the south about eight feet south of a trap-door in the shop leading to the cellar. The door was shut down and upon it rested a tub partially filled with butter. A rug partially rolled up lay about nine inches from the wounded girl's feet. Between where the body lay and the trap-door was a clot of blood. One of the first of those in attendance, Isaac Doherty, expressing the conviction that these blood-stains satisfied him that the body had been dragged across the floor from the trap-door. There was also some blood on the trap-door no more Constable Todd testified than would have been produced by touching it with a bloody finger, while Isaac Doherty swore that he examined these blood-stains and they were only on the upper or floor-surface and had trickled down through the cracks.

The Dead Girl's Father's Story.

Meantime, while the villagers had been assembling, Handcock had driven in to Seaton Village after the wounded girl's mother, who had left the house at 9:45 a.m., about half an hour before the alarm was given. They returned together, accompanied by their youngest son, Daniel Handcock, a lad of 12 years of age. On his return Handcock gave his version of how his daughter met her death. As told fully to a reporter yesterday, his story is substantially this:

"Shortly after my wife left for Seaton, or about 10 o'clock, I entered the house from the garden to secure lunch as was my usual custom. I saw that Sophie did not have the lunch ready, but that she was busy about the house and did not speak to her, but returned to the garden. I was knocking potato bugs from the vines and went along several rows—how long I was occupied I do not exactly know—but something told me I ought to return to the house. I did so, and when I entered the dining-room I saw Sophie lying on the floor stretched face downward. I thought she had fainted and brought some water in a basin to bathe her head. When stooped down and proceeded to turn her head I discovered what the darkness of the room prevented me observing before that the whole side of her head was crushed in and she was bathed in blood. I am satisfied that her death was purely accidental. My opinion is that Sophie had been down stairs and secured the tub of butter to prepare my lunch, that she was returning towards the cellar with the tub in her hand and, tripping, had fallen and struck against the corner of the cellar door which was raised. Asked how he accounted for the fact that the girl was facing in a diametrically opposite direction from that in which she would be had she fallen forward, he said she might have arisen and crawled to where she was found in an attempt to reach him.

THE MURDER THEORY.

The Nature of the Wounds and the Condition of the Body.

The theory of the prosecution, it may be stated here, is that the girl was coming up the cellar stairs with the tub of butter in her hand, that as she reached the landing she was struck by her murderer a violent blow on the head with a lather's hammer or some such implement, that the blood spurted out and made the clot on the floor already referred to, and that the assassin then caught her and half dragged, half threw her forward on the floor 10 feet south of trap, where she was found. In support of this theory they quote the evidence of Drs. Henry T. Machell and Andrew J. Harrington. These wounds were dressed shortly after the accident, and she lived until midnight, fourteen hours after the accident, but never regained consciousness. Dr. Harrington subsequently conducted the post-mortem. The wound on the girl's head, which was on the left side, was sufficiently large to admit of the insertion of two fingers. Brain matter protruded. Fifteen or twenty pieces of bone were found. The witnesses were positive that a fall on the corner of the trap door as described would cause all the injuries found. A small fragment, not quite a quarter of an inch in extent, at the southeast corner of the door, and around which there was a little blood, was pointed out as the place where deceased might have struck, but Dr. Harrington stated: "The fractures found could not have been formed by any fall on or with the trap door." The grave character of the wound, they claimed, precluded the possibility of the girl having moved after she received the wound. Neither could account for the presence of the body where found, judged from the accident theory that Miss Hancock fell on the trap door.

Queries of Grave Import.

Accepting the doctors' evidence that the blow must have instantaneously rendered the girl powerless, the prosecution propounds these queries:

How did the girl, who must have fallen toward the north if she was accidentally injured, become turned around and reach a point 10 feet in the opposite direction?

If she tripped on a mat three or four feet from the trap, how did the tub of butter which she was carrying fly out of her hand and alight upright upon the floor of the door, which had meantime descended? Would it not rather have been hurled out of her hand when she felt herself tripping?

If she was moved to where found, who could have dragged her except the man who struck the blow? Certainly her father did not, for is it not in the evidence of Isaac Doherty that Handcock stated positively that he never moved his daughter?

The statement of Daniel Handcock, the 12-year-old brother of Sophie, was so unsatisfactory that he was not sworn. He drove home from Seaton with his father and mother, but did not remember what the conversation was about or whether his father told his mother anything concerning Sophie. The object of questioning the lad was to verify or prove untrue the report which reached the coroner's ears that the couple had been heard disputing while en route home in the buggy. This cruel report both husband and wife indignantly deny.

MR. HANDCOCK BECOMES EXCITED

When Asked to Contradict Certain Malicious Reports.

Mrs. Handcock stated in her evidence that her daughter's life was insured in the Chosen Friends for $1000, the beneficiary being payable to her. The reporter asked both Handcock and his wife if there was any truth in the report that a portion of the property had been deeded to the daughter six years ago and she had refused to re-deed it, although requested so to do?

"How could that be the case," said Mrs. Handcock when she was only 22 when she died."

"I see what they're doing," interrupted Mr. Handcock, becoming terribly excited, "they're trying to get me in a tangle and hang me."

Both complain bitterly of the manner in which they have been treated, and they still express their belief, that their daughter's death was accidental.

"I am a Christian man and I leave everything in the Lord's hands," he told the reporter. "They have even abused me because I didn't weep as if I didn't feel my loss just as much as though I had shed tears publicly. What weeping I did was with my family. I made up my mind if the Lord would allow me I would bear up like a man, and before they screwed the lid down on Sophie's coffin I went up and bade her good-bye and kept up."

What Now?

Coroner Johnston last evening forwarded the evidence in the case to the authorities, asking that orders be at once put to work on the case. He concurs in the finding of the jury that foul murder has been committed and asks that a thorough investigation be at once instituted.

POSTPONED.

The Trial of F. C. Fitzsimmons at Pittsburg for Murder.

PITTSBURG, July 23.—The trial of Fred C. Fitzsimmons of Brockville, Ont., for the murder of Detective Gilkinson, was postponed yesterday until the September term of court. The court of Judge Stowe and Slagle was crowded yesterday morning by people who wanted to hear the celebrated case. Fitzsimmons sat in the prisoner's box, paler from confinement, but otherwise looking as determined and gritty as ever. His wife sat in front of him, dressed in deep black, and waving a sable fan to cool herself. Thomas Marshall, jr., chief attorney for Fitzsimmons, was in poor health and not properly able to conduct the case, which was asked to be postponed. District Attorney Burleigh consented to this. Fitzsimmons and his wife wanted the trial to go on, but finally consented to a postponement. The latter will be final.

Purchase of New Wheat.

TORONTO, July 23.—Mr. Charles Watts, the central buyer for the Dominion Millers' Association, was advised yesterday by a western miller that he had bought several cars of new wheat at 90c. It was of fine quality and averaged 62 lbs to the bushel. A Middlesex dealer asked for quotations for new 61 and 62 lbs wheat, shipment guaranteed before Aug. 10.

A Temperance Protest.

TORONTO, July 23.

The Temperance Reformation Society is up in arms against the by-law passed by the council to suppress open air speaking and preaching on Sundays. This society has been holding meetings in the Queen's Park for 15 summers and its members felt aggrieved at being denied the privilege of continuing their usual temperance missionary work on Sundays. At the regular meeting of the association in Temperance Hall last night the consideration of the bylaw was the most important on the board. Bros. Joe Tait, M. L. A., and Robert J. Fleming and other prominent members were present. They, with others, while vigorously denouncing the utterances of the Park haranguer whose vaporings the civic authorities were seeking to suppress, considered the bylaw an outrage upon the rights of those who had never transgressed the law. A resolution embodying these sentiments and calling for the repeal of the bylaw was carried. A committee will wait upon the council at the earliest opportunity to place it before the city fathers.

Daily Examiner.

THURSDAY, JULY 23, 1891.

HERE is a problem set by an Ottawa journal, for the minister of finance: If the late leader of the Conservative party owned $250,000 worth of stock in the Canadian Pacific Railway company, how much of such of such stock does the high commissioner possess?

MR. A. F. TIRIE, of the Dundas Banner, accompanied Mr. Andrew Pattullo, president of the Canadian Press Association, to St. Paul last week as a representative of the association at the annual convention of the National Editorial Association of the United States. The Pioneer Press says of him that he made the wittiest speech of the evening at the banquet given to the association at Minnetonka. Other representatives of Canada were Messrs. W. J. White, of Brandon, and H. J. Woodside, of Portage la Prairie, who made great but unsuccessful efforts to secure the selection of Winnipeg as the next meeting place of the convention.

THE circle is closing in little by little every day, some days a little more, and sometimes with a bound. Martin P. Connolly, bookkeeper for the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., was under examination on Tuesday before the Privileges and Elections Committee. After a good deal of pressure he admitted that the Government inspectors of the Quebec dock were in the habit of certifying to work that never was done, and receiving a percentage of the false accounts. Connolly further stated that when he first heard of the Tarte charges he went through the books and erased all entries and destroyed all receipts and cheques which he thought would prove damaging.

EVEN at the head centre of the constant employment "N.P." there is scarcity of work. The Ottawa Free Press says:—A number of unemployed men in the city have been making anxious inquiries as to the truth of the announcement that some 4,820 labourers are wanted in Winnipeg, Manitoba, as seen on the billboards, to work at farm labor and on railroads at from $30 to $40 a month and board. They say, however, that they would have to pay their own fare thither, and this, nearly all of them are not in a position to do, so they will have to make the best of it. As an instance of the scarcity of work in the city, it might be stated that Tuesday when a market hotelkeeper called for two men to lay a sidewalk—a half day's job—he was besieged by fourteen able-bodied men, who offered to do the work at his own price.

Sir Hector's Plea.

The Ottawa Journal, a Tory paper, though not a regular organ, suggests that Sir Hector should retire from the Cabinet until his character is rehabilitated. It sees the anomaly in suspending subordinate officers, some of them on mere suspicion, whilst the Minister himself, against whom a strong prima facie case of malveration has been established, is allowed to preside over the department and act as official leader of the House. But it is significant of the times that the Journal does not counsel Sir Hector's withdrawal on any lofty ground. It refuses to admit that his presence in the department is an obstacle and menace to the unearthing of the truth; nor is it concerned in the slightest degree for the good name of the country. All it cares to know is that the people are getting angry and that if Sir Hector is not put out of sight the party may suffer at the bye-elections. Lucky tells us that Walpole used to treat the complaints of the Opposition in a strain of coarse banter, applying such names as "saint" and "Spartan" to those who begged for a little less corruption in public affairs. Much the same thing is going on here. If a Liberal ventures to say that the revelations now being made reflect upon the country and that it is the duty of decent men without respect to politics to unite for the vindication of the national honor, the assertion is received with jeers, and the good Tory warned that Liberals are natural-born hypocrites and that his business is to stand by the party even if Ministers are shown to be thieves. This is the heart-breaking part of the business. The exploits of Sir Hector, Uncle Thomas and their crew are bad enough, but the cynical disregard displayed by the Government and its supporters for everything except the welfare of the party is worse. It shows how thoroughly the Old Man succeeded in fashioning Canadian Toryism in his own image. Like Walpole he may have "sincerely desired the welfare of the State," but like Walpole, "he was intensely wedded to power and exceedingly unscrupulous about the means of grasping or retaining it"; and like Walpole again he "profoundly lowered the moral tone of public life" and communicated to his followers his own inability "to appreciate as an element of political calculation the force which moral sentiments exercise upon mankind." It is a true saying that in a free community a Government represents the average morality of the people who elect it. For many years the sense of right and wrong in Canada has been deteriorating. It was feeble in 1878 when the heroes of the Pacific Scandal were returned to power naked and not ashamed; it has grown fainter under the systematic administration of bribes in the form of subsidies for every imaginable purpose except the general good, and under a policy whereby any man who wishes power to tax his neighbors for his own benefit can get it by paying for it in cash at the Queen's. But surely unless it is absolutely dead it will awake and assert itself in condemnation of the boodlers of high and low degree who, as Mr. Tarte estimates, have got away with about two millions of dollars of the people's money under circumstances that mark the offence as one of peculiar enormity. If the public conscience has ceased to be solicitous for the public honor, if Canadians in the mass are unable to divest themselves of their partizanship to the extent of punishing a rascally Minister, who pleads that he did it for the good of the party, then the end of our little experiment in nation building is near, and the sooner it comes the better for us all.

What does Sir Hector's plea amount to? He says in substance, "I did not take any portion of the swag for myself, but spent my share in bribing the constituencies." He did not need the swag for himself. He had been in receipt of a large salary for the better part of twenty years; the writer of La Presse pamphlet declares that he got over $75 000 of Sir Hugh Allan's money and accounted for only $32,000; and we know that before he and the contractors began the operations now under investigation they mulcted his pockets with a "testimonial" amounting to $32,000. There was nothing very magnanimous, therefore, in his declining to profit personally by the frauds. But from the point of view of morality it would have been better had he applied the money to his own profit and advantage than to have spent it as he did. It is hard to say how much he and his friends got from Larkin, Connolly & Co. for campaign purposes. The letters show that Uncle Thomas and the rest were astounded at the frequency of his drafts upon them. Larkin wrote to Murphy:—"Our friends call for another $5,000 on account of British Columbia is not in accordance with the agreement we had when the $50,000 was divided. Bear in mind, my dear fellow, that there is a large amount due to you, Connolly and myself, and that if we continue donating as we have been doing there will be nothing left to pay us, except old plant." Michael Connolly, who was willing enough to give $50,000 "for charitable purposes" if the Esquimalt dock was lengthened, often drops a hint about the extortion practised upon them. Uncle Thomas flew into a passion when he asked for $5,000 on one occasion from the spoils of one of the Quebec contracts, and found that $10 000 had already been paid by Nicholas Connolly, aside from Uncle Thomas' own perquisites, $5,000 of it going to Sir Hector's son and $5,000 to Sir Hector himself. Murphy furnishes a formidable list of the "donations to our friends," and Valin says Uncle Thomas was hard set to provide enough to meet the calls of Sir Hector and Sir Adolphe in the election campaign of 1887, though Murphy had put in his hands a sum that was deemed ample, and kept supplying more. It is not perhaps far from the truth to say that Sir Hector used $100,000 of the plunder chiefly in buying votes and maintaining his hold upon the Quebec district. But to argue that fraud is not fraud when the proceeds are applied to bribery in the interest of a political party, is to assert that one crime is cancelled by the addition of another. He was guilty either of gross neglect or of deliberate collusion in allowing these contractors to rob the treasury through the instrumentality of his department; and he was guilty twice over in taking their money to corrupt the electors. God only knows how far he carried the system of making the people supply the funds for their own debauchment. He was at the head of the Public Works Department prior to the Pacific Scandal and has been in charge of it again since 1878. Probably in all that time not less than fifty or sixty millions has been spent under his supervision, and there is the authority of the Chaplesaist of La Presse for saying that in no single instance during his second term of office has a contract been executed according to original condition—that in each and all without exception there is ground for suspicion. Honesty in the administration of public expenditure is desirable always and everywhere, but it should be enforced with more than ordinary watchfulness and rigor in a country like this where Government is the universal provider and where millions are spent every year in places whose remoteness affords cover to rascality. Once admit, however, that a thief is not a thief if, having made his pile, he generously transfers his booty to the treasurer of the campaign fund, and you not only throw the door wide open to robbery in every form, but set up a code which is bound to eat the heart out of public mortality and produce a generation of rogues.

The decent Conservatives in and out of Parliament know all this, and in the last analysis the responsibility rests wholly upon them. It is a grave responsibility alike to God and man, and, at the risk of once more being taunted with a desire to see the Liberals in office, we beg them to do what is right. The interests of this party or of that should count for nothing when the question at issue involves the good name of Canada and the maintenance of all that is sound and honest in public affairs.

MANY A LIFE

HAS been saved by the prompt use of Ayer's Pills. Travelers by land or sea are liable to constipation or other derangements of the stomach and bowels which, if neglected, lead to serious and often fatal consequences. The most sure means of correcting these evils is the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. The prudent sailing-master would as soon go to sea without his chronometer as without a supply of these Pills. Though prompt and energetic in operation, Ayer's Pills leave no ill effects; they are purely vegetable and sugar-coated; the safest medicine for old and young, at home or abroad.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action so that now I am in health."—Mrs. C. E. Clark, Tewksbury, Massachusetts.

"I regard Ayer's Pills as one of the most reliable general remedies of our times. They have been in use in my family for affections requiring a purgative, and have given unvarying satisfaction. We have found them an excellent remedy for colds and light fevers."—W. R. Woodson, Fort Worth, Texas.

"For several years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than upon anything else in the medicine chest, to regulate my bowels and those of the ship's crew. These Pills are not severe in their action, but do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect for the cure of rheumatism, kidney troubles, and dyspepsia."—Capt. Mueller, Steamship Felicia, New York City.

"I have found Ayer's Cathartic Pills to be a better family medicine for common use than any other pills within my knowledge. They are not only very effective, but safe and pleasant to take—qualities which must make them valued by the public."—Jules Hauel, Perfumer, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hora, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston Ont.,) Daily British Whig, June 27th, 1891.

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

The Grand Trunk System.

The Grand Trunk system differs from the human system in that the same troubles do not affect it and the same remedies are not needed. For all diseases of the human system their is no tonic purifier, renovator and strengthener as good as Burdock Blood Bitters. A weak system can be built up by B.B.B.

Enrich the blood by the use of Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine, which supplies the necessary blood-building material. dw

A Nationalist Plan.

A proposal, which would obtain favor with even the opponents of Nationalism, contemplates the placing of a supply sufficient for each family of nature's great dyspepsia specific and blood purifier, B.B.B., in every home in the land. The benefits of such a boon to the people would be incalculable.

NO HEART FOR LOVE.

Perhaps it was because she was so picturesque that I loved her first because the light of her large gray eyes recalled the saints of Fra Angelico and because her hair lay in such splendid masses of sunlit brown upon her slender neck because every motion of her rounded figure threw her into a new attitude of grace, and every pose was a study for a painter; because every article of dress that she wore was instantly transfigured, and, no longer part of the trivial frippery of fashion, hung like the drapery of a goddess.

I had been through some rough months of care and sorrow when I first met her, that had left me weary enough, and glad to seek a quiet nook in the Welsh mountains, where I might rest both mind and body, where I might drink in renewed strength and inspiration from the bracing air and enjoy the society of my old friend, Alfred Talford.

He had told me that his sister was with him at the little country inn; but I did not notice the fact except to wonder if she would be much in the way. But the morning after my arrival, as I strolled out to watch the early shadows over the hills and to breathe the dewy freshness of the air, I came suddenly upon her.

Generally we lose, in closer and more intimate acquaintance with a person all recollection of the first impression he made upon us, or remember it only to laugh at its absurdity. But I shall always remember my first sight of Clare, as she stood leaning over the railing of the garden, talking to her brother, her soft gray dress falling about her in such perfect folds, and her cheeks flushed by the clear, keen air.

Through the long Summer evenings we three sat under the trees and listened to the rushing of the brook till the monotony grew oppressive, and Clare broke into some sudden burst of song, clear, cool and unimpassioned as the brook itself.

"Sing me something fervent," I said to her one evening—"something with passion and pain in it a song to stir the heart to come home to our struggling human nature not these ethereal fancies of Chopin or Schumann—moonshine set to music."

She shook her head half sadly, while yet she answered with a smile. "I cannot sing such songs. Music is for repose, not for struggle. It ought to sooth and subdue one, not excite."

"Then, according to your theory, a large part of even what we call sacred music is all wrong," I said; "our penitential songs, our agonized prayers for help, our wild cries of sorrow and remorse."

"I wish I could talk," she exclaimed, with a pretty gesture of despair. "If I could express all I want to say, perhaps you might understand me, but you know I cannot. Alfred thinks as I do, I am sure, ask him to argue it for you, and let me listen."

"Alfred is lounging under that tree, and has a cigar in his mouth, a much better thing than argument," I rejoined, rather petulantly; "and it is such nonsense for you to say you can't talk. You are by far the most brilliant member of our trio; it is you who say all our wisest and best things."

"Tell me one," she answered, quickly.

I opened my lips to tell her one of the many in my mind, when I suddenly remembered with punishment that that was Alfred's and Alfred's again, a third—no, that was mine.

"You see," she said, rightly interpreting my absolute silence, "you were mistaken in me altogether if you thought me clever. I don't understand you and Alfred half the time, and, as for your romance, I don't understand that at all."

"You are like the Sleeping Beauty in the dear old fairy-tale," I said. "Some day the prince will come, and you will wake up and find that life is no more all repose than music is, and that even the prince's kiss must have an end at last."

Never one answered, with low, persistent shake of the head: "The prince will never come to me. I know that very well. You can't make a romance out of me." She sobbed, laughing: "I am no heroine, to be put in your books."

"Heaven forbid!" I said, hastily. "But if I were a painter, I would paint you all day long. You should be Ellaine with the wind in her hair, gazing after Lancelot; you should be a wistful Beatrice, shading her golden lamp; you should be Keats's Madelaine, kneeling in the [illegible] colors of the painted window; you should be the statue that Pygmalion wood to life for you."

But I should always see the picture, she interrupted. "I might long for the life as much as Pygmalion but I should always be the same cold statue. That is my fate. It makes me desperate sometimes to think of it—to feel cramped in her quiet tones, that suggest everything but desperation. "Let us change the subject. What were you saying about lilies under the trees when Alfred and I came up? More verses! Alfred, come here, and listen to Mr Carroll's verses; he is going to read them to us."

But fortunately for me for I was more afraid of my friend's impartial and pungent criticism than of all the reviews—the gentle influence of a day's fatigue, a warm evening, and a mild cigar smoked at ease on the grass had sent Alfred fast to sleep, and for once he did not answer to Clare's call.

"Dear," I said, "I love you so well, I am so happy in the quiet atmosphere of rest which you diffuse around you, that I shall be content to dwell in that forever, if you will but let me."

If that is all you want, why need we change?" asked Clare, simply. "Love me then if you must, in your way, and let me be your friend still in mine."

I pleaded warmly and I pleaded long, and at last I won from her a reluctant consent to a sort of half-engagement.

But what soul can dwell always upon the mountain tops? It was not very long before I began to shiver in the divine coolness I had thought so beautiful at first, to weary of perpetual moonlight, and to pine for a warmer glow. Clare began to seem to me like a wreath of mist, forever eluding my grasp. Gradually I ceased to be delighted to take her hand when that hand gave back no answering thrill to mine. It was no longer rapture to gaze into her eyes, when they shone upon me and all the world with the same tranquil clearness.

Clare was to remain among the mountains for another month. We—Alfred and I—were to go in the morning. We stood on the threshold saying farewell.

"Good-by," said Clare, laying her hand on my shoulder, and dispelling my dreams of future felicity.

I held her fast by both hands and gazed into her eyes. They met mine, clear, tranquil, untroubled as usual, only a little wonder dawning in their silent depths. It was not no use to dream of a lover's parting. I saw plainly—of long, ever-repeated frost lives and fond farewells. We all went out together, and in another moment Alfred and I were driving rapidly away.

After the first shock of departure was over my natural hopefulness of disposition threw me with the expectation of her letter.

I had only been at home a day or two when I received the following letter:

"DEAR ST. JOHN: It is of no use for us to struggle any longer. We were never meant to be more than friends, and I am sure you feel now, as well as I do, how unsuited I am to you. If you would let me love you as I do Alfred, we might all be very happy together, but that is impossible, I suppose. You must not think I do not appreciate all your goodness to me—that I do not know how well you have loved me and how much I am giving up. I have mourned often and often over my seeming coldness and indifference; but I cannot express even what I do feel. Perhaps in another life my soul may grow like yours; but in this world I am no mate for you, and I am sure you begin to see it. Your misery makes me wretched, and I see no help for either of us but in ending what we should never have begun. Believe me, dear St. John, when I say I shall always think of you with the warmest affection and gratitude, and shall always be, as I am now, faithfully, your friend. CLARE TALFORD."

I read and re-read the little letter, so full of cruel kindness. Useless to try to describe my struggles, the doubt, the torture, the despair, the endless conjectures, the rejected solutions, the hard reality obstinately staring me in the face—the stern conviction at the bottom of my soul that to be true to her I must leave her—to love her really I must give her up.

At last I summoned all my courage, and wrote her these few words.

"MY DARLING CLARE: I let you go because you ask it. But do not think that, though I give you up, I cease to love you. I shall always keep my faith to you, for it is the best part of my life; and if, after years have passed away, you should grow to love me better, your love will come to me as rich and incomparable a treasure as I know it to be to-day, when I resign it for your sake.

"Faithfully and forever yours,
"ST. JOHN CARROLL."

Ten years have gone and I am still waiting. I take no credit to myself for constancy, because, as I wrote to Clare, I simply cannot help it.

A New Lincoln Anecdote.

Judge Glenni W. Scofield was a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln. A Warren county private, having knocked down his Captain, was tried, convicted and sentenced to the Dry Tortugas. His friends urged Scofield to have him released, so he went to see the President and told his story. Listening attentively, Lincoln replied:

"I tell you, Judge, you go right down to the Capitol and get Congress to pass an act authorizing a private soldier to knock down his Captain. Then come back here and I will pardon your man."

The Judge says that there was such an air of quizzical earnestness and desire to serve him about the President's manner that they both broke out in an outburst of laughter. The Judge did not press the case further.

Money Value of Beautiful Surroundings.

The surroundings about the farmer's home should be such as to make it attractive. There is a money value in neatness in flowers and plenty of shade trees, in small fruit trees, especially in the vicinity where summer boarders from the city make their residence. The cost is small and the surroundings are of a refined character. Doubtless the repugnance against many farm homes is due to the fact that the owner only lives where he can get his living, and in those days this can be done now low price of land. Some one can start without extravagant expenditure. The farmer should seek to attract wealth by purchase and selling to them, fit up other farms in the same way.

The Rich Man's Son.

The rich man's son inherits lands,
And piles of brick and stone and gold.
And he inherits soft white hands,
And tender flesh that fears the cold.

Like soft hands, and tender flesh, many diseases are inherited; especially tendencies to Asthma, Consumption, Bronchitis, and Stomach and Liver troubles; but there is a remedy, known as the "Golden Medical Discovery," which overcomes these diseases and cuts off all tendencies toward a fatal result. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, has put this remedy within the reach of all, so that even the poor as well as the rich can obtain it. It is worth more to you than "piles of brick and stone and gold." Ask your druggist for it. It is guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded. a

Across the Continent.

Wm. Renwick, M.D., M.R.C.S.E., Victoria, B. C., writes—I have used Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in cases of incipient patients with the most gratifying results. It does not upset the stomach, is easily assimilated and possesses undoubted power in rebuilding weakened constitutions, where the ordinary form of administering Cod Liver Oil is not admissable. For the future, whenever I have occasion to prescribe any preparation of Cod Liver Oil, I will give Miller's Emulsion the preference, being perfectly satisfied with its therapeutic efficacy. In big bottles, 50c. and $1. At Peterborough drug stores. dw

What's the Reason?

The causes of summer complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera morbus, etc., are the excessive heat, eating green fruit, over-exertion, impure water and sudden chill. Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is an infallible and prompt cure for all bowel complaints from whatever cause.

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1. dw

Self Application of Electricity

BY THE DORENWEND
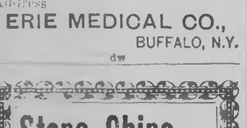
ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—193 Yonge St., Toronto
THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Municipal Jobbery.

There is more than reasonable ground to suppose that there will be unearthed a large amount of jobbery and corruption in connection with the school buildings addition and the street railway franchise. A public meeting of ratepayers would be a wise move, especially as it is certain it would unanimously endorse the universal use of hawly bros.' peerless teas.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J. Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

Methodist Educational Interests.

A Movement to Render Albert College More Valuable Than Ever.

In the reception room of Albert College, Belleville, on Tuesday, there was a joint meeting of the Special Committee of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist church, and the members of the College Board of management, to take into consideration and provide for an effort to pay off the indebtedness and thus enable that institution to extend and carry forward its important work with greater energy than ever before in its history. Among those present were Rev. O. R. Lambly, Pres. Bay of Quinte Conference; Rev. A. Carman, D.D., Gen. Supt.; Revs. S. J. Shorey, Napanee; J. H. Locke, Peterborough; T. M. Campbell, Lindsay; E. Roberts, Cobourg; T. W. Joliffe, Bowmanville, and representatives from all the thirteen districts in the B. of Q. Conference, and also the Board of Management—in all over thirty of the active leading men of the church. The meeting received a statement made by the Bursar, Mr. E. D. O'Flynn, Madoc, showing the amount necessary to free the college of debt would be about $26,000. The matter was taken up with spirit, and plans for an energetic movement were concluded upon, that provide for a canvass in each of the thirteen districts of this Conference, and it is confidently believed provision will be made to fully cover the amount of the debt before the close of the present year.

Albert College has done a good work in the past, many of the most prominent men in our city and this part of Ontario having received their education there. The work of this college is not alone a financial benefit, but a great credit to the city; and when Cobourg is losing Victoria, it gives a larger field and makes it more necessary than ever that this institution be put upon the most efficient basis for future usefulness. —Belleville Intelligencer.

"Not Guilty."

Such was the verdict given by Judge Benson in determing whether Alfred Crouter was guilty or innocent of the charge of committing an indecent assault upon the ten year old daughter of Mr. John Bakes on Gannon's island, near Campbellford, about three weeks ago, and who was arrested at Peterborough. The trial was held at Cobourg on Friday last, and the young man accused of this serious offence, elected to be tried by Judge Benson. He was defended by counsel from Toronto, while Mr. Kerr, of Cobourg conducted the prosecution. The evidence of the two little girls was taken, but an examination by a physician not having been made, the counsel for the prisoner argued that there was not sufficient ground to prove that the assault had been committed. In this opinion the Judge concurred, and the prisoner was acquitted.

Arrived on the Coast.

The Vancouver, B.C., 'Daily News-Advertiser,' of July 16th, says: "Amongst the arrivals at the Hotel Vancouver were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neill, of Peterborough, Ont., who came in on yesterday's train. This young couple were married at Peterborough on June 20th, and are now on their honeymoon trip. Mr. Neill is connected with a large boot and shoe business in Peterborough, and both he and Mrs. Neill, nee Miss Aggie Mercer, have long been associated with the various societies connected with St. Andrew's church in that city. The couple were met at the station by Mr. H. W. Kent, an old friend of theirs, who showed them around the city. They will proceed to Victoria in a day or two."

Organ Recital at St. John's.

Dr. Davies' programme for this evening will be as follows:

Idyll, Evening by the Sea of Galilee.....Benedict
Allegretto, Lobgesang.....Mendelssohn
The Cats Fugue.....Scarlatti
March des fantomes.....Spindler
*The Bride's song (Brautgesang).....*Jensen
Marche Militaire.....F. S. Clarke
Organ music from "Faust".....Gounod
Overture, "Fra Diavolo".....Auber
Marche, "Tanchauser".....Wagner

The Cats Fugue which will be noticed in the foregoing programme for to-night was written by Domenico Scarlatti in the year 1810. Scarlatti, it seems, had a favorite cat, and one evening the animal walked across the keys of the piano, touching and sounding certain notes which struck the master as a suitable subject for fugal treatment; this subject he worked out into the admirable fugue known as "die Katzen fugue."

How to Spend the Holidays

"Vacation time" is the title of a bright little book by H. S. Drayton, M.D., so well known as a writer on popular hygiene, just issued from the press of Fowler & Wells Co., New York. It is seasonable, filling a niche heretofore vacant, for while we have books giving us good advice about how to live when the weather is cold and the northeast winds blow, this supplies us with a variety of useful information about Summer living, and takes into the account the recreations and diversions that are supposed to belong to warm weather, and which both old and young enter, according to their circumstances. The author writes in a pleasant style and really covers a good deal of ground in a few words. He talks of life at the seaside, in the mountains, of boating and bathing, games excursions, etc., puts in some very practical hints on eating and dress, and the management of household economies, and has a word of advice to mothers and housekeepers that they cannot but value. Even the stay-at-homes get a thought or two that must be encouraging. As an epitome of Summer hygiene the book is so good and practical that they who would read it and follow its suggestions could not but get real profit out of their sunmering, wherever they might be. It is sent by mail on receipt of price, 25 cents. Address the publishers, FOWLER & WELLS CO., 775 Broadway, New York.

The Contract Changed.

Mr. A Rutherford Gets the Contract for the New Public School Building.

Another special meeting of the School Board was held last night in connection with the letting of the contract for the new public school building. It will be remembered that on Monday evening Mr. H. Carveth was awarded the contract for $8,471; but since that time Mr. Carveth, when asked to sign a contract to have it finished by the first of October, declined to do so, and said he could not complete the work by that time. Hence the special meeting of the Board Wednesday night.

There were present Mr. Chairman Wrightson, and Trustees Dr. Boucher, W. H. Hall, W. G. Ferguson, P. Hamilton, Jno. Corkery, T. E. Badburn, J. J. McBain and D. W. Dumble.

Mr. BRADBURN, chairman of the Building Committee, stated the position of affairs, and Messrs. A. Rutherford and H. Carveth, contractors, were given a hearing.

MR. A. RUTHERFORD said he was prepared to guarantee that he could complete the new addition by the first of October if necessary, but he could do a much better job if allowed till the first of November, which he thought was a reasonably early time to have it done. He would, however, undertake to have the alterations to the old building completed by the first of September.

Mr. DUMBLE and other trustees were of opinion that it was too much to expect the new addition to be finished before the first of November.

Mr. CARVETH stated he did not wish to deceive the Board, and would say openly he could not bind himself to have the new portion ready before the first of the year, but he thought some satisfactory arrangement might be made after the new addition was completed to occupy it while the old portion was being altered, without any derangement of the school system.

The trustees talked the matter over and appeared to be unanimously of opinion that they could not afford to lose so much time, and they looked with favor on Mr. Rutherford's proposal.

Finally this resolution was adopted:

Moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Dr. Boucher, that inasmuch as Mr. Carveth will not undertake to carry out the building of the new school to be ready for occupation before Jan. 1st, 1892, resolved, that the urgent demand for the increased accommodation makes it imperative on the Board to accept the next lowest tender, namely, that of Arthur Rutherford at $6 880, provided he contracts to complete the old building ready for occupation by Sept. 1st, 1891, and the new portion by Nov. 1st, 1891; the contractor to make proper provision for access to the upper rooms of the old building without extra charge, and to enter a contract and give approved bonds with two sureties in a penalty of $2,000 for the completion of the contract; every day's delay to be at a charge of $20 by way of rent or liquidated damages.

Mr. RUTHERFORD being called on assented to this resolution and the bargain was therefore considered made. Mr. Rutherford said he would begin work in the morning. He had most of his material ready and would push right ahead. He only urged one thing on the Board, and that was that if the contract was to be completed on time the Smead-David furnaces must be in position at once. It was deemed necessary for some of the trustees to go to Toronto in the morning to make the necessary arrangements, and Architect Blackwell and Messrs. Dumble and McBain were on motion appointed to visit the city.

The Board then adjourned.

A Local Committee Formed to Promote the Collection of Funds for the Erection of a Statute to Sir John in Toronto.

Mr. J. H. Dennis, of Toronto, was in town to-day representing a committee of Toronto citizens organized to promote the erection of a memorial statute to Sir John in the capital of the Province of Ontario. To make the movement as general as possible it has been decided to limit subscriptions to $10. In a circular issued by the Toronto committee, this committee expresses the desire to see affiliated with it all the municipal and other representative bodies in the province. Mr. Dennis to-day met a number of citizens in Mr. W. H. Moore's office, and a local committee was appointed to co-operate with the central committee and to solicit subscriptions to the fund, whose amount will determine the character of the statute to be erected in honour of "The Chieftain."

To-morrow's Big Excursion.

Mr. Cooper of Havelock was in town to day completing arrangements for the reception of the C.P.R. excursionists in town to-morrow — pitching tents for refreshments etc. on Burnham's point. Mr. Burnham has dealt very kindly with the C.P.R. employes. He has not only given the gratuitous use of the point proper but has also granted them the use of the plot to the northof thereallway track right up to his private grounds, and the use of the swings, merry-go-rounds and other amusement conveniences found there. Mr. Cooper has had to shoulder nearly the whole of the arrangements unaided by other members of the committee. A fine sum has been collected for prizes for the sports and games. The excursionists will arrive on three special trains, which will reach town about noon, and it is proposed that a procession, headed by the celebrated Heintzman Band, of Toronto, be formed, and march by way of George and Hunter streets to Burnham's Point. Let our citizens hang out flags and banting in honour of our visitors to-morrow.

The Crops in Peterborough and Victoria.

Results of Mr. W. H. Wrighton's Observations.

Mr. W. H. Wrighton, one of our most reliable grain and commission merchants, has just completed a very thorough visit of the counties of Victoria and Peterborough. His report, summarized, is to the effect that the spring crops, spring wheat, oats and peas especially, will be a fine crop, above the average. Roots also promise especially well. Fall wheat, where it escaped winter-killing, will yield fairly well. Barley will be a good yield, but the acreage is small, while that of peas and oats which promises best, is unusually large. Altogether, Mr. Wrighton thinks, this year's crop will be, if not above, at least quite up to the average. This estimate applies equally to all parts of both counties.

South Monaghan.

The Late William Bonus.

It is our painful duty to record the death of Mr. William Bonus. The sad event took place at his residence, South Monaghan, at six o'clock on Saturday morning, July 11th. It had been known for some time that Mr. Bonus was gradually sinking, but the end was not expected so soon. Deceased came from England about nine years ago, and by his kind and genial manner, gentlemanly bearing and uprightness of character, soon won for himself a large circle of friends. About four years ago he purchased Mr. Wm. Gree's farm, lot 3, concession B.F., South Monaghan, and seventeen months ago married Mary, daughter of Mrs. William Brown, of Centreville. Mr. Bonus, like most young men, was full of life, and went in most heartily for all the sports usually enjoyed by youth, cricket being his favorite game, and when the band was started in Baillieboro he became one of its members and was soon chosen president, which position he held till his death. About twelve months ago he burst a blood vessel in the throat, caused, as the doctors say, by too much strain while blowing the cornet. The local doctor was called in, but the bleeding continued at intervals until Dr. Tanner, of Millbrook, was called the latter part of the evening, and it is satisfactory to know there was no recurrence of the hemorrhage while under his care; in fact he so far recovered that when it became known in the evening of the day of the general election that the late Sir John A. Macdonald's Government was sustained, the old fire returned, and he paraded the streets with the band, beating the bass drum, but the previous attacks of bleeding had so weakened him that it soon became apparent that all the loving care of a devoted wife, most ably assisted by a sincere and life-long friend, could not stop the breach, and that slowly but surely the fell monster was claiming him for his victim, and as before mentioned, he breathed his last on Saturday, in the arms of his friend, Mr. Jas. Fenning. At the funeral on Monday the choir of Christ church (of which deceased was a member) attended the house and sang Dr. Newman's hymn

The funeral cortege slowly and mournfully wended its way to St. Paul's (front church) burying ground when all that was mortal of William Bonus was laid with feet towards the dawn,

Till there breaks the last and brightest Easter morn,
When on that happy Easter morning all the graves their dead restore,
Father, sister, child and mother, meet once more.

The seat the deceased formerly occupied in the choir was covered with crape, festoons of crape were also hung around the choir stalls, while the beautiful white on the alter indicating the brightness, beauty, and gladness of the Resurrection morn in striking contrast to the heavy folds of crape, the sign of mourning. His young widow will have the heartfelt sympathy of the whole neighborhood and many sincere prayers will ascend to the Throne of Grace that God in His mercy will send her that comfort and consolation and peace that He alone can give.

Harvest Anticipations.

From the far west to the Atlantic the most gratifying reports are coming in, says the Montreal 'Journal of Commerce,' as to the condition of the principal crops. Manitoba is rejoicing over the prospect of reaping the heaviest yield of wheat ever harvested there. In Ontario the grain crops are all but secured, and they are more abundant than any for three years past. The hay fields, that recently were so bare, are promising an average yield owing to timely rains, and root crops, especially potatoes, are said to be promising a good crop in the Maritime Provinces, and they will also yield well westward. Fears as to the restricted market and depressed prices for barley are regarded as premature. We are not entirely "out of the wood" yet, but the opening is in sight and it is sunny with brightest hopes. Should these anticipations be realized in Canadian harvest will so enrich the country that the depression long felt will to very large extent give place to greater financial ease. The first to suffer from the income of the country from its agricultural products being diminished are merchants engaged in lines of business that supply articles which minister most to a love of display, a by no means censurable taste when kept within the means of the buyer. Of these the millinery merchants are the chief representatives; others are jewellers and vendors, indeed, of everything not essential to ordinary domestic comfort. The great number of failures in the fancy dry goods trade had their origin in the people's lack of means to buy or to pay for purchases made in the hope of better times.

DIED.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

HAVE NOT LOST A SINGLE DAY

THE MUTINOUS GUARDS

TWO COMPANIES OF THE "PETS" REFUSE TO OBEY ORDERS.

Trouble in the Ranks—The Second Battalion of the Coldstream Guards Complain of Arduous Duties and Excessive Drill and Refuse to Obey.

LONDON, July 21.—Another mutiny has occurred in the British army. It is again one of the famed Foot Guard regiments which finds itself in trouble. The mutiny occurred in the second battalion of the Coldstream Guards, whose colonel is General Sir A. E. Hardinge, K.C.B. The second battalion of this regiment has been quartered at Wellington barracks, close to Buckingham palace, where it has been furnishing the guard of honour and incidentally during the recent visit of the Emperor of Germany to London, taking a prominent part in the parades and reviews. This work necessitated a considerable amount of extra duty which was far from being pleasant to the Guardsmen who have long been the pets of the army. After the departure of the German Emperor the Guards expected to be allowed at least a free

DAY FROM GUARD MOUNTING

at the palaces, Whitehall, the bank, or other places regularly committed to the guardianship of the Guards. This day of recuperation and incidentally for the pleasure of leaving the barracks for a brief period, does not seem to have been granted, and a week ago the grumbling which this alleged neglect had occasioned among the men broke out into serious trouble. Instead of being granted the day off, which the Coldstreams considered themselves entitled to, the men were ordered to parade in full marching order. Upon the receipt of this order, cursing and fierce mutterings were heard throughout the company rooms of the barracks. The whole battalion seemed determined to refuse to turn out in marching order. The first and third companies positively refused to parade, and told their non-commissioned officer that they could of the determination the privates had arrived at. The non-commissioned officers had no course left but to report the insubordination. The first and third companies' officers when placed in possession of the facts, held a consultation, and did not lose sight of the fact that they had before them the prospect of a term of exile similar to that which the second battalion of the Grenadier Guards were subjected to at Bermuda.

MARCHED BACK TO BARRACKS.

They accordingly repaired to the company room, and argued with the mutinous privates, setting forth to them the disgrace which had fallen upon the Grenadiers, and holding up to them the prospect of being exiled from England. Finally the rebellious privates consented to parade and were conducted to St. James' Park in full marching order for their usual drill. But arrived upon the parade ground the behaviour and bearing of the Coldstreams were so glaringly insubordinate that their officers conceded that it would be advisable to march them back to Wellington Barracks. This was done, the men returning to the barracks with the consciousness that they had at least won a partial victory.

THE PUNISHMENT.

The officers however, issued orders confining their commands to the barracks for three days as a punishment. In addition the officers ordered that the ten senior privates of the mutinous companies should be placed under arrest with the view of trying them by court-martial for insubordination.

No sooner did the main body of the excited Guardsmen hear of this last order than ninety of them barricaded themselves in the barracks and declined to emerge until promised that the ten senior privates should not fare any worse than their comrades. A considerable time was spent parleying with the mutineers, and they were finally persuaded on the ground that they would make matters worse for all concerned to open the door and listen to their officers in an orderly manner.

THE GENERAL QUIETS THEM.

The mutinous Coldstreams were then addressed by Gen. Hardinge who by judiciously stroking the soldiers backs, figuratively speaking, succeeded in quieting them down.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and had them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES saved him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64,824 07

NO CLUE YET TO THE MURDERER OF SOPHIE HANDCOCK.

The Government Will Investigate—The Street Railway Fight Reserved—A Boy's Tragic Death—"Jumbo" Campbell Sat Upon by the County Orange Lodge—The Salvation Army will Obey the Law—Minor Topics.

TORONTO, July 24

THE heavy hand of the law has not yet fallen upon the murderer of Sophie Handcock, the 22 year old daughter of Edward Handcock the Fairbank store keeper. The body of the murdered victim has been buried in the south-east corner of the new Prospect Park Cemetery. So far the secret of the manner of her death rests with her in the grave and with her brutal slayer.

A searching investigation touching her death has been begun. The Attorney-General has been notified of the facts and a Government detective will be placed on the case at once.

Meantime residents of the neighborhood are neither deaf nor dumb. There is much talking, but the opinions are random and the guesses preposterous. The gaudywires of the village and farm discuss the matter over their tea, as do their huge hard-axes, the village tavern bar. On the byway, in the cross-road grocery, in the harvest field and where ever human beings gathered or met, some thing was said yesterday of the great affair at Fairbank. Reporters of half-a-dozen newspapers have been at the quiet village investigating the whispers respecting the strange business at the store. But they had their labor for their pains. Not the slightest clue to the identity of the murderer, or a motive for the crime can be obtained. True, indiscreet tongues continue to wag and the slide has been removed from that unobtrusive button, the bell-crown of which is perpetually being turned on private life and asserting at times public property. Hints, nods and ominous head-shakings are omnipresent, but the probability is that some time will elapse before the perpetrator of the foul deed is identified and brought to justice.

There are a few—a very few people—who still cling to the accident theory, and they point out that the attending physicians gave a burial certificate to the parents of the girl a few hours after her demise, and that consequently they must have been of the opinion then that death was accidental. How on the surgeons reconcile their conscience to the certificate is a question which is troubling these people. The explanation of Dr. Harrington is a very reasonable one. It was not until the postmortem that the full nature of the injuries were made manifest. Naturally, with the girl's bleeding skull but surely away, the murderer commenced of the wound was more or less superficial. But when the postmortem was made it was plainly manifest that it would have been absolutely impossible for the skull to have been smashed as it was by a full, forcible, violent, against the edge of the trap door, or by a fall of any kind. Besides it was thought prior to the complete examination of the wound that the supposition of the girl's father that she might possibly after falling, have crawled to the place where she was found, was emphatically negatived to the extent of the injury, which precluded the possibility that she could have crawled an inch after being struck.

The depositions taken before Coroner Johnson have been forwarded to the Ontario Government. Chief Government Detective Murray has gone on a holiday trip to the lakes, but rather Detective Rogers or Detective Greer will be retained from the cases upon which they are now engaged, and will at once set to work on the case. The excitement has not in the least abated in the neighborhood, nor has the despondency on section been at all shaken that death was due to an assassin's blow.

It has been urged by some that the Ontario Government should at once issue a proclamation offering a reward for the detection of the guilty party. Whether anything would result is problematical, as the opinion is general that the identity of the murderer is known but to himself, and the girl whom he has offended. Further investigation proves that the girl was a pure and sexy woman who sought God on the earth and that she had no sweetheart. The circumstance that puts everybody at sea in attempting to elucidate the mystery is the utter absence of a motive for the murder. With this essential link missing, there is little prospect of a chain ever being welded which will be complete.

THE STREET RAILWAY FIGHT.

Yesterday Mr. W. H. Wallbridge, acting for ex-Ald Macdonald, issued a new writ of summons against the city of Toronto, claiming an injunction restraining the city from handing over to the Kiely-Everett syndicate the street railway. Notice of motion for an injunction was also served and appointments taken out for the examination of witnesses on the motion. The motion is made returnable on Tuesday next. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Wallbridge made a definite appointment with Special Examiner Bruce for the resumption of the examination of witnesses re the alleged bribery and corruption at 10 o'clock on Monday morning next. He will then proceed with the examination, among others, of George W. Kiely, Henry A. Everett, E. J. Coleman, B. Mahler, G. McConkey, C. C. Woodworth, Thomas Mitchell, jr., J. K. Kerr, Q.C., S. H. Janes, W. R. Brock, A. J. Parker. The examination will occupy. It is expected, the centre of the week. Mr. Wallbridge also placed himself in legal position for the examination of the whole of the aldermen who voted for the granting of the franchise of the Kiely-Everett syndicate.

TENY WELCOMED "BALLYKILBER."

The Orangemen turned out in large numbers last evening to do honor to the visiting brethren who are attending the triennial council of that order that is now in session in the city. The reception was held in the Mutual-street Rink, which was filled with an enthusiastic audience. During the evening, the county secretary was called upon to present to Mr. William Johnston of Ballykilber an address. The address mentioned the fact that there are 10,000 Orangemen of Toronto and also spoke of the prosperity of Canada and the rapid growth of Toronto. Mr Johnston responded in a gracious speech thanking the Orangemen of Toronto for their hearty reception.

"BOYS, HERE GOES FOR LIFE OR DEATH."

A 10-year-old boy named Albert Hunt was the victim of a peculiar drowning accident in the Don River about 5 o'clock last evening. He, with a number of other boys, was playing on the river bank. Standing on one of the branches he dramatically remarked: "Boys, here goes for life or death!" and jumped to the ground. It was for death in alighting he lost his balance and fell into the stream. A boy named George Gurnett brought the body to the surface about five minutes after the accident occurred. The vital spark had fled.

THE BLOOD AND FIRE WARRIORS.

Unlike the Temperance Reformation Society of this city, the Salvation Army will respect the newly-made law prohibiting street and park preaching on Sunday. Col. Young, who is an educated and intelligent young man, spoke with reserve during an interview in the absence of Commissioner Rees, but he had no hesitation in saying:

"We certainly shall respect the law. I have notified all the officers that there must be no park gatherings. The authorities and police of Toronto have always been very good to the Salvation Army, and it is no part of our programme to oppose any constituted authority."

EVENTS IN FEW LINES.

The Mayor and Ald. Saunders left for Ottawa last night to present in person to Lady Macdonald the citizens address of condolence.

The County Orange Lodge has gone back on "Jumbo" Campbell, and at the meeting yesterday, a resolution was submitted and carried condemning his conduct generally.

Thomas Woodhouse, the big King street dry goods man, is seeking an extension from his creditors. Mr. Woodhouse places his assets at $85,000 and their liabilities amounting to $69,000. The news caused much surprise.

Owen Cosgrove, one of Toronto's characters, died last night. For years his tavern was which is perpetually being turned on private life and asserting at times public property. Hints, nods and ominous head-shakings are omnipresent, but the probability is that some time will elapse before the perpetrator of the foul deed is identified and brought to justice.

There are a few—a very few people—who still cling to the accident theory, and they point out that the attending physicians gave a burial certificate to the parents of the girl a few hours after her demise, and that consequently they must have been of the opinion then that death was accidental. THE SOVEREIGN SANCTUARY.

Annual Convention of Royal and Oriental Freemasonry.

TORONTO, July 24.—The annual convention of the Sovereign Sanctuary of Royal and Oriental Freemasonry was held in the chapter room, No. 9 Victoria street, last night. M. W. Bro. Daniel Rose, Grand Master-General occupied the chair.

The M. W., the Grand Master General, gave an interesting account of the standing of the order at the present time. After discussion on the principles of Oriental Freemasonry it was decided to hold the next meeting of the Sovereign Sanctuary on the evening of the 23rd day of the meeting of grand lodge, and at the same place.

Because He Got News.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The Grand Jury yesterday found an indictment against Chas. Hennessy, city editor of the New York Daily News, charging him with misdemeanour for publishing an account of the recent electrocutions at Sing Sing.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

The Evidence of the Deputy Minister and the Secretary.

OTTAWA, July 24.—The Public Accounts Committee met at 10 yesterday, Dr. Sproule occupying the chair.

Mr. Burgess, Deputy Minister, was the first witness called. He was asked by Mr. Somerville if he would produce the letter written by him to Mr Richard White telling him that certain engagements had been made in the department to recoup Mr. White for a loan of money he was about to give to Mrs. Periara by giving certain writing to Mrs. Periara. The money earned in this way was to go towards the payment of the loan.

Mr Burgess said the letter was a private one and he would rather not produce it, but if the committee insisted of course he would.

Mr. Foster said that the letter was a private one and should not be produced, but Mr. Burgess could be examined in regard to its contents.

Mr. Burgess explained that the letter merely referred to the arrangements which had been arrived at in respect to this work which had been promised to Mr. Periara by the Minister and the proceeds of which were to go to pay Mr. White for the loan.

Mr. Somerville: You became responsible for the payment.

Mr. Burgess: I became responsible for the payment of the amount of the work given to Mr. Periara to Mr. White.

Mr. Somerville: You said that the first money paid to Turner for extra work was when the late Mr. White was Minister of the Interior.

Mr. Burgess: That was my recollection then and it is my recollection still.

Mr. Kinloch, a first class clerk in the Interior Department, was next examined. He testified that various sums were paid to one Miss C. A. Armstrong and the account certified by him. The name of Mr. William McMahon, Deputy Superintendent of the Printing Bureau, who was an intimate friend of his, gave the use of his name to draw this money, as the lady did not desire her name to appear. Mr. McMahon or himself never got one nickel of these accounts. Mr. Kinloch admitted having done some extra work for which he was paid while a permanent clerk. A certain index was made out between himself and Mr. Rothwell, and they divided the amount, about $60, between them.

Mr. John Hall, Secretary of the department, was next called. His evidence was that this system of sharing the proceeds for extra work between permanent clerks and extra hands had been going on since 1883, when he entered the department and very likely before that. He never asked them to share, but when they assisted the extra clerks, it was a matter of honor between them that the latter should divide the amount of the check. This, of course, was when permanent hands were allowed to do this work, which was frequently. He admitted that he had given extra work to clerks when they were in financial difficulties. At one time he had to take a man out on bond, as he could not get along without him, and he was supposed to pay him out of his own pocket. In reply to Sir Richard Cartwright witness said Mr. Periara had exceeded his duties in certifying to the account of Mr. Humphries, an extra clerk, seeing that Mr. Henry was the officer in charge of that room and who refused to certify it. Mr. Hall said that he and Mr. Burgess were always of the opinion that as the money paid for this extra work came from the grant to Dominion lands and not from civil service contingencies they could deal with it in a manner not prescribed by the Civil Service Act. The Minister of Justice notified the department officially last June that this was not the proper way to use it and it must be expended subject to the Civil Service Act. Since June last this was done and no further extra work allowed to permanent hands, all being notified to that effect.

Mr. McMahon, Deputy Superintendent of the Printing Bureau, was examined and testified that he had merely allowed his name to be used to draw the money mentioned by Mr. Kinloch, but he never got one cent for so doing.

C. C. Roger, a second class clerk, said that he had received pay for extra work, but the work did not appertain to his office specially. He did not think that he was violating the Civil Service Act however. He got the money by using his sister-in-law's name, Miss C. Gordon.

Mr. Somerville gave a list of the names he required summoned from the department for to-day.

Mr. Deschêne has become tired of suspending and discharging clerks for receiving payments by irregular methods. Several witnesses were absent to-day to be in exactly the same position as others who have been discharged, but the minister said to-night none of them were suspended. He will probably be compelled to apply a coat of whitewash to the whole department.

PRIVILEGES AND ELECTIONS.

The Evidence of Robt. McGreevy in the Tarte Investigation.

OTTAWA, July 24.—At the Privileges and Elections Committee yesterday Mr. Robert McGreevy was the first witness. He repeated the story told by Mr. O. E. Murphy with regard to the signing of the $25,000 notes drawn by the firm in favor of Thomas McGreevy. These notes were produced and the witness identified the three last notes of this batch at 6, 7 and 9 months for $7,000 each and signed by T. Larkin, T. C. Connolly and O. E. Murphy. This, he said, was on the latter end of May or first of June, 1885. These notes were executed after the firm were informed by the department that they had been awarded the contract. He witness had the notes to Thomas McGreevy either at his office or at his house. He had personal knowledge that Thomas used these notes to pay a debt of $17,000, for which judgment had been given by the Supreme Court in the case of McGreevy vs. McCarron. Two of these notes were given to Hon. John Hearn, to be discounted, and one was sent to the Union Bank to be discounted.

To Mr. Germain he said he knew these facts because his brother Thomas told him and the Connollys that the notes would have to be used for this purpose. As his contribution to this "donation" to Thomas he had given his note for $7,500. With regard to the notes which he could not find in his batch to-day, he said that they were for four and 12 months. The last of these he remembers as having been changed to a demand note and he witness gave this substituted note to his brother Thomas. Thomas was aware of the circumstances under which he (witness) joined the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. He was not at all interested in the Levis Graving Dock. He identified a letter written by himself to O. E. Murphy, from Ottawa to Quebec, on March 13, 1884. This letter said: "I will get my brother to interview Perley before I leave." The next letter by witness to Murphy stated that the result of the interview was that Perley would write to Murphy. The writer warned the recipient not to answer till he (witness) saw Murphy. Witness then identified a letter written by Perley to the harbor commission proposing to transmit to them all correspondence between the contractors. Perley witness said had taken part in that correspondence. He had helped to draft the reply to Mr. Perley's letter. As a consequence of that correspondence the contract was negotiated.

Robert H. McGreevy was recalled in the afternoon. He was questioned first about the contract for the Esquimalt dock and the changes made after the contract was signed. These changes were effected through Thomas McGreevy. Whenever he wanted to communicate with the department he did so through his brother. Thomas McGreevy's residence in Ottawa during those years was with Sir Hector Langevin. He lived in Sir Hector's house from 1883 to the early part of 1889. Several irregular payments had to be made in connection with the Esquimalt dock contract. He gave $2000 on Jan. 25, 1887, to Thomas McGreevy. It was his own money, but he was reimbursed in March by the firm. The money was paid for Thomas' own benefit. It was not asked for political objects nor declared to be for political purposes. There were $3000 or $4000 in promisory notes in 1885 in the name of the firm given to Thomas McGreevy by himself and charged to expense account. The item of $1500 charged to expense account of Esquimalt dock, consisted of the $10,000 Michael Connolly said he paid Sir Hector Langevin himself, the $5000 he (Robert) gave Thomas McGreevy and the $2500 Murphy gave to Mr. Perley in jewelry. In the spring of 1887 Murphy told him that Nicholas Connolly had paid away $10,000. He went and saw Connolly, who said he had to give it because it was very important. He remonstrated, but Connolly said he could not keep it. Sir Hector must have it. After some talk it was decided the amount should be charged to B.C., because if charged to B.C. Robert McGreevy's share would be only $2,000, whereas if charged to the Quebec Harbor works his share would have been $3000. Nicholas Connolly referred him to the bookeeper, Martin Connolly, for further particulars. He understood from Martin substantially what Nicholas told him Martin seemed to know that the money went to Sir Hector. He gathered from Nicholas Connolly that the money was paid, not to Sir Hector personally, but to Laforce Langevin.

To Mr. Wood (Brockville) he said he was a pretty active member of the firm. He did not have the supervision of anything and did nothing on the works. It was understood he should not be seen near the works. He was told it would not look well. [Laughter.] He did a good deal of work in negotiating. [Laughter.] Witness said that at the conclusion of the Esquimalt dock works $400 was taken from each partner's share of the profits, making $2000 in all. It was understood at the time of the division that it was to be a donation to Mr. Perley. It was so set aside at the request of the Connolly's and Mr. Murphy. A report afterwards came from Michael Connolly that he went to Ottawa to give it to Mr. Perley, but could not see him, so he gave it to Mr. Perley's son. It was not the same $2000 which Mr. Perley admitted receiving in jewelry. He did not know Mr. Perley's son.

To Mr. Mullock he said that he under stood that the $10,000 given to Sir Hector Langevin was for the purpose of the elections of 1887. He thought it was for Sir Hector's own election in Three Rivers. The payment was made during or before the election and the conversation regarding the money took place after the election. The charges of $1000 and $4000 made on March 28, 1887, and May 28, 1887, respectively, and charged to the expense account of the Quebec harbor improvements were said the first by Mr. Murphy and the second by Mr. Nicholas Connolly. Both said they paid these amounts to Thomas McGreevy. The $3000 paid in December, 1888, by Nicholas Connolly and charged to the same account was intended to buy Mr. Brousseau's interest in Le Courier Du Canada. He heard from Corner Talk that the $3000 went to aid Col. Rhodes when he was running in Megantic. After being called to the Mercier Cabinet, Mr. Girouard asked what party Thomas McGreevy was supporting in the local elections of 1887. Mr. McGreevy hesitated for some tim and finally remarked: "That would depend a good deal on circumstances." His brother was a personal friend of Col. Rhodes and also had a claim against the Mercier Government at that time. Speaking of the tenders for the south wall, Robert said they were sent to Thomas McGreevy's house the evening they were received, where he saw and examined them and took notes of them. This was before the tenders were sent to the department at Ottawa at all. Before the result of the tenders was announced by the department he knew how they stood.

This letter will show the use made of this knowledge when it is understood that Mr. Murphy and Mr. Robert McGreevy were both tenderers for the job.

THE RUSSEL, OTTAWA, Dec. 22, 1890.

To M. Dear Mr. Murphy:—

I had expected to have seen you last night at train to give you copy of the extension of those tenders. It was 9.40 before we got through with them or I would have left you a copy. I now enclose it. You will see that Gallagher is the lowest no matter what interpretation is put on Mc & C. of course they should not be asked to explain at all, but if the parties in power decide to do so. I should say do it at once, before asking Gallagher, and then we will see yours is a decent tender and no doubt you would be prepared to do something. While on Gallagher nothing can be done. I hope Perley won't do anything towards writing them until he comes up here. I tell you we have had a close shave on Gallagher, and if you are obliged to accept it will be hard work to make ends meet.

ROBERT H. MCGREEVY.

A couple of other letters were also read and the committee adjourned.

Bunker's Body Found—Later Deaths from Drowning.

RIDGEWAY, Ont., July 24.—Yesterday afternoon some workmen employed at Carroll's sand dock, about a mile from Sherkston, discovered the body of a man floating in the water near the shore. The remains are those of a man apparently about 25 years of age, of medium height, smooth face and sandy hair, neatly dressed in a dark suit and light flannel shirt. It is supposed to be the body of Mr. Bunker of Toronto, Riverside companion, who were lost off Long Point in the yacht Mabel. The body has the appearance of having been in the water for some days.

FRENCH PROWESS IN AFRICA.

50 Frenchmen Rout an Army of 1200 Natives.

PARIS, July 24.—The government is informed of a serious encounter which recently took place in South Africa between a party of Frenchmen and a large body of natives. Several Frenchmen having been killed by the blacks a French expedition, 50 strong, started from Lahou, on Gold Coast, to avenge their death.

After a week's march through tropical forests they encountered an army of 1200 warriors armed with European rifles at the village of Joussa. The natives were led by three fetichmen. A fight ensued, which lasted four hours. All three of the fetichmen were killed and a large number of blacks were killed and wounded, when the natives retreated. The French party lost two killed and 12 wounded.

Founder of a League.

OTTAWA, July 24.—Col. Howard Vincent, M. P., founder of the United Empires Trade League, arrived here yesterday. He is accompanied by Mrs. Vincent. His object is to ascertain the feeling of Canadians towards the intentions and object of the league to establish trade relations with all British possessions on a preferential basis. He was met by a committee consisting of Messrs. Davin, Hazen and Tyrwhitt and conducted to the House of Commons this afternoon, where he was given a seat on the floor at the side of the Speaker. During the afternoon he was introduced to the members of the Government and to Mr. Laurier. He also called upon the Premier, but Mr. Abbott was not in his office. It has been decided to tender a dinner to Mr. Vincent.

Canadians Captured £500.

LONDON, July 24.—The match for the Kolapore cup at Bisley yesterday was fired in damp, foggy weather, a heavy wind prevailing. Though the team representing the Mother Country volunteers won the cups by seven points the Canadians are generally praised for their pluckey, excellent shooting under weather conditions unlike anything experienced in Canada. Canada last year was 28 points behind the Mother Country. The second prize, which the team wins this year, is a purse of £80 sterling. The winnings of the team thus far aggregate £500.

The Scandals.

The testimony shows that every one in authority connected with the harbor contracts was bribed by Larkin, Connolly & Co.—Perley, the Chief Engineer, young Langevin the superintendent, the dredge inspectors, the cribwork inspectors and the inspectors of masonry. The Minister himself was in the same boat for he received large sums from the firm for his reptile fund. If he did not fob any of the money it was because he had been provided for by a generous community which has been paying him a good salary for many years as well as by the Government contractors in a body who had presented him with $22,000 in cash out of gratitude not for past favors, we may be sure, so much as for favors to come. The works in question cost about $2,000,000; how much was stolen no one can tell, but the amount must have been great. Wherever a probe is thrust into the management of Sir Hector's department, corruption is struck. The Quebec and Levis jobs were probably no worse in their place and measure than that at Esquimalt, out of which the contractors admit that, after a liberal expenditure on account of Uncle Thomas and the Minister's reptile fund, they cleared $48,000 each or $344,000 in all on a work that was to have cost originally $338,000. The Esquimalt business, bad as it was, seems to have been eclipsed by the Kingston graving dock affair, where a contract was given to a non-existent person who nevertheless wrote letters to the department and actually appeared there and signed the contract with his own hand and managed to increase the price of the work from $261,000 to $450,000. The Langevin block at Ottawa is now before the Public Accounts Committee, and to all appearances that was as gross a swindle as any. No one believed the Chaplesaist writer of La Presse pamphlet when he declared that in no single instance during Sir Hector's present term as Minister of Public Works had a contract been executed in accordance with the original terms — that in every case without exception the covenant had been departed from to a greater or less extent so as to enable the contractor to turn a dishonest penny and keep the reptile fund replenished. This was regarded as a Frenchman's hyperbole, but it appears to have been the unadorned truth. Meanwhile, as the facts elicted by Mr. Somerville show, the clerks in the Interior Department have been systematically drawing money on bogus names for extra work which probably had no more objective existence than Mr. Andrew C. Bancroft. The knife is now being applied to the Post Office Department, and the chances are that a similar state of things will be laid bare. With the outside corruption, that done by the Ministers in bribing constituencies and whole Provinces we are all tolerably familiar. There is no need of an inquiry committee to get at that gruesome feature of Canadian politics. It was carried on openly for forty years by Sir John Macdonald, and Tupper is his bright pupil. When a change of Government takes place it will be well to look into another form of the disease about which comparatively little is known, namely the corruption practised by and in behalf of the protected interests. It is notorious that Ministers have regularly summoned the manufacturers to the red parlor and got them to contribute to the reptile fund. A protective tax empowering him to mulct the entire community for the support of his industry is just as profitable an investment for a man with a little ready cash as a honored specification enabling him to fleece the public treasury; and the Tories have done a brisk traffic in that sort of legislation. It will be necessary to examine into it just to find out in the rough how much the manufacturers have paid and to what extent they over-reached the people when like Larkin & Co., they came to recoup themselves. The beatification of the Old Man— a saint is beatified before being canonized— will probably be delayed by the disclosures. The public sees that his statesmanship, about which so much has been said, consisted in the main of holding on to office by means of bribery, the money for which was raised by vulgar frauds.

The press across the line is discussing the cause and origin of recent political scandals in Pennsylvania. It is pointed out that Pennsylvania is a party-ridden State. A bitter feeling prevails which leads men to swear by their political bosses no matter how tainted they may be. This mistakes against the exposure of bad men, and when the bad are not punished, others are led astray and the community becomes demoralized. The high tariff has aggravated this ultra-partizan condition. "Given a State," says the New York Post, "with many great corporations, most of them founded, not naturally, firmly and independently on the law of supply and demand, but on statute, and we can see immediately how closely self and party blend. The situation where politics and dollars are so near together, is by itself most dangerous and usually works itself out in most pernicious results. But it is doubly serious when it has been grafted on a commonwealth where voters have been partizan, where the old party habit still remains strong, and where corruption is entrenched behind party majorities." Our case is not unlike that of Pennsylvania. Party spirit runs high and it is difficult to induce either side to punish a rascal eminent in its counsels. The evil has been aggravated by the long reign of a man who held captive the hearts of his followers and persuaded them to forgive and defend acts of flagrant immorality like the Pacific Scandal. Then, under a vicious system of government which makes the Federal Cabinet the all provider seeking whom it may subsidize, vast sums are entrusted to Canadian Ministers for expenditure under conditions which offer wide opportunity for jobbery and malversation. As the money is borrowed, and as taxation is indirect and therefore not immediately felt by the people, there is in reality no check upon extravagance. The Dominion Government has spent nearly $150,000,000 upon railroads alone, and millions upon millions more on canals, harbours, wharves, docks, lighthouses and public buildings. Under such circumstances a minister lacking in moral sense who knows that he will be backed by the party in anything and everything he does for its gain or advantage, is encouraged to wink at "addition, division and silence." His subordinates follow his example, and the poison works downward until, as in the Quebec case, it permeates the whole official staff from top to bottom, leaving the public interests at the mercy of contractors who feed the reptile fund and fill their own pockets at one and the same time. What are we going to do about it? The Government boasts that it is ready to decapitate every guilty man, yet it maintains the guiltiest at the head of a great spending bureau and continues to recognize him as the leader of the House. Let the decent Tory ask himself if that is the way to begin the work of purgation, or if the work can be performed at all by the party directly responsible for the uncleanness. The matter is one of vital moment, for the Canadian name is fast becoming a byeword and a hissing throughout the world. A heavy responsibility rests upon the large element of respectable Conservatives. They have supported their party zealously, not to say blindly, but it is only fair to assume that they have been unaware of its rotten state. They cannot plead ignorance any longer. The terrible facts brought to light from day to day leave them no option as honorable men but that of demanding the expulsion of the tainted Minister or the resignation of the entire cabinet.—Globe.

A Prosperous Masonic Year.

Extracts from the Grand Master's Address

At the opening of the 17th annual communication of the Grand Lodge of Canada, now in session, Grand Master Robertson delivered a very interesting address from which the following extracts of interest are taken:

After referring to his visit to the Grand Lodge of England, the grand master reviewed the work he had done during the year.

He journeyed over the entire jurisdiction, visiting 130 lodges and covering nearly 10,000 miles of travel. What he saw encouraged the belief that slowly but surely the craft will be able to keep the primary lodges clear of those who become Masons for revenue only. Of the 350 lodges on the roll, 60 per cent. are in an active and prosperous condition; 30 per cent., while in a semi-prosperous state, are showing in each case strong signs of improvement; only 7 per cent. are weak, and 3 per cent. are either dormant or dead. In not a small percentage of the active and prosperous lodges the improvement during the year, even if slow, has been very marked. In those doing less than average work many causes continue to keep them back in the general advancement, while in those that are retrograding a settled inertness prevails. Those that are dormant are better in that condition than if struggling for existence, and the lodges which have passed away have done so with a decorum that was lacking in much of their work while in life.

BENEVOLENT WORK.

In referring to the work of benevolence the grand master says:—"It is my opinion that a close and immediate revision of the list of beneficiaries imperative. While of late years an effort has been made in this direction the results have not been satisfactory. The purse strings of the craft have never been tightly drawn and our bounty has been unstinted, but there is a point at which the line should be drawn; and when well-to-do brethren can sit in their lodge rooms and hear applications for the charity fund of the craft made on behalf of the mothers who have rocked them in the cradle, it encourages the belief that in some men, even if they are brothers, the sparks of manhood are few and far between. The idea prevails with many brethren that the funds set apart for benevolence may be drawn on at will, and in some lodges the effort seems to be to apply for aid, not only for those who are deserving and in need, but for all who are the widows and orphans of deceased members of the lodge. Indeed, cases have been reported to me of application forms having been filled up, endorsed by the lodges and transmitted to the grand secretary, notwithstanding the protests of brethren who were familiar with the circumstances of the proposed beneficiaries. In one case a widow had a comfortable, well-furnished house and had been left some thousands of dollars."

THE FINANCES.

Speaking of the finances of the grand lodge the grand master said he was forced to the conclusion that it costs more than it should to handle the business. He is convinced that much might be saved by arranging that the secretary should give his whole time to the office, and by giving him the assistance of a paid stenographer. Another large expense is incurred in connection with the Board of General Purposes — in 26 years no less a sum than $17,721 25. "It is composed on an average of 50 members, all of whom are presumed to share in its deliberations and assist in the discharge of its work, and yet we know that the actual business of the board is practically accomplished by less than a dozen members. Possibly the fact that the expenses for attendance are paid creates undue competition for sinecures on the board, either by election or appointment. The persistent canvassing for the board is a feature that is not in harmony with true Masonic practices, and encourages the opinion that the time may come when the payment will be abolished. Without any desire to influence the judgment of grand lodge, it seems to me, at least, the labor might be discharged by a reduced membership, by eliminating from the board the district deputy grand masters."

The most sure means of correcting these evils is the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. The prudent sailing-master would as soon go to sea without his chronometer as without a supply of these Pills. Though prompt and energetic in operation, Ayer's Pills leave no ill effects; they are purely vegetable and sugar-coated; the safest medicine for old and young, at home or abroad.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action so that now I am in health."—Mrs. C. E. Clark, Tewksbury, Massachusetts.

"I regard Ayer's Pills as one of the most reliable general remedies of our times. They have been in use in my family for affections requiring a purgative, and have given unvarying satisfaction. We have found them an excellent remedy for colds and light fevers."—W. R. Woodson, Fort Worth, Texas.

"For several years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than upon anything else in the medicine chest, to regulate my bowels and those of the ship's crew. These Pills are not severe in their action, but do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect for the cure of rheumatism, kidney troubles, and dyspepsia."—Capt. Mueller, Steamship Felicia, New York City.

"I have found Ayer's Cathartic Pills to be a better family medicine for common use than any other pills within my knowledge. They are not only very effective, but safe and pleasant to take—qualities which must make them valued by the public."—Jules Hauel, Perfumer, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hora, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston One.,) Daily British Whig, June 27th, 1891.

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

The Grand Trunk System.

The Grand Trunk system differs from the human system in that the same troubles do not affect it and the same remedies are not needed. For all diseases of the human system their is no tonic purifier, renovator and strengthener as good as Burdock Blood Bitters. A weak system can be built up by B.B.B.

Enrich the blood by the use of Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine, which supplies the necessary blood-building material. dw

A Nationalist Plan.

A proposal, which would obtain favor with even the opponents of Nationalism, contemplates the placing of a supply sufficient for each family of nature's great dyspepsia specific and blood purifier, B.B.B., in every home in this land. The benefits of such a boon to the people would be incalculable.

STUBBORN CHILDREN readily take Dr. Low's Worm Syrup. It pleases the child and destroys the worms. dw

FLORIDA'S VOLCANO.

The Mystery of Pinhook Swamp Has Not Been Solved Yet Unravelled.

Messrs. Castleman and Barbour, who, with Mr. Stayley as guide, went down into the Pinbrook Swamp to ferret out Florida's mysterious volcano, have returned, like thousands of others, without the volcano. They took observations from the east bank of the Waccasa River, near the Gulf, and saw the vast column of smoke ascending skyward Having no boats to cross the stream, they could not make a direct shoot for the location of the smoke, but had to move further up to start into the swamp.

They were supplied with a good compass and an experienced engineer, but the swamp was such a dense jungle of canes, vines, briers, and undergrowth generally, that they had to literally hew out a passage. After much hard work they found that they were progressing only one and a half miles per day Castleman and Barbour have not entirely given up the exploration, but will equip themselves better for the work and try it again at a later day

For more than half a century this mysterious column of smoke by day and a flame by night, rising in the midst of an impenetrable swamp on the Gulf coast, has not only puzzled the rustic fishermen and hunters who watch it from the outer edges of the swamp, but scientists and thousands of others who have viewed it from elevated points about Tallahassee, thirty miles away.

By day it presents the appearance of a vast volume of jet black smoke rising up as though issuing from a huge smokestack ascending high above the tree-tops and floating off on the breeze. At night it presents a bright light as though a large house were burning and the flames were not quite visible It appears and disappears at irregular intervals, but always in the same place. From Tallahassee it is south south east, and when burning can be plainly seen from any elevated position. For more than twelve months, a few years ago, it was continuously visible from the east windows of the Tallahassee office.

Numerous expeditions have started out with sanguine expectations, but came back worn out and disgusted They can get all around the mystery, and see it from any elevated standpoint, but when they start into the swamp, which is from fifteen to thirty miles across in any direction, they are met by insurmountable barriers, besides snakes, alligators, mosquitoes, and sand flies.

It is hard to believe that a decent, respectable volcano would hide itself away in such an ungainly place as this, but there is the smoke and flame, and if it is not a volcano, what is it?

During the late war the Federal gunboats lying out in the Gulf off St. Marks mistook this smoke for a confederate blockade runner hidden behind the swamps by some private channel, and wasted lots of valuable ammunition shelling that dismal swamp.—Tallahassee Floridian.

Old Saws in Rhyme.

Actions speak louder than words ever do,
You can't eat your cake, and hold on to it too

When the cat is away, then the little mice play.
Where there is a will there is always a way.

One's deep in the mud as the other in mire;
Don't jump from the frying pan into the fire

There's no use crying o'er milk that is spilt;
No accuser is needed by conscience of guilt

There must be some fire wherever is smoke.
The pitcher goes oft to the well till it's broke

By rogues falling out honest men get their due;
Whoever it fits, he must put on the shoe.

All work and no play will make Jack a dull boy,
A thing of much beauty is ever a joy

A half loaf is better than no bread at all.
And pride always goeth before a and fall.

Fast bind and fast find, have two strings to your bow
Contentment is better than riches, we know

The devil finds work for hands idle to do.
A miss is as good as a mile is to you.

You speak of the devil, he's sure to appear;
You can't make a silk purse from out of sow's ear.

A man by his company always is known
Who lives in a glass house should not throw a stone.

When the blind leads the blind both will fall in the ditch.
It's better born lucky than being born rich.

Little pitchers have big ears, burnt child dreads the fire,
Though speaking the truth, no one credits a liar.

Speech may be silver, but silence is gold.
There's many a fool like the fool who is old

Queer Things Clerks See.

Some queer things come under the notice of women clerks in the big dry-good stores. Said a little spinster who is a sub-head of the white goods department in a Sixth avenue firm. "A young lady came in here the other day, picked up a petticoat from a special sale, went to a fitting-room, put it on and brought me the soiled one to send home It was raining, and she felt wet and untidy, she said It is not an unusual thing for a customer to ask to try on a pair of silk stockings, a request never refused in fine stock, before taking them.

Winnipeg, July 23.—Sheriff McLean of Portage la Prairie was killed yesterday at McDonald while assisting to bring a traction engine from his farm to the station. Young Girl Discovers the Business of Her Future Husband.

"I never saw such funny writing as George's is," said the beautiful young girl, as she held an envelope up for the inspection of her married friend.

"It is rather illegible," was the reply.

"O, I don't mean that," was the quick response. "He puts such funny marks in it. You know he's only written me three or four letters since we've been engaged because he's been in the city all the time, but when he does write one it looks so funny. It's all filled with marks like this—'T'—and then he makes character 'ands' like this—'&'—and puts a ring around them. And at the end of all his sentences he puts a cross like this—'x.' Then, when he makes a figure he puts a ring around it, and always draws two lines under his signature. And sometimes he draws a line down through capital letters, and once he crossed a word out and then drew a ring around it and marked it 'stet.' It's awfully funny. I can't make anything out of it."

"My dear," said the married woman, as quietly as her excitement would allow, "have you no suspicions?"

"Suspicions!" exclaimed the beautiful young girl in alarm. "No, no! Of what?"

"Has he never confessed?" persisted the married woman, with Spartan firmness.

"George confess!" cried the fair maiden. "Martha, you alarm me. Are they counterfeiter's marks?"

"Worse," was the solemn answer. "Ethel, your husband will be out nights. He will come in at all hours. Most of his work will be done under cover of darkness. He will miss his dinners, and be constantly changing the hours. He cannot be depended on to be at home at any certain time or to leave at any certain time. Ethel, the man you are engaged to is a newspaper man."

"No, no; it cannot be!" cried the dark-eyed beauty. "I will not believe it."

"Ethel" She was very impressive. "Did he ever draw a straight line through all the pages of a letter?"

THE WORLD'S WAY.

The world is cold and scornful,
And though heartless it is gay,
And merit starves while knavery
Upholds its sovereign sway
The sacred things are mocked at
And unbelief today
Is prevalent We sigh alas!
'Tis but the wise world's way.

The rich forget that misery
Is not so far away,
To-morrow wrapped in darkness lies.
We live but for today.
And he who borrows trouble
Will soon be old and gray.
Be young, enjoy life while you can,
This is the gay world's way.

Cold, cynical and careless,
We grow more so each day.
And kind attention to the poor
We have no time to pay
O ye who do in kindness
Your duty day by day
Among the friendless, blessed your lot,
You are not of the world's way.

Let the World Know You are in it

It seems almost a crime for a man to "hide his light under a bushel." If he has something new, that will benefit the human race, he should make it known. Old-fogy physicians tread the beaten path of their grandfathers, denounce advertised remedies, and never learn anything new. Medical science knows no parallel to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, compounded by a physician of long experience, especially for the maladies which afflict women. It affects a permanent cure of those agonizing disorders which attack her frail organism and is an anchor of hope alike to delicate girls and suffering women; contains no deleterious drugs. Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—106 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough eod-w

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J. Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed he had was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

The Busy Burglar in Ashburnham.

A Practical Midnight Mechanic—Cracks Four Shops—And Nearly Shoots his Man—Gallant Attempt at Capture by Mr. J. T. Throop—No Clue to the Vandalic Identity or Whereabouts.

Ashburnham had a big sensation last night. It was a burglary, or rather a series of burglarious attempts. The burglar was discovered and disturbed in this wise:—About half-past three o'clock this morning Mr. John Throop was awakened by his wife, who told him that she thought burglars were trying to get into Mr. C. H. Moore's shop. His attention being thus drawn to what was going on, Mr. Throop heard noises that confirmed his wife's impressions. He hastily arose and dressed and prepared for an encounter with the burglar. Mr. Moore's shop is directly opposite Mr. Throop's on the other side, and Mr. Throop's plan was to way lay the burglar at the front door and floor him with a blow from the heavy walking stick he picked up in the hall as he was leaving his house. He crossed the street and took his position alongside the angle of the window beside the recess in which stands the glass door. He called out to the robber who with a chisel, and came to the front door, the upper part of which was of glass. Here he saw Mr. Throop barring his way and he deliberately raised a pistol and taking aim, fired. Mr. Throop was only six or seven feet away and the robber made such good marksmanship that the ball came so close to Mr. Taroop's cheek that he felt the passage of the bullets—possibly an inch or less from his face. Seeing that the rascal meant mischief Mr. Throop retired a few paces and the burglar came out, and brandishing his pistol cried out, "Keep back! keep back!" Instead of this Mr. Throop made a rush towards the man, who again fired, and again wide of the mark. He then ran, and as he ran he fired another shot—again without effect. Mr. Throop pursued his man, at the same time calling aloud with the idea of getting help in the chase, but no person was aroused and the burglar turning the corner at the new town hall building, Mr. Throop lost trace of him. He was soon joined by Mr. Moore, who continued the hunt. They saw a man on the C.P.R. track near the lake and called to him, but he made no answer, and disappeared on Burnham's Point. Mr. Moore kept watch while Mr. Throop went to the C. P. R. station to call the police. In the meantime the man had disappeared, and it is supposed that he swam across to Point St. Charles, and for the time escaped.

The burglar, whoever he was, was evidently in the wholesale branch of his predatory profession. His course, as revealed by marks he left behind him, was first to break into Craig's blacksmith shop and secure tools for further operations. He paid a visit to Mr. Madill's drug store, but secured very little spoil. He next devoted his attention to the shop of Mr. Collins. Here he took some small change that was in the till. His next move was on Mr. Moore's shop. He was using a chisel to good effect when Mr. Throop so inconsiderately disturbed him. The rascal evidently meant business in a double sense—he meant to get spoil and did not mean to get caught. He was bound if necessary to get out of Mr. Moore's store safely, even if he had to and he came nearer killing Mr. Throop than the latter thinks pleasant. Mr. Throop deserves great credit for the bold stand he made against an armed man evidently in earnest in the use his weapon. The pistol used was a good sized one. The muzzle was held close to the glass of the door and the bullet crashed through the heavy crown glass making a large hole. As far as Mr. Throop could judge the burglar was a man about 5 feet 11 inches in height. He was evidently not a mere sneak thief or he would not have risked adding murder to the other crime he was committing. So far no clue is got to the thief's indentity or where about. It is probable that he will keep concealed till this evening and then mix with the crowd of strangers in town and escape.

The C.P.R. Invasion.

Five Thousand Holidaying Railroaders Descend Upon us—A Fine appearing Contingent of Excursionists.

About noon to-day a large crowd of C.P.R. railway employes and attaches, came to town on the occasion of their annual picnic. The town was expecting them and gave them a hearty welcome. The streets were gay with flags and bunting, and at several points were streamers thrown across the streets bearing the agreeable blazon, "Welcome." The eastern division train first steamed into the station. This brought about 1,500 passengers, all told, and was accompanied by Mr. R. Cardiff, assistant superintendent at Smith's Falls. Shortly after two more specials arrived, one starting from Parkdale and the other from Toronto. With them came Mr. T. Williams, assistant superintendent, London, and Mr. R. Jamieson, assistant superintendent, Toronto. These guardian angels of the excursionists were assisted by Mr. A. L. Hertzberg, chief engineer, Toronto. These trains each brought about 1,500 excursionists, and add to these those who came by the regular mid-day express from the west, and we have a grand total of about 5,000 excursionists. The event was called a picnic but it was to be noticed that the basket feature, inseparable, usually, from a picnic, was almost entirely absent. There were hundreds who came to see their friends in town, and were received and fed by them. Those not so fortunate found ample and excellent accommodation at the hotels. A noticeable feature of the visitors was their generally well-dressed, tidy and respectable appearance and their behaviour generally accorded with their respectable appearance. After dinner the crowd collected at Burnham's point where arrangements had been made for the sports and games, while a large number went over to the Athletic Association grounds to witness the lacrosse match between the Athletics of Toronto and the local team. As the EXAMINER goes to press the excursionists are enjoying themselves in various ways, and can be seen in all parts of the town.

Canada's International Exhibition

Arrangements are in progress for holding a Dairyman's convention at St. John N.B. during this exhibition, and it is expected that several experts will be present and will give some lectures on dairy interests. Arrangements are also being made for showing several varities of cream separaters and other dairy apparatus in operation. It is also proposed to offer some special prizes for dairy products, and that the competition may be open to all the Provinces. Prof. Robertson of the Dominion Experimental Farm, who is now visiting the Creameries and Cheese Factories throughout the Maritime Provinces, is taking quite an active interest in this matter. The exhibition opens on Sept. 23rd, and continues until Oct 3rd.

A Day of Delight.

Successful Annual Outing of Charlotte Street Methodist Sunday School.

Yesterday about three hundred of the teachers, scholars, parents and friends of the Charlotte Street Methodist Sunday School boarded the G.T.R. at 8 45, and, after reaching Lakefield, took the steamer "Golden City," Captain Reynolds, commanding, for their destination, Juniper Island.

In the morning there was the appearance of rain, but as the day advanced the clouds began to disperse and all were being assured that the day was going to be fine, and so it proved, for a more delightful day could not have been chosen.

Arriving at Juniper Island, a general table was spread and all took part in the ample feast that had been provided by the parents and friends of the school.

Then commenced the explorations of the island, but no suitable place could be found for the foot-races and games, so the captain said that he would, if the committee so wished, take the crowd to Burleigh. A large number availed themselves of the captain's kindness; the others remained at Juniper Island, passing the time in boating, fishing, &c.

At Burleigh the boys and girls

ENTERED HEARTILY INTO THE SPORTS

provided for them and for which suitable prizes were given to the victors.

Below we furnish a list of the prizes awarded:—

Infant class girls—1st Maggie Thompson, 2nd Harriet Goodman.

Primary boys—1st Eddie Graham, 2nd Harry Cox.

Misses Robinson and Dawe's classes—Hattie Jackson, Lillie Minorgan, ties; 2nd Jennie Edwards.

Mrs. Brock's class—1st Bert. Cox, 2nd Bert Lyle.

Mrs. Stenton and Miss M. Neill's classes—Elith Lyle, Ethel Sherwood, ties; 2nd Edith Fuller.

Boys 10 to 12 years old—1st: Fred. Cox, 2nd Geo. Elwards.

Boys over 12 years—1st Willie Lytle, 2nd Fred Kennedy.

Girls from 12 to 14—1st: Jessie Smith, Sarah Thompson, Carrie Sutherland, ties.

Small Girls' Race—1st Maggie Wilson, 2nd Ettie Smith, 3rd Ida Smith.

General Girls' Race—1st Effie Babcock, 2nd Gussie Langford.

General Boys' Race—1st Arthur Stenson, 2nd Wellington Langford, 3rd Arthur Edwards.

Small Girls' Competition, "Golden City Prize—1st Mary Redmond, 2nd Edith Fuller, 3rd Annie Edmondson, 4th Jennie Edwards.

There were a number of other prizes given which were carried off by Ernie Saunders, Bruce Hughes, Walter Doxsee, Stanley Jackson, Arthur Fuller, Percy Wilson, Arthur Garfield, Arthur Stenson and George Carton.

The Sunday School has never had a more enjoyable picnic, not even the slightest thing occurring to mar the pleasure of the excursionists.

Great praise is due Capt. Reynolds for his uniform kindness and civility, and he was publicly thanked by the Superintendent, Mr. O. C. Rowse. The Captain replied, thanking all the officers of the school and the people generally for their kindness, and said it was one of the most harmonious and enjoyable parties with which he had to do this summer. The crowd then struck up "For he's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Rev. Mr. Edwards and family accompanied the party, and the pastor showed himself to be a mixed expert at fishing, for he succeeded in hauling in a six pounder, but was rather unfortunate in losing a fish about the same size.

The Committee worked like beavers and deserve great praise for their unique management of the picnic.

Thus ends in many respects the best picnic yet held by the Charlotte street Methodist Sunday School.

As there is no royal road to learning, so there is no magical cure for disease. The effect, however, of taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for blood disorders comes as near magic as can be expected of any mere human agency. This is due to its purity and strength. dw

A Peterborough Naturalist.

The Olympia, Washington, U.S., Tribune has the following in reference to former residents of Peterborough:—"Dr. Kincaid's son, T. Kincaid, has discovered a new insect, which has been identified by Professor Riley as the Leptura Gnathicles. Professor Riley, who is the curator of insects at the United States National Museum, Smithsonian Institution, wants a few more specimens of the insect as it is rare. The museum extends thanks to Mr. Kincaid for the interest he has taken in the work and having sent twenty-six other specimens of insects. They will be added to the collection in Mr. Kincaid's name. Good for the Olympia boy."

Chemong Park Notes.

(From Our Holiday Correspondent.)

Hop at the Pavilion—A Pleasant and Successful Assembly—New Arrivals at the Hotel.

Thursday evening a number of the ladies and gentlemen summering at this place, gave a successful hop at the pavilion, being the first event of the kind held here this season. There was quite a large party, including most of the residents at the park and the visitors at the hotel and several 'bus loads of visitors who drove out from Peterborough. The programmme was well arranged and much enjoyed by all the dancers. Mr Elliott took the trouble to have the floor of his pavilion waxed for the occasion, and it was found to answer admirably for dancing. Ice cream, lemonade and other refreshments were supplied during the evening, and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves heartily. Much credit is due to the ladies and gentlemen who took the initiative in getting up this pleasant affair, and in arranging the details. A quadrille band from Peterborough, under the leadership of Mr. F. W. Miller, furnished excellent music during the evening. Dancing was kept up until an early hour this morning.

ARRIVALS.

Among the new arrivals at the hotel this week are the following:—G. Salmon, Montreal; Mrs. Jas. Campbell, John Clarke, R. W. Bell, M.D., John McKee, Mrs. R. S. Davidson and family, Dr. and Mrs. Geo. Burnham, Miss Going, Miss Burritt, Miss Edith McKee, Peterborough; W. Wright, Toronto.

Mr. Fobert has placed a national cash register in the handsome bar of his hotel. The guests at the hotel are increasing daily and are delighted with the accommodation and meals supplied and the healthfulness of the park. Mr. Fobert, is in his beneficial functions, very painstaking, and looks closely after the comforts and enjoyments of his guests.

Personal.

Mr. K. H. Green, Mrs. Green, and Miss Lottie Green have returned home from their trip to Colorado.

Mr. Rob. Simpson, Head Master of the Orono Public School, has entered the Peterborough Business College and is pursuing a full course in bookkeeping and penmanship.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I had Hood's pills, as cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

THE WAR SCARE AGAIN.

THIS TIME BRINGS TIDINGS OF TROOPS BEING MASSED.

Russia's Extensive Movements—The "True Inwardness" of the Czar's Policy—Where England Comes In—When War Does Come It Will Be Spread Over a Wide Expanse of Territory.

LONDON, July 24.—The news of Russian movements, which reaches here from two different sources, goes to confirm the belief that Lord Salisbury has committed England to the triple alliance without signing any formal treaty. The continued concentration of Russian troops on the Austrian frontier which is reported from Vienna is the surest indication that Russia believes the alliance has been strengthened by Emperor William's visit to England, and that she had better be prepared for any emergency. There are now close to the Galician border over 200,000 men, ready to move at a moment's notice, and in less than a week by means of the new strategetic railways the number would be redoubled. In three weeks 500,000 men could be thrown into Galicia and in twenty-four hours from the declaration of war 30,000 Cossacks would be raiding in Austrian territory.

Russia's preparations on the German frontier are almost as complete, but the chief centre of military activity is farther south clearly indicating Russia's intention to strike first and hardest at Austria.

In Asia Russia is scarcely less active, but it is only when some incident happens near the border line of English territory that any idea can be formed of what is going on. There is a strong belief among Englishmen well informed in Indian affairs that Russia is steadily preparing for a move on Afghanistan as soon as England shall have done some overt act showing direct connection with the dreibund.

The Indian Government is fully alive to the danger and is quietly but vigorously pushing military preparations. Besides the regular Anglo-Indian army, a new force has been organized for imperial defence in each of the tributary states, and the number of thoroughly drilled and fully equipped men armed with British rifles at the disposal of the semi-independent princes is over 10,000. The Indian army, under the direct control of the Governor-General, has been thoroughly reorganized by Sir Fredrick Roberts, and is now in a more efficient state than ever before. A force of 150,000 could be rapidly moved northward, but against a European foe they would certainly be inferior to the regular British soldier. If England is committed to the triple alliance, the big war when it comes will be waged over a very wide extent of territory.

A WRONGED WIFE'S VICTORY.

A Sane Woman Immured in a Lunatic Asylum.

LONDON, July 24.—The enquiry into the mental condition of Mrs. Mary Cathcart, a wealthy lady of Wootton Lodge, Staffordshire, on the petition of her husband, James Taylor Cathcart, which has been going on for some time before Mr. Bulwer, Q. C., master in lunacy, and a special jury in the royal courts of justice, resulted yesterday in a verdict to the effect that Mrs. Cathcart was of a sound state of mind. The case is a remarkable one if only for the fact that a number of physicians declared Mrs. Cathcart, who had been confined in an asylum to be insane, while the special jury now finds against a powerful array of medical talent. Mrs. Cathcart frequently referred to persecutions and alleged adultery against her husband and claimed to be in dread of being poisoned. Mrs. Cathcart also complained as to alleged fraudulent settlements and as to witnesses who would have assisted her having been put away in convents. She also, according to testimony, charged her mother with attempting to poison her.

Parisians Morbid Tastes.

PARIS, July 24.—Horrible scenes have been witnessed during the past week in the Place de la Roquette, where criminals are guillotined. Crowds of the lowest classes have assembled there every evening and have passed the night in the vicinity in drinking and singing and waiting to witness the execution of the murderess Berland and her accomplice Dore. Yesterday the crowds were more riotous and offensive than usual, and the police were compelled to charge the crowds, making many arrests.

Jack "The Ripper" in France.

PARIS, July 24.—Two murders, similar in character to those ascribed in London to "Jack the Ripper," have been committed in Marseilles within a week. A man giving an Italian name twice took rooms accompanied by women and in each case the woman was afterwards found murdered, having been strangled and then mutilated. A letter was sent to the police stating that these crimes were the beginning of a series.

Parnell was Cheered.

DUBLIN, July 24.—The League Convention met here yesterday with a large attendance. Mr. Parnell who was presiding officer was warmly cheered. Referring to Mr. Balfour's promise as outlined, of a local Government bill for Ireland, Mr. Parnell said he would join with Timothy Healy in making it as comprehensive as possible.

A Palace on Fire.

CAIRO, July 24.—The Abdin palace was partially destroyed by fire yesterday. The reception halls of the palace, the harem and many articles of value were saved.

The Count's Public Reception.

MONTREAL, July 24.—The demonstration in the house of Premier Mercier on his return from Europe, which took place here last night, was a big success, as far as numbers were concerned. There were torchlight processions, bands presentation and 20,000 people

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and had them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in any way get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANET A. HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64,824 07

A WOODSTOCK WOMAN THE VICTIM OF A CRIMINAL OPERATION.

The Serenade Shooting Results in a Verdict of Manslaughter Against Edward Stricker—The West York Murder Case—A Body Washed Ashore at Port Colborne—General.

MONTREAL, July 25.—A case of death which resulted from a criminal operation has been brought to the notice of the Provincial Government. A short time ago a leading physician in the city received a visit from a lady who was evidently enceinte, and who asked him to perform an operation on her. The physician, of course, refused and the lady went away. A week ago on Saturday the same physician received a despatch to go to Notre Dame de Stanbridge to attend the lady who had previously called on him. He found the lady suffering from the effects of an operation which had been performed on her, blood poisoning had set in and the lady was at the point of death. She was removed to this city and taken to a private hospital, where two days later death resulted from the effects of the operation. The name of the woman was Alice Mendie, and she formerly resided at Woodstock, Ont., but latterly at Notre Dame de Staubridge. Who the physician is that performed the operation it is the intention of the Government to try and discover.

MANSLAUGHTER.

The Jury Find a Verdict to That Effect Against Edward Stricker.

BERLIN, Ont., July 25.—At the inquest last night the four young men, Chas. Meyer, Philip Koerber, Musselman and Kumpf, charged with the murder of old man Zachman, were acquitted, the jury finding that they had nothing to do with the shooting, though they were present at the time and no doubt knew who the guilty party is. The jury found Ed. Stricker guilty of manslaughter. The other four will be held as witnesses.

Zachman lived near the crossroads in the little hamlet of Lexington, about two and a half miles northeast of Waterloo. They merely lived in Baden, where the old man went by the name of "Schlopperflicker," an appellation received from the nature of his occupation. It appears that the boys around Lexington used to harass the old man from time to time and on the night of July 10, after Zachman and his wife had retired, they were aroused from their slumber by the crash of stones against the window shutters. They hastily arose and dressed. The parties then began to play on the violin without the house. The outside shutter of the window was then torn off and the inside shutter was forced off by means of a rail, and at the same instant the barrel of a gun was pointed through the opening made and a shot fired. The charge, containing a paper wad, took effect in the abdomen of Mr. Zachman, inflicting a wound, from which he died.

Several of the serenaders were arrested and they confessed that Edward Stricker fired the shot. He fled the country before his arrest could be accomplished, however.

SOPHIE HANDCOCK'S MURDER.

Detective Grier Given Charge of the Case and Visits the Scene.

TORONTO, July 25.—Yesterday the Attorney General's Department placed the task of ferreting out the murderer of Sophie Handcock at Fairbank Village in the hands of Detective Grier, who visited the scene of the tragedy. The excitement of the villagers shows no abatement, and although the crime is canvassed eagerly no new theories have been put forth.

It has transpired that the house in which the tragedy occurred belonged to the murdered girl, having been deeded to her by her mother. The records in the registry office show that on April 22, 1891, Elizabeth Handcock deeded to her daughter, Sophia, for "natural love and affection and the sum of $1," lot 4, plan 428, subdivision of lot 30, on the third concession from the bay. This is the precise lot on which the store now stands, where the family reside and in which the mysterious tragedy of last week occurred. Mrs. Handcock originally paid $500 for the lot, purchasing it of Peter Emboden of this city. She subsequently mortgaged it to the Trust & Loan Company of Canada for $300 which mortgage was still against it when it was transferred to the daughter.

Some of the tragedy reports have been circulated among the villagers that more than one quarrel had taken place between parents and daughter, owing to Sophie's refusal to re-deed the property to her mother.

On being questioned about the matter, Handcock found refuge in the Scriptures and in the seclusion of the dining room. The fact that the couple were worried by the questionings and the financial embarrassment they were suffering would account for this perturbation. But the financial trouble will now be at least partially averted as the mother will receive the beneficiary of $1000 from the Friendly Society in which Sophia's life was insured and the property of the deceased can be placed on the market.

The Garafraxa Shooter Sentenced.

GUELPH, July 25.—Thomas Garvin, 60 years of age, owner of a farm, lot 33, con. 2, West Garafraxa, was yesterday sentenced to three months' imprisonment. Garvin had a dispute with his tenant, William Byers, about some cherries on the trees, and while Byers was pulling the cherries Garvin fired a load of buckshot at him. Some of the shot struck Byers, but fortunately the force of the load was far spent.

A Runaway at Galt.

GALT, July 25.—F. G. Allenby went out driving with Mrs Allenby and Mr and Mrs Eldridge of Toronto. The horses became restive and all the occupants descended except Mr. Allenby, who attempted to drive on. Scarcely had he started when the horses ran away, and Mr. Allenby was thrown over the fence on the side of the road, his right leg striking the top fence rail, breaking it badly just above the knee.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

A GIGANTIC STREET RAILWAY SYNDICATE PROPOSED.

The Hendries Sell Out in Detroit—An Italian Tragedy—Cannibalism at Stanley Falls—A Liberal Victory—The State of Business.

DETROIT, July 25.—The ownership of the Detroit street railway is to change hands. The purchasers are a syndicate of Detroit capitalists, principally from New York and Boston, but 500 to 1000 of the shareholders for small amounts will be Detroiters. Ex-Governor Waller of Connecticut was the chief promoter of the negotiations, which have been pending since May last. The amount of the consideration involved in the transfer has not been learned. Some of the members of the syndicate are largely interested in other street railways in the United States, and the system which they have just taken under their wing comprises some 50 miles. The formal transfer will be made as soon as possible. The reorganized company will give rapid transit to Detroit without delay. With this end in view plans are being perfected for an electric system and a survey of the roads is being made. The largest shareholders in the old company will, it is said, have no pecuniary interest in the new concern. These are Mr. George Hendrie of this city, president, Mr. William Hendrie of Hamilton and Secretary Currie. One of the reasons advanced for the change is the health of the people.

In an interview in one of the Detroit papers Mr. Hendrie said that his wealth had indeed about five years ago and he had not been able to give his personal attention to the affairs of the company and this had made him personally willing to dispose of his interest. His brother, William Hendrie of Hamilton, the other large stockholder, had been able to take but little part in the actual work of the Detroit company owing to his large interests in Canada. These things had all worked to make Mr. Hendrie also willing to dispose of his interests. He has put hundreds of thousands of dollars into the Detroit plant as a horse car line, and has never drawn any money out, everything made going back to build up the plant. He had never contemplated running anything but a horse car business, and being now confronted with a condition of affairs where he must either go out of business or change to a new business full of experiments, he preferred to sell out.

It begins to look as if there was a lot of truth in the report that a gigantic trust is being formed in the United States to control the bulk of the street railways in the big cities of North America, Canada included.

WINDSOR, July 25.—The sale of the Hendrie control of the Detroit Street Railway has been completed and the Hendries, George Hendrie and William of Hamilton, retire from the company with several millions. It is said that the Hendries sold out for the primary reason that they have disputes with the Detroit authorities and the way they failed to protect their property in the recent street car strike in that city. George Hendrie is an American citizen, though born in Scotland, and his brother of Hamilton has always been a British subject. There is no denying that on account of this fact there was more or less hostility to them and that rather than be met with such opposition they decided to sell, especially as Mr George Hendrie's health broke down some time ago.

One significant fact is that The Detroit News, when announcing the sale, puts in its first and largest heading over the intimation "The Hendries Out."

The result will be that the Hendries will invest the million they take out of Detroit in Canada.

The Direct Line of Italy.

ROME, July 25.—At Catanzaro, in Calabria, a cavalry officer named Scandazza fell in love with Virginia Gualtieri, the daughter of a landowner whose mansion is opposite the barracks. The acquaintance had existed two years, when the young lady's father ordered her to marry the son of a rich neighbor. On the day of the wedding Scandazza stood at the window of the barracks alternately menacing and imploring Virginia by gestures, to disregard her father's injunctions. Virginia's final reply was to press a lemon between her hands a local way of indicating that all was over. Scandazza rushed to his room, barricaded the door, and, as the wedding party was leaving the residence, he opened fire upon them. The first shot struck and instantly killed Virginia's married sister. A second bullet inflicted a severe wound in the head of the bride. The procession dispersed in terror, and a crowd of infuriated citizens gathered before the barracks clamoring for the officer's surrender. Scandazza reopened fire, wounding several persons. The officers finally succeeded in forcing open his door, but Scandazza turned his weapon up on himself and blew his brains out.

Serious Accident at Orangeville.

ORANGEVILLE, July 25.—William Collier was engaged digging a trench for the foundation of the water works, when the bank caved in, burying the unfortunate man up to the neck and breaking his collar bone and several ribs. Four or five of his fellow workmen dug him out as quickly as possible and summoned medical assistance.

Killed by a Fall.

STRATFORD, July 25.—While a 10-year old son of Philip Wolf, living in North Easthope, about two miles east of Gadshill, was at play in the hayloft he fell from an overlay in the barn and sustained such internal injuries that he died about 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

A Broken Jaw.

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., July 25.—Fred Smith of Toronto, a deck hand on the steamer Lakeside, was struck by a float, which snapped off when the boat was being checked, and his jaw was broken on both sides of the chin.

KINGSTON, July 25.—The detectives who have been watching the grave of Sir John A. Macdonald have been called to the capital and will not return.

PRIVILEGES AND ELECTIONS.

The Conclusion of the Examination of Robert McGreevy.

OTTAWA, July 25.—At the meeting of the Committee on Privileges and Elections yesterday the evidence of Robert McGreevy occupied the time of the Privilege and Election Committee during all the morning's session. He was briefly examined with regard to the steamer Admiral. He said that he had purchased the boat at Thomas McGreevy's request, and held it afterwards in the interest of Thomas McGreevy. The ship was bought in New York; he did not remember the cost. In 1884 witness paid $10,000 which was still due on the original cost of the boat. This $10,000 was part of the money paid to him by the Dominion Government for his Intercolonial Railway claim. The mortgage afterwards given to N. K. Connolly was here produced and identified by the witness. Speaking of the donations given to Thomas McGreevy, witness related the conversation which took place between him and his brother in the office in Quebec. Thomas had complained that he was not getting his share of the profits of the firm. Michael Connolly had told him (Thomas) that he was not getting his share—witness then endeavored to convince Thomas that he was getting his fair share. To do this he wrote him the following letter:

QUEBEC, July 14, 1890.

DEAR THOMAS.—I enclose you the account amounting to $78,484, less $20,739, received on your account, leaving a balance of $57,745, without the interest. I may say, nearly all was paid you within three years. To give you some idea of the amount of money I have for speculation, let me show you what it has cost me since 1881. It takes $4000 to pay the premium on life insurance $5000 per year, cost of living, which includes building societies, $2000 per annum, to pay Union Bank and other interest, in all $55,000. I paid $11,000 out on L.C.R. claims. I have paid the Banque Nationale, including note due to-morrow, $7650, in all $78,000, which, with amount paid you, makes $130,000. I received from Larkin, Connolly & Co. about $135,000, or something under. I believe you received from me out of that $135,000 or thereabouts, $58,000 besides $117,000 paid direct to you from Larkin, Connolly & Co., and still you are not satisfied. I have to pay between this and August $10,000 to La Banque Nationale to clear them up. I intend to reduce and pay up the Union Bank and all I can to you. If this reasonable programme does not suit you then break up the whole thing and wind it up at once. I have no desire nor interest in being the medium of conflict between those contractors and you, and of trouble and turmoil to myself. I remain, yours truly,

ROBERT H. MCGREEVY.

Examined in reference to the letter, witness said that there was no agreement between him and his brother as to the amount the latter was to receive. Thomas sued him shortly after for the $400,000 and acknowledged receipt of amount mentioned in this letter.

Cross-examined by Mr. Stewart, the witness gave technical evidence with regard to the condition of his account books. He and his three eldest sons were the only persons who made entries in these books. Witness swore positively that there was not an entry of any account of his with the firm that was not produced before the committee except the account rendered in the foregoing letter. There were some transactions, however, which were never entered in the books. All donations, for instance, were kept in the memory of witness without any written record.

The rest of the session was occupied by the examination of these books by the committee. Thomas McGreevy arrived in the city to-day and will probably be sworn to-morrow.

At the afternoon sitting it was decided to ask Alan Macdougall, Toronto, to act as assistant engineer to assist Mr. Jennings in the comparisons he is making in the different tenders sent in for the cross-wall.

The cross-examination of Robert H. McGreevy was then continued by Mr. Stuart, K.C., who interested with his brother in the construction of the Parliament buildings here, in a railway contract in Pennsylvania, in the construction of the North Shore Railway and a section of the Intercolonial. Thomas McGreevy became a candidate for Parliament in 1873. Being afraid that he would be unseated on account of holding a contract from the Government he requested Robert to destroy all papers and other evidences of partnership. Robert did so and immediately published an affidavit that his brother was not and never had been a partner of his. Being asked how he could reconcile his affidavit with the facts, he said he regarded the affidavit as a mere formal document executed to protect his brother. After some other questions regarding the famous $400,000 note, his examination was postponed until Tuesday to give Mr. Stewart an opportunity of inspecting some of his diaries.

George Benson Williams, the next witness said that in May, 1885, Thomas McGreevy, whom he knew personally, met him on the Parliament grounds and said that Mr. Perley wanted to see him immediately. He went to Mr. Perley, who said the department was thinking of changing the resident engineer on the Esquimalt dock, and asked him if he thought he could do the work. He replied that he could. Mr. Perley made no definite proposal, but asked him to call a few days later. He did so, and then Mr. Perley made him a definite proposal. He asked for 24 hours to consider the matter. Next morning he wrote Sir Hector and Mr Perley that he declined the offer, and gave his reasons for so doing. His impression all through was that Mr. Perley was acting with authority from the Minister. He afterwards saw Sir Hector, who approved of the reason he gave for declining. Sir Hector did not appear to be surprised at receiving the letter. On the contrary Sir Hector spoke as if he knew all about the proposal.

Some discussion took place on the question of adjournment.

Mr. Geoffrion said that after Robert McGreevy's cross-examination was finished he thought he could conclude this case in two days.

The committee then adjourned till Tuesday next.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

Questions to be Asked Respecting the Printing Bureau.

OTTAWA, July 25.—Intimation of another scandal is looming up in the distance. Mr. Lister moved yesterday at the meeting of the Public Accounts Committee for vouchers, papers and accounts in connection with the equipment and printing material supplied to the printing bureau. The motion was carried. Mr. Mulock then took up the Langevin block inquiry, calling on Mr. W. Garth of C. Garth & Co., Montreal, who had the contract for putting in the heating apparatus, as the first witness. He testified that he had to pay $3550 to Mr. Charlebois, contractor for the building for being permitted to enter the building. The price of his contract was $15,500, and of this amount he paid $3750 to Mr. Charlebois. He never was charged for entering a building before by any contractor. This was the only instance in which a charge of this kind was made. He was surprised when he was told by Mr Charlebois that he would have to pay this amount, as he did not take it into consideration when tendering for the work. In addition to the $15,500 he got for his contract he was also awarded $2500 for extra work.

Mr. Mather of Rousseau & Mather, which firm tendered for the iron roof, was next examined. His evidence was to the effect that after having tendered for the roof he was sent for to come to Ottawa, and after arriving there he saw Sir Hector Langevin and Mr. Fuller, the architect, who informed him that the firm would have to make arrangements with Mr. Charlebois as to piling ground and for facilities to put on the roof. The firm after several attempts, failed to make any arrangements with Mr. Charlebois and consequently they withdrew their tender. Later on they asked that their tender might be considered. A couple of days were allowed the firm to do this. During this interval he had an interview with Mr. Charlebois and failing to make the necessary arrangements with him, the latter got his notary to write a letter, which he (Mather) copied, finally with drawing his tender and asking for the return of the deposit check. The inducement given by Mr. Charlebois was that the firm, that was Rousseau & Mather, should have the work at their own price and he (Mr. Charlebois) would get the contract from the Government.

In answer to Mr. Lister he said that he held a letter from Mr. Charlebois that if the latter got the contract his firm would get the work at the price of their tender.

Rousseau, his partner, objected to this arrangement and the firm wrote the Public Works Department that they were ready to go on with the work. His partner then endeavored to make arrangements with Mr Charlebois, and this fell through and Mr. Charlebois finally got the contract and his firm did not get the work.

Mr. Lister—You would have been better to have stuck to your arrangement with Mr. Charlebois.

Mr. Mather—I think so (with a smile.)

Mr. Lister—Then you were a wiser man than your partner?

Mr. Mather: In that instance I was.

Mr. Mulock: The Government had your check, but Mr. Charlebois promised to return it.

Mr. Mather: Yes, he promised to use his influence to get the check returned.

Mr. Lister: There was nothing in the specifications which you considered entitled you to pay a royalty to Mr. Charlebois?

Mr. Mather: Nothing whatever.

Mr. Lister: And when you came to sign the contract you saw a clause there which was not in the specifications?

Mr. Mather: Yes, and we refused to sign on the grounds that we would have to pay a commission to Charlebois.

Mr. Rousseau corroborated the evidence given by Mr. Mather. He said that his partner was scared into withdrawing his tender by Mr. Charlebois, who had along with him Mr. Duval of the Supreme Court, who was acting as a notary, and who dictated to him the letter which he wrote Sir Hector Langevin. The next day he (Rousseau) came to Ottawa and told his partner he did wrong. Both went to Sir Hector and told him that the letter was not legal. Sir Hector said they just arrived in time because he was going to let the contract to Charlebois. On seeing the clause in the contract they refused to sign. He (Mr. Rousseau) told Sir Hector that if he owned the building he should be able to let the contract for the roof. If Mr. Charlebois owned it then he, Sir Hector had no right to call for tenders. In fact he (Rousseau) thought Charlebois had Sir Hector by the throat.

Mr. Lister: Then you did not think you could get him by the throat?

Mr. Rousseau: That is not our principle.

Mr. Lister: I wish we would have more contractors like you.

Mr. Rousseau: It would save many thousand dollars to the Government.

At this stage of the proceedings a letter was received from Mr. Lowe, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, to the effect that he had shipped all the papers in connection with the Deloraine-Emerson and Gretna immigration agencies re complaint made with Mr. Lynch, an officer of the department to make inquiries into the charges made. This several members pointed to as something extraordinary, in defiance of the order of the House of Commons.

Mr. Lister next proceeded with the case against Mr. J. R. Arnoldi, Mechanical Engineer of the Public Works Department. The first witness was Mr. Merritt, a nephew of Mr. Arnoldi. He testified to the fact that a lot off Victoria-street, Ottawa, was not owned by him, but by Mr. Arnoldi, and the rent for storage of dredging plant, etc., of $40 per month was collected in his name, Mr. Arnoldi certifying the account and he (Merritt) afterwards handing over the Government check endorsed to Mr. Arnoldi.

Mr. Wilson of the firm of Thomas Robertson & Co., Montreal, who is in the heavy metal trade, said that the steamer Joe was registered in his name, but he did not own her—she was owned by Mr. Arnoldi, and during the dredging season the steamer earned $100 per month from the Government. He allowed Mr. Arnoldi to register the steamer in his name and collect this $100 also in his name. He endorsed the checks and handed them over to Mr. Arnoldi. He got none of the money. When he came to Ottawa he stayed at Arnoldi House, and when Arnoldi went to Montreal he stayed at his house, and he supplied material annually to the department. Mr. Arnoldi ordering the same principally by letter. Last year his account was over $3000 with the department. He made a present of two pictures to Mr. Arnoldi.

TORONTO DEPUTATIONS

Interview the Government on a Variety of Matters.

OTTAWA, July 25.—A Toronto deputation, interviewed the Government yesterday on a variety of subjects: Mayor Clarke, Ald. Saunders, Fred Wylde, D. M. Robertson and Alexander Fraser, accompanied by Col. Denison and Messrs. Coatsworth, Kirkpatrick, Terwbitt, McLennan, MacDonnell (Algoma), Macdonald, (Winnipeg), White (Cardwell), Ross and Craig, urged the Minister of Militia to authorize the formation of a kilted regiment in Toronto. They placed the circumstances before him in the strongest possible light.

Sir Adolphe Caron, Hon. Mr. Foster and Premier Abbott while sympathizing with the deputation said there were financial difficulties in the way.

The Mayor, Ald. Saunders and Dr. Orr and S. Nesbit of St. Catharines, accompanied by Messrs. Coatsworth, Wallace, Buckman, Henderson, McKay, waited on the Premier to urge the grant this year of a subsidy of $121,000 to the St. Catharines and Niagara Central Railway for the 38 miles for which no bonus is yet granted. Premier Abbott did not give the deputation much encouragement.

A TERRIBLE CASUALTY.

Seven Children Drowned at a St. Lawrence Island.

QUEBEC, July 25.—A vague despatch received from Seven Islands on the Lower St. Lawrence reports the drowning of seven children, Alfred, Joseph, Marie, Louise and Cecil E. Montigny and Marmeland Marguerite Pouras. Details of the catastrophe have not yet been received, but it is announced that a little boy only 7 years old, who was in the party, showed extraordinary courage and succeeded in saving one of his companions, a little girl 8 years old.

Bold Rascals.

BARRIE, July 25.—About 9.45 last night three strangers visited Johnson's ice cream parlor on Elizabeth street, and, after partaking of cream they started to leave without paying for it. Mr. Thomas Johnson requested pay, when a row ensued, resulting in the three men pulling out their revolvers and firing directly at Mr. Johnson, luckily missing him then.

LATER.—The three men who shot at Mr Thomas Johnson last night were up before Police Magistrate Ross to-day. They gave their names as John Morrison, George Smith and Joseph Dickson, and pleaded guilty to carrying firearms, for which they were ordered to pay a fine of $25 each or one month in jail. To the charge of shooting with intent they pleaded not guilty, and were sent up for trial.

Rumors of a Big Railway Deal.

MONTREAL, July 25.—The rumored big railway deal has caused considerable talk in business and other circles here to-day. It was alleged that besides the three roads mentioned yesterday, viz., the Grand Trunk, Canadian Pacific and New York Central, that the Boston & Maine road was to be included in the deal, which, if consummated, will form the greatest railway combination on the continent.

The G. T. R. people here still claim to be ignorant of the deal. "What would be the effect of the deal?" was asked of a railway man to-day. "Simply this—that the G. T. R. and C. P. R. working in harmony with the Vanderbilts could carry freight from the great west cheaper and more expeditiously to the seaboard than any other roads on the continent."

SATURDAY, JULY 25 1891.

The Corruption of Members,

The bribery resources which were at the command of the Old Man may be divided into three classes. First, there was the "better terms" antithetic applied to whole Provinces, and the grants to railroads and other public works wherewith constituencies were drugged. This was the wholesale end of the business. Corruption by retail, the purchase of voters individually, was effected with the reptile funds obtained from Government contractors in return for the fraudulent manipulation of plans and prices, as in the case of Larkin, Connolly & Co.; and with the cash derived from manufacturers in exchange for protective legislation empowering them to rob the consumer. His third and last method of holding on to office consisted in the boodling of members of Parliament who were weak in the knees, or who, in the phrase of Uncle Thomas, were "good fellows" and "deserved to be encouraged." Sometimes he placated a member with a Senatorship, which is simply a life annuity of $1,000; but in the majority of instances he gave them railroad bonuses for division amongst themselves and their friends, on the plea of subsidising a one-horse enterprise which they controlled. Witnesses before the Tarte Committee have thrown considerable light upon the system, for it so happens that, in addition to his contract-brokering and his rich strike with the steamer Admiral from which he derived $10,000 a year in the shape of a Government bonus for an investment of only $16,000 Uncle Thomas went into railroading in company with Senator Robitaille and Mr. Riopel, ex-M.P., for all it was worth. The road which they took hold of as a means of turning an honest penny was the Baie des Chaleurs. It will be 100 miles long if it is ever finished. At present only sixty miles have been built. The Dominion Treasury has voted it a bonus of $820,000, of which up to 31st December last $524,175 had actually been paid over. The line is situated in one of the dreariest regions on God's earth, but it is needless to say that the question of its utility or of the likelihood of its paying for axle grease has not been considered—is, in fact, an irrelevant issue. The sole consideration with Uncle Thomas and his friends was how to make the enterprise pay them, and their modus operandi was ingenious.

At the outset they talked up a patriotic strain about the necessity for building up the country and opening it for settlement, just as Michael Connolly when he wished to get the Esquimalt dock lengthened set the Archimedean lever of the local press at work, and hired the "brace of pirates" to swear that the job was demanded by the best interests of the Dominion. It required a good deal of hardihood to discourse with a straight face about the development of the land of the Esquimaux or Esquipiscks, as the natives of Baie des Chaleurs are called. These are of Acadian origin with a strong dash of Micmac blood. Fishing is their principal occupation, though here and there you may see a potato patch and a scratching of black oats. However, Uncle Thomas and Senator Robitaille succeeded in impressing the old man, and when the Old Men was satisfied the Tory majority in the house was satisfied too. The road was launched and the bonus obtained without the outlay of a dollar by the promoters. They subscribed for $300,000 of a stock out of a total of $3 000,000. A call of ten per cent. was made on them and $30,000 paid up. But how? The testimony shows that the crowd merely gave their notes for that amount; then they rendered bills for their services in floating the scheme, and the bills came to exactly $30,000; whereupon the bills were receipted and the notes released. Hence nobody paid a cent, although technically one tenth of their stock had been subscribed as a guarantee of good faith. The public treasury was then tapped and the manipulators went to work to construct a portion of the line out of the bonuses. The Quebec Government as well as the Government of the Dominion was successfully approached, the former giving a subsidy of $700,000 while as already said the latter gave one of $620,000. As frequently occurs when a work is a "perfect pudding," the beneficiaries quarrelled amongst themselves, the directors, the stockholders, the contractors (among them a relative of Sir Hector's) and the sub-contractors becoming entangled in litigation; yet in spite of the disaster Uncle Thomas and his associates did fairly well, getting $75 000 for their work from a new company that has been organised to take the project in hand and finish it. Hard by the Caraquet road is a line, the Caraquet, built in large part out of Government subsidies by another Tory M.P., Mr Burns, of Gloucester. It is 68 miles long and received a Dominion bonus of $224 000 and one of $180,000 from the Province of New Brunswick. The Eastern Provinces have bonused nearly every railroad which the Ottawa Government has bonused. A bonus from Ottawa is quoted as proof that the scheme is a worthy one, and the promoters ask the local Ministers with a flourish if they, as Liberals, are not prepared to do as much for a local undertaking as the Federal Tories. That appeal, pressed at election times, is usually successful. According to the last official report the Caraquet's gross earnings came to $20,000 a year and the working expenses to $25 616 The entire amount of freight hauled last year was 16 257 tons or about 60 train loads, and it collected only 6 900 passenger fares. The English capitalists upon whom it was unloaded have discovered that the road was not required in the interest of commerce; but Mr. Burns has certainly made it pay as a political investment, even if he has not evolved anything for the boy.

These are but specimens of the way in which Parliament has been debauched and the people plundered for the benefit of the Tory party. Mr. Blake said:—"Let a member labour as hard as he pleases for the development of his county or his country. But I object to a presence of public interest being used to cover private interest—I object to members becoming railroad builders mainly for the accomplishment of schemes under which large and valuable Government concessions are made tributary to their own pockets; for if the people's representatives are so be suffered to enter into such relations there is an end of all notion of Parliamentary independence and integrity." This grave abuse was simply part and parcel of the vast and all embracing policy of fraud and corruption by which the Old Man ruled. The agents of the system were the Langevins, the McGreevys, the Connollys, the Murphys, the Perleys, and all the other boodlers of high and low degree now on the spit; whilst the product of it is an electorate grown callous to evil-doing and a Parliament where the majority is morally blind. Ministers of the Gospel, Protestant and Roman Catholic, are quick to jump into the political arena when the dry bones of dogmatic or sectarian issues are at stake. But if they would do the country a real service let them take off their coats and help Mr. Laurier exorcise the unclean spirit which has taken possession of the Federal legislature and which threatens to stifle the very life of the Dominion. Sackcloth and ashes, humiliation and prayer, are not competent of themselves to effect our deliverance; the people must act and act vigorously and decisively, or our experiment in nation-building will soon come to a shameful end.—Globe.

IMPROVEMENT.—The new swing bridge across the canal here is completed, the work being thoroughly done under the supervision of Mr. George Delvery, of Lindsay. The work is a credit to the foreman, and also to the Ontario Government, and is but another proof that our popular local member, Mr. J. R. Stratton, is always fully alive to the interests of his many constituents. A bland smile illumines the face of our lockmaster while turning the new bridge, for life was a burden to him while the old scow was used as a temporary bridge.

FISHING.—Our village is quite lively at present, numerous parties arriving daily, and truly no more pleasant place can be found in which to pass the time during the hot weather. Fishing is indulged in to a great extent by those who are striving to break a record, and some very fine catches are made, while others, not desiring such vigorous exercise, while away the time by wandering about in our beautiful natural park on the outskirts of the village, or enjoy the pleasure of a sail among the beautiful nooks or along the shady shores of the lakes.

VISITORS.—The Rev. Father Lynch and Rudkins, of Peterborough, are spending a few days here, the guests of Mr. C. Young. Miss Lizzie Kearney, of Minneapolis, is visiting her friends in this neighborhood, and is at present the guest of Miss Lena Kearney. Mrs. Brownlee, of Ashburnham, is enjoying the balmy breezes of the Point, the guest of Mrs. Wm. McGregor. The following guests are registered at the Carleton House, Mr. Wm. McFarlane, proprietor:—Mr. Thomas Walters, Lindsay; Messrs. C. Smith, J. J. Tilley, G. A. Mace, and H. Brock and family Toronto; Joe L. Brun, Geo. R. Arless, Thos Scott, Montreal; C. J. Logan, Galt; James Little, Belleville; F. H. Burton, Collector of Customs, Port Hope; Mr. Frosts and family, Mr. Jackson and family, W. J. Morrow and family, H. Nesbitt and son, W. A. Stratton, S Ray and W. H. Hill, Peterboro.

A Vicious Stallion

Mr. Thos. Boulton, who lives near the "Hill head," South Ops, is owner of a stallion named "Wild Brazilian," which is possessed at times of a very vicious temperament, making it unsafe to leave him with his mouth free. Wednesday morning Mr. Boulton entered the stall to undo some fastenings so as to allow the animal to take the morning feed, and just as he finished the vicious brute reached forward like a flash and caught his left hand in its teeth, at the same time trying to jump upon Mr. Boulton with the fore feet and beat him to the floor, but this he managed to prevent, though he could not free his hand from the mangling and crunching teeth. Finally, when almost fainting from the intense pain, he inserted his right hand into the beast's mouth, caught hold of the tongue, and choked the brute into partial submission, when he at once make his escape. He drove into town and had the wounds dressed, but grave fears are expressed by the attending physician that he will not be able to save the hand.—Lindsay Post.

MANY A LIFE

HAS been saved by the prompt use of Ayer's Pills. Travelers by land or sea are liable to constipation or other derangements of the stomach and bowels which, if neglected, lead to serious and often fatal consequences. The most sure means of correcting these evils is the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. The prudent sailing-master would as soon go to sea without his chronometer as without a supply of these Pills. Though prompt and energetic in operation, Ayer's Pills leave no ill effects; they are purely vegetable and sugar-coated; the safest medicine for old and young, at home or abroad.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action so that now I am in health."—Mrs. C. E. Clark, Tewksbury, Massachusetts.

"I regard Ayer's Pills as one of the most reliable general remedies of our times. They have been in use in my family for affections requiring a purgative, and have given unvarying satisfaction. We have found them an excellent remedy for colds and light fevers."—W. R. Woodson, Fort Worth, Texas.

"For several years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than upon anything else in the medicine chest, to regulate my bowels and those of the ship's crew. These Pills are not severe in their action, but do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect for the cure of rheumatism, kidney troubles, and dyspepsia."—Capt. Mueller, Steamship Felicia, New York City.

"I have found Ayer's Cathartic Pills to be a better family medicine for common use than any other pills within my knowledge. They are not only very effective, but safe and pleasant to take—qualities which must make them valued by the public."—Julius Hauel, Perfumer, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Handsome Prize,

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hore, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston On.,) Daily British Whig, June 27th, 1891.

The Grand Trunk System

The Grand Trunk system differs from the human system in that the same troubles do not affect it and the same remedies are not needed. For all diseases of the human system their is no tonic purifier, renovator and strengthener as good as Burdock Blood Bitters. A weak system can be built up by B.B.B.

Enrich the blood by the use of Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine, which supplies the necessary blood-building material. dw

A Nationalist Plan.

A proposal, which would obtain favor with even the opponents of Nationalism, contemplates the placing of a supply sufficient for each family of nature's great dyspepsia specific and blood purifier, B.B.B., in every home in the land. The benefits of such a boon to the people would be incalculable.

FALSE DAWN.

No man will ever know the exact truth of this story, though women may sometimes whisper it to one another after a dance, when they are putting up their hair for the night and comparing lists of victims. A man, of course, cannot assist at these functions. So the tale must be told from the outside—in the dark, all wrong.

Never praise a sister to a sister in the hope of your compliments reaching the proper ears, and so preparing a way for you later on. Sisters are women first, and sisters afterwards; and you will find that you do yourself harm.

Saumarez knew this when he made up his mind to propose to the elder Miss Copleigh. Saumarez was a strange man, with few merits, so far as men could see, though he was popular with women, and carried enough conceit to stock a viceroy's council and leave a little over for the commander-in-chief's staff. He was a civilian. Very many women took an interest in Saumarez, perhaps, because his manner to them was offensive. If you hit a pony over the nose at the outset of your acquaintance he may not love you, but he will take a deep interest in your movements ever afterwards. The elder Miss Copleigh was nice, plump, winning and pretty. The younger was not so pretty, and, from men disregarding the hint set forth above, her style was resistant and unattractive. Both girls had, practically, the same figure, and there was a strong likeness between them in look and voice, though no one could doubt for an instant which was the nicer of the two.

Saumarez made up his mind, as soon as they came into the station from Bebar, to marry the elder one. At least, we all made sure that he would, which comes to the same thing. She was two and twenty and he was 23, with pay and allowances of nearly 1,400 rupees a month. So the match, as we arranged it, was in every way a good one. Saumarez was his name and summary was his nature, as a man once said. Having drafted his resolution, he formed a select committee of one to sit upon it, and resolved to take his time. In our unpleasant slang, the Copleigh girls "hunted in couples." That is to say, you could do nothing with one without the other. They were loving sisters, but their mutual affection was sometimes inconvenient. Saumarez held the balance true between them, and none but himself could have said to which side his heart inclined, though every one guessed. He rode with them a good deal and danced with them, but he never succeeded in detaching them from each other for any length of time.

Women said that the two girls kept together through deep mistrust, each fearing that the other would steal a march on her. But that has nothing to do with a man. Saumarez was silent to good or bad, and as business-likely attentive as he could be, having in this regard to his work and his pole. Beyond doubt both girls were fond of him.

As the hot weather drew nearer and Saumarez made no sign women said that you could see their trouble in the eyes of the girls that they were looking strained, anxious and irritable. Men are quite blind in these matters unless they have in re of the woman than the man in their composition, in which case it does not matter what they say or think. I maintain it was the hot April days that took the color out of the Copleigh girls' cheeks. They should have been sent to the hills early. No one man or woman feels an angel when the hot weather is approaching. The younger sister grew more cynical not to say acid in her ways, and the winningness of the elder grew thin. There was more effort in it.

Now the station where all these things happened was, though not a little one, off the line of rail, and suffered through want of attention. There were no gardens, or band, or amusements worth speaking of, and it was nearly a day's journey to come and fetch us for a dance. People were grateful for small things to interest them.

About the beginning of May and just before the final exodus of Hill goers, when the weather was very hot and there were not more than twenty people in the station, Saumarez gave a moonlight riding picnic at an old tomb, six miles away, near the bed of the river. It was a "Noah's ark" picnic; and there was to be the usual arrangement of quarter mile intervals between each couple, on account of the dust. Six couples came together, including chaperones. Moonlight picnics are useful just at the very end of the season, before all the girls go away to the Hills. They lead to understandings, and should be encouraged by chaperones, especially those whose girls look sweetest in riding habits. I know a reason—but that is another story. That picnic was called the "Great Pop Picnic," because every one knew Saumarez would propose then to the eldest Miss Copleigh, and, besides his affair, there was another which might possibly come to happiness. The social atmosphere was heavily charged and wanted clearing.

We met at the parade ground at 10, the night was fearfully hot. The horses sweated even at walking pace, but anything was better than sitting still in our own dark houses. When we moved off under the full moon we were four couples, one triplet, and Mr. Saumarez rode with the Copleigh girls and I lingered at the tail of the procession wondering with whom Saumarez would ride home. Every one was happy and contented, but we all felt that things were going to happen. We rode slowly, and it was nearly midnight before we reached the old tomb, facing the ruined tank in the deserted gardens where we were going to eat and drink. I was late in coming up, and, before I went into the garden, I saw that the horizon in the north carried a faint, dun colored feather. I—no one would have thanked me for starting so well managed an entertainment as this picnic—and a dust storm more or less does no great harm.

We gathered by the tank. Some one had brought out a banjo—which is a most sentimental instrument—and three or four of us sang. You must not laugh at this. Our amusements in out-of-the-way stations are very few indeed. Then we talked in groups or together, lying under the trees, with the sun baked roses dropping their petals at our feet, until supper was ready. It was a beautiful supper, as cold and as iced as you could wish, and we stayed long over it.

I had felt that the air was growing hotter and hotter, but nobody seemed to notice it until the moon went out and a burning, hot wind began lashing the orange trees with a sound like the noise of the sea. Before we knew where we were the dust storm was on us, and everything was roaring, whirling darkness. The supper table was blown bodily into the tank. We were afraid of staying anywhere near the old tomb for fear it might be blown down. So we felt our way to the strange trees where the horses were picketed and waited for the storm to blow over. Then the little light that was left vanished, and you could not see your hand before your face.

The air was heavy with dust and sand from the bed of the river, that filled boots and pockets and drifted down necks and curled eyebrows and mustaches. It was one of the worst dust storms of the year. We were all huddled together close to the trembling horses, with the thunder chattering overhead, and the lightning spurting like water from a sluice, all ways at once. There was no danger, of course, unless the horses broke loose. I was standing with my head downwind and my hands over my mouth, hearing the trees thrashing each other. I could not see who was next me till the flashes came. Then I found that I was packed near Saumarez and the eldest Miss Copleigh, with my own horse just in front of me. I recognized the eldest Miss Copleigh, because she had a pagri round her helmet, and the younger had not. All the electricity in the air had gone into my body, and I was quivering and tingling from head to foot—exactly as a corn shoots and tingles before rain. It was a grand storm. The wind seemed to be picking up the earth and pitching it to leeward in great heaps; and the heat beat up from the ground like the heat of the day of judgment.

The storm lulled slightly after the first half hour, and I heard a despairing little voice close to my ear, saying to itself, quietly and softly, as if some lost soul were flying about with the winds: "Oh, my God!" Then the younger Miss Copleigh stumbled into my arms, saying: "Where is my horse! Get my horse. I want to go home. I want to go home. Take me home."

I thought that the lightning and the blackness had frightened her; so I said there was no danger, but she must wait till the storm blew over. She answered: "It is not that: I want to go home! Oh, take me away from here!"

I said that she could not go till the light came, but I felt her brush past me and go away. It was too dark to see where. Then the whole sky was split open with one tremendous flash, as if the end of the world were coming, and all the women shrieked.

Almost directly after this I felt a man's hand on my shoulder and heard Saumarez bellowing in my ear. Through the rattling of the trees and howling of the wind I did not catch his words at once, but at last I heard him say: "I've proposed to the wrong one! What shall I do!" Saumarez had no occasion to make this confidence to me. I was never a friend of his, nor am I now; but I fancy neither of us were ourselves just then. He was shaking me by the shoulder, with excitement, and I was feeling queer all over with the electricity. I could not think of anything to say except: "More fool you for proposing in a dust storm." But I did not see how that would improve the mistake.

Then he shouted: "Where's Edith—Edith Copleigh?" Edith was the younger sister. I answered out of my astonishment: "What do you want with her?" Would you believe it, for the next two minutes he and I were shouting at each other like maniacs—he vowing that it was the younger sister he had meant to propose to all along, and I telling him all my throat was hoarse that he must have made a mistake. I can't account for this except again by the fact that we were neither of us ourselves. Everything seemed to me like a bad dream—from the stamping of the horses in the darkness to Saumarez telling me the story of his loving Edith Copleigh these five years. He was still clawing my shoulder and begging me to tell him where Edith Copleigh was, when another bolt came, and brought light with it, and we saw the dust cloud forming on the plain in front of us. So we knew the worst was over.

The Secret of his Wealth.

A millionaire said "the secret of my wealth" is in the word S-A-V-E; and the secret of my health is in the word S-A-G-E. By this last he meant Dr. Sage, whose Catarrh Remedy cured him of one of the worst cases of Catarrh, and thereby saved him from much suffering and premature death, enabling him to make his millions and enjoy life. The cures made by this medicine are simply wonderful. c

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not close this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM; but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough. eod-w

I knew then that you would cure me, and now that I am a man and well again, I cannot thank you sufficiently for the cure. So again I say, use my name as reference whenever you wish. THE A. C. A. CAMP,
BIG ISLAND, PIGEON LAKE,
Saturday Morning, July 25.

Life is very pleasant just here. With the congenial companionship of about a hundred jolly canoeists of both sexes, who, as they alone know how to be, are friendly and sociable amongst each other in the free-and-easy style which is the chief charm of camp life; lying in a tent, or 'neath the shade of trees, whose "wide umbrageous branches" form a perfect protection from the excessive warmth of old Sol's affectionate rays; a cool breeze, laden with the pure ozone of heaven, stirring the leaves and driving away the oppressive heat of the atmosphere; before you a broad expanse of dancing, sun-kissed waters shimmering away into the distance, a few sails dotting the surface at intervals like graceful swans upon the lake's graceful bosom—it is truly an enchanting picture of natural love liness that is as leaven to the weary soul, and banishes corrilding care like the mists of the morning. No more delightful spot in this whole region of waters could have been chosen for the annual meet of the Northern Division of the A. C. A., and the happy campers are enjoying their fill of the hearty, health-giving, invigorating outing. After being cooped up in town or city for a year the relaxation is the more welcome that it is accompanied by such pleasant aids to the spending of a brief holiday. The days glide calmly, dreamily by, sailing, fishing, reading or other pursuits, according to the whim of those concerned, occupying the time of the campers The evenings, however, are chilly enough, and extra wraps and plenty of blankets for one's bed are most desirable. The site of the meet, as the official year book concisely puts it, "combines all desired features—a fine sheet of water for sailing, and an an eastern channel free from the prevailing and strongest winds; grounds sufficiently clear to give easy movement and possessing a natural rusticity that imperceptibly bears one and anxieties, peacefully to repose, as a child of nature, in the maternal arms; a gentle, sloping knoll that forms a sheltering background to the camp and a point of observation that sweeps the lake for miles." There it is in a nutshell. The canoeists are growing to like the place more and more, and many and deep will be their regrets when the time comes to say good-bye to this roll'cking, careless life and return to hum-drum city existence. These annual meets of canoeists bring together kindred spirits from all parts of the country, and the greatest bonhommie and fraternity exists among them. Old acquaintanceships are renewed and new ones formed, and in this way added interest is lent the meets of the canoe association.

Our little canvas city stretches for some distance along the shore of Big Island, the original intension of having the tents grouped being altered on account of the recent ground-fire which rendered portions of the chosen site unfit for camping purposes. It looks very gay and attractive, nevertheless, the white tents nestling and almost hidden amongst the dark green foliage and floating flags as numerous as they are varied in size and color. The officers headquarters is situated on the highest point and commands an uninterrupted view of the regatta course. Union Jacks throw their folds to the breeze from scores of tree tops and flagstaffs, and the Stars and Stripes are prominently displayed out of courtesy to the American members of the association. The camp is just nicely getting into shape. The bulk of the visitors are here, but more will arrive today and Monday so as to be on hand for the races next week. There are about an even hundred members of the association already in camp. Vice Commodore Col. Cotton, of Kingston, is the chief officer, and he has associated with him Rear Commodore J. G. Edwards, "the only Jim" of Lindsay, Purser Cnas. E. L. Parbeau, of Kingston; Colin Fraser, of the Executive Committee Toronto; Geo. W. Hatton, chairman of the camp site committee, Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers, and E. B. Edwards, Peterborough; W. M. Boyd and W. J. Read, Bobcaygeon; A. F. D. Macgachen, Lindsay; D. B. Jacques, Dr. Powell, Toronto, members of committee, Col. J. Z. Rogers, Mr. Henry Rogers, of the Royal Engineers, Chatham, Eng. These gentlemen do all in their power to make the camp successful. The camp details are perfect. There are some eight or ten canoe clubs represented, each colony having a "kraal" for itself but all meeting upon common grounds on such occasions as

CAMP FIRES AND CRUISES.

Most of the clubs mess for themselves, but there is a large mess tent where the executive and a few others take their meals. This is presided over by Mr. Garlick, of Bobcaygeon, who supplies meals at "three for a dollar." The camp store is a most useful adjunct. It is in charge of Mr. Robinson, of Bobcaygeon. The steamers call every day so the campers have reasonably close communication with the outside world and Bobcaygeon. Amongst the clubs represented at this international meet are the Ubique, of Galt, Toronto, Royal Military College of Kingston, Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, Peterborough, Lakefield, Omemee and Catarsqui. Bobcaygeon and Lindsay canoe clubs have a strong representation, and Lakefield has done nobly in sending a numerous delegation, but the majority of the Toronto contingent are yet to come. A telegram has been sent urging Commodore Lawson, of Boston, to pay a visit to the camp, and it is possible that in his official capacity as chief of the American Canoe Association he may respond.

The ladies, wives, daughters and sweethearts of the canoeists, are numerous in the in the camp, and seem to enjoy camp life thoroughly. Most of them are fond of the water and fearless navigators in the canoe, and throw all considerations of complexion and conventionalism to the winds in order to be en rapport with the prevailing spirit of Bohemianism. The presence of the fair sex is particularly enlivening at the camp fires and cruises.

Glorious weather has graced the meet so far. There has been a steady wind every day, pleasant alike for sailing, paddling or remaining in camp. Last night a heavy thunderstorm passed over the island and put a stop to the camp-fire, but the young people, not to be deprived of their evening's enjoyment, took possession of the large mess tent and held a "jumboree," as it was called. This mess tent, by the way, is a great convenience. Besides being used for dining purposes, meetings and large gatherings of all kinds are held in it. The tent is from Mr. J. J. Turner's, Peterborough, tent and awning establishment, and is a credit to its maker.

TWO VERY PLEASANT CRUISES

have been held. On Wednesday evening a large number of canoeists paddled to Bobcaygeon, where they were met by Mr. Moscom Boyd, who had carriages in readiness and the visitors were driven about the village for an hour or so. Needless to say all enjoyed their trip to the hub of the universe. Inspiration was in the air, and the sentiments of the True, the Good and the Beautiful found firm lodgment in the hearts and heads of the dwellers in tents. As the tourists drove by the Independent office three rousing cheers were given for Brother Smiff, and that famous personage emerged from his inner retreat and replied in a characteristic manner, by waving his battered tile above his bald but beautifully built brain box in a way familiar to all who have observed this erudite gentleman in the midst of a Twelfth of July celebration. A perennial smile played about his care ard agitated his shirt bosom. The sight of so much youth and beauty on wheels stirred the depths of his enthusiasm, and the great Smiff smiled. The paddle back to camp in the cool of the evening was a charming termination of the day's doings.

On Thursday Sandy Lake was the destination of the cruisers, and again they were indebted to Mr. Boyd, who carried the party as far as the entrance to the lake on the Beaubocage. There were twenty-three canoes in the flotilla, all well laden. After an arduous voyage Sandy Lake was reached, when all felt that they were doubly repaid for their trouble. Sandy Lake is a liquid gem set in the midst of the fertile township of Harvey, its pellucid waters being penetrable to the eye to a great depth and enclosed by shores of fine sandy beach. A pic-nic lunch was had in a shady grove and the party returned home in time for seven o'clock dinner.

THE CAMP FIRES.

A most enjoyable feature of the meet is the camp-fire in the evening. As dusk approaches the huge pile of logs crackles out a joyous welcome to the gathering groups, and while all around is wrapped in the darkness of night, they circle about the cheerful camp-fire, their brown, sunburnt faces bathed in the ruddy glow from the blazing pile, sing camping songs, give recitations, converse with each other, laugh, jest and make merry for a couple of hours. There are two or three banjos in camp, a valuable acquisition upon such occasions, and they are made good use of. There are a number of no mean soloists in the party, and when the company shouts as with one voice, "Birdie please sing," Birdie, or whoever it may be generally responds. Even "Colonel Harry" lends his voice and sings "Minnies and Cockies" with great gusto. Dr. Fowell's reminiscences are in frequent demand. The Lakefield colony comprises some good singers, Miss Strickland in particular possesses a fine soprano voice.

But there are a few (a very few of course) for whom the camp-fire has not the same attraction. These prefer to wander off in solitary couples, away from obtruding eyes and a mixed companionship, to the darker walks where their little love-making will not be the subject of inquisitive looks and knowing nudges. But 'twas ever thus.

FRIDAY'S RACES.

Next week the camp will be in a constant commotion. The races will be on, and as there are some of the best paddlers and sailers in Canada now in camp, fine sport is anticipated. Friday afternoon a couple of impromptu races were arranged, in which great interest was taken. The first race was the go-as-you please around the island, a course of about six miles, the competitors being allowed to sail or paddle as they pleased. There were six entries, four sailing canoes and two light paddling canoes, and the object of the race was to determine not merely the skill as canoeists of the competitors, but the relative advantages of sailing as against paddling in a course such as this, which corresponded to some extent to what would be the average experience while cruising. Many have contended that simply as a means of reaching a given destination on a course partly against the wind and partly with it, paddling would be the speediest means of propulsion, while advocates of the sail contend that they cannot only reach a certain point with less work but with speedier time in a fresh wind. A start was made on the lee side of the island, the sailors gaining a slight lead at the first, which was made up by the paddlers before reaching the head of the island. Here a strong head wind and rough sea were encountered, necessitating heading against the wind on the part of the sailors and paddling dead to windward on the part of paddlers. Here again the sailors began to gain an advantage, and they were leading when they reached the westside of the island. From this point the sailors had a free run home and they came down the side of island apparently flying. Mr. Roy Sweney of Toronto had a lead of about 50 yards to the others following in close succession. Mr. Sweney completed the course an easy winner in an hour and nine minutes, followed by D. B. Jacques second, Mr. Sweney of the Royal Military College third and Colin Fraser fourth, all the these being under sail. The first paddler, Mr. Blomfield, reached the buoy in one hour and twenty minutes, followed by R. H. Strickland, the other paddler. Mr. Will Fraser who started under sail in an open canoe, did not complete the course. A strong west wind was blowing during the race.

The next event was the ladies' tandem paddling race, for which there were four entries. The course was short one on the lee side of the island in front of the ladies' camp. On the word 'go' the ladies started off with a fine burst of speed, followed by numbers of canoes in which their friends cheered and encouraged them on. A little erratic steering at times only served to make the race the more interesting. Mrs. Bloomfield, who has not paddled a canoe for a great many years past, and Miss Rubidge, came in winners by a boat length, Miss Strickland and Miss Barlee, of Lakefield, second. The other tandems were Mrs. Powell, of Toronto, and Miss Dugles, of Lakefield, and two Bobcaygeon ladies. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed over this race, and the winners were loudly cheered.

The next impromptu event may be fittingly termed an end-paddling race. The contestants was placed at the back thwart, facing the stern of the canoe, the condition being that this and should be kept foremost in the race. The course was with the wind, and as the fresh breeze caught the elevated end of the canoe the craft seemed possessed with a resolute determination to go proper end foremost, the result being that the paddlers for the most part faced in the wrong direction. Then came the difficulty of turning about again and making way towards the winning buoy. The erratic twistings and turnings on the part of the canoes furnished considerable merriment on the part of the spectators. The race was hardly well under way before the first upset occurred and one after another — nearly all of the dozen of contestants—went overboard with a splash, the awkward position at the extreme end of the boat rendering this almost inevitable. One or two managed to keep their boats under way. A Peterborough man secured a good lead but unfortunately capsizing just as the finishing buoy was reached, it being questionable whether he crossed or not. Harry McKendrick, of Galt, managed to complete the course, and came ashore without upsetting.

SPARKLES.

Sandy Point, owned by Mr. W. H. Claxton, not far from here, was the scene of an historic battle in the days of Champlain, between two tribes of Indians, who are said to have fought for thirty-six hours before ceasing their bloody strife. It is said the carcasses of dead savages were thrown into a great pit, and to this day relics are picked up on the ground. Relic hunters have excavated a hole from which trophies and human bones have been taken. Only yesterday some of the A.C.A. campers returned with teeth and other bits of bone, which are supposed to be the remains of the desperate Indians who fell on the battle field.

The Globe and Mail, of Toronto, have representatives in camp.

Mr. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, is indefatigable in his efforts to make things pleasant for the campers. His fine yacht, the Sentag, often visits the camp, usually with a party of ladies and gentlemen aboard.

On the way to Big Island the summer residences of several Peterborough gentlemen are passed. Judge Weller's home-like place at Oak Orchard, Mr. Belcher's new and unique cottage, resembling a Swiss chalet, at Windermere, Mr. W. H. Claxton's, Mr. G. W. Hatton's and others are in the near vicinity.

Friday was visitors' day at camp, and a number of strangers were entertained. An excursion party from Bobcaygeon of about 500 people celebrated their civic holiday by a trip to Big Island on the steamer.

The facility with which travelling is accomplished here is wonderful. From Bobcaygeon to Toronto is only a stone's throw, and Lindsay and Lakefield are within hailing distance from each other. The different cities visit each other frequently.

Bathing is actively indulged in by gentlemen and ladies alike, there being two or three good swimmers among the fair sex in camp. The other day one of the ladies ventured out into deep water and when she realized the fact that the bottom was not within easy reach she became frightened and sank like a stone, but was rescued by some of the gentlemen before any serious effects followed.

To-day there was to have been a steamer cruise to Balsam Lake, but it has been withdrawn, and this afternoon more impromptu races will be held.

Another contingent of Toronto boys arrived this morning. They are hustlers and will make the welkin ring when they join their comrades.

A Fine Afternoon's Lacrosse.

The Home Team Downs the Athletics, of Toronto—A Fine Exhibition of the National Game—Lacrosse as it Should be Played—The Local Players Show What They Can Do.

One of the finest exhibitions of lacrosse ever given in Peterborough was played on the P. A. A. A. grounds, Ashburnham on Thursday. Many of the "old timers" say that for brilliant playing and close checking the Peterboroughs eclipse the record. There was not a very large attendance, the free sports on the Riverside Park and Burnham's Point drawing the crowd, which certainly missed a treat well worth the price of admission. The Athletics of Toronto, are leaders in the Central district. This is the first defeat they have met with this summer. They are considered the best team in Toronto outside of the senior twelve, and when they lined up for inspection on the field, it was easily seen that they had the advantage over Peterborough in size. The Peterborough boys feel proud of their victory, and they have just reason for so doing. All the boys want is encouragement (and, by the way, practice, too), and they will play lacrosse that would make the Montrealers, and, in fact, the Port Hope invincibles take a back seat. It is to be hoped the citizens of Peterborough will take more interest in lacrosse, for there is material in Peterborough for a first-class club. During the play, when any of our boys did any brilliant playing (and they did that very frequently throughout the game) the crowds on the grand stand would send forth an encouraging cheer, which was acknowledged by the boys. A prominent harness maker on the grand stand got so excited over the game that he chewed the end of his "deadeen" to powder. A few minutes after three o'clock the teams lined up on the field as follows:—

FIRST GAME.

This game lasted only two minutes. At the face Toronto secured the rubber and sent it towards the home goals, but it was soon sent towards centre again. It was again secured by a Toronto man, who sent in towards the Peterborough flags, where it was secured by Hartley, who sent it through.

SECOND GAME.

Such a speedy capture of the first game made things very discouraging for Peterborough, but the boys pulled themselves together and showed what they knew about the national game. The ball passed up and down the field several times and the spectators were treated to some superfine team play on the part of the home team, Packenham, Begley, McDonough, Cronin, Hendren and McCabe doing some really brilliant playing. The ball was alternately at either end of the field and, in some cases, in close proximity to the visitors' flags, but their defence worked like Trojans and relieved the goal from danger several times. After some skirmishing around centre field, the ball was entrusted to Begley's tender mercy, and he passed it through the flags Time, 14 minutes.

THIRD GAME.

In this game the Athletics opened their eyes; for they soon found out that it was not a team from Port Hope or some other hamlet they were playing with, and they went in to try to win, but the Peterboroughs were not found napping. They checked their men closer in this game and had decidedly the best of it. During the game Daly, W. Phelan, Hickey, White and Joe. Phelan distinguished themselves and won the plaudits of the spectators—ladies included. The ball travelled up and down the field several times, one minute near the Athletic's flags, and another near the home poles. Everyone expected to see the Peterboroughs score, but in a struggle for the sphere under r uggy a Toronto man secured it and made a run on the home flags putting the ball through. Time, 10 minutes.

FOURTH GAME.

The Peterboroughs went in this time to win and they had all their own way. The spectators thought that the Athletics, encouraged by their good fortune in the previous game, would give a good account of themselves, but they did not respond to expectations. In this game McDonough did some brilliant dodging and Walter Phelan also covered himself with glory, Peterborough had it all their own way, and how cool they took it. During a skirmish near centre field, Hendren secured the sphere and making a fine shot on goal dropped the rubber where it was wanted, scoring another game for Peterborough in 4 minutes.

FIFTH GAME.

In this game both teams worked hard to win, but it was seen from the start that Peterborough was playing lacrosse. The ball would pass up and down the field several times and when near the home goal, would always be secured by either Packenham or Larone. The Peterborough boys did some fine passing during this game and McCabe made some splendid runs up the field. After a few minutes exciting play, Daly captured the ball and amidst great excitement, sent it between the flags.

The remaining three games were without particular incident, all being marked by the same general features as distinguished the previous play. Anderson of the Athletics scored one for his team and the last they secured. Begley and Phelan respectively, winning the other two games for Peterborough, giving the home team the victory by a score of five games to three.

NOTES.

Mr. H. LeBrun, refereed the game to the satisfaction of both teams.

For the Athletics, McQuillan, Doherty and Spain were worthy of special mention.

A number of the old Peterboroughs were on the field and encouraged the boys by an occasional cheer.

There was an utter lack of rough play in Thursday's match, none of the players being placed hors de combat.

It was reported around town Friday evening that the Port Hope club had disbanded, investigation proved that this was false. The members only went into hysterics when they heard the result of the game.

The C.P.R Invasion.

Our Railway Visitors Enjoy Themselves—They are Pleased With the Town and the Town is Pleased With Them.

Yesterday's excursion of the C.P.R employees was the largest and most delightful of the series. The excursionists are greatly pleased with the bright, clean and beautiful appearance of the streets of the town, and Burnham's Point was pronounced a splendid place for a pic-nic. The Point had been specially fitted up for the occasion. Several small tents had been erected, and one large dining tent for the use of the ladies was erected by Turner the tenter. A dancing platform was provided, and an orchestra furnished music for dancing, which was well enjoyed. In addition to the thousands that were entertained by their friends in town, a large number took luncheon on Burnham's Point.

THE SPORTS AND GAMES.

A formidable list of sports and games were run off by the energetic committee with great success. The programme is too lengthy too lengthy for publication. There were a fine lot of prizes, donated principally by Peterborough and Toronto, the town giving $35 in cash and $120 in prizes, and Toronto $60 in cash and $600 in prizes. The burning events were the tug of war between two departments, and was won by the bridge and building department, and the baby show. There was a big assortment of young railroaders on exhibition. The mothers of winning babies were—Mrs. Andrew Knieweser, Havelock, Mrs. J. Dane, Toronto Junction and Mrs. Carson, Smithville.

During the afternoon there was an exciting baseball match on Riverside Park between two Toronto nines.

Altogether the visitors had a delightful day and representative men expressed themselves as well pleased with Peterborough, and Peterborough has reason to be well pleased with their C.P.R. visitors, who conducted themselves in a highly creditable manner. The excellent behaviour of those who some time make a day of it when out were very favourably commented on by the police. A man at all under the influence of liquor was a rarity. We shall heartily welcome a jolly, big and well-behaved crowd, like the C.P.R. excursionists were yesterday, any time.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and on all places on different parts of the body. There were thirteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and hold them when he was taking up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, so he could not scratch. He could in anyway get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES saved him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

TORONTO, THE GOOD:
THE SCENE OF A WILD RIOT IN QUEEN'S PARK ON SUNDAY

The Mayor Mobbed The Police Forces Stoned Murderous Threats Publicly Made The Peace Broken The By-law Disregarded This Lord's Day Desecrated.

TORONTO, July 27.—The first Sunday's experience of the by-law which enacts "that no person shall in any public park, garden or place for exhibition in the city of Toronto publicly preach, lecture or declaim on the Sabbath," notwithstanding that the penalty for the violation of the by-law is $50, was not reassuring. Difficult as it is to estimate a moving crowd, competent calculators of crowds place the number of citizens present in Queen's Park yesterday at not less than 20,000, the largest gathering of citizens ever seen in its classic precincts. For unstable, the large majority were peaceful, well-disposed citizens. The female element shunned by the riotous doings of the previous Sunday and dreading their repetition, did, greatly, and to a very large extent, kept away from the scene of strife. Not so the hoodlum, rowdy element, the residuum of the lower quarters of the city. It was very much in evidence. It showed up in all its hideous deformity and gave free vent to its innate hatred of law and order, and specially their white helmeted representatives.

But the police were wise in their day and generation. They well estimated the quality and strength of the enemy's forces and were prepared to meet force with force. Chief Grasett, Deputy Chief Stuart, nearly all the inspectors, many of the detectives and scorers and three strong columns of constables, together with five mounted men, were in the park. The band-stand was their head quarters.

Groups of people read with apparent interest the copies of the new by-law, which had been pasted on stout boards and nailed to the trees while perhaps a couple of thousand disputatious people gathered around the places where prayer and ranting were wont to be heard.

The Agnostics protested against "the iniquity of suppressing free speech in a free land" by silently reading them stand against the tree which marks the Secularists' trysting place. Some of the impulsive disciples of Citizen Duval, however, did some little shouting against tyranny but quickly subsided as the "cops" appeared on the scene.

The most general inquiry was "Is Jumbo fender of the Faith," after all his bombast showed the white feather, turned tail and stayed at home. It was well he did for there was more than sufficient turbulence without the incentive which his presence would unwittingly have given. But he sent one of his shop-boys to distribute a handbill, to the composition of which he has been devoting much spare time. It consisted of a tirade of abuse of "Pope Bishop and Co.," liquor-brokers and proprietors of the Purgatory loan and insurance company, manufacturers and wholesale dealers in genuine apostolic relics, miraculous medals, the scapular life preserver, charms, consecrated wafer—or pancake gods, hair shirts, thumb screws, flesh crushers, whips, branding irons, inventive images, bones, beads, crosses, Babylonish garments and all other aids to faith. There was also much other vile trash on the pages, signed like a peer of the realm, "Campbell, Toronto." In large type was the announcement of "red-hot burning truths on this paper next week." This is Jumbo's latest move. He will distribute his indecent and provokative literature to the thousands in the park, who will not be able to hear his high seasoned harangues. The distribution of this handbill caused great commotion, and the young man was pretty well mobbed.

It was nearly 3 o'clock when the cry arose, "Here's the Mayor." And so there was, in immaculate Sunday black shining silk hat was seen in conflab with Chief Grasette and Deputy Chief Stuart. Meanwhile he was the observed of all observers, and the crowd surged around him, and His Worship had to run the gauntlet of such exclamations as "Free Speech" "Who Signed the Bylaw" "Down With Him" "Run Him Out" The Mayor good-humoredly smiled but the crowd swelled to a thousand. Saying good-day to the heads of the police His Worship turned right about, but he was hustled and jostled and the official cry was "Haste to the Rescue" Up came the valiant cops, then fatuous gleaming in the sun, up rode the mounted men, and bravely they held in the more turbulent of the crowd at bay, while the Mayor, looking crestfallen, made tracks for the exit from the park opposite St. Alban's street. A howling mob, the majority of whom were young men, followed. They hooted till the welkin rang, and most ungentlemanly and unpolite were the epithets hurled at the city's chief officer. "You'll Never be Mayor Again" "To Hell With him," "You can't carry out your bylaw," "You're a traitor," are samples of the plentiful rhetorical crop.

Covered with dust and perspiring profusely the Mayor opened an interview with a reporter with this question "Isn't this a most disgraceful exhibition for Toronto on the Sabbath afternoon?" "Indeed it is," replied the reporter. "Well, it shows the need there was for the interference of the law. Such disorder must be put down or Toronto's fair name will suffer."

A short stout well-known figure in the Park and one of Jumbo's most earnest supporters named Smith had cried, "Bravo" when the demonstrative ones had denounced the Mayor's tyranny. Then in Boanerges tones he cried: "If we may not preach or orate in the Park we can pray. Let us pray" And suiting the action to the word he doffed his chapeau pieously clasped his hands and lifting up his eyes, if not his voice to heaven, began "O Almighty God, Our Heavenly Father, we are in thy great temple"—when immediately he found he was knocked off his perch though the terrific rush which followed on two mounted policemen riding at hot haste into the crowd to suppress the supplicator. However, he had not lost of all his steam, and it soon found outward expression. Then Smith found himself in the firm grip of two sturdy stalwarts.

The sympathy of the crowd was with Smith and a rescue was called for and would to allintents and purposes have been carried into effect had not a regular posse of police and the mounted men made small work of the sympathizers. Batons were more than flourished, they were vigorously used, there was a conflict, short, sharp and decisive, and a rush pell mell and dangerous. Men and women were knocked over and hundreds flew like frightened sheep from the approach of the lightened mob. The police, meanwhile were being assailed with stones. There was a brief fusilade. Several times the horses were struck, as well as their riders. Sergeant Cross was hit on the shoulder by a heavy missile. Then there arose cries of "Close the gates" to prevent the exit of the police with their prisoner. This attempt was futile, and a strong body guard was there to rescue Smith. Satisfied they apparently were with they found that his penalty was only "a fine, run on." This was done unceremoniously and Smith was the hero of the hour.

The mob, vowing vengeance, returned to the centre of the Park. There was a good deal of hustling and hooting, and spasmodic efforts on part of the police to break up what appeared organized gangs. One of these was bent on the demolition of the police boards. Several unsuccessful attempts were made on the one above the Secularists' wonted stand. At last the lynx-eye of No. 15 Mounted Police caught a young fellow at this work in the act. The attempt was nipped in the bud amid both cheering and hooting. In the surging mob the prancing steed converted when a stone deftly aimed knocked off the helmet of No. 15, which to the great delight of the unruly ones rolled over on the dust. Reinforcements arrived, some traitor, as the boys dubbed him, gave the scamp away and a rough-looking but diminutive youth was arrested. Then followed a repetition of the scene described in connection with Smith's arrest. There was more tumult, but less stone throwing. The majesty of the law prevailed and escorted by mounted men, the patient started. At this juncture another arrest by stone-throwing was made, and a stout strong companion was hand-cuffed to the diminutive lonely prisoner.

Undeterred by these "awful examples" the destructive gang made a renewed attack on the obnoxious placards. Family mailed on the boards were, stout blows by horny hand soon demolished a couple. The greatest excitement was at the spot where Jumbo orates. When the board fell great, even demoniacal, was the delight of the hoodlums. They fairly danced for joy. They shouted themselves hoarse. They threw the board on the ground, jumped upon it, spat upon it, heaped dust upon it, as though it were a thing of life. Then a procession was organized, and singing "John Burns' body is a-mouldering on," a frantic rush was made with the object of demolishing the other bylaw boards. In this they were successful. This is in the long run. But before this was done there was a riot—a scene of extreme danger. Five mounted policemen protected the board nailed to a tree adjoining the road way and immediately opposite to the George Brown memorial. Here the mob was very great, the roadway blocked with carriages, the concussion an impossibility. Devilish was the device adopted and carried into execution by the implacable hoodlums. They struck and prodded the mounted men's steeds till they kicked and plunged. The patience, long tried, of their riders was exhausted, and fiercely—yes, that is the term they struck right and left at the howling mob so closely pressing them. There was a terrible stampede. People rushed into the blockaded road, were jammed against carriages and horses, and a serious riot, unravelling to an end, seemed imminent. Then came the development of the plot. Whilst the police charged the mob they left the notice board unprotected. Then with a thump came the two foot piece of woodwork, and a mighty cheer rent the air.

It is unquestionable that the last Sunday of July of the present year of grace was the most disorderly which Toronto has ever seen. Its mayor mobbed, its police force stoned, murderous threats publicly made, the peace broken, the by-law disregarded, the Lord's Day desecrated, rest and recreation prevented, traffic blockaded are not items which constitute a Rad Letter day—in the ecclesiastic al sense of the word—in the local records of the Queen City of the west.

THOSE WHO WERE ARRESTED

Robert Magill, 40 Clyde street, bookbinder, disorderly by throwing stones in the Park.

George Muter, 477 Yonge street, disorderly in St. Vincent street, throwing stones.

Lawrence Hammond, Sullivan street, laborer, disorderly in the Park.

John Harding, 108 Oxford street, painter disorderly in the Park.

This does not include those "run out" o the Park. The next act in the sensational drama will be in the police court this morning.

TORONTO'S TALE OF TODAY.

The Sophia Handcock Murder—A Man Stabbed by His Friend, etc.

Before to-day's sun sets, one, and perhaps two persons may be arrested and charge with knowing something material concerning the murder of Sophia Handcock in her store at Fairbank Village on Thursday July 16. Government Detective Greer who spent Friday and Saturday at the scene of the murder, returned and made his report to the Government on Saturday evening. It is said that his report supports the opinion of the villagers that the girl was murdered in another talk with Edward Handcock, the father of the murdered girl he said he was born in London, England 55 years ago, and after living in Dover 2 years, whither he went when 8 years of age he came to Toronto and has been living here ever since. In rehearsing his theory of the tragedy, Handcock added to the facts already stated that he found a handful of brains which he took in his hands not knowing what they were. This he regrets doing as they were only seen by himself. A report that the weapon had been found proved incorrect although in the search for it the authorities discovered some important evidence.

Lawrence O'Connor, 133 Samuel street, was stabbed in the left side by his friend, L. Unsh, on Saturday night in a drunken row on Wilton avenue. The hemorrhage from the wound is so severe that the police took him to the hospital in the patrol wagon. Unsh is under arrest for the deed.

RUMOR THAT MR. CHAPLEAU OFFERED COALITION TO MR. LAURIER.

Great Fire at Castleton—The Business Part of the Village Almost Totally Destroyed—The Torpedo Works at Petrolea Blown to Atoms.

MONTREAL, July 26.—A startling rumor was circulated in political circles yesterday. The revelations at Ottawa have made such an impression upon the country that the fall of the Government is considered to be a matter of months, perhaps weeks.

It was confidently stated by several well informed politicians that Mr. Chapleau had approached Mr. Laurier and offered to form a Coalition Government with him. Mr. Laurier has the written conditions of the proposition in his pocket, of which the main feature is that Mr. Laurier makes his own selections, but gives Mr. Chapleau the portfolio of railways. Mr. Laurier has declined to form a coalition, feeling that Mr Chapleau is a bon rien and that at any rate the accession of the Liberal party to power is inevitable and in no way depends upon the favor of any section of the Conservative party.

A Sensational Stabbing Case.

CORNWALL, July 27.—John and Nicholas Morrow are two Indian brothers living on Cornwall Island, and have been on the very best of terms. John and Nicholas were repairing a canoe the other day, when Nicholas borrowed a knife and an awl from John, and when the latter went to Nicholas' house to get the articles he was refused and a wordy war followed. Words led to blows, and between Nicholas and his wife—or at least the woman who lives with him, as he said in court, she was not his wife—John got roughly handled. John's wife then appeared on the scene and began to help her husband, when Nicholas' wife grabbed the awl and stabbed her in the back once and twice in the side inflicting dangerous wounds. Nicholas then followed John to a grove of trees, and getting old of him beat him unmercifully and threw him on a boat, where his side struck the iron oar-lock, breaking a couple of his ribs. After coming to, John got some one to row him to Cornwall and he proceeded to the office of Police Magistrate Bethune, and swore out a warrant for the arrest of his brother Nicholas, who was arrested.

A May Mystery Cleared Up.

GUELPH, July 27.—The mystery surrounding the child which was found in a basket on the Fergus and Orangeville road last May has been unravelled, and in consequence an old man named Andrew Watson finds himself in the clutches of the law. A number of years ago Watson adopted an orphan at Berlin by the name of Elizabeth May. The girl resided with him ever since and has grown to womanhood. On April 20 last she was about to become a mother and made application at the poorhouse in Berlin for admission. At first the keeper refused, but consented to keep her over night. The next day she gave birth to a child and remained there for two weeks. Watson then went to the poorhouse and paid $25 for the girl's board and attendance and took her and the child away. It is alleged that the child was left on the roadside on the way home from Berlin.

Men Hurt by a Roof's Collapse.

BRADFORD, July 26.—Late yesterday after noon a serious accident occurred at the building of a carriage shed immediately behind the Sydenham-street Methodist Church near Bromford. A number of men were engaged on the roof of a shed below the Sydenham-street Methodist Church when the roof gave away, precipating three men to the ground. Edward Beverly had one ankle broken, and had other one put out of joint. James Marsh had a serious injury to the spine and Thomas Rutlee had his head and arms severely lacerated.

The Milverton Burglars Captured.

STRATFORD, July 25. The burglars who entered the Milverton store have been captured. One gave his name as John Chambers, and says he is a painter by trade. The other is Robert Shev, moulder, and hails from Toronto. They appeared before His Honor Judge Woods, and Chambers pleaded guilty to having possession of the goods, but says he did not steal them. Sheo elected to be tried by a jury, and will be held until next sessions. It is said that he escaped from the Central Prison.

The Rush Seizes a Sealing Schooner.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 26. The sealing schooner E. R. Marvin returned to port last night, having been seized by the American cutter Rush in attempting to enter Behring Sea after having been warned by the Rush at Sand Point not to do so. The Rush chased her into Omalaska, seized her and handed her over to the British warship Nymph, by whom she was ordered home.

Torpedo Works Blown Up.

PETROLEA, Ont., July 27. Clapp Coyer's torpedo works are completely blown to atoms. There were four men working at the works and one of them noticed the agitator looking and gave the alarm, and before they got very far away the explosion occurred. The men had a close call. It is wonderful how they escaped. All around the works buildings and derricks were blown to pieces.

A British Columbia Mining Explosion.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 25. An explosion of gas occurred in No. 2 shaft, East Wellington colliery, at 8 yesterday whereby James Bradley and William Griffith are dangerously and Archibald McBroome seriously injured. All others escaped unhurt. The explosion was caused by Griffiths entering an unused stairway with a naked light. No damage was done to the mine.

A Man Gored to Death.

SACKVILLE, N. B., July 25.—William Kinnear, an aged resident of Cookville, was gored to death by a bull yesterday afternoon. The body was frightfully mangled and bruised and the clothing badly torn. The deceased was about 80 years old, and leaves four sons and two daughters.

Bloodhounds Kill a Boy.

LONDON, July 26.—A despatch from Berlin gives an account of the horrible death of a baker's boy in that city yesterday by being torn to pieces by dogs. The boy, Michinsk by name, was engaged in delivering bread to his employer's customers.

Shortly before daylight he entered the area of a house in Eiffenbach-strasse, when two bloodhounds, owned by the occupant of the house, sprang out and attacked him. The boy started to run but was borne down by the savage animals. His screams attracted the owner of the dogs and other persons to the scene, but before arrival the body of the boy was literally torn to pieces and strewn about the pavement.

Brutal Prize Fight.

NEW YORK, July 26.—A prize fight remarkable for its astonishing brutality took place yesterday at a prominent sporting resort on Long Island between Tim Tomsidy who weighs 118 pounds, and Bill Hoggart who fights at the same weight.

Both men were stripped and when time was called at 9 o'clock they went at each other like game cocks. It was hammer and tongs from beginning to end. For 90 rounds of the 98 fought it was nip and tuck. Each man punished the other severely, but neither seemed to have a decided advantage. The combatants were literally dripping with gore.

A RAILWAY CRASH AND AN INFERNAL MACHINE PLOT.

Train Employees Burned Alive—Passengers Mangled Beyond Recognition—Fifteen Bodies Already Recovered From the Wreck—Attempted Assassination of Several French Ministers.

PARIS, July 27.—A collision between excursion trains occurred at St. Mande yesterday in which 50 persons were injured and three carriages wrecked. Both trains were returning from a musical festival at Fountenoy.

The second train crashed into the preceding train before the latter had left the St. Mande station. The guards, van and the three rear carriages of the last train were wrecked and caught fire from the gas. The injured occupants were shrieking in despair, and the other passengers hurriedly lest the train and assisted in extracting the victims. Soldiers also aided the fire brigade to quench the flames and rescue the sufferers. The work of helping the injured was carried on by torchlight.

A despatch from St. Mande at 1 o'clock this morning says that 60 persons were injured, and that 15 dead bodies have been recovered, including those of two children who were mangled beyone recognition. Most of the victims are legless. The driver and firemen of second train were burned alive. It is reported that the station master has decamped.

PIOUSLY DISGUISED DEATH.

Powerful Fulminates Enclosed in Prayer Books and Sent to Intended Victims.

PARIS, July 27.—It became known yesterday that an attempt had been made to assassinate Mme. Constans, wife of the Minister of the Interior. Mme. Constans received a package addressed to her from Toulon and apparently containing an oblong box. The wrapping paper around the supposed box was taken off and the package was found to consist of a good-sized missal, or Roman Catholic mass book. At first sight it was a neat present to send to the wife of the President. Upon more careful examination it was found that the leaves of the missal, to outward appearance, had been stuck together with varnish or mucilage. This caused a still more careful examination of the mysterious missal and upon being opened with the greatest care it was found that the interior of the book had been cut away in the manner sometimes adopted by smugglers who desire to send articles free of duty through the mails, and who placed them in a hollowed-out book for that purpose. The interior of the missal contained a powerful fulminate powder. There was no explosion. No clew has been found to the sender of this infernal machine though the post-office authorities of Toulon acting in conjunction with Parisian police, and the police of Toulon are said to be on the track of the perpetrator or perpetrators of this outrage. No reason seems to have been found for this attempt upon the life of Mme Constans, and so it is thought it would be assassins really intended to take the life of the Minister, and supposed that a package addressed to Mme. Constans would be carelessly opened by her husband, while a package addressed to M. Constans might be carefully opened by his attendants. The report of the attempted assassination is the talk of Paris, and has caused considerable indignation.

The identity of the person or persons who sent the infernal machine has not been discovered according to the latest particulars. The book in which the explosive was concealed appeared to be a Catholic prayer book. The book accompanied by a letter was found by minister Constans on Saturday morning on his desk. The handwriting on the envelope was so much like the writing of one of his nieces that he concluded that the letter was intended for Mme. Constans and he therefore sent both the book and the letter to his wife. Madam Constans, on receiving the book, found the leaves stuck fast together and handed it to the butler to open. The butler was about to use a chisel on it when he noticed a fuze affixed to the leaves. The book was then turned over to the police, by whom it was cautiously opened, when a cavity was disclosed which concealed 200 grains of fulminate. A few grains of the fulminate when tested in a laboratory exploded with a report like that of a cannon.

A book similarly prepared reached M. Etienne, Secretary of the Colonial Office, and another was received by M. Treille, director of the Colonial Health Department. M. Treille was put on his guard by a few grains of the fulminate dropping out of the book. There is a vague suspicion that the missive was sent by a retired naval surgeon who has a grievance.

M. Girard, the analyst, says only a madman would have risked his life in preparing such an apparatus, which was formidable enough to bring down a house and make a 50-foot hole in the ground. A navy surgeon, who has committed suicide at Toulon, was possibly the culprit.

EXPLORER STANLEY

Breaks a Thigh While Climbing in Switzerland.

GENOA, July 25.—Henry M. Stanley has met with a serious accident. According to information received here from Muerren, where Mr. Stanley is staying with his wife, the explorer has fractured his left lower thigh bone by accidentally slipping while mountain climbing.

Mr. Stanley had started to walk from Muerren towards the Schill Valley. While passing through a wood he slipped on some rocky ground and fell heavily to the earth fracturing his left thigh bone. Two English doctors who were stopping at Muerren were summoned to the spot. They bandaged Mr. Stanley's leg and then had the explorer conveyed to Muerren where Dr. Playfair of Surbians is attending him.

An Emperor Injured.

BERLIN, July 25.—Emperor William telegraphs that his right ankle was so severely hurt by the accident which befell him Thursday that he will require to use his foot sparingly for some time. The Emperor slipped during a rainstorm on the deck of the Hotrezollern. The Emperor will return here Aug. 17 and will command the cavalry manœuvres near Bromberg. Afterwards he will proceed to Metz and conduct a military survey of Upper Alsace. Thence he will go to Thuringen to take part in the military manœuvres there. The Emperor will not, however, as heretofore be a guest of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg Gotha, who exposed the cause of Bismarck and loses no chance to adversely criticize the Emperor.

Rain Averts a Famine.

CALCUTTA, July 27.—Rains have fallen in northwest India, averting the famine that was feared.

Possible Railway Fusion.

LONDON, July 27.—Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk stocks are buoyant on account of the rumored objects of the visits of Messrs Van Horne and Depew. It is now believed that an actual fusion of the two roads is practicable although it is generally though that a friendly traffic arrangement will be arrived at, provided the Grand Trunk adopts a pacific attitude to the C. P. R. The G. T. R board met and fully discussed the situation with Mr. Duncan McIntyre in view of Sir Henry Tyler's visit to Canada.

Queer Punishment For Mutiny.

LONDON, July 27.—It is reported that in consequence of the repeated displays of mutinous conduct upon the part of the Foo Guards that all time-expiring men belonging to the batallion of Grenadier Guards now on its way home from Bermuda will be discharged and will not be permitted to re enlist. The comment is made that this seems an odd way of punishing the Cold-streams for their recent insubordinate conduct.

Why it is Popular.

Because it has proven its absolute merit over and over again, because it has an unequalled record of cures, because its business is conducted in a thoroughly honest manner, and because it combines economy and strength, being the only medicine of which "100 Doses One Dollar" is true—these strong points have made Hood's Sarsaparilla the most successful medicine of the day.

Political Unrest.

(The Week.)

The political unrest, not only at Ottawa, but all over the Dominion is becoming almost as intense as it was in the memorable days proceeding and during the investigation of the Pacific Scandal. Distrust and suspicion are becoming rife amongst the people, irrespective of party affiliations. As an Ottawa Conservative journal says:—

It is impossible to glance, even superficially at the press of the country, not the Liberal, but the Conservative and Independent press, without realising that the tenor of the recent developments in the capital is so repulsive to the people at large that one of those flood ties of moral fury into which Macaulay pictured the English race as periodically swelling, is now on the rise in this country, and very apt, justly or unjustly, to overturn the present Government. If the Government and the Conservative party are wise they will stop at no half-measures to stem the tide, and we venture to say that it is a half-measure that minor officials should be decapitated for illegalities affecting a few dollars in each case, while Cabinet Ministers against whom serious accusations are made and who are practically on trial before the people, remain in charge of the department's out of which much of evidence for or against them must come.

The commendable promptness which the Government has shown in dealing with the "minor officials" who have been guilty of minor offences will avail them little so long as the people have reason, or think they have, to suspect that the chief offenders in the high places are to be sheltered, if possible, from the storm. It will be alleged, of course, that their is a broad difference. The suspensions and dismissals have all been made, so far, on proof or confession of guilt. There is as yet neither confession or positive proof of wilful wrong-doing on the part of any Minister. And while it is true that in the eye of British law every man must be held innocent until he has been proved guilty, it is no less true that there is a certain degree of reasonable suspicion which destroys the usefulness of a public officer and disqualifies him for a position of responsibility and trust. No business man would retain a clerk in such a position pending the results of an investigation, when appearances and circumstantial evidence were as much against him, as they are, in view of the evidence of Mr. Murphy, Mr. Valin, and of written documents, against the present Head of the Department of Public Works. So long as there is a possibility of innocence there is a possibility of grave hardship in acting on the presumption of guilt. But after all, as Butler long since pointed out, "probabilities are the very guide of life." And in the case of Sir Hector Langevin there is this to be said further. The very evidence that should prove the honesty of the man would shatter the reputation of the Minister and certify his utter incompetency for the position he holds. For there is absolutely no escape from the alternatives of incompetency or dishonourable conduct. However, as we are neither supporter nor opponent of the Government, we are not called on, as our contemporary, to offer richer advice or warning. We have already gone somewhat astray from the object with which we set out, which was to express the hope that the tide of moral indignation at corruption, wherever found and by whomsoever committed, is already at the flood, and that it may not cease to rise until a thorough purgation has been effected. Macaulay's figure is founded on historical truth. The progress of nations in political morality is like that of the incoming tide. Reaction may follow, but the whole nation has been lifted, nevertheless, to a somewhat higher level. We can but hope that present events mark the beginning of such an uplifting in Canadian political life.

More of it.

The Public Accounts Committee struck a fresh stratum of corruption Friday. Mr. John Roger Arnoldi is the chief mechanical engineer in the Department of Public Works. He entered the public service in 1859, is 52 years old, and has a salary of $2 350 a year. Like Perley, the chief engineer, who is 60 and got $4 000 a year, Mr. Arnoldi is old enough to know that boodling is a crime and sufficiently well paid, one would think, to be removed from the temptation of resorting to it. Yet it seems that he has been boodling for years. He is the owner of a yacht named the "Joe" which was rented by the Government as a survey vessel. The "Joe" never performed any survey service, but was supposed to be used by Mr. Arnoldi in the discharge of his duties as inspector of Dominion dredges, though his accounts show that he usually visited the dredges by rail. For the rent of this yacht the Public Works Department has paid him $100 a month for a long time, through the hands of an intermediary. This friend is the owner of metal works, and has been paid thousands of dollars by the department for supplies furnished without tender on Arnoldi's bare order. It is also shown that Mr. Arnoldi has improperly received other moneys from the department under cover of his nephew's name. The committee likewise took the testimony of Mr. Rousseau of Rousseau & Mather, Montreal, who swore that they were chiselled out of the contract for iron roofing the Langevin block by Mr. Charlebois, who obtained from the Minister the right or power to levy a percentage on all contracts connected with that work other than his own. Their tender was for $42 000 and they would have made $8 000 or $9 000 out of the job. When they had been driven away by Charlebois' extravagant demands Charlebois himself got the roofing contract at $60,000. It will be remembered that Mr. John Fenerm, of Toronto, met the same fate as Rousseau & Mather when he tendered for the elevators. Charlebois had the contract for the stone work of the block, and under some underhand arrangement with Sir Hector was allowed to squeeze other contractors who might have work to do, and put up a notice in his office to the effect that they must pay him 25 per cent. on the amount of their contracts. Mr. Fuller, the ch of architect of the department, testified the other day that he never before heard of one contractor being permitted to blackmail others for admission to a Government building, yet this prerogative was given to Charlebois by Sir Hector along with the main contract, though not many years ago Sir John Macdonald declared to Parliament that he was not a proper person to be entrusted with a Government contract.

But what are we to think of the Arnoldi case after Perley's and Lightfoot's and after that of the dredge, masonry and cribwork foremen at Quebec? The whole department from cellar to garret seems to be rotten, and what wonder when the head of it has for years been receiving money for corrupt purposes from thieving contractors and making a confidant of Uncle Thomas, who was probably the biggest rascal of the lot.—Globe.

Gold at Sudbury.

Immense Auriferous Quartz Veins in the Township of Fairbank.

SUDBURY, July 22.—The discovery of immense auriferous quartz veins in the township of Fairbank promises to be much more important than was at first supposed. Analysis of the ore by Prof. T. Heys, of Toronto, and Mr. R. H. Ahn, of the Reduction Works, Nickel City, shows that the ore contains large quantities of gold. It is a notable feature that the precious metal does not exist in a free state but is evenly distributed through the whole body of the ore. The fact in connection with the unusual width of the veins is of great importance. The ore, which is free milling, can be treated by ordinary processes at a small cost per ton, and a very large proportion or the assay value of the ore can be extracted without difficulty. The geological formation and topographical features are very peculiar and remarkable. The formation is talcose and appears as an enormous wedge between the two syenite ridges to the northwest and southeast. The scenery as viewed from the large hill to the south of Gordon Lake, on lot three, in the third concession of Fairbank, (where are several very promising quartz veins) is very picturesque and striking. To the immediate north are the placid waters of Gordon Lake, surrounded almost completely by stern cliffs of Huronian rocks. Away to the north and west is the syenite ridge which separates the talc formation of Trill, Fairbank and Creighton, from the diorite belt containing the rich nickeliferous deposits of Levack, Moncrief, Craig and the Stanghi Lake districts. A few miles east rapidly flow the mineralised waters of the Vermillyon River; to the south is another syenite ridge, separating the talcose schists of the district from the well-known nickel belt of Denison, Graham and Drury. To the south-west is Fairbank Lake, and to the North-west Vermillyon Lake. The country is very rocky, there being little soil, but the rocks are covered by timber, mostly small. A very noticeable feature is the large number of very fine water-powers, which will no doubt prove an important factor in the economical development of the remarkable gold veins which have been discovered, especially in the vicinity of the Vermillyon River and Gordon Lake and south of Vermillyon Lake.

The evils resulting from habitual costiveness are many and serious; but the use of harsh, drastic purgatives is quite as dangerous. In Ayer's Pills, however, the patient has a mild but effective aperient, superior to all others, especially for family use.

Examination Papers

The Toronto World says:—"The same old complaint comes from every direction that no judgment was shown in the preparation of papers for the recent high school entrance examinations. The papers in grammar and history are specially criticized as being unsuitable and far beyond the information the pupils could obtain from their text books. The source of this evil seems to be that the ordinary public school teacher, who is in immediate contact with the pupils and his intimate acquaintance with the text books, has not sufficient to say in preparing the papers. Teachers who convey pupils through the lower walks of learning up to a given point, should be better able to test a pupil's knowledge up to that point than a teacher who has nothing to do with the lower branches, but move on a plane far above where the most complex problems are tossed about as ordinary nothings. It requires an effort for teachers in the highest branches to let themselves down—an effort that very often fails of accomplishment."

MANY A LIFE

HAS been saved by the prompt use of Ayer's Pills. Travelers by land or sea are liable to constipation or other derangements of the stomach and bowels which, if neglected, lead to serious and often fatal consequences. The most sure means of correcting these evils is the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. The prudent sailing-master would as soon go to sea without his chronometer as without a supply of these Pills. Though prompt and energetic in operation, Ayer's Pills leave no ill effects; they are purely vegetable and sugar-coated; the safest medicine for old and young, at home or abroad.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action so that now I am in health."—Mrs. C. E. Clark, Tewksbury, Massachusetts.

"I regard Ayer's Pills as one of the most reliable general remedies of our times. They have been in use in my family for affections requiring a purgative, and have given unvarying satisfaction. We have found them an excellent remedy for colds and light fevers."—W. R. Woodson, Fort Worth, Texas.

"For several years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than upon anything else in the medicine chest, to regulate my bowels and those of the ship's crew. These Pills are not severe in their action, but do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect for the cure of rheumatism, kidney troubles, and dyspepsia."—Capt. Mueller, Steamship Felicia, New York City.

"I have found Ayer's Cathartic Pills to be a better family medicine for common use than any other pills within my knowledge. They are not only very effective, but safe and pleasant to take—qualities which must make them valued by the public."—Jules Hauel, Perfumer, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Handsome Prize,

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hore, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston Ont.,) Daily British Whig, June 27th, 1891.

A Nationalist Plan.

A proposal, which would obtain favor with even the opponents of Nationalism, contemplates the placing of a supply sufficient for each family of nature's great dyspepsia specific and blood purifier, B.B.B., in every home in the land. The benefits of such a boon to the people would be incalculable.

FALSE DAWN.

The moon was low down, and there was just the glimmer of the false dawn that comes about an hour before the real one. But the light was very faint, and the dun cloud reared like a hill. I wondered where Edith Copleigh had gone, and as I was wondering I saw three things together: First, Maud Copleigh's face come smiling out of the darkness and move towards Saumarez, who was standing by me. I heard the girl whisper "George," and slide her arm into the arm that was not clawing my shoulder, and I saw that look on her face which only comes once or twice in a lifetime—when a woman is perfectly happy and the air is full of trumpets and gorgeous colored fire and the earth turns into cloud because she loves and is loved. At the same time I saw Saumarez's face as he heard Maud Copleigh's voice, and fifty yards away from the clump of orange trees I saw a brown Holland habit getting upon a horse.

It must have been my state of over excitement that made me so quick to meddle with what did not concern me. Saumarez was moving off to the habit; but I pushed him back and said: "Stop here and explain. I'll fetch her back." And I ran out to get at my own horse. I had a perfectly unnecessary notion that everything must be done decently and in order, and that Saumarez's first care was to wipe the happy look out of Maud Copleigh's face. All the time I was linking up the curb chain I wondered how he would do it.

I entered after Edith Copleigh, thinking to bring her back slowly on some pretense or another. But she galloped away as soon as she saw me, and I was forced to ride after her in earnest. She called back over her shoulder "Go away! I'm going home. Oh, go away!" two or three times, but my business was to catch her first and argue later. The ride just fitted in with the rest of the evil dream. The ground was very bad, and now and again we rushed through the whirling, choking dust devils, in the skirts of the rising storm. There was a burning hot wind blowing that brought up a stench of stale brick kilns with it, and through the still light and through the dust devils, across that desolate plain, flickered the brown holland habit on the gray horse. She headed for the station at first. Then she wheeled round and set off for the river through beds of burnt down jungle grass, had even to ride big over. In cold blood I should never have dreamed of going over such a country at night but it seemed quite right and natural with the lightning crackling overhead, and a reek like the smell of the Pit in my nostrils. I rode and shouted, and she bent forward and lashed her horse, and the aftermath of the dust storm came up and caught us both, and drove us downwind like pieces of paper.

I don't know how far we rode, but the drumming of the horse hoofs and the roar of the wind and the race of the faint, blood red moon through the yellow mist seemed to have gone on for years and years, and I was literally drenched with sweat from my helmet to my gaiters when the gray stumbled, recovered himself and pulled up dead lame. My brute was used up altogether. Edith Copleigh was in a sad state, plastered with dust, her helmet off, and crying bitterly, "Why can't you let me alone?" she said. "I only wanted to get away and go home. Oh, please let me go!"

"You have got to come back with me, Miss Copleigh." Saumarez has something to say to you."

It was a foolish way of putting it; but I hardly knew Miss Copleigh, and, though I was playing Providence at the cost of my horse, I could not tell her in as many words what Saumarez had told me. I thought he could do that better himself. All her pretense about being tired and wanting to go home broke down, and she cooked herself to and fro in the saddle as she sobbed, and the hot wind blew her black hair to leeward. I am not going to repeat what she said, because she was utterly unstrung.

This, if you please, was the cynical Miss Copleigh. Here was I, almost an utter stranger to her, trying to tell her that Saumarez loved her and she was to come back to hear him say so. I believe I made myself understood, for she gathered the gray together and made him hobble somehow, and we set off for the camp, while the storm went thundering down to Umballa and a few big drops of warm rain fell. I found that she had been standing close to Saumarez when he proposed to her sister, and had wanted to go home to cry in peace, as an English girl should. She dabbed her eyes with her pocket handkerchief as we went along, and babbled to me out of sheer lightness of heart and hysteria. That was perfectly unnatural, and yet, it seemed all right at the time and in the place. All the world was only the two Copleigh girls, Saumarez and I, ringed in with the lightning and the dark, and the guidance of this misguided world seemed to lie in my hands.

When we returned to the tomb in the deep, dead stillness that followed the storm, the dawn was just breaking and nobody had gone away. They were waiting for our return, Saumarez most of all. His face was white and drawn. As Miss Copleigh and I limped up he came forward to meet us, and when he helped her down from her saddle he kissed her before all the picnic. It was like a scene in a theatre, and the likeness was heightened by all the dust white, ghostly looking men and women under the orange trees, clapping their hands as if they were watching a play at Saumarez's choice. I never knew anything so un-English in my life!

Lastly, Saumarez said we must all go home as the station would come out to look for us, and would I be good enough to ride home with Maud Copleigh? Nothing would give me greater pleasure, I said.

So, we formed up, six couples in all, and went back two by two; Saumarez walking at the side of Edith Copleigh, who was riding his horse.

The air was cleared, and little by little, as the sun rose, I felt we were all dropping back again into ordinary men and women and that the "Great Pop Picnic" was a thing altogether apart and out of the world never to happen again. It had gone with the dust storm and the tingle in the hot air.

I felt tired and limp, and a good deal ashamed of myself as I went in for a bath and some sleep.

There is a woman's version of this story, but it will never be written—unless Maud Copleigh cares to try.—Rudyard Kipling.

Peculiar Poisoning at Exeter.

EXETER, July 25.—The three-year old daughter of John Heywood, Exeter North, had been out playing with the other children in the garden and underneath the apple trees and had eaten a quantity of the fruit which had fallen underneath the trees. Now the potatoes have been planted here too and not a short time ago they had been sprinkled with Paris Green. The belief is that the apples were lying underneath the leaves of potatoes and that the fluid had fallen upon them, and the child partook of the poisoned fruit which caused its death.

The Body Washed Up at Fort Colborne.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., July 25.—Mr. Barber of Simcoe came down last evening and saw the body washed ashore here. Mr. Barber says it is neither of the two, Messrs. Bunker and Hyerson, lost off the Mabla. The body is that of a man about 30 years of age with light hair, small moustache and a thick head of hair. The left eye is cut under the lid. He is dressed in a black silk shirt, no vest, dark striped trousers, black shooting jacket, coat with lining frayed, heavy rolled lace shoes and black straw hat with ribbon. $6 50 in money, a knife with one blade and a wooden handle were found in the pockets of the trousers. Deceased wore a truss. There were no papers on the body. A clinker boat came ashore on July 17, marked yacht P.D., painted white, formerly black, had two seats. A fishing spoon marked 5 Croft & Son, Toronto, was found in the boat.

A Deaf Man Run Down by a Train.

PICTON, July 25.—W. B. Bunnell, who lives in East Lake-road, was walking along the track, when a train, which was being shunted, approached. Men on the train and others in the station yard yelled loudly at him and the engine whistled. Mr. Bunnell, who is deaf, became aware that something was wrong and stopped right between the rails. Just then the car struck him, knocked him down and ran over him, cutting off one foot. He may not recover.

Crushed to Death.

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont., July 25.—Two children, a son and a daughter of Mr. Joseph McGowan, sectionman north of Utterson, were playing on the side of the railway track in the excavation made under a stump at the sand bank. The jarring of a passing train caused the stump to fall, and the little girl being directly under was crushed to death, the head being terribly mangled. She was found by the sorrowing mother almost buried. The boy was also badly hurt.

A Canadian Forger Extradited.

WINDSOR, July 25.—William Plummer was arrested at St. Clair, Mich., yesterday by Provincial Detective McKee on a charge of forgery and will be extradited. Plummer, who was working as a farm laborer near Chatham a few months ago, deposited notes aggregating in value $1000 in a Chatham bank, which were subsequently ascertained to be forgeries.

The Whirlpool's Victim.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 25.—An inquest was held on the body of Frederick Udell found in the whirlpool at Niagara Falls. Ada Lamport said she was with Udell until 2 a. m. and left him in an intoxicated condition. The jury returned a verdict of "died from causes unknown." Murder was suspected as he pockets were inside out when found.

A Mt. Pleasant Merchant Injured.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Ont., July 25.—Yesterday William Lough, merchant, was turning his horse and buggy about at Ida village, when the animal becoming frightened, Mr. Lough was thrown on the front wheel, receiving internal injuries of a serious character. Little hope is entertained of his recovery.

In Plain English!

Unquestionably considered of incalculable consequence in correcting all constitutional contaminations is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Can conscientiously commend it to careful consideration, confident of its competency in all controllable chronic complaints.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the result of much research and wide experience by a practical physician of world renown; its formula embraces the most potent restoratives of the whole vegetable kingdom. It is especially recommended for all blood disorders—dyspepsia, liver and kidney complaints, scrofula, salt rheum, catarrh and consumption—in its early stages—insuring relief and cure in all cases!

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of a flesh and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Hotel Dieu, and General Hospital in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c. and $1 at Peterborough drug stores. dw

What's the Reason?

The causes of summer complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera morbus, etc., are the excessive heat, eating green fruit, over-exertion, impure water and sudden chill. Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is an infallible and prompt cure for all bowel complaints from whatever cause.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural. dw

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1. dw

Health, Happiness and Prosperity.

All these depend on pure blood, for without it health is impossible; without health happiness is impossible, and without happiness prosperity is a mockery. No means of obtaining pure blood and removing bad blood excels the use of B B B, the best blood purifier known.

The action of Carter's Little Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver, and regulate the bowels, but do not purge. They are sure to please. Try them. dw

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

There are many indications of worms, but Dr. Low's Worm Syrup meets them in every case successfully. dw

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliances. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough. eod-w

Municipal Jobbery.

There is more than reasonable ground to suppose that there will be unearthed a large amount of jobbery and corruption in connection with the school buildings addition and the street railway franchise. A public meeting of ratepayers would be a wise move, especially as it is certain it would unanimously endorse the universal use of hawk-y broe' peerless teas.

The Late Margaret Strachan.

The late Mrs. Margaret Strachan, whose funeral took place on Wednesday, was one of the oldest residents in Port Hope. Deceased was born in the county of Cavan, Ireland, in 1797, and was therefore 94 years old. She had been in feeble health for a long time, but bore her affliction with the fortitude of a true Christian. The good old lady will be greatly missed, as she was highly respected by all who knew her.—Port Hope Times.

TO-MORROW.

Lindsay's Electric Light Plant.

Mr. Reesor has now got his electric light plant in first-class working order, and a visit to his engine-room in the north end of Wallace's woollen factory will prove interesting to citizens. A Goldie & McCullough compound Wheelock engine of 100 h.p. supplies the motive power, and is a beautiful piece of machinery. The cylinder-heads, governors, springs and connecting rods are all nickel-plated, while the cylinders are covered with burnished brass sheeting, giving it a handsome effect. The driving-wheel is 11½ feet in diameter. Two dynamos of fifty lights each are now in position, and connections for a third are in readiness. All the machinery stands on heavy piers of solid masonry, thus preventing the slightest vibration being felt even when at full speed—indeed it is possible to balance a 25c piece upon its edge on the barrel of the cylinder without any danger of its being dislodged.—Post.

Fare: $1.75 and $2.00.

Transcontinental Telephone Talk.

The Vancouver, B.C., daily News Advertiser says respecting that city's "improved telephone service.":—Ever since Mr. H. W. Kent, the Superintendent of the New Westminster and Burrard Inlet Telephone Company arrived here, great improvements have been made in the telephone system both in this city and New Westminster. He arrived at a most opportune time, just when the system in New Westminster was thoroughly demoralized by the recent great fire in that city. After the services there had been put in rush, work was started on the trunk lines between the two cities and metallic wires substituted, thus affording a much better service. The line to Steveston a distance of about 12 miles, was then built and has been in operation for some weeks past. The company then set to work to improve their city service, and they have had a gang of men for some time engaged putting up new poles from 60 to 74 feet in height. 214 of these poles have to be put up, and all have now been erected but 10. By means of these poles the vibration from the street railway and electric light wires will be counteracted. The metallic system will be used on these new poles so that the service will be still more improved. The wire will shortly arrive here, and in a few weeks the new wires will be ready for the use of subscribers. The company have let the tender for erecting the new poles in New Westminster, and a number of men are at work there putting up tall poles. They have also increased their staff of employees, and have now three men engaged repairing lines, while one man makes periodical inspection of all the instruments.

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

PETERBOROUGH, July 27.—Sharp frost this morning, the thermometer standing at 36° which will probably bring rain and, it might be, thunder.

Police Court Matters.

At the police court this morning a fine was imposed upon a citizen for allowing his cow to run at large, and the case of Wylie vs. Dunford was enlarged till Saturday morning, the defendant's bail standing till that date.

Arrested on Suspicion.

Geo. Calder was arrested on Saturday on a warrant charging him with the recent crop of burglaries in Ashburnham. He was arraigned before Police Magistrate Dumble and remanded till Friday at the request of Russel, who has the case in hand.

The Canoe Company's Guelph Agency.

The Guelph Mercury says:—"Mr. T. J. Day, who has been appointed agent of the Ontario Canoe Company, Peterborough, has one of the company's canoes on exhibition in front of his store. It is of a neat, clean make, and claims the admiration of those interested in boating and canoeing. The price is $25, and considered cheap by judges."

Lacrosse.

According to the Port Hope Times, the Cobourg lacrosse team were defeated at Millbrook, on Friday, by four straight goals. The Cobourgs, however, are a young team, and were much lighter than their opponents. They showed plenty of grit, however, and their play improved, as the game progressed. It would be an excellent thing to arrange a match with Cobourg and the Port Hope juniors, with enough seniors on the team to make the game even.

The Grand Black Chapter.

Messrs. Robert Weir, G.M., Ontario east, R. B. Knights of Ireland, C. W. Sawers, D. R., and S. I. Campbell, D.G.L., left town this morning for Kingston to attend the annual meetings of the Grand Black Chapter and Most Worshipful Grand Orange Lodge of British America. It is expected that this will be the largest gathering of prominent Orangemen held for many years, as matters of great importance to the Order will be brought before the lodge.

The New Canadian Magazine.

Canadian literary Monthlies have been short-lived; but Canada, the new one-dollar magazine, has evidently come to stay. Since it was started in January, it has been enlarged and improved with almost every every issue. Being broadly national and thoroughly patriotic, it draws its subscribers from all over the Dominion. Its articles are short and bright and all by Canadian writers or on Canadian themes. To those who remit one dollar before Sept. 1st, the publisher will send Canada for EIGHTEEN MONTHS—from July, 1891, to Dec., 1892. Address Canada, Benton, New Brunswick.

Honoured by Title.

The Listowel Banner has the following, which will be of interest to the acquaintances of Rev. Isaac Campbell, of Knox church, Listowel:—"It will gratify the numerous friends and well-wishers of the esteemed pastor of Knox Presbyterian church, of Listowel, Ont., to be informed of the fact that Rev. Isaac Campbell has been honoured by the Faculty of the National University of Chicago, Ill., with the full degree of A.M. Rev. Dr. Campbell our hearty congratulations upon his successful ascent of the scholastic ladder of "Mental and Moral Philosophy." We also wish the Dr. a "good degree" of prosperity and happiness in the discharge of his earnest ministerial and Christian work in our midst. The several examinations required for attainment of this honorary degree, were held under the local presidency of Rev. F. Gunner, M.D., as the examining com., and were supervised by Rev. I. C. Quinn, professor of Mental and Moral Philosophy at Anaconda, Montana."

A New Hotel for Harwood.

The Cobourg Post says that Capt. Carter, representing the Rathbun Company of Deseronto, while discussing the subject of a summer hotel at Harwood, suggested that the property where the old McDougall mill stood would be a most desirable spot for such an institution. Of course it is unnecessary to say that his views were not concurred in by any of his hearers. The gallant captain is the business manager or travelling agent for that great lumbering establishment, and, as they are removing the old mill, appear anxious to dispose of the property to parties willing to put up money in such a venture. That a hotel is required at this point is quite evident, but when one is built it is to be hoped that a better site will be secured than the old discarded mill yard, ornamented with burdock and the lake front producing a gorgeous crop of bull-rushes. If parties can be induced to build a house at that end of the lake, care should be taken to erect it in close proximity to both railroad and lake. No other place at Harwood would suit.

Temperance Enterprise.

The Good Templar order is in somewhat of a booming condition at present, and the two town lodges are in an active state. Carswell lodge had a rousing meeting on Friday evening. Their programme was not fully carried out, the lodge adjourning to visit Ashburnia lodge, which held its first public entertainment that night in the old hall. The house was well filled, and although somewhat disappointed by the absence of the choir a very enjoyable evening was spent by all. Mr. Russell occupied the chair. Rev. Mr. Thom, of the Mark street church, gave a stirring address, which was not without humor, and gave the audience a good laugh. The following contributed to the programme: The Misses Hamilton, Miss Whittington, Mr. T. H. Green and Mr. R. Munro. After a short recess Mr. Dowd gave an exhibition illustrating the evils of intemperance. The members were much encouraged by the splendid gathering for this season of the year, and wish to express their thanks to the reeve and council for liberty to use the large room, to the Methodist church for use of organ, to the organist for his attendance, and to the Rev. Mr. Thom for his address.

Baseball.

An interesting game of baseball, was played on the P.A.A.A. grounds on Saturday afternoon between the Peterboroughs and the Edison company nine. The result was a score of 22 for the Peterborough boys against a tally of four for the electric ball tossers. For the winners the battery was McCabe and Graham and Pomfret and Davis did a similar duty for the Edison boys. The Peterboroughs batted a strong game and the big score made was not entirely due to Pomfret's delivery. If he had been loyally supported in the field the score, while it would still have been large would have been considerably kept down. It was however a good spirited game and the result only gives the Edison's something like what they gave in the game on Riverside Park on July 13th. Following is the score:—

NOTES.

There are more games on the diamond slate. The Cygnets of Toronto ask for a game on August 15th and it is probable the young swans will be accommodated by the Peterborough team.

A Hamilton team, which is said to contain several veterans, would like to play here on the 10th, but it is uncertain whether that date can be met by the home team.

Rev. Father Conway,

Norwood's Pious Pastor Celebrates the Thirty-Sixth Anniversary of His Ordination.

(From "United Canada")

On Wednesday, July 16th, Rev. Father Conway, parish priest of Norwood, Ont., celebrated the 36th anniversary of his elevation to the sacred order of the priesthood.

Few, indeed, remain of those devoted sons of Mother Church who shared with him the joys of that happy day, and fewer still are those among the clergy who witnessed this young soldier of Christ go forth for the first time on his sacred mission.

A king, a shepherd, a father, a judge and a physician, in the truest sense of those words, has the Rev. Father Conway ever been to his flock. With what zeal, devotion and self abnegation he has always attended to the spiritual wants of his people is known to the Cathletics of Toronto, St. Catherines and Peterborough, in each of which places he has spent several years of his fruitful labors. Ever willing and ready to obey the wishes of his superiors, and always trusting in the aid of that God to whose service he had consecrated his life, he went forth the fearless champion of Christian and Catholic doctrines, often leaving behind labors accomplished which to others might well appear the work of a whole lifetime. The churches, schools, convents and dwellings erected under his supervision testify with what earnestness he has laboured in the cause of education and religion, and will remain, long after he has gone to his well-merited repose, silent witnesses of a well-spent life. No matter in what portion of the Lord's vineyard he was called to exercise his priestly functions, he always impressed upon his people the importance of three things—a strict compliance with their religious obligations, the absolute necessity of good Catholic schools and good Catholic educators and a strong love of temperance. It would be difficult to say in which of these the worthy father has been most influential in accomplishing the most good, but wherever he has gone one result has always marked his efforts, namely, a congregation of sober, industrious, God-fearing men. So earnest and frequent have been his appeals to his people to shun the destroying cup of intemperance, and so numerous are the temperance societies which to-day owe to him their origin that he may well be called the Father Matthew of Ontario. That he may be long spared to fight in the good cause of temperance, than which none at the present day require abler defenders, is the best wish of United Canada.

Church Chimes.

Rev. Mr. Murray, of Kincardine, occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's church yesterday morning and evening.

Rev. Messrs. Locke and Edwards, of the George street and Charlotte street Methodist churches, respectively, exchanged pulpits yesterday morning.

In reference to an appeal of the W.C.T.U. reference was made in nearly all of the churches yesterday to the importance of merchants closing their places of business at an earlier hour on Saturday nights than is now prevalent, in order that their employees may get needed rest in time to attend church services on Sunday mornings. In speaking to several business men, a representative was told that the fault was not alone with the merchants; the public was to a large extent responsible for late closing hours. No merchant keeps his shop open longer than customers demand service. This is a question to which there are evidently two sides.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The prayer, praise and promise meeting Saturday evening was well attended and much interest was manifested by those present.

The Bible study and consecration service on Sabbath morning was a time of refreshing to all present.

The open air service in Central Park was largely attended. Mr. James Sutherland gave an earnest gospel address, which was listened to by the vast crowd with interest. The Y.M.C.A. band led the singing.

Mr. W. N. Simons, General Secretary of the Norwalk, Conn., association, addressed the gospel and song service last evening. All present felt it good to be there, and will not soon forget the impressive words of our brother.

Bible study for young men, Tuesday evening at 8.

Personal.

Mr. Wm. Thompson, of Otono, is taking a full course in bookkeeping at the Peterborough Business College.

Crossley and Hunter, evangelists, are in Muskoka recuperating for a couple or three months. They hold union evangelistic meeting in Victoria, Nanaimo, ect., and then during the spring months return to the North-West Territories and Manitoba for service.

Mr. R. W. Muncaster has received a responsible appointment in the Dominion Postal Service and leaves town at the end of the month to enter upon his duties, which will require his absence from town the greater part of the time. His family, however, will remain in town. Mr. Muncaster is well qualified for the duties of his position, and the many friends he has made during his twenty-two years' residence in town, while congratulating him on his appointment, will regret to miss his genial presence from amongst them.

Asphodel.

Again we are called on, says the Review to perform the sad duty of chronicling the death of another of the pioneers of the township of Asphodel in the person of Mr. Arthur Stinson, one of the first settlers in the township. Deceased passed over to the great majority on Friday, after a short illness. He was in his 85th year and widely known and highly respected. The remains were interred in the Norwood Cemetery on Monday, the funeral being largely attended.

Ida.

A Bad Accident to Mr. Lough.

We regret to learn that Mr. Wm. H. Lough, postmaster of Ida, met with a very serious accident yesterday, which may be attended with a fatal result. Mr. Lough had been driving, and on his return got out at his store, and getting into the buggy again to drive to the stable, when in entering the gate, by some means he was thrown from the buggy, and sustained such injuries that his life is despaired of. It is sincerely hoped by Mr. Lough's many friends that his injuries may not turn out as serious as at first supposed.—Port Hope Times.

A HORRIBLE RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

Ohio Excursionists Mangled by a Crash From the Rear.

CINCINNATI, July 26.—The Dayton Coal Register Company yesterday gave their employees and friends of their employees a picnic excursion to Woodside Island, four miles north of Hamilton and 30 miles from Dayton. The excursionists went by train on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Road. They filled all the cars of a very long train, and spent the day at Woodside. They were mostly young men and women, with a few children. It was after 6 o'clock last night when the train started to run to Dayton. A little after 10 o'clock the train stopped at Middletown owing to a broken drawbar. In the delay of recoupling the freight train came along. The cars into which the freight ran were crushed into a mass of debris and dead and crippled human beings. Two score had their legs or arms broken or were otherwise horribly injured. News of the disaster spread over the city like wildfire and the depot is now filled with anxious families whose relatives are on the unfortunate train. The city ambulance and patrol wagons have all been ordered to the depot to transport the injured to the hospital or to their homes. Two coaches filled with people were wrecked. A boy, aged 11, named Patterson was cut in three pieces. A man named Frank Simoner was killed, and a little girl named Lillie died soon after being taken from the debris.

There is a curve at Middleton's which hides a train standing at the depot from the view of a train approaching from the south. A flagman was sent back to stop the oncoming freight, which was moving at a high rate of speed and was heavily loaded. The engineer of the freight saw the flagman. He put on brakes, reversed his engine, and apparently did all in his power to stop his train, but the impetus was too great, and a moment later the awful crash sounded.

DAYTON, O., July 27.—Three persons were killed outright; William Matthews, aged 13; Miss Lydia Freyer, aged 22; Frank Simoner, aged 17.

Four are in a critical condition at St. Elizabeth's hospital; Joseph B. Cheval, mechanical draughtsman, left arm crushed off at shoulder; Frank Patterson, aged 21, left arm amputated above elbow; Joseph H. Sweeverly, aged 25, of Pottsville, Pa., spinal injury, and James Murphy, aged 50, terribly injured in the small of the back.

Miss Mary Reese, of Osborne, Ohio, was badly injured, and also the following from Dayton: Warren Thompson, Fred. Weidner, Marks Emerick, Edith R. S. Ruttle, Kate Schlein, Elder M. Beason and wife, Frank Reiger, William Oman, Marl Gram, Annie Venard, Samuel Lohr, Charles Myers, Maggie Frost, Annie Brennan, Pearl Shorthill and W. C. Thompson. There are as many more with bruises and other slight injuries.

The Will of General Booth.

LONDON, July 27.—Commander-in-Chief Booth of the Salvation Army sails for Cape Town to-day on a tour of the world. He has a presentiment that he will never return alive and he has arranged all his affairs accordingly.

A sealed letter has been deposited with his solicitors, in which he gives directions in regard to the changes he wishes made in the headship of the Army in the event of his death abroad. He names as his successor his son Bramwell Booth.

The General in an interview to-day expressed his regret that he could not visit America. He sends his eldest daughter, Mrs. Booth Clibborn, to that country in the latter part of August.

A MURDER CASE REVIVED.

Four Young New Brunswickers to Be Prosecuted Forthwith.

ST. JOHN, N. B., July 27.—Last fall four young men who had for a long time terrorized the vicinity of Belledune, on the Intercolonial railway, in Restigouch county, were arrested, charged with brutally murdering one Williams, a sailor lad, but were let out on bail by the chief justice at the instance of the crown on the strength of the story told by a shipping agent at Miramichi that he had some time after the alleged murder shipped Williams to Dublin on the barque Ruby.

The Norwegian consul at Bathurst did not believe the story, and at his instance a private enquiry was instituted on both sides of the Atlantic, with the result that George Bell, ship broker, of Dublin, has seen the sailor Fraser shipped, who turns out to be not Williams at all, but one Kelly, whose mother lives in Tipperary, Ireland. Williams was of light complexion and a pronounced blonde, while Kelly is swarthy and has very dark hair. The authorities will now be called on to push the case against the accused before they have a chance to skip the country.

Taking In An American Road.

BOSTON, July 27.—A Montreal dispatch says: "A new phase developed yesterday in the big railway deal going on between the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Railroads to the effect that the Boston and Maine Railroad is also to be included, which if consummated will form one of the biggest railroad combinations on the continent.

The Foreign Money Market.

LONDON, July 27.—Money was more plentiful during the past week and discount was easy at 1½ for three months and ¾ for short. Since the opening of the month, when discount rates touched the official minimum and an advance of the Bank of England rate appeared imminent, the monetary outlook has rapidly changed.

Purify the condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or other impurity from the blood, and thus cures scrofula, salt rheum, boils, pimples, and all other eruptions. It also overcomes that dreadful weakness, creates an appetite, and builds up the whole system. If you suffer from impure blood, or any of the diseases or conditions mentioned above, take

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and on all places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and could hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. E. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec.,	1881, (five years)	$64,824 07

ARRESTED FOR MURDER.

EDWARD HANDCOCK AND HIS WIFE CHARGED WITH KILLING SOPHIE.

The Damaging Evidence Which Led to the Arrest of the Couple—Their Demeanor When Taken into Custody—The Old Man's Insane Temper.

TORONTO, July 28.—Edward Handcock and his wife Elizabeth were arrested yesterday afternoon on the gravest charge that a father and mother could be accused of, namely the murder of their daughter.

Readers are familiar with the story of the crime, in which this is the latest event. Sophie Handcock met her death on the morning of Thursday, the 16th inst. At first Irish people were inclined to believe it was a case of accidental death, but circumstances which will be found narrated elsewhere, served to alter this opinion, with the result that an inquest was held County Constable Todd was the first officer on the scene and he was perhaps the first to doubt the stories that were told by the girl's father. His chief, High Constable Jones, however, was of the opposite opinion. The physicians even who had examined the body were prepared to adopt the accident theory started by the father of the girl. This was a superficial examination of the wounds, but when they had made a careful autopsy it seemed impossible to believe that wounds of the extent and nature of those could have been the result of an active, quick-footed girl such as Sophie Handcock was. The county attorney was of the opinion from the first that it was a case of murder, and after a careful investigation the coroner's jury returned a verdict of wilful murder against some person or persons unknown.

The Attorney-General's department soon thought it was time to interfere and Detective Greer, who has made a good name for himself in the Lavergne murder mystery received instructions to examine into the circumstances. He got to work on Friday and the result of his inquiry was that he swore out a warrant yesterday for the arrest of Edward Handcock and his wife Elizabeth. Col. Dennison issued warrants and in the afternoon Detectives Greer and Alf Cuddy and County Constable D. T. Wilson drove out to the stone and found Handcock and his wife there—Mrs. Willcocks, a married daughter, and some of her children, and Polly Handcock, an unmarried daughter, were there.

ON ARREST

Detective Greer quietly told the man and his wife that he had warrants for them. He asked them to prepare to accompany the officers. Handcock has evidently been looking forward to an arrest as a possibility and was not as much surprised as would have been expected. His wife, however, was tremendously shocked. The family had been pulling peas in the garden and were shelling them when the officers came in. The old man began to pray—God has cursed me my friend and He only can help me. He continued to use the name of the Deity at the time. The two daughters, Mrs. Willcocks with a baby a few months old in her arms, began to weep and Mrs. Handcock whimpered a little. They asked for time to dress which was readily granted. It did not take the old man long to get on his best duds, but as was natural the lady took longer to perform her toilet. She went upstairs accompany with a kindly neighbor who assisted her and cheered her at the same time. Poor little Polly, her daughter alternately argued the case, affirmed her belief in the innocence of her parents, wrung her hands and occasionally threw herself into her chair in a fit of convulsive sobs. The fate of her mother chiefly wrung the girl's heart.

If Sophie was murdered," she said again and again, "we want the murderer punished for it, but that is no reason why they should carry father and mother off to jail. My goodness, what can they want mother for," and then she would weep again.

Mrs. Willcocks showed more self-restraint.

"Never mind, Polly, they may take our father and mother from us, but there is one they cannot take from us—they cannot take God from us," and that seemed a great comfort to both.

HANDCOCK'S DEMEANOR

In the meantime the male prisoner was walking nervously about talking a great deal. He wanted to argue the case with Detective Greer, but that officer did not encourage him much to make him his confidante. He was somewhat flippant in some of his remarks. One of Mrs. Willcocks little boys came running in from the street crying lustily.

"Oh aunt Polly, Ernest says the man is going to take me away," he said as he flung himself weeping into his auntie's lap. She immediately strove to sooth him. The grandfather received a like office and said jocularly "It's only daddy that's going away, sonny. He's going to his summer residence."

The two girls broke out in protest. "Now, father, don't carry on like that."

"Bah!" said he, "I don't think anything of it. I am an innocent man."

"It's all very well," replied Polly. "You can stand anything, but I know she will not live there six months, and then she broke down once more."

Still Handcock was very anxious to discuss the case with the detective. The officer had warned him that anything he might say could be used against him.

"Do you believe she was murdered?" the officer asked.

DOESN'T THINK IT A MURDER

This seemed somewhat of a poser. He did not reply immediately, but at length said, "I don't believe she was, but anyway I am innocent of it."

At length Mrs. Handcock came down stairs ready to go out. There was a very painful scene. Mrs. Willcocks, who had held up bravely till now broke completely down when her mother kissed her good-bye. Mrs. Handcock's face showed no traces of tears and she had evidently made up her mind not to break down. She comforted both girls and told them their troubles would soon be over. Man and wife then went towards the carriage in waiting. On the platform in front of the store Detective Cuddy formally served each of the prisoners with the warrants. Handcock asked that his be read to him. Constable Wilson read it.

THE LINKS IN THE CHAIN.

For some days past it has been known of certain clues pointing in the direction of Handcock and his wife, but in order that the couple had lapsed no mention was made of them in order that the interests of justice might not be hampered. Going back to the day of the murder, when Isaac Bollery, one of the first to enter the house, observed that an attempt had been made to obliterate the clot of blood which was found in the floor between the girl's body and the fireplace. A quantity of clay probably two handfuls in all, was mixed with the blood. The opinion Bollery formed at the time was that the murderer had endeavored to obliterate the stain, and, the effort proving abortive, the alarm had been given. Another important fact which has been lost sight of is the statement of Mrs. O'Brien that when she entered the house, in addition to the tub of water, the legs of a washboard were resting on the trapdoor, the upper portion leaning against the partition. If the trapdoor had fallen how did the washboard come to be placed in the position where found?

WHERE IS THAT HAMMER?

The physicians who examined the wounds expressed the opinion that a father's hammer was the weapon with which the blow was struck. Villagers know such an instrument to have been in possession of Handcock. Constable John Todd saw the hammer recently and furnished Detective Greer with a description of it. The hammer was one of the old-fashioned description being heavier at the back and deeper in the reverse side. Since the murder this weapon has been missing. Handcock was instructed by the officer to produce all the tools he had in his possession for inspection. A great variety of carpenter's tools and tool implements of all kinds were turned up in the stable, but no trace of the missing hammer could be found, and Handcock made no explanation concerning it.

It was also stated that Handcock's young son was observed by a lad named Hance about the time of the murder burning something in the garden. The spot was subsequently pointed out by the lad, and while the trench, which was plainly discernable, was opened, the article which had been buried, whatever it was, had been transferred to some other place.

Detective Greer is satisfied however, from an interview with the lad that the article which was buried was a portion of the girl's clothing, which the old man had carried in his hand. The boy says his father handed them to him and told him to burn them, which he did. Commencing this morning every foot of the half acre plot surrounding the stone will be dug up in search for the missing weapon.

Corroborative testimony has been adduced in support of the rumor of frequent quarrels between Sophie and her parents since the property was deeded to the girl, and one writer has been discovered who says that the girl was almost afraid to leave the house for fear the door would be locked upon her.

PAROXYSMS OF PASSION

It is currently reported in Seaton Village that while a resident in that locality Handcock was known to be frequently seized with paroxysms of passion bordering on insanity, in which he was very violent.

There are two theories advanced for the murder.

One class of the community holds that after Mrs. Handcock left for Seaton Village the old man entered the store and had a dispute with Sophie. That in a paroxysm of passion he seized the hammer from a ledge, struck her down and appalled at the result of his anger, he attempted to remove the clot of blood by means of clay obtained in the yard. Failing this he buried the weapon in the yard and rushed out and gave the alarm, and connected the accident theory to divert suspicion. The other theory is that Seaton Village and not his store the crime on the road home. The young son Daniel, had drove back with his parents, and who knew so little of the conversation which took place, is expected to be able to give some important information when he is "squeezed." The Crown have discovered a witness who overheard the couple quarrelling on the way home.

The other theory is one, which if supported by evidence, stamps Handcock and his wife a pair of monsters not with only in fiction. It is to the effect that when Mrs. Handcock left the store she was thoroughly aware of the fact that Sophie was to be killed by her father as the result of a deep-laid plot cunningly contrived, and in her absence deliberately carried out to its consummation.

TORONTO TALK.

The Important Doings of a Day in the Queen City.

TORONTO, July 28.—The Police Court was crowded yesterday to hear the charges arising out of Sunday's park disturbances tried. Robt. McGill, aged 15; Geo. Muter aged 17; John Harding and Lawrence Hammond, adults, were each found guilty of the charges preferred against them, and the Magistrate fined them respectively $10 and costs or 30 days each for the two boys, and the others $20 and costs or 30 days. The sentence is considered lenient, and the magistrate announced that next time such a thing occurred the fine would be $50.

The Board of Trade yesterday afternoon passed a resolution calling upon the government to aid the Niagara Central Railway to the extent of $3,200 a mile, and also decided to call a special meeting for Aug. 18 at 8 p.m., when an address will be delivered by Cols. Howard Vincent on the question of British trade relations.

At the city council a resolution to suspend the parks by law was lost a vote of 23 to 11, but later on a resolution was passed referring the by law to a special committee to hold a conference with those interested for the purpose of ascertaining how the preaching could be permitted without inciting a riot. The majority was one.

A Mark of Identification.

BERLIN, July 28.—At the rioting men arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the recent fatal shooting of Adam Zaufman at Lexington—eight in all—have been discharged. They will be called as witnesses when Stricker, whom they all claim did the shooting is captured. Stricker's whereabouts at present is unknown though it is said it will not be a hard matter to catch him, as he can easily be identified as he has a broken nose.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SEVENTH PARLIAMENT—FIRST SESSION.

The Veterans of 1837-38.—Mr. Charlton's Bill for the Better Observance of the Sabbath Buried—The Local Legislatures Best Qualified for This Work.

OTTAWA, July 28.—In the House yesterday Sir Adolphe Caron said in reply to Mr. McLennan that the question of introducing this summer a measure to provide a system of pensions for the district staff and the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the permanent corps was now receiving the consideration of the Government.

Mr. Kirkpatrick moved that, in the opinion of this House, it is expedient that the Government should bestow some mark of recognition upon the veterans of 1837-8 for their services to the country at that time. In so doing he said that many of these veterans said that they were promised grants of land but the promises were never carried out. Many of the survivors were in poor circumstances. Those who took part in the war of 1812 and in the rebellion of 1885 had their services recognized and he put in a claim for the veterans of '37. Two or three thousand of them still survived.

Mr. Somerville said that the rebels of 1837 were the source of the civil and religious liberty at present enjoyed. If it were not for the action of the rebels of those days the people of this country would still be under the iron heel of tyranny under the family compact. The names of McKenzie and Papineau were once more revered in the houses of Ontario and Quebec than the names of those who fought against them. Were the country has erected on the right hand of the Parliament buildings a monument to the memory of one of the rebels, George E. Cartier, Lord Durham, reported that the rebellion was justifiable, he repeated that it was those who fought for civil and religious liberty whose services should be recognized. He therefore opposed this motion. Discussion on the resolution continued until 6 o'clock, when the debate was adjourned.

The House then went into committee to consider Mr. Charlton's bill respecting the observance of the Sabbath. The first clause provides that any one engaged in the sale, distribution or circulation of newspapers on Sunday shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, provided that necessary office work may be performed after 9 in the evening.

Mr. Mills (Bothwell) thought that this was a subject that should be dealt with by local legislatures. He did not think what was a matter for police regulation should be made a misdemeanor.

Mr. Mara said that in British Columbia two newspapers were published on Sunday morning and not on Monday morning he moved that the first clause be struck out. Sir John Thompson said the whole subject could be and had been sufficiently dealt with by local legislature. He did not think the first clause would secure better observance of the Lord's day.

The Local Legislature was not only competent, but both qualified to judge of the requirements and circumstances of the case. The provincial enactments regarding railway traffic sufficiently met the case. He thought further consideration of the bill should be deferred until after those who favored it had an opportunity of examining how far provincial enactments cover the case. He moved that the committee rise.

Mr. Charlton said that there was nothing so demoralizing as the United States system of Sunday newspapers. He regretted the position taken by the member for Bothwell, who, he believed, was a church member. He thought that on this occasion Mr. Mills might not have been such a stickler for provincial rights.

After some further discussion the vote was taken on Sir John Thompson's motion which was carried by 63 to 18.

This practically kills the bill for the session.

Mr. Cameron moved the second reading of his bill to amend the law of evidence in criminal cases to enable an accused person to give evidence on his own behalf. This is practically the same bill as that which was passed in the Commons in 1886, but was defeated in the Senate. He quoted from a large number of English judges and law journals in favor of the bill.

Sir John Thompson said his own views on the subject were in advance of the principle of the bill. The paramount interest is to arrest the truth in the investigation of facts.

There was a strong difference of opinion, however, on the safeguards by which such a law should be surrounded. He was in favor of the principle of the bill with restriction. He favored compelling an accused to testify and even his wife to testify. He asked, however, that the bill should not be further pressed this session. He had introduced a bill on the criminal law himself, which he did not intend to press to a vote, but to distribute to the House and to those interested in justice throughout the country. He proposed that Mr. Cameron's bill should be printed and distributed along with his own for further consideration.

The bill was then read a second time.

WILL SIR HECTOR STEP DOWN?

The Government Organ at the Capital Publishes a Significant Article.

OTTAWA, July 27. The Citizen, in an editorial to-day, foreshadows the retirement of Sir Hector Langevin. It adds: "We doubt not Mr. Abbott will deal with all the details and ramifications of these much to be deplored circumstances in a judicial and judicious spirit. Despite the ungenerous structures of our Montreal contemporary he possesses the confidence of Parliament and, we think, the confidence of the country at large and has as one of his admirers a Minister of Justice whose record is above suspicion. The Premier has a duty to perform and will doubtless fully vindicate the trust of his supporters irrespective of personal consequences.

"In a time of excitement men too frequently punish the just for the unjust; too readily determine on a policy, and afterwards find their actions impelled by false conclusions and erroneous impressions. One thing must not be forgotten that public clamor is being cultivated, is being forced, is being manufactured by a hostile party anxious to reach the treasury benches; that a false step now might be deplored by all classes throughout the country in days to come—as during another historic period in the political affairs of the Dominion. Thinking men, then, will keep their heads; go slow, and act as judges, rather than blind partisans. The hope of Canada is in the policy of the Conservative party; he who permits the enemy to secure a snap verdict would assist in countenancing a national blunder."

A TERRIBLE INDICTMENT.

A Farmer Alleged to Have Set Fire to His House to Burn His Wife.

LONDON, July 28.—Benjamin Barnes and Frances Jane Garraway of West Williams were brought to the county jail Saturday night by detective Allen on a very serious charge—that of arson. Barnes is a farmer, aged about 45 years, and Garraway is an English girl who left the Old Country about three years ago, and who is scarcely out of her teens. The committment charges Barnes with arson and the girl with being an accessory before the fact, and also with inciting Barnes to commit the deed. Barnes has lived in West Williams for about eight years, coming from Beach township, near Whitby. The girl Garraway was employed by him as a servant. Barnes' wife being a helpless invalid.

It is alleged that Barnes was found by neighbors while the fire was in progress very busy getting some papers out of an old desk, while his invalid wife lay in another room unable to move, though the flames were spreading rapidly. Until Mrs. Thomas Dingman arrived, no one knew anything of Mrs. Barnes, and to Mrs. Dingman's heroic action in rushing in and rescuing the unfortunate woman the latter is said to have owed her life.

THE NEWS FROM FRANCE

THE RAILWAY COLLISION WORSE THAN FIRST REPORTED.

200 Persons Killed and Wounded—Victims of the Guillotine—A Terrible Scene on a Paris Square—Two Heads in 3 Minutes.

PARIS, July 28.—The details of the accident now being received from St. Mande show that the collision was a most terrible affair. The engine of one of the excursion trains telescoped three carriages loaded with excursionists, and at the same time the reservoir of gas on the damaged train exploded and set fire to the wreckage, while scores of people were pinioned down, wounded and helpless, beneath the ruins of the three carriages. In a very short time the fire spread to such an extent that numbers of the wounded were slowly roasted to death before the eyes of those who were doing their utmost to rescue them. The horrible shrieks of the burning people continued for nearly an hour after the collision. It is now reported that 200 persons were either killed or injured as a result of th collision. Many of the unfortunate people imprisoned beneath the wreck of the cars were drowned, while partly roasted by the firemen who were summoned to the scene. Forty minutes elapsed before the firemen were enabled to obtain water, and when they did so they poured torrents upon the wreck and seemed to be utterly unaware that they were drowning the people they were attempting to rescue. To-day the town hall of St. Mande presents a fearful spectacle. The blackened bodies of the dead lie in rows upon the floor and upon tables in that building. In some cases the remains are but little more than heaps of cinders intermingled with portions of limbs or fragments or other parts of what were but a short time ago human beings, laughing, chatting and singing in jovial contentment. One pile of charred limbs and human cinders was especially conspicuous, as it consisted of a mass of unidentified and unconnected bodies placed in a heap.

The majority of the victims were women and children. The wrecked carriages consisted of one first-class, two second-class and a guard's van. The first was completely shattered. The work of rescue proceeded slowly during the night until dawn. People then began to flock to the scene by thousands, many seeking friends who had not returned from the fete by daybreak. There were 20,000 persons around the station and school room and town hall, where the bodies of the dead were lying, were besieged by distracted people.

HEARTRENDING SCENES.

Inside there was a constant succession of heartrending scenes, as in the dim light, afforded by the lamps, the identification of the charred and mangled bodies proceeded. A man searching for missing relatives suddenly came upon the bodies of his wife and daughter. His cries attracted his brother-in-law, who in turn recognized a grandchild lying dead, and learned that his wife and his mother were in an hospital dying. A man who for a long time had been rushing about half demented seeking his family stopped a litter entering the schoolroom and found it bore the charred bodies of his wife and baby, the latter being only a few months old. Five of this man's children were on the train and only one was reached living. The bodies of the others were picked from the debris.

Most of the bodies in the town hall were scorched beyond recognition. They owe their identification to some special mark. The fire that broke out after the accident was fiercest in the first-class carriage from which 12 bodies have been recovered so badly charred that identification is impossible. Among the injured sent to Tve Hospital a number died immediately after admission and many are expected to succumb.

THE DEED OF A FIEND.

Le Paris last evening states that an investigation made into the St. Mande Railroad accident has disclosed the startling fact that the disaster was intentionally caused by some unknown miscreant who deliberately altered the signals so as to bring the two trains into collision. This announcement has caused the most intense indignation among the relations and friends of the victims and has aroused popular generally to a state of great exitement. There seems to be little doubt as to the fate of the cowardly miscreant, who caused the terrible loss of life, if he falls into the hands of the mourners now gathered at St. Mande.

THE COURTEVOIRE MURDER.

A Pair of Paris Criminals Guillotined Yesterday.

PARIS, July 28.—The execution of young Berland and Dore, two accomplices of Mare Berland, in what is known as the Courtevoire murder took place yesterday in the Place de la Roquette. Dore left his cell with extreme composure. He made no objections. Deibler, the chief executioner, assisted by his son, attended the criminals bound for the scaffold. But though he left this far concluded himself with wonderful courage, Dore faltered and trembled as he reached the shadow of the red-painted uprights of the guillotine and caught sight of the deadly, shining knife which was to sever his head from his body. The murderer, at the sight of the instrument of death, seemed to become dazed and helpless, and in this condition the executioners led him up the steps to the platform of the guillotine and quickly threw him upon the bascule, strapped him down, slipped his head into the lunette, and in a second or so the knife fell and Dore's head rolled into the sawdust-filled basket awaiting it. When young Berland was awakened he showed a considerable amount of bravado and remarked with a hideous smile, "one more card playing for me." In conversation with the prison officials and executioners while his toilet was being made, Berland showed that he resented his mother's reprieve and that he was very much disappointed that she was not to die with him. When all the preparations for death were made, Berland walked jauntily across the prison yard, and maintained an air of bravado and sad impudence until he reached the platform of the guillotine. Just as the executioners were upon the point of throwing him upon the bascule, Berland made a terrible resistance, and a frightful scene took place in full view of the thousands of eager spectators gathered in the Place de la Roquette. In spite of his struggles, however, the executioners and guards held Berland upon the scaffold and eventually threw him upon the fatal plank, slid him beneath the grim uprights, and as the young criminal was writhing furiously the knife fell and Berland's head rolled into the basket. No sooner had this occurred than the crowds with a combined mighty rush broke through the cordon of troops and police and rushing up to the scaffold gloated over the bloodstained spectacle, some taking a handful of sawdust away with them as a souvenir. Mrs. Berland, mother of young Berland, was hanged the day before.

The Crop Outlook.

TORONTO, July 28.—Returns show that harvesting in Ontario, particularly in the western part of the province, is well under way and the threshing has revealed the fact that the yield will be even larger than the anticipations of a few weeks ago predicted. Fall wheat promises to yield on an average 10 to 15 bushels per acre more than last year. Peas, barley, oats, and in fact all cereals promise a magnificent return. So far spring wheat promises well.

In the eastern part of the province rains have been somewhat excessive and it is feared that barley may be damaged in color. In the west no such complaints are heard, the color being excellent.

In Manitoba and the North West, although the crops are ten days late, the outlook is excellent.

"Don't Care to Eat

It is with the greatest confidence that Hood's Sarsaparilla is recommended for loss of appetite, indigestion, sick headache, and similar troubles. This medicine gently tones the stomach, assists digestion, and makes one "real hungry." Persons in delicate health after taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a few days, find themselves longing for and eating the plainest food with unexpected relish.

PHARISAICAL ANXIETY.

Now that the investigations at Ottawa have lifted the roof of several of the government departments, and revealed the rottenness that festers there, the Conservatives, of the style of the Empire, profess to be anxious to have the irregularities, not to speak more forcibly, thoroughly investigated, and the guilty parties punished. But what faith can be put in these professions when subordinate sinners are chosen for decapitation and the sinner-in-chief, the man who could successfully dispute Sir Charles Tupper's claim to the title of the "high priest of corruption," is allowed to remain in office—remain in charge of the documents which can disclose his guilt? Why sacrifice Burgess, Perley and Uncle Thomas—not to mention a shoal of smaller fry and let Sir Hector retain the sweets of office? Nobody, except a blind and rabid partisan even pretends to believe that Sir Hector's guilt in respect of the Tarte charges has not been sufficiently proven, to make his retention of office an outrageous indecency. The Montreal Star, a Conservative journal, which has stuck to the government through thick and thin, believes that there is truth in the charges spoken of. It not only suggests Sir Hector Langevin's removal but other Ministers who are not above suspicion. The Star says:—"The evidence now before the public points, not to a few isolated acts of dishonesty in the civil service, but rather to the permeation of the whole service with the spirit of boodling and corruption. It is as though a large proportion of the subordinate officials of the government had caught the infection of Mr. Murphy's 'uncles.' If it were right in principle for a cabinet minister to pocket a thousand dollars out of a government contract how could it be wrong in principle for a poor devil of a second-class clerk to pocket a hundred in the name of his mother-in-law or sister-in-law. Never since the Pacific scandal has the Government at Ottawa appeared in such a bad light. Were a general election held to morrow the Liberals would sweep the country to the cry of 'Turn the rascals out.' There is now, as there was in 1874, a large section of the Conservative party which will refuse to condone boodling and which will throw overboard every other consideration rather than support a corrupt administration; which will sacrifice even the National Policy rather than submit to 'Nick' and 'Mick' rule. There is but one way to save the party and that is by a reorganization of the ministry and a sweeping civil service reform. To retain in the cabinet any man whose record is not above suspicion will be suicidal folly. The dismissal of a few clerks will not satisfy public opinion; the big boodlers as well as the little boodlers must go. The righteous indignation of the gentleman who engineered the great Pacific Railway bribe in 1873, (and that is Hon. J. J. C. Abbot, Prime Minister), at the spectacle of the little one or two hundred dollar jobs of the Department of the Interior can easily be pictured. His contempt for such petty jobbery must be sublime. How many ministers may be implicated in the recent scandals is matter for conjecture, but the resignation of Mr. Abbott and Sir Hector Langevin would put the party in a better position to deal with the offenders in the civil service.

A Pointed Epistle.

Criticism Impartially Distributed.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—The following remarks were written on the 14th inst. but on consideration, publication of them was postponed, pending a word of condemnation or censure from another quarter, of the part taken in the Orange proceedings by certain Catholic gentlemen of the town.

Two full weeks having elapsed and no word even of disapproval having been raised, I feel disposed with your permission rather than admit concurrence by default, to let this letter go for insertion, if you please, in the impartial columns of the EXAMINER. Twenty three years ago, on 13th July too, an Orange demonstration similar to that which took place here on the 13th inst. was held in the aristocracy. At the time I took occasion to notice the affair, and my letter, which was published in the Canadian Freeman of Toronto, was subsequently published in flysheet form and circulated throughout the county by the EXAMINER. As on that bygone day, so on the late anniversary of the battle of the Boyne, have our members of parliament, and public representative men in other positions, taken conspicuous parts in the celebration of ascendancy and "No Surrender." The member for the East Riding, in the Commons, shared with Bro. N. Clarke Wallace, Grand Master and high-cock-o-lum of the Orange fraternity of British North American, the seat of honour in the grand chariot that led in the Orange procession, and the member for the West Riding, the less conspicuous seat, with the Grand Master, or grand something of Peterborough, of "No Home Rule" notoriety. I believe, sir, as I have always believed, that in relation to hot party issues, political, historical and religious issues of this kind, annually recurring issues, not at all designed to promote harmony among our Canadian people, but rather to disturb and prevent it, our public representative men, who largely owe their positions to the forbearance, as well as to the goodwill and votes of a mixed population, should take care to scrupulously respect the opinions and feelings of that population, and therefore to at least, remain neutral upon such occasions of irritation and violations of the peace and quiet of the community at large.

So also I believe, should remain neutral all men occupying public positions, who receive pay and support out of the common taxes of a mixed people.

With the Protestant gentlemen who, in their private capacities attended at the reception, demonstration or banquet, we Catholics and Irishmen, have nothing to do, except, perhaps, as it may suit one, to retain a lingering remembrance of the fact.

But what can we say of some of our Catholic gentlemen, representative Catholics and Irishmen, who were present, one or more of them it is reported, at one or more of the demonstrations of welcome extended to the great "Colonial Master of British America, as long he was and not scarlet nor any stain found and leaving all our bodies and souls as well.

The presence of Irish Catholics at such meetings is to be deplored;—the spectacle is a sad, sorry and humiliating one for the Catholic Irishmen, young and old, of Peterborough to contemplate. It is absolutely scandalous. As representatives in the corporation of the Catholic citizens of the town, there can be no doubt but these gentlemen were entirely out of place at the Orange reception, demonstration or banquet, and had no charter or business to be there. It is much to be regretted that they could have forgotten so far their own self respect and their duty to their fellow countrymen and Catholics generally.

Such conduct on their part cannot entitle them to be considered as representing Irish Catholic feeling, Irish patriotism, and Irish history on the question of Orangeism in Ireland, or wherever, unfortunately, it has been planted.

As a direct consequence of such debasement it cannot be wondered at that Catholic Irishmen are, by the spirit and workings of the order these gentlemen help to honour, and its abettors, relegated to "back seats."

When the elected representatives of a people so lower the dignity and reverence due to their religion and race, what else can be expected for them but contempt?

No Protestant or Orangeman will, in his heart, think the more of these Irish Catholic gentlemen, "don't-cher know," because of their easy adaptability and flunkyism, and of their readiness to join in loud chorus, to the insulting airs to our religion, race and manhood, of "The Protestant Boys," "Croppies, lie Down," and "We'll Kick the Pope Before Us." Nice mottoes and music these for Catholic ears to hear! Honest, manly Protestants will despise, as it ought to be despised, this miserable truckling to Orangeism, this pitiable exhibition of weakness and lack of backbone on the part of our Catholic councilmen.

But the disgrace must not apply to, nor attach to, the outside body of our Catholic people in town or country; and to the credit of our French Catholic citizens be it said, that not one of that gallant race demeaned himself by being present at those Orange demonstrations. While we Catholics respect our Protestant neighbors, work hard and tirelessly, and thanklessly, often, to place them in positions of influence, power and patronage, and try to live at peace with them, (Orange demonstrations and provocations, and nauseous, noisy airs and insults to the country, notwithstanding) we nevertheless would cut off our right hands rather than raise them, with bumpers full or empty, to the toast of "The glorious, pious and immortal memory" of the adventurous Dutchman, the arch-despoiler and usurper of legitimate sovereignty in the British Empire.

Fondly hoping that in future the Catholic Irishmen, aye, and all true Irishmen of Peterborough may be spared the pain and humiliation of seeing or hearing of any of their number being present at any such Orange orgies. I am, sir,

Yours truly,
J. W. FITZGERALD

Peterborough, July 27th, 1891.

The evils resulting from habitual costiveness are many and serious; but the use of harsh, drastic purgatives is quite as dangerous. In Ayer's Pills, however, the patient has a mild but effective aperient, superior to all others, especially for family use.

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

—The peculiar enervating effect of summer weather is driven off by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which "makes the weak strong."

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it, because Kemp's Balsam, within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c. and $1 at all druggists. dw

STUBBORN CHILDREN readily take Dr. Low's Worm Syrup. It pleases the child and destroys the worms.

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of a flesh and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Hotel Dieu, and General Hospital in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c. and $1 at Peterborough drug stores. dw

Do You Cough?

Don't delay. Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. It will cure coughs and colds. It will cure sore throat, or a tickling in the throat. It will cure pains in the chest. It will cure influenza and bronchitis and all diseases pertaining to the lungs, because it is a pure balsam. Hold it to the light and see how clear and thick it is. You see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large bottles 50c and $1. dw

For any case of nervousness, sleeplessness, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, try Carter's Little Nerve Pills. Relief is sure. The only nerve medicine for the price in market. dw

There are many indications of worms, but Dr. Low's Worm Syrup meets them in every case successfully. dw

Twelve years' trial in English climate, with increasing demand, proves the Royal Rheumatic Remedy to be the best remedy for rheumatism. For sale by W. R. Greatrex, druggist. dw

MANY A LIFE

HAS been saved by the prompt use of Ayer's Pills. Travelers by land or sea are liable to constipation or other derangements of the stomach and bowels which, if neglected, lead to serious and often fatal consequences. The most sure means of correcting these evils is the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. The prudent sailing-master would as soon go to sea without his chronometer as without a supply of these Pills. Though prompt and energetic in operation, Ayer's Pills leave no ill effects; they are purely vegetable and sugar-coated; the safest medicine for old and young, at home or abroad.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action so that now I am in health."—Mrs. C. E. Clark, Tewksbury, Massachusetts.

"I regard Ayer's Pills as one of the most reliable general remedies of our times. They have been in use in my family for affections requiring a purgative, and have given unvarying satisfaction. We have found them an excellent remedy for colds and light fevers."—W. R. Woodson, Fort Worth, Texas.

"For several years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than upon anything else in the medicine chest, to regulate my bowels and those of the ship's crew. These Pills are not severe in their action, but do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect for the cure of rheumatism, kidney troubles, and dyspepsia."—Capt. Mueller, Steamship Felicia, New York City.

"I have found Ayer's Cathartic Pills to be a better family medicine for common use than any other pills within my knowledge. They are not only very effective, but safe and pleasant to take—qualities which must make them valued by the public."—Jules Hauel, Perfumer, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hora, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston Ont.,) Daily British Whig, June 27th, 1891.

The Grand Trunk System.

The Grand Trunk system differs from the human system in that the same troubles do not affect it and the same remedies are not needed. For all diseases of the human system their is no tonic purifier, renovator and strengthener as good as Burdock Blood Bitters. A weak system can be built up by B.B.B.

Enrich the blood by the use of Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine, which supplies the necessary blood-building material. dw

A Nationalist Plan.

A proposal, which would obtain favor with even the opponents of Nationalism, contemplates the placing of a supply sufficient for each family of nature's great dyspepsia specific and blood purifier, B.B.B., in every home in the land. The benefits of such a boon to the people would be incalculable.

HER UNRULY TONGUE.

"Look you, Miss Palmer. If you stick your self in the way again when Mr. Allen is here you'll be likely to get your walking papers. Don't flatter yourself with the idea that you are a necessary fixture here. Because your father happened to be my father's cousin is no reason why you should put on airs. Don't answer me. I only ask you to keep out of my ways and especially do you keep out of Mr. Allen's way. There! Go—You know what I mean."

And with this Irene Minturn swept proudly on her way, thereby running into the arms of her mother, who had entered the room while she had been speaking.

Irene Minturn was a young lady of two-and-twenty, tall and shapely. She loved to fancy herself proudly with a face certainly handsome, hair dark and glossy, eyes large and full, with a fiery snap in their changeful lights, the other features of statuesque regularity, the one prominent characteristic present in every look and every tone being pride.

Her mother was a small meek faced woman, proud of her queenly daughter, and by her governed in many things.

Lizzie Palmer just now called Miss Palmer by Irene, was a blue-eyed, golden-haired girl of nineteen, rather below the medium height of woman, but of perfect form, light and graceful, with bounding health and vigor in every motion and in every tone, as well as in the hearty ring of her genuine laughter. Her face was a study. An artist looking for some special type of beauty for his canvas, if he sought only beauty, would never select her, but if he wanted a face for a Pandora, thinking more of character than of outlined beauty, or did he seek a face that should typify love, to be loved in return, then he would have looked no further.

Lizzie was a sort of Cinderella in the merchant's family. In the other years when she had been but a child, her father had been Mr. Minturn's partner in business. They were own cousins Minturn and Palmer, and had entered into business on equal footing. At the end of a dozen years they had failed, but the failure was not at all disgraceful. The failure of Western firms deeply indebted to them, had brought them down, and forced them to make the best settlement they could, and they had been able to offer a settlement that was accepted so that they were once again clear and free to enter into business in their own names.

The shock of the failure, however, had proved too much for Thomas Palmer. Never very strong, the shame and chagrin on account of the business collapse had so far worked upon his sensitive nature that his life paid the penalty. He passed away while the plans for renewal of business were being discussed, and on his dying bed he had left one solemn trust to his old friend and partner, and that was his child, Lizzie, then ten years of age. His wife had been dead four years, at that time and his darling daughter was all he had left on earth, of his own kith and kin, to love. Almost the last words he had spoken to his partner were those that had placed Lizzie in his charge.

And Minturn had promised, solemnly, that he would not fail to watch over her.

So Thomas Palmer had died content. He had left his child in hands that he believed could not fail; and he had no more to ask.

Nine years had passed away since that time. James Minturn went into the new business very shortly after the death of his former partner, and he has been prospered in every way. In short, he has become a wealthy man. But—how has he kept the faith with Thomas Palmer? How do we find the child that the dying father left in his care and keeping?

Still, if there has been a failure, the blame may not all be laid upon him. He has but little to do with his home. Nor can the blame be laid upon his wife, for she is considered a good-hearted woman, and would have treated Lizzie as a child of her own, had not her own child prevented.

Ay—her own child, Irene Minturn. Upon her shoulders must rest the blame for Lizzie's treatment and we are forced to declare that the treatment had not been what Thomas Palmer had supposed it would be. Lizzie Palmer knew very well what Mr. Minturn had promised her father, she remembered how the strong, well merchant had held her in his arms, and kissed her, and promised to make her life pleasant, so far as he could. And she knew how the promise had failed of its fulfilment but she had no blame in her heart for Mr. Minturn. In short, and of truth, she blamed nobody. She sorrowed in her sufferings, and pitied Irene for the smallness of her nature and the hardness of her heart. She knew that Irene's jealous disposition was the source of all her trouble, and she felt that she would rather bear what she was called upon to bear than to carry in her bosom the feelings that prompted her foster-sister.

We saw Irene stumble into her mother's arms.

"O, my child! my child!" the mother cried when the other girl had disappeared "why will you not curb that unruly tongue of yours? Why should you speak to Lizzie in that manner? Since when you have come to call her 'Miss Palmer?' Irene, as sure as you live evil, and only evil, can come of such a tongue. You know that Lizzie would not willingly cross your path in any way."

"Mamma, I wish you wouldn't preach. I shall talk to Lizzie Palmer just as she deserves. Why did she stick herself into Charles Allen's way last evening?"

"Irene," pleaded the mother, with all the persuasion she could command, "I would not uphold Lizzie in any wrong, and you know it. When she came into the hall last evening she had no idea that she would meet Charles Allen there. In fact, I do not think she knew he was in the house."

"Oh, you needn't tell me that! You don't know how much duplicity the little minx can carry beneath that pink-and white complexion of hers. Mamma, don't you want me to marry Charley Allen?"

"My dear child," the mother replied, with extraordinary energy, "that event is the dearest wish of my life. When I can see you the willing wife of Charles Allen I shall be content, so far as your earthly interests are concerned. I do not think of his wealth of gold and silver though it is far, far beyond the wealth of your father—so much as I do of his wealth of mind, of character, his standing in society, and his good name wherever he is known. My daughter, I cannot tell you how anxious I am that you should be his wife, but" and here Mrs. Minturn laid a finger upon her daughter's lips, with a significant shake of the head, as she proceeded "Irene, should Charles Allen once hear the tongue of yours as I heard it but a few minutes since he would turn from you in fear and trembling."

At this the girl laughed a merry, ringing laugh and with a [illegible] she waltzed away.

"I'll not [illegible]
Nobody [illegible]
While her [illegible]
pirited [illegible]
"My dear [illegible]

Have you met with an accident? Can I assist you in any way?"

Lizzie Palmer was sitting in the small, vine clad arbor, in the garden, weeping bitterly, when the words fell upon her ear, and on looking up she beheld Charles Allen.

"No, no," she answered, as soon as she could sufficiently control her emotions, "I have met with no accident. I am very foolish. I was thinking—thinking,—and—O forget it, sir. There! I will weep no more."

Instead of going away, however, the young man sat down by her side. No wonder was it that Irene Minturn wanted him for her husband, and we cannot wonder that her mother had praised him, for he was, truly, all that the most fastidious maiden could have desired in a partner for life. He was five-and-twenty years of age, tall and symmetrical of form, with dark gray eyes, brilliant and expressive, and a face of the very highest type of beauty. His father, dying, had left him not only in possession of a large fortune, but of a large and flourishing business as well, a business which was prospering more and more under his care and supervision. He was known to be the very soul of honor, and honorable men loved to deal with him.

"Pardon me, Miss Palmer, for the liberty I have taken, but I saw you come into the garden, and having an earnest desire to ask you a few questions, I seized this opportunity. Am I pardoned?"

She looked up into his frank, manly face, and the smile she there met called an answering smile from herself, a smile that wreathed her ruby lips and danced brightly in her azure eyes. The smile was pardon enough, and he went on.

"I wanted to ask you if you were ever with your father spending a time, a few weeks, perhaps, at the old Fabyan House, near the foot of Mount Washington?"

A surprised look came into the girl's beautiful face.

"Yes," she said, quickly. "It was the last place I ever went away with my papa. He went to that mountain region hoping to benefit his health, but, alas! it did not save him." A brief pause, and then she added:

"O, yes, I remember it well. I was almost ten years old."

"And have you forgotten the tearing, noisy boy who tried to teach you how to ride one of those mountain ponies?"

A bright light flashed across Lizzie's face Aye, she remembered it perfectly. She gave a searching glance into the face of her companion and said:

"Oh, it comes back to me now. Yes, and you were the boy of that time?"

"Yes. I was there with my father, and he, too, was there in search of health, a health, alas! which he was never more to regain."

It was a pleasant chat followed. Allen had forgotten the name of the bright-eyed sunny-faced little girl with whom he had enjoyed so much at the mountains, but the first time he saw her face in Mr. Minturn's he had been wonderfully impressed by it.

And, he said, that evening when I met you in the hall a second time the full remembrance came to me, and I resolved to know the truth.

Then he explained further how he had chanced to see her in the garden at this present time. He had called to speak with Miss Minturn about a party which they were to attend that evening.

"I had done my errand," he went on, "and in passing the door opening on to the rear piazza, I thought I would slip out into the garden and pluck a rose-bud for my buttonhole. I did so, and saw you, and I am thankful that I came. I love to cherish the blessed memories of childhood, and surely the memory we have revived is a pleasant one."

Self Application of Electricity
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES
BY THE DORENWEND
ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto
THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, as the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.
Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.
Do not claim this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.
Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough. eod-w

I FEEL BUOYANT

"Am happy to say that results so far are as satisfactory as I could expect, indeed much more so than I did expect. I am enjoying excellent health, appetite good, sleep sweet and refreshing, gaining flesh; am less nervous than I have been for years; feel bright and buoyant. * * * It is almost miraculous, making a young man out of one of seventy, for that is just what your treatment is doing for me. I wish the community to know in as modest a way as we can get at it."

Municipal Jobbery.

There is more than reasonable ground to suppose that there will be unearthed a large amount of jobbery and corruption in connection with the school buildings addition and the street railway franchise. A public meeting of ratepayers would be a wise move, especially as it is certain it would unanimously endorse the universal use of hawley bros.' peerless teas.

Cannon-ading a Church.

Toronto is a bad place, what with park riots on Sunday, corporation scandals and so on; and now a Toronto man has turned a big gun on the tower of the George street Methodist church, and knocked the roof off That is to say, Mr. Canoe, the contractor for the completion of the tower, has begun work, and has demolished the temporary roof which has formed the pinnacle of the tower for the past fifteen years.

Received His Pension.

Mr. C. Hormel, town who served in the Northwest rising of 1885 as bugler in F company, Port Hope, Midland Battalion, was last week notified of the allowance of his claim for pension, on account of injuries received in that campaign. The pension amounts to 50 cents per day for life, and it is a pity that such an act of justice should have been so long deferred.

Just Think This Over.

Have you been to Niagara Falls? Or to Buffalo? No? Then make the trip. The cost can't be an objection, for it is so low if you go with the Court Little John Foresters excursion on the Civic Holiday, per C. P. R. and steamers from Toronto, connecting with lines on the American side. Tickets good for 3 days to return by regular trains or boats. Look at to-morrow's papers and at posters for rates which are the lowest ever made for a trip from Peterborough to Niagara Falls and Buffalo. 1d23

Police Court Paragraphs.

At the police court this morning the two John's appeared in their grand double sand-jig specialty. John Lavery was awarded the grand prize—$2 or ten days. Not being a government contractor in Sir Hector's department his bank account was not in a liquidative condition. He therefore committed for 30 meal tickets—at Hotel de Nesbitt.

John Beaver, an (ab) original sinner, so far as this court is concerned, was adjudged guilty of too great familiarity with fire water and was given $2 00 or 20 days—ten days to pay in or ten days to stay in—jail.

Testing the Suction Pipe.

Yesterday afternoon a test was made of the 10-inch suction pipe now being laid from the river to the Edison Company's works. Two or three members of the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the town council were present. The full report of the result of the test will be presented at the council next Monday night, but in the meantime it is understood that the test was not at all satisfactory, the steel pipe leaking at the joints and pressure far below that to which it would be subjected in ordinary use, and was far short of the maximum pressure—150 lbs—which it was estimated for.

STONY LAKE CHRONICLES.

A Populous and Popular Camping Ground.

A List of the Campers as Nearly Complete as Can be Gained—Lots of People There, But More to Come—A Large Number of New Lodges Erected This Summer.

Stony lake! a hard, flinty, unattractive name, without the least suggestion of poetry about it, but those acquainted with the beauties of our northern camping ground pass over the title (for after all what's in a name) and see the place as it is, a winding sheet of sparkling water, studded with innumerable islands and specially adapted for camping purposes. Some are enthusiastic enough to claim that it is excelled by none in Ontario. However that may be, certain it is that annually hundreds of people from Peterborough and the Midland district seek the seclusion, rest and balmy air of Stony Lake, and spend periods varying from a day to three months on its delightful shores. Every year numbers of new cottages are erected, and suitable islands and building sites are becoming scarce. Amongst this summer is a very handsome two-story structure put up by Mr. Guillett, of Cobourg, on Horseshoe Island, near Hurricane Point; Mr. Wm. Cox, of Lakefield, has built behind his brother Thos.; Mr. Clinton Atwood, Montreal, has a new cottage next Mr. Lillicrap's island; Mr. Merritt, of Toronto, has built near Mr. Rand; Mr. Robt. Graham has placed another cottage on Grassy Island, which is occupied by Mr. Spence; Mr Campbell, of Lakefield, has built behind Grassy Island, and Mr. McDonald, also of Lakefield, near him; Mr. Thos. Gordon, of Lakefield, has also added one to the rapidly increasing number of summer residences, having built near "Ivanhoe"; Mr. J. Gordon Smith, of Toronto, has built near Sheriff Hall's; Mr. Reynolds, of Port Hope (a brother of Captain "Sam" of the Golden City), near the entrance to Gilchrist's Bay; Mr. J. H. Yelland, of Peterborough, near the mouth of Eel's creek; Mr. Geo. Pope, street inspector, has built above Boschink; and others, whom it is difficult to ascertain, have built and are building substantial cottages. Besides these a number of houses have changed hands, Mr. C. J. Blomfield having bought Mr. A. I. Wright's, Mr. Mellor has purchased "Cairdhu," Mr. K. G. Loch "Kenmore," and so on.

The annual regatta has begun and the Stony Lake season is at its height. The weather has been unprecedentedly cold and stormy for July, but the number of campers does not diminish on that account. The lightning struck "Kenmore" the other day and split a rock.

The task of gathering a complete is an almost impossible one. They come and go so irregularly that what might be a fair list one day would be found very faulty the next. However, your correspondent will do the best he can. Beginning at Juniper Island, which is the most central point, we find located there at Mr. G. M. Rogers's residence Mrs. Fairbairn and family, Mrs. Leslie Reid, of Scotland, Miss Code of "Hazel Brae," Mr. T. S. Cole's children and Gerald Hayward. Not far from them are camped in tents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Rogers, Mrs. Senkler and Mrs. Dancy of Toronto; Mrs. Colville and children and Mrs. Matthews and Stanley Matthews of Peterborough. Rev. Mr. Reddick and wife of Cobourg are also camped there. In Mr. E. H. D. Hall's cottage is a large party of Port Hope people, comprising Rev. B. Canfield Jones, his mother and other members of the family, the Misses Chisholm, Miss Foster and Dr. Needler. The Bertram boys of Toronto are camped near by, and close at hand is Mr. H. B. Merrick and his boys, with W. Moore. At the other end of the island, near the store and post-office, Mr. H. W. Stock and brother Bertie and E. McFadden have a tent; next comes "Poverty Camp," comprising G. H. Gorman, Geo. Eimison, jr., and P. G. Goldsmith. "Hookaslorum Camp," at the point, consists of W. Wesley, E. Manniq, J. Eastland and F. Hamilton. F. Clark and another from Port Hope are in tents also on Juniper. Striking down towards Clear Lake, Mr. Sheriff Hall's family are in their cottage, and Mr. T. E. Bradburn's has just been occupied by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Davis and Bertie Cox. The Misses Smith, of Toronto, are in their brother's new cottage. On Catamaran Island are Mr. J. D. Collins and family, and the family of Mr. Geo. E. Williams, formerly Y.M.C.A. secretary here. On Pumpadour Island Mr. Leoh's cottage alone is yet occupied. Mr. Staples's fine new house is in possession of his family from Lakefield, and further down Mr. H. Grundy's cottage. "Ivanhoe" is occupied by Rev. Emer Harris, of Toronto, while close along side of him is camped Rev. Mr. Peer, of Norwood. Mr. Thos. Gedson's family are in their new house, and Mr. Wm. Hamilton's cottage is also occupied by the family. Across the lake Col. H. C. Rogers has the cottage at Sandy Bay, near Mr. Charles Wynne's.

Coming back to the starting point, Eagle Mount is next touched, there the "Eagle's Nest" is occupied by Mr. Griffin, of Lakefield, and Mr. Geo. Cochrane, license inspector, and family are in their lodge. Mr. W. E. Sherwood's cottage on Little Otter, is in possession of Mr. E. B. Stone and family and Dr. and Mrs. Goldsmith. Ernie Roper and a friend from Toronto are camped on Great Otter. Dr. Bell of Lakefield, with his family and a few visitors, are in possession of their island. Mr. Barlee's cottage is not occupied. Messrs. Mellor, Robt. Graham, Percy Strickland, Thos. Cox, William Brownscombe, R. McWhinnie and J. B. McWilliams have each opened out their lodges. Mr. George Hilliard and family have anchored their crib near Burleigh this summer. Mr. Spence is in the new house on Grassy Island, and behind them near Mr. Chapin's house, is a large party of Warraw people, comprising the following: Mr. W. Read and Archie Read, Mrs. Robinson, Alice and Mabel Lynn, and W. Lynn, Miss F. Morgan, Miss Hettie Bennets, (Peterborough) Misses A. and H. Kidd, Misses B. and A. Campbell, Thos. Choate, M. Morgan H. Cornet, J. Develyn, J. Cooper, and Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, who came Monday. Behind this island again are Mr. Campbell and wife, of Lakefield, and close beside them Mr. McDonald of Lakefield. Mr. N. L. Piper and family, of Toronto, are in their lodge not far from this point. Mr. and Mrs. Slater of Toronto, have rented Mr. Hunt's cottage. "Kenmore" is occupied by Mr. Oscar Brennan of Norwood and family, Miss Brennan, Peterborough, Miss White, Toronto, Miss Ryan, of Westwood, Miss Halpin, of Peterborough, Master Bert Dolan and other occasional visitors. On Fan Island is "Look Out" camp, Messrs. Archie Mooney, F. Allison, George and Robert Armstrong; at Poplow's island are Messrs. W. J. Greco, and F. D. Mackay. The Boschink colony is also numerous. The families of Adam Hall and W. G. Ferguson are in possession of their cottages, and Mr. P. Connal and family with Mr. Stark, of Toronto, are also on Syndicate Island. At Mr. Thos. Bradburn's house are his family with Miss Jackson and Mr. A. E. Scott. At "Stoneleigh" are the family of Mr. B Shortly, with Miss Hansford, of Cobourg and Miss Lizzie Rutherford of Peterborough. Next is Glenwood, where are Mr. D. Breeze's family and Mr. Chas. Lowe and family of Toronto. The families of Messrs. Bent and Moore are in their cottages, and Mr. J. Graham Weir's cottage has been occupied also. The American quarters are not fully occupied, Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins being the only residents, but Major Sloan is expected this week. Mr. W. A. Sanderson has not opened his summer residence. Mr. and Mrs. LeBrun and some visitors have been at their island from time to time. Behind them the families of Messrs. Craig, of Belleville and Prescott, are in their cottage. Mrs. Pope and family and the Messrs. Bonest are in their respective houses. There is a fair representation of Norwood people in the east end of the lake. Mr. W. E. Roxburgh's family, Rev. Mr. Carmichael and family, and Mr. W. H. Stephenson's family have occupied their cottages, and Messrs. J. Jory and F. Truscott are in Mr. Mullin's cottage. Above these again Mr. J. H. Yelland and family and Mrs. Thos. Wilson, of Peterborough, are in their new cottage.

continues to be a gathering point for tourists from a distance. Amongst those who, within the past week, have stopped at the Burleigh Hotel are the following:—Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Eldy, Rochester; Jos. E. Bailey, Memphis, Tenn; W. A. Lishman, Toronto; Albert Bethune, Chas. Bethune, D. Baker and Dr. Perrin, Rochester; Mr. and Mrs. Smith Agnew, Pittsburg; W. L. Jones, Pittsburg; Jas. M. Aiken, Rochester; Bert. H. Davis, Rochester; Miss Morris, Toronto; Barton S. Harris and Fred Harris, Toronto; E. P. Young, Pittsburg, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lamberton, Franklin, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Forbes, Franklin, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. L. Standish, Pittsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Robbins, Pittsburg; Dr. and Mrs. Gordon, Toronto; A. Brown, Toronto.

NOTES.

Mr. Julien under its new regime is becoming a good place for campers and pleasure-seekers. Mr. Wm. Kennedy overhauls the house in good style, and has a number of summer boarders, a party of Rochester people having been there for a few days up to-date.

The steamer service is good. The "Mary Ellen" and Golden City" are kept busy carrying campers and their baggage to and fro. The "Sunbeam" for a new steamer is also working up a good traffic, and its proprietors deserve to succeed. The "Sunbeam" runs up to her timetable exactly and her officers seek to give their passengers a pleasant trip. The voyage from Chemong to Lakefield via Buckhorn and Burleigh is well worth taking in. The scenery along this route is splendid.

There were the usual services at Stony Lake Sunday, at which several ministers took part. It is a matter of remark that there is a larger number of clergymen amongst the campers this year than ever, as will be seen by the above list. Rev. B. C Jones and Mr. Geo. E. Williams conducted the services.

Mr. Small, teacher, of Hastings, and a friend were upset the other day while sailing and were in the water half an hour. A life preserving belt did good service on this occasion and probably prevented a drowning accident.

A. C. A. Canoe Races.

First Day of the Race Week — Some Interesting Events.

A. C. A. CAMP,
Pigeon Lake, July 27. }

On Saturday another contest, paddlers vs. sailors took place, D. Douglass, of Lakefield, not being satisfied with the result of the race the day before. Four sailors and two canoeists again competed; this time the course being three times around the triangle. Colin Fraser finished first in 19½ minutes, beating the first paddler, F. C. Blomfield, by six minutes on a 4½ mile course.

The first race called this (Monday) morning was the first of three record events, viz., a paddling race. F. C. Blomfield, A. Knowlson, H. McKendrick, J. Carnegie, F. Mines and A. F. Lefevre faced the starter in open paddling canoes, and C. Fraser, R. Sweny, C. E. Archibald and J. W. Sparrows in racer sailing canoes. The order of the finish was McKendrick, Blomfield, Carnegie, Archibald, Sweny, Lefevre. Knowlson, Jacques, Fraser, Sparrows and Mines. McKendrick was not pushed anywhere during the race, though he had enough left in him for a good spurt at the finish. Carnegie would have had the second place had he not mistaken the finishing line and stopped paddling, but he found out his mistake before he had lost more than one place.

The second race was the unlimited sailing race, which gave the sailors all the work they wanted to get their gear and seats fixed. The start was a very close one. The first leg consisted of a close haul with the wind slightly backing, which made it quite a jam, and one canoe, the Leala, had to go about to make the buoy. The next leg was almost a dead free run, and with the sea rolling across L. Sweny decided to go through the mist with the Miser and smashed the baxter, which altered his place from third to fifth. Later he fouled a buoy and had to drop out, as did Dawes, leaving five in the race. Fraser led all the way round till he got to the home-stretch, when the wind dropped and Archibald shook out a reef and passed him. The finish was: Archibald's Mab, Fraser's Chum, Jacques' Waif, W. Sweny's Xmas and W. Sparrow's Ed.

The next race was for open canoes. The wind was very fresh, and a good deal of water was shipped. Lefevre held the lead all through, finishing a winner by over half a mile, followed by Knowlson, Dr. MacInnes and W. J. Reid also started, but dropped out.

The fourth race was the second of the record events, and was sailed in a very unfavorable wind. After the start, however, it freshened and steadied at S.S.W., blowing strong. Colin Fraser led in the first round, but stood too far over, and was passed in the second round by Archibald and Jacques. The contest for first place was between the two last named. In beating to windward Jacques had decidedly the best of it, but Archibald carried too much canvas for his opponent, with the wind abeam and free. After a close and exciting race, in which some of the best sailing that could be wished for was displayed, Archibald passed the home buoy leading by about three lengths. The order at the finish was:—Archibald, Jacques, W. Sweney, C. Fraser, W. Sparrow and R. Sweney. Both Davis and Read dropped out. This leaves the race: Archibald, 5—5; Jacques, 3—4; Fraser, 2—3; Sweney, 4—1; Sparrow, 1—2.

The illuminated parade which was to take place to-night, had to be postponed on account of the wind.

A Baseball Challenge.

The Peterborough baseball club hereby challenges the baseball clubs of either the Edison Works, Lock Works, or Wm. Hamilton Works to a game next Saturday afternoon, or they will play a picked nine from the three clubs. First come first served. Arrangements can be made with the captain or secretary. d23 23

Quite a Number of Excursions.

On Civic Holiday there is quite a number of excursions going out of town, because that is practically what the above day is for, and it is also an easy matter to make a choice of the boat one that day—in fact there is none that is at all equal to the magnificent and reliable excursion under the auspices of the C. M. B. A. Association, going to Chemong, Bobcaygeon, Sturgeon Point and Lindsay by rail and boat. This circular trip is superior to any other on the northern lakes, grand scenery, delightful sail, splendid day's outing. The committee has chartered the fastest boat on the lakes and palace scow. A first class crochest is in attendance for those wishing to take part in dancing, every comfort and convenience and ample room for all. Just imagine the cost, only one dollar for the round trip and children half fare. Don't miss this excursion or you will miss the best one this season. See posters for fuller particulars or members of association. d23-23

The Dominion Illustrated.

A page of the last issue of the Dominion Illustrated presents a complete group of portraits of the Canadian Bisley Team of 1891, with a brief sketch of the shooting record of each in past years. It is timely and interesting. The visit of the Prince and Princess of Wales to the Canadian exhibit at the Royal Agricultural Fair, Doncaster, Eng., also make the subject of a page of illustrations. From the Maritime Provinces there is a view of Windsor, N. S., in 1840, one of the Studley Quoit Club, Halifax, and a portrait and biographical sketch of E. Blake Croston, the well known Nova Scotia litterateur. There is a portrait and interesting biographical sketch of the late J. Beaufort Hurlbert, L.L.D., widely remembered in connection of the anti Jesuit agitation. St. George's Cathedral, Kingston; interior of Fort Henry, Kingston; Scenes at Tadousac Bay and Cacouna; the famous Cathedral at Rheims, France, perhaps the finest specimen of Gothic architecture in existence, are among the subjects of illustration in this charming number. The literary contents are not less interesting.

The New Olympic Club Rooms.

The new rooms of the Olympic Club were formally occupied last night, they being completed ready for occupation; but they were not formally opened, so many members of the club being out of town on vacation. The new rooms occupy the second and third floors over the Palace Restaurant, the front entrance being 346 George street. From the landing, which also is reached by rear stairs leading from the market square, opens a large entrance hall, from which opens the entrance to the reading room, a fine spacious apartment, elegantly papered and complete with substantial easy and home-like furnishings, including an elegant ebony case pianoforte. Opening from this is the smoking room, also nicely carpeted and furnished with reading material of a periodical character. There are altogether six rooms on this floor—a reception parlour, a card room, a committee room and a dining room. On the second floor will be found the billiard room, which extends the whole depth of the building. The rooms throughout are lighted at night by eighteen incandescent electric lamps, and an Ontario telephone, No. 89, is placed in the smoking room for the use of members. Altogether the Olympic Club has decidedly pleasant and snug quarters, and they are likely to be kept in good condition under the capable caretaking of Mr. Alfred Kingcote.

Bishop O'Connor at Barrie.

His Lordship Heartily Welcomed by His Old Parishioners.

BARRIE, July 27.—A large number of St. Mary's congregation gathered at the depot to meet Bishop O'Connor, who came here on the 5.10 train on Saturday afternoon last. He was escorted to the deanery accompanied by Rev. Fathers Bergin and Gibro, and through an arch at the church which had been erected for the occasion. At 8.30 Sunday morning the Bishop attended early mass and processed, taking for his subject, "Prayer," delivering an eloquent sermon, which was much admired by his former parishioners. At 10.30 mass was celebrated by the dean at which the bishop presided. Immediately after this mass the bishop through the permission of the Archbishop of Toronto, confirmed about 40 children of the parish. Bishop O'Connor preached to the children to be confirmed and to the congregation. Afterwards he administered the sacrament assisted by the dean as archdeacon. Addresses from the parishioners, the C. M. B. A. and the Sodality of our Lady of the Sacred Heart were then presented to the distinguished visitor, to which he made a felicitous reply, reminding the people of the many happy days he had spent among them and expressing his delight at seeing so many changes and improvement during his absence. He also desired the congregation to extend to their present pastor the same kind treatment which had characterized his twenty years of pastoral duties among them. He will remain and accompany an excursion to the Point on Wednesday.

Don't be discouraged about that eczema till you have given Ayer's Sarsaparilla a persistent trial. Six bottles of this medicine cured the complaint for George S. Thomas, of Ada, Ohio, when all other remedies failed to afford any relief.

The Women of Methodism.

A Paper Read by Mrs. (Dr.) Stephenson Before the Charlotte Street Church Epworth League.

A very admirable paper was read, bearing on this topic, at the Epworth League of Charlotte street Methodist church last evening, by Mrs. Dr. A Stephenson.

She sketched beautifully the lives of Mrs. Susannah Wesley, Countess of Huntingdon, Esther Ann Rodgers and Barbara Heck. It was through the latter's influence that Methodism was first introduced into America. Not only had the women of the past been active in promoting Methodism, but the Methodist women of to-day are largely engaged in Sunday School work, they are leaders at prayer services, foremost in temperance work and moral reforms, and a mighty power in missionary enterprises.

Glowing eulogies were pronounced on Miss Willard the foremost woman of our own time, who believes in investing (not spending) her time in the way to do the most good for the cause of God and humanity; Mrs. Yeomans, the Canadian temperance orator, whose pathetic appeals on behalf of temperance and sobriety, have been the means of leading many to come under the temperance banner; Mrs. Large, the zealous missionary, who has just returned to Japan to live and, if need be, to die for the people she so much loves. In conclusion the essayist said, "We notice that all these noble women were fully consecrated to their work, and if we expect to accomplish much for the Master, we, too, must pray for the spirit of consecration."

Miss Owens rendered two beautiful songs, which were highly appreciated. Mr. Barris gave a reading having reference to women in the early stages of Methodism. Mrs. Logeng concluded the very interesting programme by singing 'Sweet Home' in her usual happy manner.

Chemong Park Notes.

Sunday at the Hotel—Sale of Park Lots—Sunday Services—New Guests.

(From Our Holiday Correspondent.)

SUNDAY AT THE HOTEL.—As an additional indication of the attractiveness of Chemong Park and its hotel, it may be stated that nearly one hundred persons sat down to dinner and supper on Sunday. Notwithstanding the extra pressure on the resources of the commissariat and dining room staff, it is a pleasure to state that all the visitors and guests received prompt attention, and were entirely satisfied with the excellent bills of fare provided for the occasion. The new manager of the dining room, Mr. Ryons, as a very capable and obliging caterer is noted a success, having already made a favourable impression with the patrons of the hotel. Among the crowd of visitors who drove out from Peterborough were the following:—Messrs. R. Fair, H. K. Wright, Jas. M. Irwin, Alex. Hamilton, Dr. R. W. Ball, Geo. W. Rubidge and wife, Geo. Gladman and wife, W. Croft, W. McClelland, W. Phelan, Ruf. Stevenson, Miss Sherwood, R. Nagle, (of Ottawa) T. B. Beaby and wife, Harry Paelan and wife, T. E. Bradburn, R. A. Morrow, R. H. Fortye, W. J. Sherwood and wife, C. Stapleton, jr., F. Stenson, J. J. Lundy and others.

BOOM IN PARK LOTS.—Within the last few weeks quite a boom has sprung up in the sale of park lots. We learn that Mr. Alex. Elliott, the pushing proprietor of the park, has recently sold some eligible lots to the following parties:—Miss Dugan, Mr. D. H. Burritt, Mr. Geo. Elliott, M. R. Matthews, Mr. Alex Scott and Mr. Walter Stocker. Other sales are on the tapis. Mr. Elliott feels encouraged with the increased demand which this season has developed for his summer resort lots, and every one wishes him continued success.

SUNDAY SERVICES.—Rev. Mr. Loucks, of Peterborough, conducted service on Sunday morning in the pavilion at 11 o'clock. Services were also conducted in the village Methodist Church in the evening by Rev. Mr. Houck, the esteemed local pastor.

NEW GUESTS.—Among the new arrivals registered at the hotel Monday are the following:—Mr. A. C. Fox and wife, of Buffalo; Mrs. E. Poole and Miss Poole, of Peterborough.

East Riding Exhibition.

The annual exhibition of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society will be held at Norwood on Tuesday and Wednesday, 13th and 14th October. The prize lists and posters announcing the fair will be issued in the course of a week or so. The prize list keeps pace with the growth of the exhibition.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOSHER, 90 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

Reform Badly Needed.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

The extraordinary developments in Ottawa have brought officials and contractors there in very bad odor and wherever there is an investigation going on as, in Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto, it proves that reform is badly needed in municipal affairs, but thank the Gods that we in Peterborough are not like other people seemingly, but then there has never been an investigation necessary, as the funds are very limited indeed, and we are always blest with an abundance of candidates willing to sacrifice their time for the good of the ratepayers, even by many who can ill afford it, but their philanthopic feelings overpower all other considerations. The smaller municipalities like Peterborough would be far better served by one representative for each ward instead of the many, and each members of the council to receive a salary as compensation for their work as few men can afford to devote their time for the services of the town for nothing, and those who could, would be still less likely to do so. It is idle to say that anyone is fool enough to exert himself for nothing in begging votes to secure his election, and even criticism for his good or bad services. Such a change as suggested would prevent combines in the council to carry their points so easily, whereas four members could be made responsible, and thrown out of their seats if found wanting. The council's project now before the ratepayers for the passing of a by-law with the offer to spend $6,000 for buildings, besides land and exemption from taxation for ten years, to a car works company who want to leave St. Catharines to locate here, is such a one-sided project that I hope the ratepayers will treat it accordingly. What is the company giving in return? Simply empty promises. What will the buildings be worth after ten years? and who can prevent them from leaving Peterborough, to see themselves from taxation, by moving to another place? Councillor Dawson's suggestion to have a public meeting called for consideration was a good one, but overruled, last discussion might endanger the passing of the by-law.

For different are the Edison Works Co.: their buildings, which are their own, are of such a character as to be standing there still when many generations have passed away. I will waive any opposition to a good scheme, as I am as much interested with property in town as any one, to further the growth and increase of Peterborough. My objections are emphatically against the council having anything to do with the building. The ratepayers have never yet been informed of the cost of the market building, and what the boasted revenue of the stores amount to which we were to get. A grand investment this same has been, with three stores empty, and the others filled has caused the vacation of ratepayers' stores. What a fine offset that revenue will be against the many stores on George street without an occupant! Should such ratepayers not receive exemption from taxation when their investment on their property brings no return, while as it is they are taxed to help to pay for stores built by the council in opposition to their own stores? Such action by the council would hardly have been tolerated in any other municipality as spending such an amount of money without a vote being first taken on it by the ratepayers, and had there been but one councillor, an owner of property on George street he would have raised objection against such a proceeding by the council as to speculate with the people's money. A vote was taken, after the building had been partly built and the councillors' project being accomplished, as to whether the new market should be on the ground floor or upstairs, I would not now be surprised at all in seeing the market some time hence on the ground floor. The accommodation at present for council chamber, police magistrate's office, police station, clerk's and tax collector's office, with horse stables huddled together in a small place might do for any back country place, but is a disgrace to Peterborough. The Board of Health also holds its meetings in the same building, of which board the writer is a member, but of what use is this same Board of Health when their suggestions are not taken notice of by the council. Is it any wonder then that the public not being aware of such facts should criticise the board, whereas, the council is responsible for not carrying out these suggestions. The question of sewerage has come up almost every time, and we have been told by councillors that the ratepayers would not vote for it; it is rather hard on the ratepayers to say so, when more than thirty years ago they were constructing a sewer on George street, and the population of Peterborough then being about 3,000, found one necessary, which they constructed down this street beginning near where Mr. Adam Hall's store now is. How much more therefore is a sewerage system now needed with our present population. Why should not our councillors in a like manner, adopt the tactics as they did with the market building; set to work ahead; it will be time enough to put the matter to a vote by the ratepayers when no alternative is any more possible. Last year a deputation of the council went to Brockville to find out something about the sewerage systems and the most important part of their report was that they had been royally received by the Brockville council. In conclusion I may say I shall take no notice of any criticisms or reply to my remarks, unless signed by the writer's own name.

Thanking you Mr. Editor
I am very truly yours

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Nothing Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks correctly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and sat hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SEVENTH PARLIAMENT FIRST SESSION.

A Personal Explanation from N. Clarke Wallace. The Kingston Dock Scandal Before the Public Accounts Committee. What the Son of Sir Hector Says.

OTTAWA, July 29. Clarke Wallace made a personal explanation in the House yesterday afternoon regarding a statement attributed to him by the Mail and quoted by Mr. Dewdney to the effect that he hoped the day would never come when a Roman Catholic would be Mayor of Toronto. He denied that he had made such a statement and said that referring to Mayor Clarke he had stated that by his conduct, as mayor, he had won the right to say that Toronto need not be ashamed of an Orange Mayor. He also corrected a statement attributed by Mr. Devlin to Mr. John son of Ballykilbeg that they would kick the Queen's crown into the Boyne. He read this telegram from Mr. Johnson:

"It is absolutely false that I ever made such a statement as alleged Mr. Corybeare uttered the same falsehood in South Africa and had to withdraw it in writing. In Ireland the Rev. John Flanagan spoke of King James II as crown being kicked into the Boyne and has attributed to me the disloyal sentiment concerning the Queen God save the Queen."

Mr Devlin said it was the Toronto Mail that attributed the language he quoted to Mr Wallace and he was glad to hear that Mr Wallace entertained no such sentiment.

Mr. Wallace "Withdraw your language about Mr. Johnson."

Mr. Devlin "I will not withdraw it because it is well known."

THE BUDGET DEBATE.

The Government's Majority on the Division 26.

The budget debate was resumed by Mr. White Cardwell and dragged its weary length along until 4 o'clock this morning, when a division was taken on Sir Richard Cartwright's amendment, which was lost by a vote of 88 to 114 giving the government a majority of 26.

THE KINGSTON DOCK SCANDAL.

The Connollys and the Mysterious Mr. Bancroft.

OTTAWA, July 29. The first order of the day at the meeting of the Public Accounts Committee yesterday was the examination of Mr. Arnoldi, mechanical engineer of the Public Works Department, in regard to the charges preferred against him the other day relative to the steamer Joe and other matters. Before this was proceeded with, Mr. Amyot desired to examine Mr. Bobell, Deputy Minister of Public Works, in regard to the Bancroft tender for the Kingston dock, which was granted. Mr. Bobell was at that time secretary of the department, and he opened the tenders. The lowest was from Bancroft who was awarded the contract as the lowest tenderer. He remembered three men coming to the office to sign the contract. Two of them he knew and one of them bended not. The two knew were the Connollys and one of them introduced him to the other man whom they said was Bancroft. It was quite possible that he introduced the three to Mr Schreiber who prepared the contract for signature, but he could not exactly remember. He never saw the third man, whom he did not know that was Mr Bancroft from that day until now. The necessary cheques accompanied all the tenders and he did not think that any cheque was received by telegram. It it had the schedule would show it.

LAFORCE LANGEVIN

Says Might Have Asked for $5000 to Help His Father's Election.

OTTAWA July 29. The Privileges and Elections Committee met yesterday. Lafores Langevin, son of Sir Hector, was examined. He denied that he had either directly or indirectly received a cent from Larkin, Connolly & Company for his father or for himself. He admitted he may have expressed a wish to get $4000 to help his father in the Three Rivers election, but that was all.

The report of the auditors on the books of Larkin, Connolly & Co., was presented to the committee yesterday. It showed that the firm received from the Government on all its contracts $3,185,234. The actual cost of the work they did was $2,985,259, leaving a profit of $199,975. The firm paid $170,447 on "suspense," "expense," and other boodle accounts. The profits of each partner was: Larkin $100,000, Nicholas Connolly $18,472, Michael Connolly $100,442, Murphy $100,004, R. H. McGreevy $18,980. The cost of the different works was: Lewis Dock $718,472, Quebec Harbor improvements $1,833,415, Esquimalt Dock $386,445.

A Gobeil Deputy Minister of Public Works, produced a number of documents, letters, reports, etc., in connection with the Esquimalt Dock

Mr. Tarte said there was a draft of a suggested agreement in the handwriting of Mr. Eanis, at that time Secretary of the Department, by which it was decided that an outside party should be taken into the partnership of Larkin, Connolly & Co. It also provided for the dismissal of Bennett, the resident engineer. He suspected this document was in the department. Mr. Gobeil said that this was a private paper, which must have been handed back to the family of Mr Eanis. Mr Osler promised to institute a search for it.

Whales Entore 100 Captured.

LONDON, July 29. A school of over a 100 whales was recently driven by the tides into Wildeford Bay, near Kirkwall on the Orkney coast, and hundreds of the inhabitants of that district, armed with weapons of every description, rallied to the spot and began slaughtering the huge creatures and dragging the carcasses ashore. Not a single one escaped. The scene was unique in whaling annals. The people of the vicinity have been suffering from hard times and are inclined to think the sudden free gift of so much eatable and saleable matter providential.

ODDFELLOWSHIP.

Meeting of the Annual Grand Encampment At Galt.

GALT, July 29. The live Town of Galt was the scene of unusual activity and gaiety yesterday. The whole town was astir to receive and entertain the delegates to the 23rd annual meeting of the Grand Encampment of the Independent Order of Oddfellows of Ontario and also the cantons of partriarchs militant I. O. O. F., from as far east as Montreal and from Detroit on the west. The fine stone buildings on Main street were literally covered with flags and bunting, presenting a perfect kaleidoscope of streamers as the procession, with its handsome banners and splendid regalia, moved toward Dickson Park, and all along the route of march the streets were gaily decorated.

The first session was held at 9 a m., and at 2 p m. Mayor Lutz gave the visitors a hearty welcome at a public meeting in the town hall. There was afterwards a grand programme of sports and games.

A Third Sealer Caught.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 29. The schooner Annie E. Paint returned from the North yesterday with 100 skins. The Dash was ordered to return to Victoria by the Thetis, making the third sealer now in port. The captain of the Marvin says when she was boarded by the officers of the Rush they took the guns and ammunition from the schooner and then towed her to Onnalaska, where 21 of her crew were placed in the steamer Alki and kept on tack for two days, when men and schooner were turned over to the officers of H.M.S. Nymphe, who ordered them to proceed to Victoria.

SPANKED, THEN STRANGLED.

A Child's Strange Death in Camden, New Jersey.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 29.—The surgeon's knife yesterday disclosed the fact that the death of 2-year-old Raymond Zimmerman of 98 Newton Avenue, who died a few minutes after his mother spanked him, was due to a shoe button.

County Physician Izard, who made the post mortem examination, found the button lodged in the trachea, just above the epiglottis. The child, the physician thinks, must have had the button in his mouth when his mother spanked him and the shock knocked it down his throat, causing strangulation.

The physician deemed an inquest unnecessary, and gave a certificate of death from strangulation.

America Knocks Out Australia.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—George Dixon of Boston and Abe Willis of Australia fought at the gymnasium of the California Athletic Club last night for a purse of $3000 and the bantam weight championship of the world. Willis was practically unknown to many here and the betting before the fight was in Dixon's favor, running from 100 to 70 to 100 to 90.

Only four rounds were fought, Dixon having everything his own way. In the fifth round Dixon hit Willis a terrible blow on the jaw He fell heavily and lay like a log When 10 seconds had expired Willis' seconds had to lift him from the floor and Dixon was declared the winner. The colored man seemed as strong as when the fight commenced.

HOME AGAIN.

Waiting Friends Disappointed Return of the Grenadiers.

LONDON, July 29. The troop ship Orontes, having on board the battalion of Grenadier Guards, returning from exile at Bermuda on account of their mutinous conduct a year ago, reached Spithead off Portsmouth this day. The joy of the great crowd which awaited was announced that the Orontes was sighted can be imagined, as also can be imagined their dismay and anger when it was suddenly made known that the War Office had altered their minds and the troopship was ordered to proceed to Dover.

TORONTO TOPICS TO-DAY.

FURTHER PARTICULARS ABOUT THE HANDCOCK MURDER CASE.

The Two Clues Required by the Prosecution. The Opinion of a Reverend Friend of the Old People—The Handcocks in Court.

TORONTO, July 29.—The appalling nature of the crime which deprived Sophie Handcock of life on the 16th inst., the respect and admiration extended toward her by everyone who knew her, and the cruel deliberateness of the deed, incite the people of Fairbanks to strive to aid the officers of the law to their greatest ability, in order that in spite of the craft and cunning exhibited the sword of Justice may fall the more surely on the wretches implicated in the infernal plot.

SOPHIE WAS NOT ALONE IN THE HOUSE.

Detective Greer again visited Fairbank yesterday and obtained some valuable testimony. It has always been supposed, and the statement of old man Handcock corroborated this supposition, that when Sophie met her death there was no person on the premises but the murdered girl and her father. It now appears that the 2-year-old son of George Eintaner, a nephew of Sophie, who was in the habit of remaining with Sophie over night, was in the house at the time, and after the alarm was given was found asleep on a bed in one of the rooms upstairs.

THE TWO CLUES WANTED.

Detective Greer will endeavor during the next few days to unravel the two clues which are missing in the case—the discovery of the father's hammer with which the crime was committed and the fact whether Sophie was engaged to be married. Further search was made for the hammer yesterday, but with no further success. It is now reported that, despite the belief to the contrary, Sophie was engaged to be married to a young gentleman at Seaton village, and that the nuptials were shortly to be celebrated. This circumstance is cited as strengthening the theory that the old people were annoyed at the prospect of the property which they had decided to their daughter slipping out of their hands. Mrs. Watts, the postmistress at Fairbank, was interviewed, but did not recollect any letters in Sophie's handwriting addressed to a male acquaintance passing through her hands, or the receipt of any by the murdered girl.

HANDCOCK'S STORY UNTRUE.

That Sophie Handcock was alive when her mother left the store is proven by the evidence of James Dollery, George Carruthers and John Buchanan. The first named saw the murdered girl moving around the shop when he was passing, the mother and young Daniel being preparing at the time to enter the vehicle in which they drove to Seaton. Mrs. Handcock and the boy overtook Dollery at Wells' Hill. When Carruthers and Buchanan passed mother and son had departed, but Sophie was observed in the store. This was, as near as can be ascertained, about 9:40. At 3 minutes before 10 the alarm had been given by Handcock. This testimony as to time disposes of Handcock's story that he came into the house to secure his lunch, that it was not ready and he again went into the garden and remained some time, and upon his return found his daughter lying upon the floor, wounded as described. The wound was inflicted between 9:40, when Carruthers and Buchanan passed the store, and 9:57, when the alarm was given—an interval of but 17 minutes in all.

THE OLD MAN'S PASSION.

The theory that the girl was killed as the result of a paroxysm of passion grows in favor. Witnesses have been discovered who testify to the frequent quarrels between the girl and her father, and evidence multiplies that Handcock was possessed of an ungovernable temper. He once threw a hammer at his son in a fit of anger and has been seen to unmercifully beat his horse.

AN OLD FRIEND'S OPINION.

Rev. Jonathan Milner of Seaton Village, who has known Handcock intimately for seven years, expressed the opinion that the accused was an honest and industrious citizen, who had always tried to live a good life. "For the last while," said Mr. Milner, "the wife and family have looked upon him as being rather fogey in his ideas of running business and have taken it out of his hands. This, I believe, accounts for their difficulties."

What about the family quarrels?

"No doubt when Mr. Handcock saw the way things were running he would often say, 'There, now, I told you so,' or something like that, because I am sure he would worry greatly over their debts, since he always wanted to pay every cent he owed."

It was learned that Mr. Handcock had fallen from a wagon about two years ago and injured his head. Mr. Milner was asked about this.

"Yes, he did meet with an accident of that kind; and since, he has received injuries by falling from a building caused likely by dizziness—the result of the first accident. He has from time to time since suffered intense pains in the head."

Mr. Milner also stated that Mr. Handcock was very eccentric in his utterances and actions. Sometimes when talking on religious subjects he would use the most outlandish expressions, and at the time of his daughter's death when the family was gathered about the death-bed, weeping, he exclaimed, "Never mind she has gone where the good niggers go."

The reverend gentleman further stated that Sophie was always Mr. Handcock's favorite child because she seemed to agree with his views of business more closely than did the rest of the family.

"And as to the hammer," said Mr. Milner, "I am told it was one that Mr. Handcock borrowed from a brother to one of his son-in-laws, Mr Wilson, I think, and has long since been returned.

THE HANDCOCKS IN COURT

Crowds were gathered at the Police Court yesterday morning, led there out of curiosity to see the father and mother held by the law on the awful charge of murdering their daughter.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the couple took seats in the dock. Mr. Handcock, when he appeared, looked calm and hopeful and gazed even curiously about the court room. Mrs. Handcock looked the picture of despair and wept bitterly all the time she sat in the dock. Her arrest is bearing heavily on her.

After the long list of drunks had been gone through with, and after the disposal of other minor cases the Handcock's were called upon to stand up while the charge that "Edward Handcock and Elizabeth Handcock on July 16 did feloniously, wilfully and with malice aforethought unlawfully kill and slay one Sophie Handcock." Mr. Murdoch appeared for the accused.

After the indictment was read the magistrate added. "They plead not guilty, I suppose."

Mr. Handcock: "Not guilty."

Mrs. Handcock: "Not guilty."

Mr. Badgerow asked for a week's remand Mr. Murdoch objected to the remand, but it was eventually granted

NOTES

It was reported that the murdered girl carried an insurance in the Home Circle as well as the Chosen Friends, but this both prisoners stoutly deny.

Isaac Dollery, the principal witness for the prosecution, is singularly enough the owner of the house in which Kane butchered his wife in this city some years ago.

THE ALLEGED MUNICIPAL BOODLERS.

How $50,000 Came to Be Mentioned Between Ald. Hall and A. J. Parker.

TORONTO, July 29.—Before Special Examiner Bruce yesterday the enquiry into the Macdonald charges of municipal boodling in connection with the street railway franchise was begun.

Mr. A. J. Parker, president of the Acme Silver Company and a member of the Miller Bros' syndicate that tendered for the street-railway franchise, deposed: Ald Hall is solicitor for the Acme Silver Company. I had an important interview with him on Saturday, July 11. We were discussing several points in the case, in which he was counsel, and after we concluded our business I volunteered the question as to whether or not he had any objection to discussing street railway matters with me. Ald Hall began by saying that he did not like the Miller Bros.' tender, and he gave me to understand that he was in favor of the road being sold on a cash business basis. Mr. Hall said he was always ready to discuss city business, and would be willing to listen to what I might have to say in behalf of the Miller Bros.' tender. Then I began narrating the advantages of our tender. As I proceeded Ald. Hall pointed out that the manner in which the Miller Bros'. tender was framed was responsible for a great deal of prejudice against our offer, and he also told me that others were prejudiced against that kind of tender. I asked Ald. Hall if he did not think it possible for us to remove that prejudice.

$50,000 MIGHT INFLUENCE THE ALDERMEN.

Ald. Hall replied that he did not think so Then the alderman hummed a moment and leaned back in his chair as he said: "If you spend $50,000 in this matter it might alter their opinions and remove their prejudices. Remember, I do not say that it would but it might." I then asked Ald. Hall as to who would be likely to handle that $50,000. I said, "Would you?" and to that question Ald. Hall replied, "Well, I might. I am not prepared to say whether I would or not just now." I then made the remark that we (Miller Bros.) were out of the race. "However," I said, "I will see what the other members of our syndicate will say about it, and I will call you up on Monday morning."

Q. You are positive you are swearing to what is true?—A. Yes, positive. My recollection of these facts is very clear, for they made such a deep impression on me that I immediately went to Mr. Fullerton, who is a member of our syndicate, and reported what Mr. Hall had told me.

Q. What did that lead you to conclude?—A. It forced me to the conviction that there were forces opposed to us which we were unable to cope with.

Q. What effect did your conversation with Ald. Hall have upon your mind?—A. It was means of my losing faith with our tender.

BELIEVED THAT MONEY WAS BEING PLACED.

Witness went on to say that he came to the conclusion that the Kiely-Everett syndicate was putting up money. Mr. Hall said a great deal about money being placed, and that he had heard remarks that had led him to believe that money was going around.

Cross-examined by Mr. Mowat, witness said that the conversation with Mr. Hall was a serious one.

Q. Was there any mention of the payment of money by you to him or any one else to win the favor of the aldermen in behalf of the Miller Bros.' tender?—A. The first mention of the payment of $50,000 came from Ald. Hall.

Q. Was there any intimation as to the money being forthcoming?—A. Not at any time.

Q. What subsequent conversations have you held with Ald. Hall?—A. If told him after his examination was published that it was a pity he had misrepresented the facts. I said it was a conversation which took place between solicitor and client and should never have been mentioned at all. I had nothing to fear from a disclosure of the conversation excepting that in the manner in which Ald. Hall detailed it was not true. Ald. Hall told me that he simply answered the questions which were put to him, and he seemed to be surprised when I said that he had stated that which had not taken place. In reply, he made the remark: "It cannot be helped now, I wish I had seen you before the examination."

THE FIGURES $40,000 SOUNDED FAMILIAR.

Re-examined by Mr. Wallbridge:

Q. Did not Mr. Hall tell you that unless your syndicate put up $40,000 they would not be in it?—A. No, he did not say those words, but my memory is not very clear on that point. The figures $40,000 sound familiar and I think they occurred in the course of our conversation.

Q. Then tell me as nearly as you can remember what Mr. Hall said bearing on this point?—A. When Mr. Hall mentioned that the minds of the aldermen might be altered by $40,000 I ventured the remark, "cannot it be done for less?" and I am of the opinion that Ald. Hall said no and added in an emphatic tone of voice "it must be cash."

Q. Did he intimate anything that would lead you to believe that he wanted the cash put up in his hands?—A. He did not say, but I inferred that it would have to be placed in some other person's hands, as he could not handle it. I knew we could never put up the money; in fact I was staggered at the enormity of the amount.

Mr. W. R. Brock of the Kerr-Brock syndicate was the next witness, but his evidence, which mainly concerned a visit paid him by Ald. Hall, was unimportant.

THE ALD. MUST HAVE LOST HIS HEAD.

Mr. Pearson, barrister, one of the Kerr-Brock syndicate, contradicted the evidence that Ald. Hall had at a former examination given. He denied having gone to Ald. Hall's office regarding the syndicate's offer. He further said he did not have any conversation with Ald. Hall regarding the solicitorship of the company. Continuing, he said: before the first tenders of all were opened I spoke to Ald. Hall about the Miller Bros. tender, in which I was then interested. I said I expected to be the solicitor of that company if they got the contract, and would have to increase my office. He said I should not mention that now. Afterwards I wondered if Ald. Hall understood me to be making an improper suggestion. I felt annoyed, and never went back to him again. I had not the faintest idea of offering him any inducement whatever. I never went to him in connection with the Kerr-Brock tender. When Ald. Hall said I attempted to hold out any inducement to him to support that tender, he was mistaken. His statement that I made any such offer is untrue. While giving his testimony to that effect the aldermen must have "lost his head."

This closed yesterday's batch of witnesses, but "there is more to follow."

TEN HOURS AGONY

Suffered by Victims in the London Chemical Works Explosion.

LONDON, July 29. Heartrending scenes have been witnessed at Gateshead where the condensers of the chemical works collapsed, causing the death of six workmen and the injury of several others. The bursting of the condensers shattered the building and caused the huge chimneys to topple over. It was the falling of these masses of brick and stone that crushed the victims. One of the injured men is still pinned down by the debris, having suffered agony for 10 hours during which time hundreds of rescuers have been trying in vain to release him. The unfortunate man is so held down that every effort to extricate him adds to his sufferings, and he prays to be let alone to die in peace. All that can be done is to give him tea and brandy, without which stimulant he would have succumbed ere this. The wrecked building is surrounded by an excited and lamenting throng.

Banquet to Howard Vincent, M. P.

OTTAWA, July 29. The Imperial Federationists had a soulful blowout in the House of Commons restaurant last night in honor of Howard Vincent, M. P. Lieutenant-Colonel Tyrwhitt made a rattling chairman. Of course the feature of the dinner was Mr. Vincent's speech. His hearers were agreeably surprised at the sound arguments and practical sense that characterized his remarks. His proposition, however, that the Dominion should start the ball rolling by imposing a 10 per cent. preferential rate in favor of Britain, in hopes that the latter may follow suit, fell somewhat coldly on the gathering.

The speech of Mr. McMullen, M.P., was the second feature The gathering was almost altogether Conservative, Mr. McMullen being the most notable exception. Called on for a speech he expressed his sympathy with the Imperial Federation movement and only doubted its practicability. His remarks were warmly applauded throughout.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 29, 1891.

Nearing the End.

It is announced that Uncle Thomas is very ill. Quebec politicians are subject to diplomatic ailments, and with all respect to his doctors Mr. McGreevy may be the victim of one. If he is really broken down in health more's the pity, for in that case he will not be able to undergo cross examination. L'Electeur says his lawyers were instructed to announce that he would make a full confession touching the money he received from Larkin, Connolly & Co., in his capacity as agent for those contractors, provided he was not asked to tell what he did with it. This was a ruse for saving Sir Hector, and his illness may be something of the same kind. The money turned over to him, to Sir Hector, to Perley, to Lightfoot, to the inspectors of works, to Sir Hector's election fund, to Sir Hector's newspapers, to young Langevin and others, by the contractors, amounted in all to about $220,000, and in addition Robert McGreevy got $77,000—that is, he got $135,000 without putting a dollar of capital into the firm but had to pay Uncle Thomas $58,000 of it. To put it differently, Uncle Thomas received in all $170,000 in round figures, and Uncle Robert $77,000, whilst $50,000 was paid directly into the reptile fund, or used for other improper purposes, making the total boodlesage nearly $300,000, exclusive of the exorbitant gains derived by Larkin, Murphy and the Connollys. It will be remembered that in one job alone the Esquimalt dock, they and Uncle Robert cleared $48,000 each after paying Uncle Thomas and the rest a handsome sum. Uncle Robert's $48,000 is included in the amount just credited to him, but, after deducting it, the other four made $192,000. It will probably not be wide of the mark to say that the quartette cleared and aggregate of $400,000 from all the various contracts, which added to the $300,000 above referred to brings the gross profits and stealings up to $700,000. Uncle Thomas' friends declare that a great deal of his $170,000 was applied to carrying elections and "doing chores" for Sir Hector and Sir Adolphe; hence the desirability of keeping him out of the clutches of Mr. Edgar and Mr. Geoffrion on cross-examination. The firm itself was a generous provider, amongst other largesses giving money to pay the expenses of a reception to Cardinal Taschereau, and subventioning the Cercle Catholique of Quebec as well as La Verité, the Ultramontane weekly. Uncle Thomas is said to have been equally liberal in his gifts to outsiders, and an account of his expenditure would be extremely interesting, especially that part of it relating to his political outlays.

Sir Hector's friends are mistaken, however, if they suppose that the non appearance of Uncle Thomas will help the Minister. It is as clear as noonday that if Sir Hector did not actually participate in the frauds he was an incompetent who allowed the department to be converted into a den of thieves, and ought to be removed from it without delay. As yet the committee has barely scratched ground in inquiring into his operations, for he has had control since 1879 of the construction and maintenance of all the public buildings in the country, of all the harbors and piers, of the works on navigable rivers, of dredging and dredge vessels, of Government roads and bridges, slides and booms and of the Government telegraph lines in various parts of the Dominion. In all, he and his subordinates, including Perley and Arnold, have had absolute command of an expenditure of thirty or thirty five millions of dollars. The facts elicited about the Kingston graving dock and the Langevin block at Ottawa go to show that the wholesale boodling done in conjunction with Larkin, Connolly & Co. was only one incident among many of the same character. If he is retained in office, why should not his contracting friends plunge into still more audacious swindles and keep a dozen reptile funds going, and what sort of an example would be set to the rest of the civil service, and to the people at large? The Ottawa Citizen of yesterday published an editorial which may be taken to mean that Mr. Abbott has almost resolved to get of Sir Hector, though by way of a pretty compliment to the Premier the writer deplores as a blunder the punishment meted out to the heroes of the Pacific scandal. La Presse, another Tory paper, is also talking loudly of the necessity for doing justice though the heavens fall. L'Etendard, a third, says in its issue of the 25th that Mr. Abbott and Sir John Thompson cannot afford to condone Sir Hector's blindness in permitting the robberies to take place under his very eyes. If he is to be ejected from the cabinet, well and good; but much will remain to be done. It will be necessary amongst other things to punish Sir Adolphe, who, as Uncle Thomas patheticaly observed to Mr. Valin, was the greediest one of the lot after election funds; and to let Parliament make a searching inquiry into the relations existing between the department and other contractors. And, after all, it is hard to destroy noxious weeds by merely cutting off their heads. What is required in this pro to interest is a vigorous attack upon the roots of the corruption, and that can be effectually done only by a brand new Administration, whose members and followers are in no manner implicated or entangled in them. The matter is in the hands of the people. If they wish to redeem the good name of the Dominion, they will have an opportunity at the bye-elections of giving effect to their desire. Let no one imagine that the Liberals are burning to secure office for the sake of office. The legacies bequeathed by the Old Man are too formidable and the general condition of affairs too grave to render the government of the country either an easy or pleasant task. They would rather remain where they are and do their best in Opposition, were it not that they are convinced, as every intelligent person must be, that the party responsible for all the frightful uncleanness is as unfit as Sir Hector himself would be to undertake the work of purification.—Globe.

Appreciated in Colorado.

Rev. W. C. Bradshaw's Energies Find an Outlet in Denver.

Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, formerly of Ashburnham, has evidently found the health which he sought in Colorado, at least he exhibits in his new field of labor, the energy which he devoted to pastoral and other work when he was in Peterborough. He has for some time been warden of the College of St. John, the Evengelist, the Diocesan school of the diocese of Colorado. He is also one of the examining chaplains for Northern Colorado, and chairman of the Court of Appeals, and chairman of the Diocesan committee on Education. In the report of the Cathedral Chapter to the Diocesan council (synod), the portion in reference to Jarvis Hall School, says:—

The Chapter take a great pleasure in congratulating the council upon the condition and progress of Jarvis Hall school the past year. Under the energetic and efficient counsel of the Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, this flourishing Academy has become something more to the Diocese and to the state than the struggling school of former days. Aside from its educational status, which is coming to be acknowledged among the high institutions of Colorado, it is a matter of pride to its friends to see the Jarvis Hall boys in their neat uniforms, taking particular part in all the military parades and reviews upon public occasions, and in which their military discipline, correct drill and manly bearing, never fail to elicit the admiration and praise of all, from the Governor and his military staff to the citizen spectators. This feature of the Academy is not only inspiriting to the students, but is a beneficial and potent adversement of the school to the public.

Were it not that Mr. Bradshaw has been selected and engaged by the Chapter for the important office of Warden of St. John's College to have charge of the financial and business departments of Jarvis Hall and Wolfe Hall, it would be a matter of deep regret that Jarvis Hall loses him as its Principal. But it is believed that the same energetic labors and high executive and business ability of Mr. Bradshaw, which has had so marked an effect for success upon Jarvis Hall, when hereafter applied to both Wolfe Hall and Jarvis Hall, will result in a great advancement of the interests, both educational and financial, of the entire scope of St. John's College in the Diocese and State of Colorado."

Mount Pleasant.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

We are pleased to state that Master Harry Mitchell, who has been seriously ill for some time, is recovering rapidly. His many friends will be glad to see him out among them soon.

Out of the six pupils sent up from our school to the entrance examination, Ross Best and Mabel Rutherford were the successful ones.

The villagers were shocked on Thursday last with the sad news that Mr. William Lough, of Ida, had been seriously hurt by his horse running away. He was turning his horse and buggy around in front of his store, intending to put the animal into the stable, when it became frightened, jumped and threw Mr. Lough out on the front wheel. In some unaccountable way, he got his legs or feet so entangled as to bring his body in conjunction with the hind wheel, in which position he was dragged a short distance. His little son, who happened to be in the phaeton with him, was carried in the career of the frightened animal and managed to escaped by crawling out over the back of the buggy. Dr. McKinnon was speedily summoned to attend Mr. Lough, and in the early part of the night found his patient so very low that, as is usually done in extreme cases, another physician was summoned. When Dr. C. H. Brereton arrived a consultation was held and both despaired of the recovery of their patient. However, as the injuries were internal and probably not so easy to predict the outcome with as great a degree of certainty as those of another nature would be, their patient has lived to the present and is now almost out of danger. Dr. McKinnon has conducted the case in a skilful and praiseworthy manner. The public will watch with pleasure Mr. Lough's approach to convalescence.

MANY A LIFE

HAS been saved by the prompt use of Ayer's Pills. Travelers by land or sea are liable to constipation or other derangements of the stomach and bowels which, if neglected, lead to serious and often fatal consequences. The most sure means of correcting these evils is the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. The prudent sailing-master would as soon go to sea without his chronometer as without a supply of these Pills. Though prompt and energetic in operation, Ayer's Pills leave no ill effects; they are purely vegetable and sugar-coated; the safest medicine for old and young, at home or abroad.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action so that now I am in health."—Mrs. C. E. Clark, Tewksbury, Massachusetts.

"I regard Ayer's Pills as one of the most reliable general remedies of our times. They have been in use in my family for affections requiring a purgative, and have given unvarying satisfaction. We have found them an excellent remedy for colds and light fevers."—W. R. Woolson, Fort Worth, Texas.

"For several years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than upon anything else in the medicine chest, to regulate my bowels and those of the ship's crew. These Pills are not severe in their action, but do their work thoroughly. I have used them with good effect for the cure of rheumatism, kidney troubles, and dyspepsia."—Capt. Mueller, Steamship Felicia, New York City.

"I have found Ayer's Cathartic Pills to be a better family medicine for common use than any other pills within my knowledge. They are not only very effective, but safe and pleasant to take—qualities which must make them valued by the public."—Jules Hauel, Perfumer, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hora, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quits Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston On...) Daily British Whig. June 27th, 1891.

A Spring Medicine.

There are few who do not at this season feel the need of a spring medicine, and to all such we recommend Lane's Family Medicine as the best. This is a pleasant herb drink made by pouring boiling water on the dried roots and herbs. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1. It is the best as well as the pleasantest cure for constipation and headache. dw

The Grand Trunk System.

The Grand Trunk system differs from the human system in that the same troubles do not affect it and the same remedies are not needed. For all diseases of the human system their is no tonic purifier, renovator and strengthener as good as Burdock Blood Bitters. A weak system can be built up by B.B.B.

Enrich the blood by the use of Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine, which supplies the necessary blood-building material. dw

A Nationalist Plan.

A proposal, which would obtain favor with even the opponents of Nationalism, contemplates the placing of a supply sufficient for each family of nature's great dyspepsia specific and blood purifier, B.B.B., in every home in the land. The benefits of such a boon to the people would be incalculable.

HER UNRULY TONGUE.

Before he went away he found a pretty rose-bud, which he persuaded Lizzie to pin into his button-hole. If her hand trembled while she did it we cannot wonder.

A week later, on the seventh day after meeting in the garden, just as the shades of evening were falling, Charles Allen and Lizzie Palmer again met in the great hall. He had just come from the drawing-room where he had been conferring with Mrs. Minturn and Irene about the opera to which he had promised to take them, and when he had taken his hat from the tree the thought struck him that there was light enough left in the garden to enable him to select a rose bud (he was a dear lover of roses) and he had turned to the rear door for that purpose just as she, coming from the kitchen below, had arrived at that point.

He was evidently surprised upon beholding this young lady—an adopted daughter of the wealthy merchant—habited in a garb of toil, like any common servant girl. He knew the whole story of her adoption by Mr Minturn, as that man himself had told it, and he knew a certain fact which, perhaps, Mr Minturn would not have told him. He knew that there had been paid into Minturn's hands, since Mr Palmer's death, more than ten thousand dollars on account of the old firm. So he wondered at seeing the beautiful young girl in the garb of a Cinderella.

Presently Irene came out into the hall, and found Lizzie standing there, with tears trickling down her cheeks.

"Ha! Didn't I hear you speaking with Mr. Allen?

The poor girl's look, as she wiped away her tears, was answer enough.

"And what are you snivelling at? What are you crying about?"

"O, Irene," the girl exclaimed, with a burst of anguish, "it cut me deeply to have Mr Allen find me in this garb of drudgery at this hour of the day."

"Baggage! Sneaking, good-for nothing pauper! What did I tell you? There! Take that! I'll teach you to lie in wait for that man every time he comes here!" And as she spoke, she gave the shrinking girl a blow upon the cheek, with the flat of her hand, that staggered her.

At that moment Mrs. Minturn came out and Lizzie flew away to her own chamber, leaving mother and daughter to themselves.

But there had been another witness of the scene. Charles Allen had found his rose and on his way back, he reached the piazza, when glancing through the glass door, he had seen Irene come out from the rear drawing room. At sight of her he stopped suddenly to wait until she had passed, and thus he was an unwilling witness to the scene that followed. Realizing then that Irene believed him to be gone, and with no heart to meet any one of the family, he slipped back into the garden, and made his exit by scaling the wall.

That evening Charles Allen came with his own carriage and accompanied Mrs. Minturn and Irene to the opera, but it was a chilling, comfortless affair. He was suffering all that disgust and bitterness can cause a man to suffer, while they were deeply puzzled in spirit by a remembrance of the passage in the hall.

On the next day Charles Allen called upon Mr. Minturn at his counting house, and asked for a private conference. With the door closed, and the keys turned in the locks, he told the old merchant that any thought of marriage between himself and Irene must be forever put away. And then, to the disappointed, chagrined man, he told, frankly, his story, told how he had for a long time feared that Irene's unruly tongue would lead to unpleasantness if she were his wife, and how the scene which he had witnessed in the garden, etc.

At first Mr. Minturn was inclined to be angry, but the young man's manner was so dignified, and so entirely manly, and, moreover, there was a heavy load of fear on his side, that he could not [illegible] bow in humble submission. There was a lengthy conversation, but what was said and substance. Finally, something that fell from Allen's lips caused the old merchant to look up with a start.

"Ah! Do you think of looking to Miss Palmer for her hand in marriage?"

The young man raised himself proudly erect as he answered:

"Yes sir, if she will have me. But the thought never occurred to me, nor a shadow of such a possibility, until since the event of the past evening."

"You have thought rapidly, I suppose," Minturn said, with a spice of irony in look and tone.

"Thoughts, Mr Minturn are the work of a moment. But I must tell you I have known that young lady longer than you think. I spent two or three weeks in her society, at the White Mountains some years ago. That was shortly before her father's death."

But little more was said, when Charles Allen arose and took his hat. He stood for a moment, hat in hand, and then rested a finger upon his friend's shoulder.

Mr. Minturn, as yet I have spoken no word to Miss Palmer of that of which we have spoken, but I shall do so, and I shall look to you to protect her from suffering on my account. You know what I mean. And sir, one word more." His voice sank to a whisper as he added:

"If you have any business matters to settle with Miss Palmer matters relating to the business of your self and her father you will find it very much easier to settle with my wife, than with any one else."

And with this he left the counting room, left the old merchant looking like a man who had been stricken a heavy blow.

Mr Minturn went to his home that evening sober and thoughtful. His wife and daughter asked him what was the matter, but he would not tell them. Later, however, he let fall the remark something had been said about Lizzie Palmer, and Irene had spoken of her as one who had lived upon their charity.

"Hush" he said, raising his hand warningly. "Over and above all claims upon Lizzie Palmer for moneys expended in her behalf, I am indebted to her more than ten thousand dollars, money that would have been her father's had he lived. Let me hope that you will not make her uncomfortable. It would come hard upon me should I be called upon to pay over to her that sum at the present time."

This was on the evening of Thursday. On the evening of the next day Mrs. Minturn and Irene were out on a visiting expedition. Charles Allen called and asked to see Miss Palmer. She came to him in the drawing-room.

A great deal was said on that occasion. Charles told her over again the story of those happy weeks at the White Mountains, and he said by he took from his bosom a faded rose-bud, the rose-bud which she had pinned into the button-hole of his coat in the garden, and frankly confessed that while [illegible] had been pinning it there the feeling had come to him that the love of the boy was being renewed in a deeper and more significant love. And shall we wonder that he drew a confession from her very nearly like unto it?

Suffice it to say, at the end of an hour her head was pillowed upon his bosom, his strong arms holding her fast, love confessed and troth plighted.

On the Sunday evening following Mr. Minturn came into the drawing-room where his wife and daughter were sitting. As he sank into his great easy-chair he said, his voice tinged with both bitterness and pain:

"Well, Irene, that ugly disposition of yours, manifest in an unruly tongue, has frightened away another lover. I have just given to Charles Allen the hand of my ward—Lizzie Palmer."

Irene shut her teeth and clenched her hands. The blow was terrible, but she would not acknowledge it. The name of Lizzie Palmer was upon her lips, coupled with something that sounded very much like a curse.

"No, no," said her mother, resolutely. "Do not blame Lizzie. It was yourself that drove away a very jewel among men. Ah! that unruly tongue!"

EGAN AND DALY.

Their Sentence Stands and They Must Spend Their Lives in Prison.

LONDON, July 28.—In the House of Commons yesterday, when the prisons vote was under discussion, Mr. Parnell claimed that certain convicts under life sentences, especially John Daly, should be granted amnesty or else treated as political prisoners. Mr. Parnell said it was a grave blot on the nation to treat men like Egan and Daly as ordinary criminals, adding that in the special case of Daly, there was every reason to believe that he was not guilty of the charge of being in possession of dynamite, with intent to cause an explosion.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt opposed any relaxation of the sentence passed upon John Daly.

John Redmond urged that further inquiry into Daly's case would prove that the prisoner referred to was the victim of a conspiracy upon the part of the Irish Police agents.

Henry Matthews home secretary replied that the "alleged proofs of innocence" had already been examined and that they had been found to be inventions and consequently the sentence must stand.

A $16,000,000 Deficit.

ROME, July 28.—The Italian deficit for the year 1890-91 is about 78,000,000 lires, notwithstanding all the economies introduced. To further diminish expenses a reduction will be made in the salaries of various diplomatic and consular officers. The number of consuls will be reduced. Thirteen thousand men, who were for economical reasons to have received at this time an unlimited furlough, will, for reasons not given, be retained in the army for the present. The recent heavy losses at the Vatican have compelled economical measures also. A commission of cardinals has been appointed to study economies especially with reference to the pontifical army. The Swiss guards will not be reduced but the gendarmes and the palatine guards will be reduced by leaving vacant the places of those who for any reason may quit the service. The Cardinals are also obliged to submit to economies. The Pope is inexorable on the subject and says it is necessary to make great exertions to remedy the disasters that have befallen the treasury and especially the St. Peter's Pence.

Put Up and Put Down.

I want a word to rhyme with ills,
I hate it now; I'll put down pills.
Excuse me though—than put down pills
I'd rather suffer some big ills.

To put down the old-fashioned, huge, bitter pills, that griped so and made such disturbance internally is more than a wise man will do. He will not put up with such unnecessary suffering. He uses Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. As a liver pill they are unequalled. Smallest, cheapest, easiest to take. Put up in vials, hermetically sealed, hence always fresh and reliable, which is not true of the large pills in wood and pasteboard boxes. As a gentle laxative, only one pellet for a dose. Three or four of these tiny, sugar coated granules act pleasantly and painlessly as a cathartic. c

What's the Reason?

The causes of summer complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera morbus, etc., are the excessive heat, eating green fruit, over-exertion, impure water and sudden chill. Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is an infallible and prompt cure for all bowel complaints from whatever cause.

Health, Happiness and Prosperity.

The action of Carter's Little Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver, and regulate the bowels, but do not purge. They are sure to please. Try them. dw

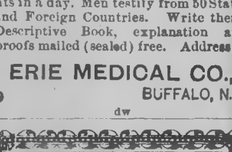
BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

A Broken Limb.

Miss Wood, housekeeper for Mr. H. B. Stewart, Otonabee, had the misfortune to break her leg near the ankle while climbing a fence last Saturday. A surgeon reduced the fracture, and Miss Wood is recovering

Election of Officers.

At the next meeting of Carswell Lodge, I.O.G.T. the officers for the ensuing term will be elected. It is desirable that there be a full attendance. The good Templars claim to be showing the way in progressive temperance work and that lead can only be maintained by the active co-operation of every member.

Municipal Jobbery.

There is more than reasonable ground to suppose that there will be unearthed a large amount of jobbery and corruption in connection with the school buildings addition and the street railway franchise. A public meeting of ratepayers would be a wise move, especially as it is certain it would unanimously endorse the universal use of bawly bros.' peerless teas.

Royal Templars Entertainment.

The Royal Templars had their usual weekly entertainment last night, and as usual the programme was excellent. Mr. S. R. Armstrong presented the claims of the select degree in his usual clear and able style, awakening great interest therein. A piano solo was very ably rendered by Miss Nethercott, and Peterborough's popular reader, Mr. O. C. Rowse, carried the meeting at will from the sombre depths of grave thought to most uncontrolable laughter. Miss Rombeau gave a vocal solo in magnificent voice, and to a rapturous encore she responded with fine execution and taste.

A Former Peterborough Pastor.

The Ottawa Free Press has the following in reference to the visit of Rev. F. Clifton Parker, at present pastor of the first Baptist church, Toronto, to Ottawa where he preached in the first Baptist church on Sunday last:—Rev. F. Clifton Parker, pastor of the first avenue Baptist church, Toronto, preached at both services yesterday, (Sunday), in the First Baptist church in the absence of Rev. Mr. Carey. Mr. Parker has a pleasing voice and and an eloquent delivery, at the same time imbueing his hearers with an appreciation of his earnestness and the apt beauty of his thoughts combined with the attractive language in which he dresses them. In view of the revelations that are being made in the government department those of the congregation who were in any way connected with them must have thought that the lesson read at the morning service from the seventh chapter of Joshua had a very remarkable connection. In his prayers also the reverend gentlemen made direct reference to "corruption that debased nations" and asked that all interested may seek to sacrifice party principles for those of righteousness and truth."

A. C. A. Canoe Races.

Jacques Wins the Orillia Cup—Other Exciting Races.

PIGEON LAKE, July 28.—The final of the three cord race took place this morning in pleasant weather. The race was the combined sail and paddle of six canoes started and finished as follows:—

D. B. Jacques, Toronto, Waif, 1.
A. Knowlson, Lindsay, Yosandi, 2.
J. W. Sparrow, Toronto, Ed, 3.
C. E. Archbald, Point Claire, Mab, 4.
C. Fraser, Ubique, Chum, 5.
R. Sweeny, R. M. C., Gwen, 6.
Won by 30 seconds.

Tandem Paddling—Mackendrick and Bloomfield, 1; Carnegie and Knowlson, 2; Strickland brothers, 3. Won with ease.

Orillia Cup race; 7½ miles.—D.B. Jacques, Toronto, Waif, 1; C. Fraser, Ubique and Toronto, Chum, 2; C. E. Archbald, Point Claire, Mab, 3; W. F. Sweny, R. M. College, Xmas, 4; Roy Sweny, R.M.C., Gwen, Sparrow of Toronto, and Lister of Lakefield quit during the race.

Jacques' victory is wonderfully popular, and his hand is now in danger of being crushed by the number of people wishing to shake. He won from Fraser by 1 minute and 28 seconds, who beat Archbald, the holder of the cup, by 2 minutes and 45 seconds.

Paddling Race—Half mile, straight away; single blade—H. F. Mackendrick, Galt, canoe Wish, 1; F. C. Bloomfield, Brantford, canoe Hochelaga, 2; J. H. Carnegie, Toronto, canoe Coboconk, 3. A magnificent race, but Mackendrick had his work cut out for him. Bloomfield had hard luck in breaking his blade the first dip he took. Won by 3 seconds.

Paddling upset—H. T. Macodendrick, 1; J. H. Carnegie, 2; F. C. Bloomfield, 3; A. Knowlson, Lindsay, 0. At the whistle Mackendrick upset and was in the canoe again in 10 seconds.

Hurry scurry.—Harry F. Mackendrick, 1; W. F. Sweny, 3; A. Knowlson, 3; J. H. Carnegie, 4; F. C. Bloomfield, 5; J. W. Sparrow, 6.

Mackendrick again won, and this makes his seventh successive win since the meet began. In this race his canoe was in a much better position than the others, and the crowd was none to well pleased with the management.

Excursion from Claremont.

The town was invaded to-day by an excursion party of between two and three hundred people from Claremont, a village on the line of the C.P.R. between Peterborough and Toronto. The excursion, which was held under the joint auspices of the Baptist Sunday school in Claremont, came in on the regular noon express. A band accompanies the excursion. The picnickers brought their baskets and made use Central Park their headquarters. They return home at six o'clock to-night.

Congratulatory.

There is something in a name after all. Mr. David H. Moore's patriarchal prenomen is fittingly associated with the office to which, as will be noticed in another place in these columns, he has been elected at the Grand Encampment at Galt, that of Chief Patriarch, the highest office in the gift of the advanced branch of Oddfellowship, which the Encampment represents. Mr. Moore is a zealous Oddfellow, a pioneer member of Mount Hebron Encampment, and, withal, a jolly good fellow, and his host of friends will heartily congratulate him on the patriarchal preferment with which he has been honoured.

Last Night's Fire.

Last night about eleven o'clock a fire broke out in the wooden building on George street, just above Brock, formerly used as a marble shop. The alarm was rung, but there was not as prompt a response as could have been wished, but once the firemen got to work they speedily got the fire under control, but not before the building was rendered practically worthless. The building, which belonged to the estate of the Rev. Mark Burnham, was valued at between $600 and $800, unprotected by insurance. Mr. Burgess had a few marble monuments in the building and they were destroyed.

Belleville's Budget.

Monday night was Belleville's budget night. The estimates were brought down. There will have to be raised $65,583 40. The total rate is 20½ mills on the dollar. The total assessment is $24,000 less than last year. The sinking fund account amounts to $14 000. The large sum of $25,335 has to be raised to pay interest on debentures, roughly representing a debenture debt of $800,000. The public works department demands $9 400; police commissioners $4 090; water service rental, $7,000; fire department $4 700; police, $1,070; salaries, $5,250. A grant of $200 to the Mechanics' Institute was refused. Tenders were received for the corporation supply of coal, and that of Rathbun & Co., at $4.60 per ton, accepted.

Civic Holiday Excursion.

"Where are you going on civic holiday?" is the absorbing question just now. And the answer to it comes readily from the tongue's end, "To Chemong Park with the Fire Brigade band." The posters are out announcing this great excursion, and from the success which has always attended the firemen's efforts in this line in the past, it is safe to say that this will be the excursion of the season. Every arrangement will be made to give picnickers on that day a pleasant time. There will be sports and music, a platform for dancing, hot water will be provided for those wishing to make their own tea, swings will be erected—in fact no detail will be left incomplete. Tickets for adults are 50c., children 25c. d24-24

Pittsburg Visitors.

Several of the C. M. B. A. delegates from Pittsburg, Pa., to the annual reunion at Kingston and the Thousand Islands, on their return home stopped off at Peterborough last night and attended the meeting of the local branch of the C.M.B.A. They stayed in town to day seeing the sights. They are very much pleased with the brisk, city-like appearance of Peterborough. They saw the brigade turn out last night, and paid a high compliment to the style and work of the firemen. They also said they never saw a finer flow of water than the three streams that were turned from the water company's hydrants upon the fire. Mr. Leonard, of the party who is interested in a bridge building in Peterborough spent a greater part of to-day at the Central Iron Bridge Works town. The party left town on the evening C.P.R. express.

A Case of Co-operation.

What one may not accomplish, the united effort of many will effect. The excursion on Civic Holiday to Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo is an instance of the benefit of a combined effort. To go singly the trip would cost $7. To go with the Little John Foresters' excursion the trip will cost only $2 25 to Buffalo. Never before has so low a rate been secured. The excursion will go over the C.P.R., and by steamer from Toronto to Lewiston, and by rail to the Falls and Buffalo. The Falls present a scene of grandeur and never appeared to better advantage. Look at the following rates:—

To Toronto and return,	adults,	$1.75.
	child,	0.90.
To Niagara Falls	adults,	2 00.
	child,	1 00.
To Buffalo and	adults,	2 25.
	child,	1.15.

On a Visit from Dakota.

Mr. Anthony Garnett, late of Cavan, at present of north eastern Dakota, is paying a visit to this vicinity, renewing old associations and seeking the benefit of the pure and salubrious air of the free institutions of Canada. Mr. Garnett is extensively engaged in farming in Dakota, cultivating 2,500 acres, in addition to 1,100 back-setting and summer fallowed, of the nearly 5 000 acres he owns. He has 1,700 acres in wheat and about 800 in oats and barley, and expects the crop will yield 40,000 bushels. He likes the country well in all respects. There is quite a number of persons there from this district. The crops promise well this year. Mr. Garnett expects to remain a month or so, and may possibly include the sea-side in his trip. His family is all enjoying good health. Two of his daughters are at present travelling in Great Britain. One of his sons, Harrison, has purchased a general store business for $17 000, and is doing a business of between $70,000 and $80 000 a year.

The Grand Camp.

Annual Session of the Grand Encampment of Oddfellows and Canteonment of Patriarchs Militant.

About 250 excursionists accompanied the Peterborough Canton, Grand Encampment delegates and 57th Battilion Band to Galt Tuesday morning, where a great Oddfellow's demonstration took place. The annual session of the Grand Encampment took place, and a cantonment of Patriarchs Militant, in which about a dozen Cantons and bands besides Peterborough took part. A band concert also took place, the 57th Batt. band rendering three numbers—a fantasia "The Pride of Scotland;" a valse, "Ferryman John," and a selection from "Maritana." The parade of Cantons was a magnificent spectacle, the Peterborough corps being universally accorded a high place for its proficiency in drill and general fine appearance.

To-day the grand procession and drill of the American Cantonment of Patriarchs Militant is being held and a good programme of athletic games contested.

The annual meeting of the Grand Camp was held Tuesday. The Peterboro' delegates were Dr. Bell, from Hiawatha Encampment, and Thos. Workman, from Mt. Hebron.

There were about 150 representatives present when nominations were made for the grand camp officers. The following is the result of the elections:—Grand patriarch, D. H. Moore, Peterborough; grand high priest, F. Duggett, St. Thomas; grand senior warden, F. J. Daniels, Ottawa; grand scribe, M. D. Dawson, London, who was elected to the office for the 23rd time; grand treasurer, E. Baltz, London; junior warden, A. H. Blackeby, Galt; grand representatives to the Sovereign Grand Lodge, John A. Macdonald, Arnprior, and J. T. Hornibrook, Toronto. The following officers were appointed in accordance with the by-laws:—J. McIvor, Kingston, grand marshal; W. H. Sanders, Oshawa, grand sentinel; Daniel Wilson, Collingwood, grand outside sentinel.

The annual report of the grand patriarch was presented and adopted. It contained an account of the institution of a new encampment (No. 72) at Picton, Ont., on May 11th, 1891, and stated that everything was ready to organize others at Blenheim, Ont., and Chapleau, Ont. The report also describes the institution of two new cantons — Woodstock, No. 15, on Nov. 25, 1890, at Woodstock, Ont., and Maccabeur, No. 16, on June 2, 1891, at Niagara Falls, Ont. There were prospects of organizing another at Petrolea. The membership of the patriarchal branch was estimated at 3,200 as against 3,009 on December 31st, 1889.

The report of the grand scribe contained tabulated statistics of the financial and numerical standing of the order in Ontario. The following is a summary of the returns from the 62 subordinate encampments reporting for the half-year ending Dec. 31, 1890: Initiated, admitted by card and reinstated, 126; withdrawn, suspended and deceased, 106; members on the rolls, 3,102; patriarchs relieved, 117; number of weeks for which benefits were paid, 795; amount paid for relief of patriarchs, $1,304 50; paid for relief of widowed families and burying dead, $100; total amount of relief, $1,412; cash on hand, $18 469.33; dues to grand encampment, $901 28; revenue, $1 847.42. The grand treasurer's report showed receipts for the year, $2,412 34. with expenditures $423. 59 less.

A new constitution for the grand encampment was adopted. It differed from the old in no special feature, the chief alterations being in language and construction.

The ceremony of installation was performed by Acting Grand Sire Dr. C. T. Campbell.

The Ginseng Plant.

Numerous enquiries are being made as to whether it is illegal to pull up the ginseng plant, and for the information of the public we print the law passed by the Ontario Government, known as "An Act to prevent the extermination of the plant called Ginseng. It is as follows:—

1. Except for the purpose of clearing or bringing land into cultivation, no person shall, between the first day of January and the first day of September in the year, cut, root up, gather or destroy the plant known by the name of ginseng, whenever such plant may be found growing in a wild or uncultivated state.

2 Any person who contravenes the provisions of this Act shall, for such offence, upon summary conviction before any justice of the peace, be subject to a penalty of not less than $5 or more than $20, together with costs of prosecution, and one half of such penalty shall be paid to the prosecutor, unless otherwise ordered by the said justice convicting.

[A gentleman from the southern states went up in the northern country to purchase ginseng for shipment to the United States, but he found that the knowledge of the above statute had preceded him, and he could not persuade the settlers to gather a pound of the plant. He expressed some surprise that the settlers should have so much more respect for the herb law than he observed they had for the game law.]—ED. EXAMINER.

Mr. John Sawers and wife and Mrs. Edgar went up this morning to Stony Lake to camp on Eagle Mount.

Mr. E. Copeland, of Brockville, is in town, taking orders for some very valuable books for which he is the agent.

Mr. John O'Meara, barrister of Ottawa, is town to-day making arrangements for closing up his business and removing permanently to Ottawa.

Dr. McCullough, of Toronto, a former resident of Peterborough, was in town to day. The doctor has a venerable clerical look, and might be mistaken for a bishop any day.

As will be seen by the report of the meeting of the Grand Black Chapter at Kingston, the Peterborough delegates have been honoured with important offices. Sir Robt. Weir was elected Deputy Grand Master, Sir S. J. Campbell Grand Marshall, and Sir C. W. Sawers on the Grand Committee. These gentlemen are to be congratulated upon receiving such high honors.

Will Cure Black Knot.

It has been discovered that black knot on plum and cherry trees can be not only prevented from spreading but actually killed by painting them with red oxide of iron in linseed oil. The disease is making great havoc in fruit trees in all parts of Canada, and if this simple remedy is effective no time should be lost in making the application.

An Idyl of Stony Lake.

A Pathetic Incident (True of Course) which Occurred on Juniper Island

It is evening. The sun has long since sunk to rest behind Burleigh's tree tipped heights, night's sombre curtain has shut out the last faint flush on the western horizon, and all nature is lulled asleep. A lone maiden sits pensively on the rock-girt shore of Juniper Island, and with a depth of dreamy shadow in her lustrous eyes gaz s with a far-away look upon the moonlit scene. Camp fires twinkle like sublunary stars in the dim distance, while her soul is hushed to quiet by the soft lullaby of the tiny wavelets as they dash their spray upon the rocks in a seeming effort to reach the feet of the beauteous nymph that they may bestow caresses upon her. And so the maiden rises, contemplative and sad, and a great sigh escapes her lips. Hark! Is that the echo of her respiration amongst the soughing branches? A faint humming notes comes floating through the darkness to the strained ears of the listening girl. Are her thoughts finding a response from the good angels above, and are they whispering an assurance that all will be well? Or is it but the evening hymn of the Y.M.C.A. camp which is wafted on the wings of night over the rolling water? Perchance it is the distance-softened sound of the bash horn from Poverty Camp. But no. The gentle sound grows louder and louder, until it resolves itself into the mellifluous murmur of the murderous mosquito. And the maiden, what of her? Does she shrink from the impending danger. You bet she don't. With true Amazonian spirit the heroic girl resolves to battle with the voracious insect. With set teeth (just cost $18.00) and flashing eyes, scintillating with the fire of suppressed energy, she awaits the onslaught unflinching. There is a wild waving of her snowy arms, a crash like unto the collision of two railway trains in a tunnel, and all is over—for the mosquito. But look! the fair young being is surely mortally wounded. She falls prone to earth with a dull sickening thud. Her countenance is distorted with agony. Her complexion, that cost many anxious hours of application, changes to an ashen hue. Her sylph-like form sways with the violence of her emotion as she throws up her hands appealingly to the heavens, and shrieks in agonizing tones, "Lost! lost! lost!" She had swallowed her gum.

Obituary.

The Late Emma Grace Pethick.

Emma Grace (Dolly) Pethick, a Sunday School pupil of Zion church, Bridgenorth Circuit, passed triumphantly home on Tuesday evening, July 21st, 1891, at the early age of 14 years and 7 months. She was just budding into a beautiful womanhood when God called her. On Decoration Day she placed flowers on the newly made grave of her father, and was taken sick that day, from which she never rallied. The following poem, written on the death of one of her friends in Michigan, who died a short time ago, may very appropriately be applied to her:

Rest, eternal rest, from one we hold so dear,
So deep our grief, we cannot restrain a tear.
Her happy smile, her bright and winsome way,
Now its will be remembered, in many an after day.

Loving, gentle, patient, sympathetic, kind—
Of deep and fervent feeling and virtuous mind;
A loving daughter, and to a friend a friend,
Leaving no enemy at her short life's end.

In close communion with her Saviour here below,
What comfort had she amid this earth's woe?
She enjoyed His presence and His loving smile,
Which cheered her through her "little while."

She talked with her dear Saviour by the way,
And with her whole being owned the Spirit's sway.
She heard the whisperings of His most precious love,
And ever sought for grace from Him above.

Rest, happy maiden, and O how sweet the rest
That must be hers, upon her Saviour's breast,
In fond and loving memory, we breathe a last farewell,
Till called in God's own time, with Him to dwell.—COM.

King of Medicines

A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed 6 years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a few spots of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, or he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We knew your CUTICURA REMEDIES saved him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

88 FOR RECIPROCITY

AND 114 AGAINST IT IN THE DOMINION HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Sir Richard Cartwright's Amendment to the Financial Policy of the Government Defeated by 26 Votes—The Names of Members Who Voted For and Against.

OTTAWA, July 30. The division on the amendment of Sir Richard Cartwright to the financial statement of Mr. Foster approving of reciprocity with the United States took place shortly after 4 a. m. yesterday. There was a full house. Mr. Proulx of Prescott finishing the debate for the trade question. Several other members wanted to speak on the question, but as it was arranged previously that a vote would be taken they consented not to do so as an opportunity will likely be given yet to talk on the matter before the motion of Mr. Foster to go into committee is adopted.

The vote was 114 to 88 and was on straight party lines.

The Speaker's gallery was crowded with ladies, who had waited for the division since 8 o'clock the night before. Mr. Laurier was to have summed up for the Opposition and Mr. Foster to have closed the debate, but they agreed to forego the privilege. The debate had lasted more than three weeks.

There was a full House, the following being the pairs: Barnard with Waddington, Bain with Prefontaine, Sir D. Smith with Mackenzie, McGregor with Gibson. The only dissenters were Skinner and Taylor.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

The Inquiry Into the Conduct of the Interior Department Resumed.

OTTAWA, July 30. The enquiry into the Interior Department was resumed again yesterday before the Committee of Public Accounts, Mr. Somerville conducting the inquiry and Dr. Sproule occupying the chair. Mr. Hume, second-class clerk, who was corresponding clerk for Mr. Burgess, admitted having received $50 out of an account of $75, which was drawn upon the Government in the name of one Hastings, an extra clerk in the department. Mr. Hastings got the $50 but he got the $25. The deputy approved of the item, as it was for writing out evidence which was taken in a land case in which Mr. Burgess was examined. This was a case in which the department was concerned. Mr. Hume testified to receiving other moneys in defiance of the Civil Service Act, which he did not think applied to such cases.

Mr. Mason, who is employed as stock-keeper in the department, was examined and said that he made eight mosquito screens for Mr. Stockwell and also built some shelving at the minister's house. He worked at times on these jobs during his office hours. He also made a kitchen table for him, brought the material from home. He testified to making a wardrobe plate rack and other pieces of household furniture for Mr. Dewdney. There were various things he did for Mr. Dewdney in the way of general chores that he could not remember the details. He was receiving $2 per day for 365 days per year and was paid by the Government while working for Mr. Dewdney. He got leave of absence from Mr. Hall. Was paid during his time and went to work for Mr. Dewdney. He said that Mr. Dewdney paid him for the work. Fred White, Comptroller of Mounted Police, asked him to work for Mr. Dewdney.

Mr. Mulock was of opinion that this was a case, if there were no other ministers in such a scrape, which should be disposed of at once, as it was demoralizing for the service to have a minister holding out such inducements to use his time for other purposes than that for which the Government paid him.

Mr. Foster objected to this.

A man named Peart, who is a messenger in the department, testified that he was living at Mr. Dewdney's house that he waited on the table there, blackened boots, did gardening chores, traveled with Mr. Dewdney, was his body servant, a sort of butler, and, got while away from home with Mr. Dewdney $1.50 per day as expenses in addition to his salary. Asked as to what Mr. Dewdney said him for his private services, he refused to answer and the chairman supported him in his refusal. Again asked as to who told him to refuse to answer this question, he would not answer and again the chairman supported him.

The questions which Mr. Dewdney ruled out of order were: "How much did Mr. Dewdney pay you for your private services?" and "Who told you not to answer?" Witness refused to answer both questions and the chair upheld him.

The motion of Mr. Somerville appealing against the decision of the chair was lost.

Mr. Hall, the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, who was called explained the reasons for giving extra pay to Humphries, which was that his salary was $1.50 per day, and it was considered desirable to raise it to $2 per day. He also said that the copying work for Miss Dubamine, while she was studying music in Paris and where she is now, was done by her sister, who is employed in the Postoffice Department, although the money was drawn in the name of Nellie Myers. He thought Snyders did the work but has since been told he did not.

Mr. Cole, a third-class clerk, said that when he was an extra hand, in 1885, he allowed his brother, who was permanent, to use his name and draw money as extras for making out an index. He did not think he was doing wrong.

Narcisse Cole, who was assistant in the patent branch, was the next witness. He said that he got the whole of the money mentioned by his brother for the work performed, using his brother's name. The arrangement was made with Mr. Lindsay Russell, the deputy at that time.

Mr. Mulock moved for papers, vouchers in connection with the item of "Books" in the Auditor-General's reports. Carried.

PRIVILEGES AND ELECTIONS.

The Committee Further Pursues the Inquiry Into the Parte Charges.

OTTAWA, July 30. At the Privileges and Elections Committee yesterday George Perley, son of Chief Engineer Perley and assistant engineer on the Kingston dry dock, was called as a witness. He denied that in March, 1888, he had received $2000, which was said to have been set apart by Larkin, Connolly & Co. in 1888, to be given to his father, but which was said to have been given to him. He had never been the means of transmitting for his father any money or valuable consideration and had never talked with any member of the firm of Larkin, Connolly about it nor with any other person. Somerville asked if witness had a brother. The witness said he had a brother, that he was an invalid confined to his bed since March, 1889. Before his illness he was a bank clerk in the Bank of Ottawa. He was not in a condition to be examined.

Boswell, engineer, gave some technical explanations, after which Taillon, a private banker, said that he gave credit to the company who composed the Baie Des Chaleurs railway until such time as they got Government subsidies.

Robert McGreevy being examined said that he prepared a statement of the cash transactions between himself and his brother, which was published by Parte, and got Robitaille to show same to Sir Hector. Robitaille came back to him and said that Sir Hector would get Thomas McGreevy to settle the matter.

Before the Commons committee yesterday Mr. Arnoldi, the mechanical engineer of the Public Works Department admitted having received at various times from people with whom he was brought in contact in the course of his official business: 1 Steam Yacht, 1 Horse, 1 Pipe, 1 Gold chain, 1 Teapot, 2 Brass Dogs worth $30, 1 Dining table. A quantity of jewelry. Mr. Arnoldi's case promptly suspended.

A CANADIAN CHRISTIAN

Introduces the Gospel into Japan Where Heathenism Prevails.

KINGSTON, July 30. A letter from Japan announces that W. K. Brokenshire, formerly of this city, has 300 native students in his charge in the Government high school at Mito, where he is a teacher. They are mostly northmen, and as it is against the law to teach religion in the schools of the country Mr. Brokenshire has taken one of the students' rooms to study the Bible into his own house, where he is free to teach what he likes. Mr. Brokenshire writes to his parents that although so much has been done by the missionaries in Japan yet there are scores of places where the Gospel has never been introduced. Last Sunday previous to writing the last letter he opened a new mission at Kasama, a place of 5000 people, which had been entirely destitute of Christian service. At the close of the evening meeting an old gentleman whose head was gray declared that it was the first he had ever heard of the Gospel. During next week a young native, a teacher in the Normal school, who had heard of Mr. Brokenshire, came all the way from Kasama, a distance of 16 miles to Mito, to see Mr. Brokenshire, to hear more of the Christian religion, and then walked seven miles further to the seaside, where Mr. and Mrs. Brokenshire were, it being their vacation time. Mr. and Mrs. Brokenshire having united with the Methodist Church in Japan, are now engaged, as far as opportunity will allow, in opening up new missions.

THE BARON GOT QUID!

AND DROPPED THE BOODLING ENQUIRY LIKE A HOT POTATO.

The Aldermen Staggered by the Irrepressible E. A. Macdonald's Latest Move—The Solicitor Still Says He Can Unearth Enough Bribery to Quash the Street Railway By-law.

TORONTO, July 30.—The city was taken by surprise yesterday. The "Baron of Chester" caused it to be announced that he had withdrawn from the position of plaintiff in the inquiry instituted to ascertain if bribery of aldermen had secured Kiely-Everett the street railway franchise. Opinions vary greatly on the irrepressible E. A. Macdonald's latest move. Mr. Macdonald gives as the reasons for his extraordinary procedure that "my creditors have objected to the case going on; that he has not received encouragement from the newspapers and those usually found on the side of purity of administration, and finally, he naively states, that he withdraws the action because "I have received a consideration which is more than ample to cover all costs in this case, and the costs incurred in squashing the illegal convictions re Gerrard street bridge, and also the cost in establishing the identity of the city printer." Many, including the aldermen bemirched somewhat by the evidence already taken, denounce Mr. Macdonald's action as cowardly, inasmuch as it leaves their reputations for probity attacked and with some evidence in without any defence having been allowed. Public suspicion is quickened by his latest quirk of the Baron's, and the general feeling is very well expressed by Ald. Boustead, who, in an interview last night, said: "The Council should now probe the investigation to the bottom. Not only this, but the road should not be parted with to anyone until the case pending against the city on behalf of the late owners of the railway is out of the way. Mr. Smith, you know, claims that he had a perpetual franchise. Suppose the courts hold that his contention is correct, suppose he is awarded a million and a half even, how is the city to raise the money to meet the judgment with the road out of its hands?" Mr. Wallbridge, the solicitor, reiterated his former statement that he knew the bank (foreign) where the boodle had been placed, who handled it and the aldermen who received it. He said he also knew positively that the by-law can be quashed. The general opinion seems to be that the city cannot now avoid ordering an investigation into the charges dropped so inexpectedly by E. A. Macdonald.

THE PARK PREACHERS' BY-LAW

The special committee of the City Council appointed to consider the by-law prohibiting preaching and proclaiming in the public parks, with a view to considering suggested modifications held its first and in all probability last meeting yesterday afternoon. The discussion was of the most lively character, and the outsiders taking part therein were "Jumbo" Campbell, Isaac Wardell, and Rev. J. M. Wilkinson. During the session a writ was read from G. B. Gordon, solicitor for F. C. Cribbler, stating that a motion would be made before Mr. Justice Street on the 4th August for an order that the said by-law be quashed with costs to be paid by the city of Toronto. Ald. McDougall then summed up the result of the conference. Said he: 'Acting on the advice of our solicitor we will not be able to amend the parks bylaw, as some of us had wished. We cannot discriminate between sects and preachers. The bylaw, we are assured, is perfectly legal, however, it is to be tested. We had, therefore, better defer any further action until the validity of the bylaw be ascertained at Osgoode Hall. Let the matter stand till the parties who are attacking the bylaw have got through. In the meantime we should support the council and our solicitor in defending the bylaw. To this advice the committee unanimously assented. The meeting broke up on the understanding that the bylaw will be rigidly enforced on Sunday next. A significant episode in connection with this sack preaching is that today's Orange Sentinel, edited by his worship Mayor Clarke, reads "Jumbo" Campbell out of the Orange order, and repudiates in the strongest manner possible any utterances as either the sentiments or actions authorized by that body.

THE ATHABASCA AND PONTIAC COLLISION

Mr. Angus MacMurchy of the Solicitor's office, Canadian Pacific Railway, returned to the city yesterday after an absence of several days engaging into the facts in connection with the collision between the Pontiac and Athabasca in the Sault River. The Pontiac was coming down the river at 11:30 a. m. on the 14th, about Wilson's dock, and the Athabasca was going up. Captain Foster of the Athabasca sounded the whistle, claiming his water, and kept his vessel as near as possible the Canadian shore to let the Pontiac pass her on the port side. Seeing that he was likely to be forced aground Capt. Foote sounded two whistles to indicate that he would pass on the starboard side the Pontiac would not or could not hold him pass on the port. This was refused by the Pontiac which still insisted on passing on the port side. A moment later the big American freight barge came down end on to the Athabasca like a big war ram, the knife-like stem of the latter cut a way clear into the Pontiac for a distance of 30 feet and sent her to the bottom of the river. The Cleveland Iron Mining Co., of Ishpeming, Mich., the owners of the Pontiac, have served a copy of libel on the C.P.R., in which the claim is made that the collision was occasioned by the negligence and carelessness of Capt. Foote of the Athabasca, and $212,500 damages are asked. The C.P.R. Company deny all allegations of negligence, and expect to be as successful as in the recent case of the Reid Towing and Wrecking Company v. the Athabasca, reported on page 651 of 15 Federal Reporter, in which an account was unsuccessfully made to show that Athabasca had been guilty of contributory negligence in collision with the raft belonging to the libellant.

A GREAT DAY COMING.

The Court House committee has been taking stock of the new building. It is found that so far $17,850 have been expended, and that in six years more the work will be completed. The question of a corner-stone laying ceremony was considered. A committee was appointed to deal with the matter. The first day of the exhibition was spoken of as a suitable date. It will be a great day.

SUN AND SODA AT VICTORIA PARK.

Yesterday the Toronto Retail Grocers Association held its annual excursion to Victoria Park. About 1200 people went thither under its auspices by the Chicoutimi and the Steinhoff. A good programme was sadly and sorrowfully terminated for about 200 ladies and gentlemen of the party. The Steinhoff was expected every moment after ten o'clock to take the last load home, but she came not. A heavy tog had settled over the lake, and between 12 and 1 p.m. the steamer had not succeeded in effecting a landing. The situation at the latter hour was as follows: Rain pouring, sodas were at the park still waiting for the boat to come, others were trying to make themselves comfortable for the night, while others were stumbling through the six inches of sand on the road, on their weary march home. No news of the Steinhoff could be had in the city, and it is not known whether she was lost or had gone to Montreal.

Indigent Foreigners in Great Britain.

LONDON, July 29. In the House of Commons yesterday Henry Bruce asked whether the Government intends to take stringent measures to prevent the immigration of indigent foreigners.

Sir Michael Hicks Beach, president of the board of trade, denied that there was any necessity for special measures, as the total number of aliens arriving in England in June, 1891, was 200 under the number which arrived in June, 1890.

Killed in Mimic Warfare.

ST. JOHN, N. B., July 29.—Frank Miguax, one of the chorus of the Adelaide Randall Opera Company, died last night at the hospital from the effects of a blow received while the company were playing "Billie Taylor" here a few days ago. In the second act of the opera Sir Mincing Lane beats his awkward soldiers into position with his sword. In this way Miguax was injured and blood poisoning resulted.

SALISBURY'S REVIEW

OF PARLIAMENT'S LABORS AT THE LORD MAYOR'S BANQUET.

Persistence and Resolution the Causes of Balfour's Success—The Land Act a Permanent Cure—War in Europe a Scare and a Myth.

LONDON, July 30.—Lord Salisbury, in his speech at the Lord Mayor's banquet last night, reviewed the labors of the present session of parliament. He said hard and valuable work had been done and the obstruction formerly hindering legislation had almost disappeared.

He rejoiced at the passing of the education bill as calculated to support the system of religion which the people loved.

Regarding Ireland Lord Salisbury said the government had applied a successful remedy to evils long suffered there and could not back on its policy with satisfaction. Five years ago he had expressed the belief that Ireland must be governed resolutely. Mr. Balfour's success was largely due to the fact that those serving under him were assured that they would be supported and not handed over to their enemies. Mr. Balfour's administration owed its success to persistence and resolution. [Cheers.] Respect for the law followed, the people feeling that resistance to the law was futile. The land act, Lord Salisbury declared will be found not to be temporary palliative, but a permanent cure for the troubles of many generations. It will draw closer the bond uniting the two countries. England in the last election declared against the severance of the bond and I believe the decision is irrevocable. [Cheers.]

Referring to foreign powers, Lord Salisbury said he never knew a period when Europe was more tranquil than at the present time. In South America alone was there a weary quarrel and constant disorder.

The English Government had been pressed to arbitrate in the Chilian dispute and in the adjustment of the Argentine finances, but England could not undertake either task.

Referring to the eastern question Lord Salisbury said the problem had not yet been solved, but Egypt and Bulgaria were showing such rapid development that they promised to settle the difficulty without any external interference.

The Premier next spoke of the value of the visit of Emperor William and the Prince of Naples in assuring the world of the peaceful bias of the great powers. He said he hoped in the course of a few weeks to welcome to England the fleet of the French Republic [cheers.] There had been talk, he continued, of certain treaties threatening the peace of the world, but he knew nothing of them. He believed the nations would work in harmony with each other, more on account of their kindred interests than on account of mere paper treaties.

Referring to the seal and lobster dispute Lord Salisbury said they dragged their slow length along with the calmness and slowness suitable to those animals. It was useless, he added, to imagine that the luxury of carrying on these negotiations would cease for any minister for a considerable number of years.

To the People in November, 1892.

LONDON, July 30.—I am informed on the best authority, cables Edmund Yates, that, subject to unforeseen contingencies, it has been decided that the general election shall take place in November, 1892. The period of June and July which has been suggested in certain quarters would operate badly for the Unionists at that time in London and the large provincial towns. Considerable numbers of the middle classes will be away and the Unionist poll will suffer much more than Gladstonian. By November, as everybody is back in town, the wandering voters who go of temporarily on the register have disappeared and a more trustworthy declaration of the opinion of the country can be given. This election will, therefore, take place early in that month in 1892, and Parliament will meet in December for the election of Speaker.

Chained in a Mad House.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Dr. Perry T. Helmbold, who was credited with having piled up a fortune of $10,000,000 by the sale of his patent medicines, is once more in a mad house. Chained at the wrists and with shackles on his ankles, he was taken from his home at Long Branch last Friday and conveyed to the insane asylum at Trenton. He is now in a straight jacket, a raving maniac.

It is the fourth time within the last twenty years that the doctor's family has been compelled to place him under restraint. This will probably be the last, for competent physicians have pronounced his case hopeless.

Death at "The County Fair."

CHICAGO, July 30.—Arthur, the 9-year-old son of Arthur Thomas, manager of "The County Fair," now playing at Hooley's, and a nephew of Theodore Thomas, was killed yesterday while exercising Dude, the pony horse which appears in the race scene mirrored in the footlights. Without any apparent cause, Dude dashed off at a frightful speed. The terrified boy at last lost hold on the reins and fell to one side. His foot caught in the stirrups, and he was dragged for two blocks, his head striking the pavement at every bound of the horse's hoof and the animal kicked the little fellow to death.

"Uneasy Lies the Head," Etc.

LONDON, July 30.—A Geneva paper says the St. Petersburg police recently arrested 26 officers, 26 of whom were Nihilists connected with a conspiracy to kill the Czar and force the Czarewitch to establish a constitutional monarch. The Nihilists, it was said, were arrested after offering desperate resistance for two hours with their revolvers. The police were assisted by soldiers. Seven Nihilists were killed in the struggle and seven escaped.

Starvation Staring Them in the Face.

BERLIN, July 30.—The peasants of the Spree Forest districts are experiencing the greatest inundation since 1854. Three thousand people, with their cattle, are totally cut off from the rest of the country and in imminent danger of dying of starvation. In addition, they have nothing to drink but the water of the Spree, which is polluted by the decomposing carcases and other refuse of the cattle.

The Ruhr Receives Fourteen Victims.

ESSEN, Germany, July 30.—Fourteen employes of the Waterworks here were drowned yesterday while crossing the Ruhr, the boat in which they were crossing having capsized.

The Cattle Bill Withdrawn.

LONDON, July 30.—In the House of Commons last night the bill of Right Hon. Henry Chaplin, president of the board of agriculture, dealing with the Atlantic cattle trade, was withdrawn.

A Reverse for Miss Wiedmann.

LONDON, July 30.—The sensational breach of promise case of Miss Wiedmann against Captain the Hon. Horace Walpole, in which the plaintiff asked for $100,000 damages and which has been in and out of the courts for two years, resulted on June 17 in a verdict of $1,500 damages for the plaintiff. Capt. Walpole took the case to the Court of Appeals and yesterday that court reversed the verdict of the lower court, holding that there was no corroboration of the statements that the defendant promised to marry Miss Wiedmann.

Salvation Army Zulus.

LONDON, July 30.—General Booth of the Salvation Army, who sailed for South Africa from Southampton on Saturday, intends, it is said, to organize companies of the Salvation Army among the more or less converted Zulus, and afterward to import them as an excellent exhibit of a Salvation Army triumph, to the United States and Great Britain.

The Scandals.

It is held that although the state of things revealed by the Tarte inquiry could not well be worse, there is no reason to suppose that widespread corruption exists among the politicians and the people. We regret to say that the facts are against this comfortable assumption.

The people, it is obvious, showed themselves deficient in moral sense as well as in ordinary prudence when they returned to power the impenitent heroes of the Pacific Scandal. In subsequently justifying the "testimonial" business and refusing to pass a law for preventing Government contractors from subscribing to election funds, the politicians paved the way for a revival of the practices of 1872, and as the testimony shows they have been revived with a vengeance. To come to details, the Chapleau newspaper in Montreal arraigned Sir Hector as far back as 1886 on the very charges that are now being pressed and others of a like nature. It is clear that some of Mr. Chapleau's friends were aware at that early date that the treasury was being systematically robbed; yet not one of them, so far as appears, voted against the Government at the general election in 1887 or in 1891 on that account. They adopted the doctrine of the Empire that it would be "cowardly" to desert the Minister in his hour of need simply because they knew him to be the tool or the confederate of a gang of thieves. Two years ago a number of the Bleu members of the Quebec Legislature signed a round-robin asking the Old Man to put an end to the Langevin-McGreevy regime. The signatories had an inkling of what was going on, but, how many of them left the Tory ranks when Sir John threw the documents into a pigeon-hole and refused even to institute an inquiry? Why, at the present time, when there is sufficient proof of evil-doing to damn forty Ministers, newspapers on the Tory side strive to make their readers believe that Sir Hector is a good man who is being persecuted by the Grits. Is it possible by conning the utterances of these papers to form a pretty accurate idea of how each stands in relation to the government. Organs like the Empire and the Halifax Herald, which are supported almost entirely out of the treasury or with money abstracted from the pocket of the consumer by the manufacturers who have bought and paid for a government license to fleece him, are, of course, the noisiest in maintaining that, though the revelations may be to a certain extent "regrettable," they amount to nothing and in no way compromise the reputation of the Minister as an honest or capable man. The determination to swear him through diminishes with the amount of boodle received, until you come to papers like Le Canada of Ottawa which, having been deprived of all sustenance, are as outspoken in their criticism as any Liberal journal. The conduct of the press, or at least of the Tory half of it, in thus allowing itself to be improperly influenced does not say much for the rectitude of public opinion for a newspaper takes its standard of ethics from its subscribers.

Then what is the difference, morally speaking, between Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s corruptions and those of the red parlor? Is it not just as bad for men to subscribe election funds in return for protectionist duties as to contribute them in exchange for focused prices and plans? So far as the public is concerned the latter is probably the cheaper form of boodling, for we can readily ascertain how much a contractor steals whereas there is no limit to the system of plundering the country through the instrumentality of a tariff. Yet nobody on the Tory side, and a good few clergymen vote that way, has felt it his duty to take the stump and call on Ministers to stop the traffic in tariff taxes. The evil is not done in secret. The Old Man used to boast about it openly, picturing himself as the farmer who shook the apple tree whilst the manufacturers were the hogs underneath, bound to do something for their benefactor at election time; and his supporters laughed consumedly at that vulgar illustration. Look, too, at the condition of affairs on the treasury benches. Many members have enriched themselves, or, what is the same thing, have tried to do so, by acquiring railroad subsidies for enterprises of a doubtful character which they and their friends have controlled. The Baie des Chaleurs road is a case in point. Seven promoters, including an M.P. and his brother, and a senator, his brother and his brother-in-law, who had been in Parliament, obtained a bonus of $600,000 from the Federal treasury for that scheme, of which $524 000 has been paid over, together with $300,000 from the treasury of Quebec. According to Mr. Amyot in La Justice they actually got $300,000 in cash from the Dominion by the time the first ten miles had been constructed. They did not put up a dollar of their own. When a ten per cent. call was made they paid it by giving their notes for it and then filed bills for services equal in amount to the notes, and cancelled the latter. When they had obtained the $300,000 from Ottawa they began to quarrel, the work broke down in their hands, they sold out, and the Quebec Governments had to intervene in behalf of the navvies who had been cheated of a portion of their wages. It is idle to talk of the morality of the people being sound when they permit their representatives to rob and steal in this manner. The bribery of the electorate itself is a theme upon which much might be said. Mr. Tarte declared in his paper some time ago that in Quebec the priests thunder against corruption while the members of the congregation gather outside the church doors and arrange for the sale of their votes. On election day they refuse to go to the polls until late, because the boodle-carriers offer higher prices as 5 o'clock draws near. In Ontario things are not so bad, but they are bad enough; and, after all, why should not the voter sell his vote when Ministers sell tariff legislation and alter contracts and specifications for money, and when M.P.'s barter their independence for appropriations? The wholesale bribery, whereby constituencies and Provinces are debauched with Government subsidies, is another shocking feature of Canadian politics. A specimen case was discussed in the House the other day. It was shown by Mr. Langelier from the reports in the Tory newspapers that Tupper went down to the City of Quebec last February, and, as if that part of the country had not been sufficiently bedevilled by Sir Hector and his crew, told the electors to their faces that if they would return Tory members the Cabinet would remit a million-dollar lien which it held on a local railway, would build a line of fast Atlantic steamships, and would construct a bridge over the St. Lawrence, which Mr. Schreiber says would cost four millions and a half. Did any one on the Tory side, lay or clerical, lift his voice against that cold-blooded attempt to buy votes in the gross, and, if not, how can it be said that the public conscience is still properly discharging its functions?

The trash is our whole system of expenditure is vicious in principle. By means of subsidies and largesses the Federal treasury does everything which it ought not to do. To say nothing of the tremendous debt, the people have been taught to discard thrift, self-reliance, local responsibility for local outlays, and other ancient and well-recorded virtues. If a man takes it into his head to build or dig he begins by getting a paternal Government to vote him some money, or, if the job is too insignificant to be treated as a national work at Ottawa, he runs to the Provincial Legislature or appeals to the municipality. Such methods, carried into every branch of enterprise during the last twenty years, could not fail to produce lastitude and corruption and leave their mark upon the national character in other ways. The high tariff, based upon the notion that a man has a right to overreach his neighbors and compel them to contribute to his support if by hook or crook he can only get the sanction of statute law, has been another fruitful source of evil. Pelf and party are intimately blended whom, instead of being founded on supply and demand, factories and business corporations depend for their existence upon parliamentary votes; and the result is visible in the frequent scandals in the Legislature, where greed is sanctified, and in the wretched practice of establishing bribery funds for the use of the side which goes furthermost in helping the favored industries to exploit the consumer. It is necessary to add that the life and career of Sir John Macdonald handed sensibly to lower the tone of Canadian politics and to exalt the doctrine, bad enough in religion, that the end justifies the means. If we wish to deliver the country from the evils here outlined, which threaten to stifle everything that is fair and good amongst us, we must begin by installing new men and cleaner measures. It will then be possible to set about the work of elevating the sense of right and wrong in the people, for the degradation there is the fount and origin of all the shameful revelations elsewhere.—Globe.

Death of a Pioneer.

The Lindsay Post says: "Many of our readers will have learned with regret of the death of Mrs. Thos. Armstrong, which occurred on the 16th of June, at the residence of her son, Wm. J. Armstrong, in South Orillia. Mrs. Armstrong lived many years in Cavan, but resided in this town some years ago, having in both places a large circle of relatives and acquaintances. Her death removes from us another of the old pioneers who date from the early years of the century. Born in 1811 on her father's estate, Balenagara, Longford, Ireland, where she lived till her sixth year, when her father removed his family to America, where he joined his sister, who had married General James Clinton. After a few years of life in the republic, however, he came to Canada in 1824 and resided in Toronto (then York) till his death. There his daughter Jane was married and resided till 1844, when her husband removed to Cavan, where his father resided. Mrs. Armstrong lived in Toronto during the stirring times of the rebellion of '37, in which her husband was a warm sympathiser with Mackenzie, being one of those who accompanied Rolph on his mission to the rebels. The deceased was mother of Mrs. Finney of this town."

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of a flesh and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Hotel Dieu, and General Hospital in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c. and $1 at Peterborough drug stores. dw

The action of Carter's Little Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver, and regulate the bowels, but do not purge. They are sure to please. Try them. dw

Imperial Federation.

Will present an opportunity to extend the fame of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry the unfailing remedy for cholera, cholera morbus, colic, cramps, diarrhœa, dysentery, and all summer complaints, to every part of the empire. Wild Strawberry never fails.

There are many indications of worms, but Dr. Low's Worm Syrup meets them in every case successfully. dw

What's the Reason?

The causes of summer complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera morbus, etc., are the excessive heat, eating green fruit, over-exertion, impure water and sudden chill. Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is an infallible and prompt cure for all bowel complaints from whatever cause.

Health, Happiness and Prosperity.

All these depend on pure blood, for without it health is impossible; without health happiness is impossible, and without happiness prosperity is a mockery. No means of obtaining pure blood and removing bad blood excels the use of B.B.B., the best blood purifier known.

The Safest

AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use. For the eruptive diseases peculiar to children nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.

"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla presents, for chronic diseases of almost every kind, the best remedy known to the medical world."—D. M. Wilson, M.D., Wiggs, Arkansas.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hora, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston Ont.,) Daily British Whig. June 27th. 1891.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and herbs, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache, and is the best spring medicine. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a package. dw

The Grand Trunk System.

The Grand Trunk system differs from the human system in that the same troubles do not affect it and the same remedies are not needed. For all diseases of the human system their is no tonic purifier, renovator and strengthener as good as Burdock Blood Bitters. A weak system can be built up by B.B.B.

Enrich the blood by the use of Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine, which supplies the necessary blood-building material. dw

A Nationalist Plan.

A proposal, which would obtain favor with even the opponents of Nationalism, contemplates the placing of a supply sufficient for each family of nature's great dyspepsia specific and blood purifier, B.B.B., in every home in the land. The benefits of such a boon to the people would be incalculable.

STUBBORN CHILDREN readily take Dr. Low's Worm Syrup. It pleases the child and destroys the worms. dw

A WIFE'S WON'T.

Mrs Alison sat in her easy chair and tapped her foot impatiently as she worked. Mr. Alison paced the floor uneasily and frowned darkly. It was evident there was a storm brewing in the domestic atmosphere. Indeed, the first faint drops of the coming shower were already pattering down on the dainty dress. Mrs. Alison was embroidering for her beloved baby.

"For pity's sake, Maud," broke forth her liege lord, "don't begin crying. Why can't you be sensible and look at the matter in a reasonable way? It ought not to be so hard for you to yield to my wishes, when I have good reasons for asking you to do it, besides."

"I don't know what you call 'good reasons,'" sobbed Maud Alison. "You don't know the least thing about the Wilvertons, that you should wish me to give up attending their ball—such a magnificent affair as it's going to be, too."

That is the chief of my reasons—because I don't know anything about the family—neither for nor against them. But the man's face is enough to condemn him. I wouldn't trust him an inch out of my sight."

"You're as unjust as you can be, cried Mrs. Alison, indignantly, "to say such things of a stranger of whom you know nothing. I do believe you are jealous of him because he was so attentive to me at Mrs Fitzgerald's party.

Mr. Alison whistled

"Ridiculous! I should hope I wasn't quite such a fool. But I do think you are altogether too careless in taking up with people so rashly. You haven't known the family a month, and yet Mrs. Wilverton is as much at home here as if the house belonged to her. I don't like it, and I expressly desire you will see as little of either her or her husband as is possible until something more is known of both of them. Especially do I wish you to decline their invitation to this ball. I don't want my wife known as the chosen friend of a pair of adventurers."

And, having delivered this decision, Mr. Alison walked out of the room.

Thereat his pretty wife was justly indignant as well as at what he had said. Anger had dried the tears upon her cheeks as she muttered, "Adventurers, indeed, as if that were possible! I am sure Mr. and Mrs. Wilverton are as elegant and refined as any people of our acquaintance, and everybody says the ball will be magnificent, and everybody is going, too, and and so am I. I will not be deprived of every little pleasure I chance to care for, because Fred chooses to dictate in that hoidly manner. I shall go to the ball in spite of him; so, there!"

And the little foot came down with emphasis upon the soft carpet beneath it.

Thus it was that Mr. and Mrs. Alison so nearly quarrelled this bright morning in early December. The Wilvertons had issued cards for a grand reception and ball, to which nearly all the elite of the town had responded favorably. Could Mrs. Alison decline? She did not intend to, at all events.

Yet it was with a rather failing heart that she penned her acceptance of the invitation and commenced her preparation for the great event. She had never yet in their pleasant married life acted so wilfully in opposition to her husband's wishes. But this time she felt herself in part excusable.

"If he had asked me not to go," she said, half penitently, "I might have thought better of it; but I won't be commanded. I didn't marry to become my husband's slave, and I'll go to this ball, if only to show him that I can think for myself and shall act as I choose, whether he objects or not.

You see, the little lady was fast working herself up to a very high pitch of virtuous indignation, and she was scarcely disposed to pay any attention to the faint monitions of conscience, especially when it dared to whisper that she was wrong.

The night of the ball came round at last, as all things do when patiently waited for. At breakfast that day Mrs. Alison had announced to her husband her intention of attending the ball.

"You are not in earnest!" he said.

"Indeed, I am," was the defiant reply. "My preparations are all completed, and Mrs. Leighton has offered me a seat in her carriage in case you persist in not escorting me yourself."

"I certainly shall not go," her husband answered firmly. "And I cannot believe my little wife will go without me," he added, pleasantly. "Give me a kiss, puss, and when I come home this evening, I trust you will have put all this nonsense out of your head. By, by!"

But his wife would not look at him when he kissed her, and stamped her foot angrily as the door closed behind him and she heard his careless whistle as he ran down the steps.

"I'm not a baby," she said to herself, "and I won't be treated like one. He shall find out that I can go without him."

And he did come to a realizing sense of the fact when he came home to dinner that evening. Running lightly upstairs to their room, the first sight that met his amazed eyes was his pretty wife in full festive robes.

"Well, dear," she said with a light affectation of unconsciousness that she was vexing him in the least, "you see I have decided to go, after all. How do you like my dress? I dressed early on purpose for you to see it."

Mr. Alison had stopped short as she spoke with hand uplifted.

"Maud," he said, in a vexed way "what does this mean?"

"Have you forgotten so quickly," she answered lightly, "that the Wilvertons' ball was to-night? I told you this morning Mrs. Leighton had offered to call for me, and, using me home again. Don't you remember?"

"I remember something you seem to have forgotten," was the cold reply, "that is, that did not and do not wish you to go to this ball. Those Wilvertons are not fit people for you to associate with; of that I am certain. The town is full of rumors against them, and I predict you will find but very few decent people there to-night."

"What nonsense you are talking!" she said genuinely surprised now. "Why, I know there are plenty of the best people going. I have scarcely met one who has declined the invitation."

"That may be," was the quiet reply, "but many men who have heard as much, and more than I have, will change their minds ere night and keep themselves and their families away. Those who do go will be sorry for it, I am very sure."

"What terrible things have you heard! I should like to know?" she asked, half convinced.

"Only rumors, I own," he answered; "but they are bad enough. There was never so much smoke without a little fire, I."

Mrs Alison interrupted him, with blazing eyes. "Rumors, indeed! You need say no more. I do not believe one word of it all, and I shall go. That is decided."

"But Maud"—

"I don't wish to hear any more. I am going."

And she went—went with Mrs. Leighton when she called for her—went with a smiling face and an angry rebellious heart.

The Wilvertons greeted her with effusion. But there were very few of her set present, and somehow the atmosphere seemed a different one from what she had been accustomed to. There were a number of strangers present, ladies and gentlemen. The former did not impress her favorably, and the latter seemed rather demonstrative in their devotions to the fairer sex. Mr. Wilverton made her uncomfortable, moreover, with his persistent attentions; and altogether she was not sorry when Mrs. Leighton proposed returning home. They went early, and most of their particular set followed in their wake—those, at least, who had not gone before.

Very little conversation passed between Mr. and Mrs. Alison that night—very little for some days thereafter. He considered himself justly aggrieved, and was indignant accordingly. She felt herself in the wrong, was too proud to own it, and was miserable in consequence.

Meanwhile the whispers against the Wilvertons increased in number and importance. It began to be generally conceded that there was something wrong about them; and people who had taken them up on trust were gradually dropping their acquaintance. Mrs. Alison, however, prided herself upon being no summer friend, and her intimacy with the Wilvertons seemed in no wise diminished; seemed, I say, for she was growing to dislike them both, as she saw more and more of them. Mrs. Wilverton's dashing ways seemed coarse now, and no words could tell how she was growing to loathe the man, who grew more bold and outspoken in his admiration of her each day.

But the end was very near.

Mr. Alison came up to dinner one evening in a half-subdued tremor of excitement.

"Maud, dear, I have news for you," he said, striving to speak calmly, but failing signally in the attempt.

Mrs. Alison looked up a little surprised at the "dear," which had fallen from his lips but rarely since that unfortunate ball, but, truth to tell, rather glad to hear it again.

"What is it?"

"It's about the Wilvertons. You see," he went on hurriedly, "there's been, as you know, a great deal of talk about them lately—more, perhaps, than you are aware of—and people haven't scrupled to call them adventurers, if not swindlers. It seems they are even worse than that."

"What?" cried Mrs. Alison, sharply.

"Criminals! At least, the man is. He was arrested this morning by a detective from London, who has been on his track for some time. His very boldness in coming here and launching out in the style he has, under an assumed name, and with all the appearance of great wealth, had thrown the police off the scent for a little while. But they've got him now, and he's safe for a twenty years' term at Portland Island at least."

"What has he done?" asked Mrs. Alison.

"Perhaps you will recognize his real name as Willis"—

"The notorious bank robber?"

"The same."

Mrs Alison did not speak for many minutes. Then she remembered that she had been—or had tried to be—a friend to Mrs. Wilverton. She should not desert her now that so terrible a sorrow had fallen upon her.

"Will you ring the bell for Lucy?" she said to her husband, very quietly. "I want my bonnet and shawl. I am going to see Mrs. Wilverton. She ought not to be left to bear this trouble alone, and I know of no one who will go to her now."

Mr. Alison stared, amazed. Even he had never realized half the real nobility that, despite her faults, was inherent in his wife's nature. She had risen now, and was standing, very pale and still, by the table. He went to her and put his arms around her, and drew her head down to his breast.

"My noble Maud," was all he said.

She clung to him, sobbing.

"Oh, Fred—you do forgive me for treating you so badly the other night?" she pleaded. "I'm so sorry now."

"I need forgiveness, too, darling, for having been sullen," he answered earnestly, "and we will both forget and forgive. Shall it not be so?"

She lifted her face and kissed him softly.

"And poor Mrs. Wilverton, Fred? Will you not go with me to see her? I do not like her really, though I have tried to; but I cannot leave her to bear this alone."

Mr. Alison held his wife in a close clasp.

"I had not told you all, dear," he said. "There is no Mrs. Wilverton—or Willis, as her name would be, if she had any right to bear the name of the man she has lived with all these months—and who, if report says true, ruined himself, and committed the robbery to gratify her extravagant demands."

"Fred!" Mrs. Alison's face grew very pale—"you don't mean that she"

"Was not his wife," he answered sternly.

It was a severe lesson, not only to Mrs Alison, but to the people of Bolton, who had admitted these people into their society without question, simply because of the lavish display of wealth they made, and it is safe to say a thoroughly effectual one.

Moreover, there are very few differences of opinion between Mr. and Mrs. Alison nowadays.

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only Lightness Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete Body Battery. It has an independent battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.
Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.
Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you want to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Municipal Jobbery.

There is more than reasonable ground to suppose that there will be unearthed a large amount of jobbery and corruption in connection with the school buildings addition and the street railway franchise. Died at the Hospital.

Mr. Wm. Holland, son of Mr. Richard Holland, Sherbrooke street, died at the Nicholls Hospital this morning after an illness with typhoid fever of about two months' duration. Deceased was 25 years of age and a much respected young man in the community. He was an active worker in the Y.M.C.A. and a leading spirit in the band. He was also a member of Lansdowne Lodge of the Sons of England. The funeral takes place to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock from the hospital.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J. Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

A Case of Co-operation.

What one may not accomplish, the united effort of many will effect. The excursion on Civic Holiday to Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo is an instance of the benefit of a combined effort To go singly the trip would cost $7. The excursion will go over the C.P.R., and by steamer from Toronto to Lewiston, and by rail to the Falls and Buffalo. The Falls present a scene of grandeur and never appeared to better advantage. Look at the following rates:—

To Niagara Falls	adults,	2 00.

THE BOARD ABETS THE BY-LAW.

The Paterson-Corbin Car-works Bylaw Endorsed.

Remarks in Support of its Claims to Adoption—Objections Suggested and Answered—A Resolution in Favour of the Bylaw Unanimously Adopted.

At a special meeting of the Board of Trade convened in the council chamber on Wednesday night to consider the by-law, giving aid to the Paterson & Corbin company, street railway manufacturers, there were present Messrs. W. H. Meldrum, president in the chair, J. H. Burnham, W. H. Moore, H. A. Mulhern, Geo. B. Sproule, J. P. Hurley, R. McWhinnie, Harry Phelan, W. J. Milsore, W. G. Bain, W. Fitzgerald, Rev. J. C. Davidson and A. V. B. Young.

After routine Mr. Meldrum mentioned that the meeting was called to consider the by-law as specified above. He understood that there was some opposition to it He considered its defeat would be a misfortune, especially as, in view of the great advantages to be gained by its adoption, the annual expense for thirty years was only $315 per year, interest, and sinking fund.

MR. DUMBLE said he believed that if the town gave bonuses, the parties enjoying the benefit of the bonus should only have possession of property and not ownership. Then in case of failure of any certain company, the buildings would remain in the possession of the town and be available for the use of some other company. He believed the factory was worthy of encouragement, and if they deserved encouragement in their infancy, how much more would they do in a developed state? In addition to the intrinsic value of the establishment to the town, the encouragement offered by the Edison Company, would help the new company very largely to become more prosperous. He pointed out that the town was in a good financial position and that the present was a crucial time in the history of the town. If we get the name of being a manufacturing centre, others would be attracted and our future manufacturing supremacy would come of itself. He believed that the presence of the manufactories resulted in an increased assessment which would cover the expense which these manufactories had imposed upon the town. Practically the South Ward, with its increased taxable value of new buildings erected, paid the expense the manufactories meant to the town. If Peterborough kept in the lead in the race for securing manufactories, it would have to adopt a somewhat

LIBERAL POLICY OF ENCOURAGEMENT.

Our own local advantages would not avail without adventitious assistance. He only believed in assistance to manufactories insofar as it would decide the balance between this and some other site. He could not understand why the application for exemption from taxation of Mr. Wm. Hamilton has not received different treatment—at least the courtesy of an answer—from that it had received from the town council. He went on to show how well entitled that firm was to support, and repeated the arguments he had advanced to show the wisdom of the town assisting the location of the Paterson & Corbin car works in town. He, therefore, moved, seconded by Mr. Sproule, that, in the opinion of the Board, the by-law, now before the ratepayers for their approval—granting $6,000 towards the erection of buildings to be used for car work—and offering exemption from taxation for ten years, is worthy of the hearty support of the ratepayers of this town.

In regard to the reference to the exemption of Mr. Wm. Hamilton, mentioned by Mr. Dumble, Mr. MOORE explained that his application was for a bonus to extend a business which was already in operation. The Council would have no objection to assist a new industry, but it could not see its way clear to assisting an established business.

Mr. J. H. BURNHAM explained that he had an interview with Mr. Hamilton, and he had stated that the industry which he sought assistance for was a shingle mill manufactory, which he did not now carry on, but which would be a valuable adjunct to his business, and would develop into a large industry.

Mr. MELDRUM explained that the Council was willing to help Mr. Hamilton, but they felt that a bylaw to give a bonus of $6,000 could not be carried. He personally felt that a firm of the enterprise and energy of the William Hamilton Company should have every encouragement, and he was in favor of every encouragement being extended to the Hamilton Company.

Rev. J. C DAVIDSON, while expressing himself in favour of anything that would advance the material progress of the town, felt inclined to ask why new buildings should be erected, when there were vacant buildings upon the other side of the river, which were available. He simply asked for information. He pointed out that it had been stated to him that the result of an increase of population would be an increase in the price of living, rents, etc.

Mr. DUMBLE in reference to the last objection, said that it had been claimed for the N.P. that it would increase population and create a demand for produce, and the benefit would come to the producer and be reflected indirectly upon the community in general. In slow towns there was not enough enterprise to build new houses, and rents were higher in Port Hope than in Peterborough, because enterprise created competition in Peterborough and rents were kept down. Rents were cheaper in town now than when he (Mr. Dumble) came to Peterborough many years ago.

Mr. MOORE pointed out that there were no buildings in existence that would suit the Paterson & Corbin Company. They would at least require one building 100x200 feet, and another nearly as large. The company would require at least 5 acres of land. The council insisted upon the company keeping the buildings in good repair—keep them insured—keep employed hands enough to represent a weekly pay sheet of $300, and give bonds for the fulfilment of their engagement. Mr. Moore, satisfactorily answered to the suggested objections as to why the natural advantages of the town should not be sufficient inducement.

Mr. SPROULE pointed out that the amount spent in wages in a year by the Paterson & Corbin Company, would at 6 per cent. interest, yield $900 a year a circumstance which should be taken into account in considering the proposed by-law.

The motion was unanimously carried

Mr. Richard Gough, of the firm of Gough Bros., the Wonderful Cheap Man, was elected a member of the Board.

The Sawdust Case Concluded.

Judgment in the Case Withheld, the Law Having Been Complied With.

This morning the postponed sawdust case in which Fishery Inspector Gilchrist charged Mr. T. G. Hazlitt with suffering and permitting sawdust from his mill to enter the river contrary to the law, came on. Mr. Pousette appeared for Mr. Hazlitt. Inspector Gilchrist testified that on June 5th, he was in the vicinity of the mills and saw sawdust in the water and tracing it to its source found that it came from the mill. He said he saw a man scraping sawdust off an upper floor into the race-way. It was the small mill. He saw an endless chain carrier, which from defects (since repaired) allowed sawdust and refuse to drop into the water. He told the magistrate that it was not so much to secure the infliction of a penalty as to secure the observance of the statute that the charge was brought. He had noticed no new formations of sawdust in the lower part of the river, and so far as new causes were concerned, the sawdust nuisance was practically at an end. He further stated that any alterations or changes in the mill which he had suggested to the foreman had been promptly done, and Mr. Hazlitt added that he had given his foreman instructions to have the inspector's suggestions carried out, which had been done.

Mr. Dumble said that as there had been a substantial compliance with Mr. Gilchrist's directions, and as there was no evidence of wilful negligence on the part of Mr. Hazlitt—only carelessness on the part of a foreman—he did not feel disposed to inflict a penalty; he would prefer to allow the case to stand sub judice.

Mr. Gilchrist declined to withdraw the charge.

The magistrate decided that the law having been complied with he would withhold judgment, afterwards adding to Mr Gilchrist that it would not be worth while to inflict a fine which he felt sure under the circumstances the Government would afterwards remit.

Material and "Mechanical" Transformation.

Improvements and Additions to the Mechanic's Institute Premises—Painting, Paper-hanging and General Renovation—First Class Premises Now Ready for Occupation—Opened to the Public on Saturday.

On Saturday morning next the rejuvenated, enlarged and improved premises of the Mechanic's Institute will be ready for occupation, after the transformation that has been effected under the supervision of Dr. Burnham, chairman of the Board of Directors, and Mr. James English, chairman of the Property Committee. The outside of the building, which belongs to the Nicholls' estate, whose representatives are doing the work, has been repainted and brightened. The stairway leading to the rooms on the second floor has been rebuilt and the stairway walls and ceiling handsomely papered. The antiquated, small paned glass door at the head of the hallway stairs has been replaced with one of modern style, and the landing hall, treated to new paper on wall and ceiling and the woodwork repainted,

SIMILAR IMPROVEMENTS HAVE BEEN MADE to the reading room although the decorator seems to have specially exerted himself to do a fine piece of work. Opposite the reading room the library has also had its share of rejuvenation fresh paint and varnish, new wall and ceiling paper, and other little attentions. The old book cases have been removed giving more space and new shelving has been added. The library space has been increased by cutting a new door through the southern wall and annexing the room formerly used as a Board room for directors' meetings, this being transferred to another room further south. The new library room has been fitted up with new shelving, and other appliances necessary to make it first class in every respect, and the Board room is also bright and comfortable and completely equipped. Altogether the lower floor of the institute premises are vastly improved by the alterations and additions that have been made.

The stairway or hall leading to the next floor has been repapered, repainted and brightened with good effect. The top floor contains the class rooms, one in front and one in the rear. The front room is large, spacious, elegantly finished and admirably lighted. On this floor is also a large hall to serve the purposes of a lecture room.

The President and Mr. English have had a first-class job done, and the new premises—as one might in view of the decided improvement—call them, are worthy of being the local habitation of the important institution they shelter. The carpentery work necessary has been done by Mr. H. Stabler; the painting and paperhanging by Mr. Ralph Carton, and the shelving and finer work for the library and reading rooms was done by Mr. E. Courtney.

So great has been the transformation that habitues of the institute rooms will hardly recognize them when they visit them next Saturday, when they will feel that a vote of thanks is due to Dr. Burnham and Mr. English, to the representatives of the Nicholls estate, and, indeed, to all concerned.

The evils resulting from habitual costiveness are many and serious; but the use of harsh, drastic purgatives is quite as dangerous. In Ayer's Pills, however, the patient has a mild but effective aperient, superior to all others, especially for family use.

The A. C. A. Races.

Only One Day More of the Meet of 1891—Election of Officers.

PIGEON LAKE, July 29.—To-day's races were the sailing club races and upset paddling race. In the first Fraser won, with Jacques second, Roy Sweezy third, Archibald, Will Sweezy and Sparrow in the order named. The upset race was finished in this order:—Archibald, Jacques, Sparrow, Sweezy and Fraser.

The annual meeting of the Northern Division of the A.C.A. was held at Headquarters in the afternoon at three o'clock, all members in camp being present. The Commodore, Colonel Cotton, of Kingston, presided, and Mr. E. B. Edwards presented the report of the Nominating Committee. It recommended D. B. Jacques, commodore Toronto Canoe Club, for vice-commodore, William Sweezy, Royal Military College, for rear-commodore; and W. H. P. Watson, for purser. The committee named was D'Arcy Strickland, Lakefield, and R. Easton Burns, Cataraqui. On motion of W. G. Mackendrick, the nominations were made unanimous, and for form's sake one ballot was cast by Commodore Cotton, and all declared duly elected. The newly-elected officers were then called upon for the usual speeches.

An expression of opinion was called for regarding the next place of meeting. Will Mackendrick suggested Lake Couchiching, but it was finally decided that if the Central division held its meet at the Thousand Islands next year to abandon a Northern division meet and all join at the Central, as it would insure a greater number of canoeists being present and increase the interest in the races. A vote of thanks to Mr. Boyd, who so generously placed the island at the disposal of the division, was unanimously adopted. Votes of thanks to the retiring officers were next passed, and the meeting of ninety-one came to an end. The "hoe down," announced on the programme, came off in the general mess tent this evening, and every camper who could possibly attend was there.

No Cricket To-morrow.

The cricket match which was to have been played here to-morrow is declared off, Toronto club having as usual sent word that they cannot get up a team. The Toronto cricketers have broken more engagements with Peterborough than is consistent with gentlemanly conduct.

Civic Holiday.

On civic holiday the most magnificent excursion leaving town is going to Chemong, Bobcaygeon, Sturgeon Point and Lindsay, under the management of the C. M. B. Association, and all this day's amusement will cost is a dollar for the round trip Every comfort and convenience, splendid sail, immense scenery and lots of fresh air. The committee has secured a first class boat and palace scow—(the fastest boat on the northern waters). Good orchestra in attendance and dancing all the way around from Chemong to Lindsay. Make arrangements to take this in, for it is superior to any other excursion on above day, and don't make any mistake about it either. d25 26

Women Workers in Session.

A kind lady correspondent sends us the following interesting account of the semi-annual meeting of the W.F.M.S. of St. Andrew's Church, to which were invited all similar societies of the town. Mrs. Patou, president of the society occupied the chair and the church choir led the singing very acceptably. Mrs. Dr. Hunter of the Baptist church read a well prepared essay on "Missions," which evinced careful thought and wide research. Mrs. Locke of George street Methodist Church, gave an address on woman's part and interest in this work and Mrs. Price of Charlotte street church read an account of "How Mrs. Smith was reached." The pastor, Rev. A. Mac Williams gave an earnest and practical address in the few minutes left him, emphasizing the great responsibility laid upon us all to engage in this work, and pointing out the fact that every Christian should, in a sense, be a missionary. At the close of his remarks he sang in good voice "Cast thy bread upon the waters." The reverend gentleman modestly disclaims the honors of a vocalist but nevertheless his singing is exceptionally fine. A most enjoyable and profitable evening was closed with the benediction by the pastor."

Don't be discouraged about that eczema till you have given Ayer's Sarsaparilla a persistent trial. Six bottles of this medicine cured the complaint for George S. Thomas, of Ada, Ohio, when all other remedies failed to afford any relief.

CHARMING CHEMONG PARK.

A Visit to the Beautiful Summer Resort.

Some Details Concerning Chemong Park—Only Six Miles From Peterborough, is one of the Finest Watering Places in Canada—A Few of the Advantages it Offers.

To me more dear, congenial to my heart,
One native charm, than all the gloss of art.

While the rest of the world is broiling and blistering under a meridian sun, the residents of Chemong Park are enjoying the balmy breezes and cool shade of this grand summer resort. The advantages of this romantic spot have but to be known to be appreciated, but the trouble is they are too little known. This difficulty, however, is gradually being overcome, and Chemong Park is acquiring more than a provincial reputation as a most delightful pleasure ground. It offers the combined advantages of first-class fishing, bathing, boating and driving, with splendid accommodation in either hotel or private lodge, easy access to Peterborough and every facility for complete enjoyment by those fond of the water. Chemong Park is beautifully blessed with an abundance of cool shade, the gentle slope being well wooded with fine large trees right to the edge of the sandy beach. And the scenery and natural environments are all that can be desired.

Ever charming, ever new,
When will the landscape tire the view.

A beautiful prospect of the Park and vicinity is obtainable from the top of the hotel, the view extending over a radius of ten or twelve miles. The park property is embowered in foliage, behind is a fertile farming country, in front a long wide stretch of water, which shows its glistening surface as far as the eye can reach. Chemong Park exactly meets the requirements of city people looking for a quiet, healthy watering place, where they may spend their vacation amidst natural surroundings and with the comforts and luxuries of civilization to enhance their enjoyment.

The new hotel is a credit to the park and to its enterprising proprietor. Mr. Fobert occupied it only a month ago, but to-day its capacity is taxed to the utmost, every room being filled with guests, and some having to content themselves with cots. Already additions to the building are contemplated, and if Chemong Park is patronized as it deserves to be, the hotel will soon be a mammoth structure. In its present condition the hotel is attractive and elegant. It presents an imposing appearance being built of brick, three stories high, with mansard roof, and two broad balconies running around the front and side. It is finished and furnished in keeping with the exterior. On the ground floor, which is finished in oak and ash, there is the general office, a fine dining room, the bar room, a writing and reading room, and wash-room and closets. The dining-room contains half-a-dozen tables, and here, as elsewhere throughout the house,

THE APPOINTMENTS ARE NEW AND HANDSOME.

On the second floor are two cosy sitting-rooms, a number of sleeping apartments, closets, a bath with hot and cold water, etc. At the end of the hall, over the dining-room, is a smooth-floored ball-room 22x32 in which guests can hold dances at their pleasure. This flat is carpeted throughout with Brussels. The third story is devoted entirely to bed-rooms, of which there are twenty-three in the house, all light and airy, and well furnished. A cottage close by the hotel, containing four rooms, is also used as a dormitory for guests. In the third flat are situated the tanks which supply the house with hard and soft water. The water is pumped up by a windmill from the beach, where there is both spring and lake water side by side.

In the basement is the well-stocked wine cellar, and the furnaces which heat the building with hot air.

The hotel throughout is elegantly fitted out, and when the work of beautifying the grounds is finished there will be no handsomer summer hotel property in Canada. Mr. Fobert, the genial host, conducts the house in the best style and at most reasonable rates. He is ably assisted by Mr. Kyott, formerly of the Walker House, Toronto, who thoroughly understands his business.

Chemong Park has a great future before it. It was his firm faith in the place, backed by the ability to properly boom it, that has enabled Mr. Alex. Elliott to make the Park what it is. Now that it has been fairly launched the Park will into public favor. There are at present about forty guests in the hotel and 100 more distributed amongst the various lodges. Mr. Fobert expects to do a good winter trade as well; half a dozen rooms have already been engaged for the cold season by parties who intend to spend the winter there.

The grounds are supplied with almost every convenience. There is a fine large pavilion on the lake shore for dancing or promenading, with a store and refreshment booth attached. The Ontario Telephone Company's line runs from Peterborough into the hotel and to several of the cottages. Roads are being made through the grove. A drive through the shady avenues is delightful. There is every facility also for boating, Messrs. Rackham and Westlake having canoes and skiffs to hire. As yet the only public means of reaching the park is a 'bus conveyance managed by Mr. R. N. Scott, whose three-in-hand supplies the requirements very well at present. It is only the matter of a short time when the railway line will be extended the present terminus to the Park. This is a much-needed convenience and must soon be obtained.

Chemong park has acquired a local reputation as a charming picnic ground. More picnics and excursions have the park for their destination than any other place in this district. They come from Campbellford, Port Hope, Lindsay and all sides to this beautiful spot, which possesses unexcelled advantages for an outing.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla. It had cured his wife of dyspepsia. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

SMUGGLING INCREASING.

Wholesale Demoralization in Parishes Below Quebec.

QUEBEC, July 29.—It is now ascertained that the schooner Marguerite, which was seized lately at Trinity Bay for smuggling, was but a decoy to allow another vessel loaded with a valuable cargo to get away. The quantity of liquor seized is small, and the barrels show signs of having travelled from Illinois via Boston, Mass., to St. Pierre Miquilon. The Marguerite is an old trap, leaking like a basket. She could not have sailed from so remote a distance, and must have picked up her whiskey in some lonely creek down the St. Lawrence.

The smuggling business is on the increase in the lower St. Lawrence and it threatens to take enormous proportions. Parishes which had been noted for the sobriety of the inhabitants are now the centres of turbulence and of hellish depravity, in spite of the superhuman efforts of the cures to bring back their flock to better principles. There is over $1,000,000 engaged in illicit whiskey trading both in the maritime provinces and the lower provinces of Quebec principally.

The Canadian Chautauqua.

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, July 30.—Yesterday was "Recognition Day" here at the Canadian Chautauqua, the day set apart specially to do honor to those who followed through the course of four years' study required by the Chautauqua literary and scientific circles. Addresses were delivered by Mrs. Kimball, of Buffalo, the secretary of the whole C. L. S. C., who presented the diplomas to the graduates: Mr. Wm. Houston, of Toronto: Mr. Wm. McEwan Presbyterian minister at Lakefield, and others. In the evening a goodly number gathered about a huge camp fire and listened to very nice exercises in connection with the commencement.

A Fatal Fall.

CARDINAL, Ont., July 30.—Yesterday afternoon while Mr. William Wright, an employe of the Edwardsburg Starch Company, was engaged in piling lumber in the company's yard he fell from a pile 25 feet high, breaking his neck and causing death instantly. The deceased, who was highly respected in this village, leaves a wife and four sons, with whom the people deeply sympathize.

Another Drowning Accident.

PORT ELGIN, Ont., July 30.—Harold Heller, George McLachlan, Bertha Chapman and Dora Balkwell went for a sail in a small boat They had not gone far when the boat began to fill with water, became unmanageable and finally sank. Heller and Bertha Chapman were drowned. McLachlan clung to the boat and supported Miss Balkwell until assistance arrived.

LOW-NECKED GOWNS

Get German Roman Catholic Priests Into Serious Trouble.

BERLIN, July 30.—For the second time this year a Catholic priest has been prosecuted for lese Majeste, the particular offence of both priests being their persistent instructions to their congregations to remove all portraits representing the majestic Empress Dowager or the reigning Empress in low-neck dresses from the walls of their houses. A well-known picture of the Empress Frederick was found in the possession of the first priest, who had confiscated it on the ground of indecency. The clergyman was fined and warned not to repeat the offence. In the case of his brother priest, who has just been sentenced to a much more severe penalty, the particular picture against which he had fulminated his anathema was a print of the reigning Empress Augusta, who is noted for her moderation in the matter of decolete gowns. His Reverence finds nobody willing to make excuses for him. It is said that the Emperor desired that a severe sentence should be inflicted, and intimated that every loyal Prussian should have at least one room adorned with portraits of himself and his consort in their State robes, which in the case of women, are very low cut. The German taste in dresses was well illustrated last week at the wedding of the daughter of General Von Gottberg to Major Oertzen, of the Second Lancers. The bride, who is extremely handsome, wore a gown of the usual white silk, with a lace corsage, decidedly low cut. Her seven bridesmaids reflected all the colors of the rainbow. One was in white, two in pink, two in blue, one in red and one in green. They made a dazzling show.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the baby's cradle and add hold them when he was taken up; and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. E. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Increase over 1889	75,649 05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961 65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64,824 07

A RAILWAY LAND GRANT

THE PRIVILEGES AND ELECTIONS COMMITTEE ENQUIRY.

Quebec Harbor Commissioner Dobell Testifies for the Defence, but His Evidence Does not Seem to Be Very Favorable to That Behalf.

OTTAWA, July 31. In the House yesterday Mr. Rowell's bill respecting the Interprovincial Railway to consolidate the bookkeeping of all its branches was read a third time and passed.

Mr Tupper moved that it is expedient to pass an act respecting the shipping of live stock and to provide that the Governor in Council may appoint inspectors under the said act and determine the remuneration to be paid them out of the fees which the Governor in Council may establish to be paid on live stock shipped in any ships carrying live stock. After considerable discussion the resolution was adopted and a bill founded on it introduced. The speed allowed to shipping is two feet eight inches.

Mr. Dewdney moved a resolution to grant 800 acres a mile to the Red Deer Valley Railway Coal Company for 75 miles. It was discovered that Mr. Charlebois, contractor for the Langevin block was the chief manager of the company. This led to a strong attack on him and his company by Mr. Mulock, Mr. Laurier and others. The resolution was carried after a long discussion and a bill introduced founded on it.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES AND ELECTIONS.

Senator McInnes of British Columbia gives notice that when the bill to amend the Dominion Controverted Elections Act, now before the Commons, is before the Senate he will move to add a clause exempting the various classes of persons who shall not take part in election campaigns as canvassers, speakers or otherwise. Those he would put under the ban are the members of the civil service, all employees of the Executive Government in the Northwest Territories, all employees of the Senate, House of Commons and Library of Parliament, the Auditor General and all officers, clerks and messengers of all the civil and criminal courts in Canada. His amendment provides for the punishment of any offender by a fine not to exceed $500 or imprisonment not to exceed six months.

THE PROSECUTION IS CLOSED

And the Defence is Begun in the Latter-McGreevy Enquiry.

OTTAWA, July 31. At the meeting of the Privileges and Elections Committee yesterday Mr. Henry suggested that Mr Richard Dobell, one of the Quebec Harbor Commissioners, should be examined, as he was in the city. Mr Robert McGreevy, whose cross-examination was not concluded, said that he was not going to be shunted off to the side track again and said that if his examination was not concluded he would go home. Upon the matter being decided that the examination of Mr. McGreevy should be gone on with and in this way Robert gained his point. Mr. Stewart conducted the cross-examination. He filed various cheques belonging to Mr. McGreevy some of the committee thought had no relevancy to the subject under inquiry.

Mr. Choquette. They want to use them in the Quebec case.

Mr. Stewart. You have no right to make such a statement, because it is not true.

Mr. Davies objected strongly to counsel addressing members of the committee in this way.

Mr. Choquette. We are accustomed to such conduct in Quebec courts and pay no attention to it.

Mr. Fitzpatrick said that it was intended to show that of the $75,000 alleged to be paid to Sir Hector Langevin through Mr. Thomas McGreevy, $10,000 was kept between Mr. Murphy and Mr. Robert McGreevy. Certain items were shown witness in his cash book, and he said that not one of them came from the $45,000 mentioned.

Mr Stewart. Where did this money come from?

Witness. It is none of your business.

The chairman said that witness ought to endeavor to show where the money came from.

Witness. The item for instance of $2,000 came from the contract of the St. Charles branch of the Intercolonial Railway.

In reply to Mr. Ouimet, witness said this contract was not in his name, but he was the only one interested.

Mr Osler then took the witness in hand and asked him why he was connected with the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. when he bought no capital or did no work.

Witness. I think I did substantial work.

Mr. Osler. Just tell the committee why it was you were connected with the work.

Witness. To make money out of it.

Mr. Osler. No doubt of that, but just tell the reasons.

Witness. It was better for Larkin, Connolly & Co. that I should.

Mr. Osler. But, then, no one would throw away 50 per cent of this work for nothing.

Witness. I was there to occupy my time and make money.

Mr. Osler. You were not seen about the works, and why there?

Witness. I was there to make money. I also relied on my brother Thomas to do what he could to help the work along in getting changes from the Government, and so increasing the profits of the firm.

Mr. Osler. How much was Thomas McGreevy to get?

Witness—It was understood that he was to get something, but no definite understanding was arranged.

Mr. Osler—Was there any understanding as to what Thomas was to do for you?

Witness—It was understood that it was by his influence, owing to his position as a member of Parliament, that we were getting these contracts and changes in the works.

Mr. Osler—Were there words between you to that effect?

Witness—Yes, there were.

Mr. Osler—Would you be in the firm but for the influence of Thomas McGreevy?

Witness—I don't think I would.

Mr. Osler—What were you to pay Thomas McGreevy?

Witness. It was understood. He was to get one-half of what I was to get.

Examined as to the various donations in the books of the firm, witness said he knew of none except those given to Mr. Thomas McGreevy. He also knew of the $10,000 said to be given by Nicholas Connolly to Sir Hector Langevin. Looking over the list of those donations he said he also knew of the sums given to Messrs. Foote and Boyd and also to the Jacques Cartier monument shown an item in his account to Mr. Thomas McGreevy written by himself. 180,000 yards added by Boyd, witness said that this meant that there was an additional 180,000 yards to be done in connection with the dredging.

Mr Osler pointed out that the way in which item was put in was suggestive that no amount of work was actually done by Mr. Boyd without its being done. Mr. Boyd was resident engineer. He said there was nothing improper on the part of Mr. Boyd in the words were taken from a report of Mr. Peters which was given Thomas McGreevy.

Thomas McGreevy appeared before the committee this morning and was examined with reference to the books and papers he had produced. These are of the usual meagre description. He said that he had kept no regular books of account of recent years. He said that he had received a great many letters from Sir Hector Langevin, but had destroyed them all because he did not want them to become public. He swore that he had no letters from Sir Hector in his possession. His other private letters, he said, were stolen when in Ottawa. He lived in Sir Hector's house and kept his letters in a private drawer to which Sir Hector also had access, but it was not Sir Hector who took them.

The Defence.

The first witness called for the defence was E. P. Dobell, a member of the Quebec Harbor Commission since 1870. His evidence could not have given much satisfaction to the defence. Mr. Henry found his witness getting into deeper and deeper water, and finally brought his examination to an abrupt conclusion. He said it was not until about 18 months or two years after the signing of the contract that he became aware that Robert McGreevy was a member of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. He brought the matter up at the next meeting of the board. Thomas McGreevy denied emphatically and with considerable anger that his brother was in the firm. He accepted Thomas' statement and found it to be a fact that Robert was a member only when the present disclosures were made. He did not know that Thomas McGreevy ever did anything improper in connection with the works. He had no suspicion of anything wrong except when the dredging contract was awarded, then he protested vigorously. The price, 35 cents, was too high. His suspicion was that the work was forced upon them. The dredging could have been done much lower. The commission, as a body, decided after the first $100,000 contract that no more should be done, but in spite of this the contractors went on and got paid. It appeared from the minutes of the board that Mr. Boyd had made motions in July, 1886, August, 1886, and September, 1886, against allowing any more material to be dumped in the river. The motions were always carried unanimously, and never by the contractors' solitary vote.

To Mr Fraser witness said he had a business interest in the Quebec Harbor Improvement, because he had contributed $7,000 to sustain a war for the past 25 years to those works, being one-tenth of 1 per cent. on his exports and imports tonnage.

To Mr Edgar witness said he objected to seven cents a yard for dumping into the river, because it was too high and because they had already objected to dumping ballast into the river. He thought 25 cents was a reasonable figure for the material dumped into the embankment. If he had known that the contractors were paid an additional 15 cents, making 40 cents in all, for dumping into the embankment he would have objected. He would not have approved of it. It was only paid 40 cents into the world not what every one present would say that the contractors were getting far too much.

To Mr. Ouimet he said that it was the duty of the engineer to have reported to the commission that the contractors were getting this extra 45 cents. It was not right. It was the duty of the engineer to have reported that this sort of thing was going on.

To Mr Edgar he said he never knew a man so thoroughly acquainted with every detail as Sir Hector Langevin.

To Mr. Amyot he admitted that he thought Sir Hector must have known that the firm was getting this extra 45 cents to which they were not entitled.

Mr Ouimet: Has Hon Thomas McGreevy much influence in Quebec?

Mr Dobell: I don't think he should. I don't think he has much influence in Quebec today. [Laughter.]

To Mr Ouimet he said that what he meant by saying that the dredging was forced upon them was that the Government members of the board allowed the dredging. The board would pass resolutions unanimously that no more dredging should be dumped into the river, but it was always continued. He regards Mr. Valin, the chairman, as utterly incapable, but he was kept in his position for 10 years by the Government, and Valin himself even said the Government was going to make him a senator.

Joseph Lachance, who is said to have carried $5000 from Larkin, Connolly & Co. to Sir Hector Langevin a few days before the election in Three Rivers, February, 1887, gave a complete denial of the story.

SIR HECTOR LANGEVIN SAID TO HAVE A SURPRISE TO DEAL

His Opponents When He Takes the Stand Two Prominent Liberal Members May be Pilloried—W. T. R. Preston, the Liberal Organizer Suing the Montreal Gazette for Libel.

OTTAWA, July 31.—It was confidently stated in Conservative circles here last night that when Sir Hector Langevin takes the stand early next week his evidence will be the most startling thing that has yet been laid before the committee. Two prominent members of the Liberal party will be seriously compromised thereby.

AN ACTION FOR LIBEL.

The Montreal Gazette stated yesterday that Mr. Preston, the Liberal organizer, had attempted to bribe Conservative members to vote with the Liberals in the vote on the Budget debate. Preston, it is stated, to-night will take an action for criminal libel against Fred Williams, correspondent of The Gazette.

The article to which Mr. Preston objects reads: "The Liberals, taking their cue from the Globe, were confident previous to the division that they would materially reduce the Government's majority and they held high carnival in Number six between midnight and dawn. Afterwards they crept into their little holes again and to-day are as mild as any suckling dove. The party managers had not spared any efforts to secure their aims. If common rumor can be believed Sir Richard's Man Friday, Mr. W. T. R. Preston, and others of that ilk, did not hesitate at attempts to seduce several of their opponents by direct offers of cash and other considerations if they would vote against the Government. All their efforts were, however, futile.

A MURDER OF LONG AGO.

Further Inquiry Into Who Owned the Headless Body of Horse Island.

WIARTON, July 31.—Further enquiry into the discovery of the human remains found on Fitzwilliam, familiarly called Horse Island, reveals the fact that the Island undoubtedly lies in the Algoma district, therefore the authorities of Bruce have no power to move in the matter. The body had evidently lain there for some years past, as it was reduced to a skeleton, the skin being dried up and shrivelled. There was nothing found near the remains which would give the slightest clue as to the identity of the deceased. The clothes were evidently of fine texture, but crumbled when touched. The remains of an abdominal truss lay along side the skeleton. The skull was missing and this is the strange part of the affair. Some people account for it by surmising that some wild animals discovered the remains and managed to carry the head away. The body was in a rough box and several boards and stones thrown over it, and as there is no possibility of digging a grave at that spot it is thought that the parties who placed it there considered it was a sufficient burial under the circumstances. The general opinion is that a crime was committed, but by whom and when will probably never be known.

Vice-President Shaughnessy Quiets Rumors in a Sarcastic Way.

MONTREAL, July 31.—Sensational despatches have recently appeared in various papers throughout the country regarding the alleged proposals for the amalgamation of the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railway systems. Vice-President Shaughnessy of the C.P.R. has undertaken to give the quietus to these rumors by the following sarcastic communication, which he has addressed to George Harris, the American director of the C. P. R.: "Montreal, Que., July 28, 1891.—I have been tied down here since Mr. Van Horne left for England, but Mr. Kirkpatrick and I have decided to pay you a visit in the near future, a week or ten days, for the purpose of considering the desirability of acquiring all the rest of the roads in New England or perhaps in the United States, so that the whole thing may be closed up in a newspaper paragraph."

Hamilton Gamblers Raided.

HAMILTON, July 31.—Sergeant Prentice at the head of a squad of officers and men paid a visit to the Globe Hotel, Nos. 101 and 103 King street east, at about 12 o'clock. They went up two flights of stairs, and entering a room were in the midst of a very much alarmed crowd of men, young and old. The room was had out with tables and a game had been going on before the police ruthlessly disturbed it. The red, white and blue chips and the poker deck were there. When the police entered there was a rush. Some made for the windows, others for the door, which they found well guarded. The police gathered them all in, and at the Police Court yesterday the magistrate fined Simpson, the keeper of the dive, $70 or two months in Central Prison and each of the others $20 or two months. Of the $395 imposed in fine $295 was paid before 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

An Eagle Fights a Man.

BELLEVILLE, July 31. Mrs. Sidney Davis, who resides on the front of Sidney, had a rather unpleasant experience yesterday with an eagle. Whilst at his boathouse, armed with a shotgun, a very large bird, soaring high overheard which Mr. Davis supposed to be a gull was fired at and fell into the water with a broken wing. The waves washed the bird into shallow water, whence it waded to shore. Mr. Davis seized the "gull," but found himself in the talons of a bald eagle, which, with "tooth, claw and mud-scraper," made it very warm for its assailant. After a severe struggle the man proved the conqueror, but it was a dearly purchased victory, for Mr Davis' trousers were badly torn and one of his legs had sustained some painful wounds. The eagle will be stuffed as a memento of its slayer's dearly-bought victory.

Attempted Murder in Muskoka.

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont., July 31. Oliver Gammon has been committed to gaol on a charge of attempting to murder Mrs. Waters, wife of Francis Waters, a farmer in the township of Medora. The parties reside on the peninsula between lakes Rosseau and Joseph. Mrs. Waters went to a clearance to turn some cattle away and fix up the fence knocked down by them, when she heard a shot fired at her. She says that when she turned to go away, she was confronted by the prisoner, at about 5 or 6 rods distance, who fired another shot at her, which she felt whizz past her head. The prisoner at the same time saying, "I will kill you!" Her husband subsequently found her lying across a log, when she told him she had been shot.

THE MOB DANCED

AND THE TROOPS WERE CALLED TO QUELL THE STRIKERS.

But the Task Was Not Accomplished Until There Was Considerable Destruction of Property and the Cavalry Had Injured Many Persons.

TOULOUSE, July 31.—The strike of employes of the horse car railroads here has assumed serious proportions. The strikers today demolished the kiosks on the principal thoroughfares and tried to destroy the tracks of the horse car roads. Later the strikers gathered large quantities of wreckage into heaps and set fire to them, making huge bonfires around which they danced and shouted in triumph. Finally the situation became so alarming that the municipal authorities called upon the General in Command of the military division of Toulouse to send troops to their assistance. The general promptly sent a strong force of dragoons, which quickly cleared the streets of rioters and others. During the charge made by the cavalry many people were injured and a number of arrests were made. The cavalry now occupy all points of vantage along the boulevards, while infantry and police are guarding the other main thoroughfares and the public buildings.

Russia and the Jews.

BOSTON, July 31.—The Russian Jews who arrived on the steamer Norseman yesterday have pitiful stories to relate of the cruelties perpetrated upon them by the Russians. One lad said he came from Slabotky. The Jews of his town were ordered to vacate their houses and betake themselves away, no matter where, inside of three days. The much harrassed and maddened Jews set fire to all their property and burned it rather than have it fall into the hands of their enemies. The Russians, enraged at this, set upon the refugees and maltreated them by every means in their power. One man was suspended by his wrists from a telegraph post, where he hung for two hours. All the families who had burned their houses were arrested and convicted and sentenced to Siberia. Others told harrowing stories of atrocities practiced upon the race by the Russian soldiery. It has become a common saying in parts of Russia, "Kill a few and pay 30 roubles."

An Extraordinary Mission Commission.

ROME, July 31.—The Holy See has just appointed an extraordinary commission of cardinals to recognize the Catholic missions. The Pope has always been in favor of missions taking a leading part in the work of colonization. The inquiry of the commission will, it is said, extend over the whole of the apostolic works. It is stated that inquiries are still being made and instructions sent to the prelates of all countries to encourage Catholics to do their utmost towards ameliorating the condition of the poor and affecting the social reforms urged in the Pope's encyclical.

FRIDAY, JULY 31, 1891.

THE CASE IN BRIEF.

The works constructed by Larkin, Connolly & Co. were the Quebec harbor improvements, the Levis graving dock and the graving dock at Esquimalt.

The actual cost of these works was $2,184 000

The cost to the country was $3 137,000,

Leaving the contractors's gains $953,000 or over 40 per cent on the actual cost.

Of this $953 000, the contractors were paid as salaries $48 000 and as profits $735,000 whilst their "donations" came to $170 000

Uncle Robert received the largest individual share of the profits. He did not put a dollar of capital in any of the works. He is Uncle Thomas' brother.

Uncle Thomas is an M.P. Is Sir Hector's intimate. Was the treasurer of Sir Hector's bribery fund for the Quebec district.

The officials who allowed the firm to make 40 per cent. profit on cost were :

(a) Sir Hector, the Minister —Large sums were paid by the firm to this gentleman's bribery funds, to his newspapers, and, according to Murphy, to himself in person.

(b) Mr. Perley, Chief Engineer—Confesses to having accepted $2,000 worth of jewels from the firm.

(c) Leforce Langevin, Acting Superintendent—Admits having borrowed money from the contractors which has not been repaid.

(d) Braun, Fellatier, Germain, } Government Inspectors of Works. All bribed.

"We challenge the Department of Public Works," said the Chapleau[t] pamphlet in 1886, "to show a solitary contract which has been executed within recent years according to the condition first laid down. Repair funds are kept going and those who feed them find ample compensation for their apparent sacrifices. But the works cost from 20 to 30 per cent, more than their real value, and, no proper check being placed upon the contractors, are badly built with material of poor quality. A work badly built is a work to be rebuilt, and a work to be rebuilt means a fresh opportunity for replenishing the reptile funds and filling the partisans." Since 1879, when Sir Hector began his second term as Minister of Public Works—he filled the post prior to 1873—there has been expended by his department on construction account over $20,000,000 for canals, $10 000 000 for public buildings, and $12 000,000 for other public works, or $42 000 000 in all, exclusive of the outlays on maintenance, repairs, staff, etc. How much of this has gone to thieves or into reptile funds?—Globe.

THE COST OF PROTECTION

A correspondent has recently written to the effect that in the case of import duties imposed for the protection of home manufactures or produce, the cost to the nation is only the sum collected by the Government from the importers, thus leaving out of the account the enhancement of prices and profits all round. This is a common belief among unreflecting people, but a few facts will show how erroneous it is. Recent discussions in the French Chamber of Deputies, together with the ascertained results of increased import duties in France, throw a strong light upon the subject, and prove conclusively that what a Government actually receives in the shape of protectionist duties, is only a moderate proportion of the sum actually paid by the people in respect thereof. In France the import duty on wheat was until recently equal to about $1 10 per quarter, but in consequence of the deficient harvest this was lately reduced to about 65 cents per quarter for one year only. The consumption for food is reckoned at about twenty-five millions of quarters, and at 65 cents per quarter the enhanced cost to the consumers would be about $16,250 000, although the Government receives only a small proportion of that sum. The French Government has also increased the import duties on live animals and dead meat, and the Minister of War has in consequence demanded an additional sum of $1 000 000 to pay the increased price of meat for the army cause by the new duties. As the strength of the French army is about 500 000 men, this shows that the increased price of meat resulting from another turn of the protectionist screw equals $1 78 per head per annum. Reckoning at this rate for only one third of the 38 000,000 of French people, this will involve an increased annual outlay of $22,546,000. The additional duty received by the Government will not amount to one-fifth of that sum. M. Leon Say, who is one of the leading financial authorities of France, stated in the Chamber of Deputies that the duties proposed by the anti-protectionists, which were far in excess of the rates carried by the Government, would, in meat, wheat, and wine alone, yield in revenue $30 000,000, but would cost consumers an extra $160 000,000 by the rise in price of similar home products. The French protectionist tariff explains the fact pointed out by one of the consuls of the British Government, that bread is rather dearer in France than in England, although the former is one of the finest wheat-producing countries in the world. In times past many English families resided in France for the sake of cheapness of living, but now if people will live in England in the same manner that they would do in France, the former country is practically the cheaper of the two.—Mail.

THE GREAT PREACHER.

Rev. C. H. Spurgeon Apparently in a Dying Condition.

Charles Haddon Spurgeon was born at Kelvedon, Essex, June 19, 1834. He was educated at Colchester, Cambridge and elsewhere, and became usher in a school at Newmarket. Some of his relatives who were independents proposed that he should enter one of their colleges, but as he had adopted baptist views he joined the congregation which had been presided over by the late Robert Hall at Cambridge. He is now actively engaged in Christian work, at Feversham, near Cambridge. At the age of 16, he delivered his first sermon, and shortly afterward accepted an invitation to become pastor at Waterbeach. He now became a well-known character. The chapel at Waterbeach was filled, while crowds contented themselves with listening from the outside. Invitations to preach were sent from surrounding places. His fame reached London and he was offered the pastorate of the church meeting in New Park-street chapel in Southwark in which Dr. Rippon at one time preached. Mr. Spurgeon first preached before a London congregation in 1858 with so much success that ere two years had elapsed it was considered necessary to enlarge the building. alterations he officiated for four months in Exeter Hall. That large edifice was crowded and hundreds were turned away. The enlargement of the chapel in Park-street proved for a while sufficient, but hearers increased with such rapidity that it became expedient to engage the Surrey Music Hall. A lamentable accident occurred within its walls in October, 1861, and Mr. Spurgeon's followers determined to build a larger and more suitable edifice. The Metropolitan Tabernacle was opened in 1861 and has always been filled to overflowing It accomodates 6000 people. Mr. Spurgeon has published a sermon weekly since the first week of 1855; its circulation has averaged about 30,000 each issue, besides being reprinted in many English and American religious papers. Chief of the many other works he has published is "The Treasury of David," an exposition of the Psalms in seven volumes. The Stockwell Orphanage, founded by Mr. Spurgeon in 1867, has been repeatedly enlarged. The Pastor's Colleges, founded in 1856, has educated many hundreds of young men who are now pastors, missionaries, or evangelists in the Baptist denomination. The Metropolitan Tabernacle Colportage Association has some hundreds of agents occupying different portions of the country, who in addition to their services sell pure literature to the amount of many thousands of pounds a year. Mr. Spurgeon's book fund has supplied ministers of various denominations with hundreds of thousands of volumes free of cost. In 1879 Mr. Spurgeon received a silver wedding testimonial of £2000. In 1884, on his attaining the 50th year a similar sum was presented him. Mr. Spurgeon distributed the whole of these sums in charity. One-half to the endowment of the Tabernacle almshouses. Of late years Mr. Spurgeon has been a great sufferer from rheumatic gout and has generally spent the winter months in Mentone, France.

What's the Reason?

The causes of summer complaint, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera morbus, etc., are the excessive heat, eating green fruit, over-exertion, impure water and sudden chill. Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is an infallible and prompt cure for all bowel complaints from whatever cause.

Health, Happiness and Prosperity.

All these depend on pure blood, for without it health is impossible; without health happiness is impossible, and without happiness prosperity is a mockery. No means of obtaining pure blood and removing bad blood equals the use of B.B.B, the best blood purifier known.

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells for 50c. and $1 a package, and is called Lane's Family Medicine. dw

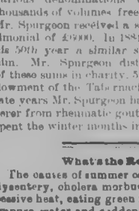
AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use. For the eruptive diseases peculiar to children nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.



"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla presents, for chronic diseases of almost every kind, the best remedy known to the medical world."—D. M. Wilson, M. D., Wiggs, Arkansas.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hore, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston Ont.,) Daily British Whig, June 27th 1891.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and herbs, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache, and is the best spring medicine. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a package. dw

THE OLD WORLD.

A Very Interesting Budget of Telegraphic News Boiled Down.

Mr. Spurgeon's condition is improved.

The Grand Duke of Mecklenburg is dying. His limbs are becoming paralyzed.

Mr. Gladstone returned to London today. He informed the mayor of Lowestoft that he felt much better.

Two Italians and one German have been arrested at Como, Lombardy, for sketching and securing plans of the forts of that city.

Edward Pinter, alias Sheeny Al, the Alchemist, charged with attempting to obtain $4000 from Edwin Streeter, the Bond-street jeweler, has been sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

There has been a great improvement in the farming prospects throughout India. There has been a good rain fall throughout the whole country, and the meteorological conditions show a further fall is imminent.

In the House of Commons yesterday, Lord George Hamilton, First Lord of the Admiralty referring to the visit of the French squadron to Portsmouth, said arrangements would be made on a commensurate scale to mark the exchange of international civilities.

The speeches aboard the Marengo at Cronstadt yesterday were very cordial. The French Admiral, Gervais, toasted the Czar, wishing him glory and longevity. The Russian admiral, Grand Duke Alexis, toasted the French admiral and the fleet under his command destined for fresh honors.

It is announced that the Queen has delayed her departure for Balmoral in order to visit the French squadron at Portsmouth. In the House of Commons to-day Lord George Hamilton First Lord of the Admiralty referring to the visit of the French squadron to Portsmouth, said arrangements would be made on a commensurate scale to mark the exchange of international civilities.

THE C. P. R. AND G. T. R.

The Truth of the Recent Rumors Concerning Them Denied.

London, Eng., July 30.—A statement which may be taken as authentic appears in the Canadian Gazette this week regarding the visit to this country of President Van Horne of the C. P. R. The gazette says: "The visit is mainly on personal grounds, and not one of the wonderful reasons for it given in the press has any foundation whatever. As to the rumor of union with the Grand Trunk, the interest of the two roads and Canada lies not in union, but in above-board rivalry."

Large Tobacco Factory Seizure.

Washington, July 30.—The Treasury Department has still received no definite information as to the capture of Spain's largest tobacco factories for the Dominion of Cuba. The commander of the revenue cutter has been ordered to use the utmost care and to prepare a map drafted with precision which shall show the location of the fishing vessels at the time of capture. There is no map in the possession of the government here upon which the ledge appears near which the American fishermen are said to have been captured. It would appear that the authorities here are not in possession of the chart of the royal navy which was used in the early descriptions of the seizures.

Customs Frauds in Austria.

Vienna, July 29.—A series of wholesale customs frauds have been discovered by the Government secret service officials in the duchy of Bukowina, which borders on Russia and on Roumania. The conspiracy discovered implicates some of the highest officials and many of the principal merchants of the duchy. Numbers of people have already been arrested in connection with the affair and further arrests are contemplated.

Director Rosaczy of the Customs Bureau at Bukowina has committed suicide as a result of the discoveries made.

It is understood that the frauds in which are chiefly connected with the smuggling of corn, flour and brandy across the Austrian frontier.

Ephemeral Only.

London, July 29.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times telegraphs that the official journals do not like the enthusiasm which has been aroused by the visit of the French fleet to Cronstadt. It is asserted that the Czar is displeased with the manifestations made in favour of the Republic, and that he orders that no pleasure steamer was to be allowed to approach near the French warships when he visited Admiral Gervais. It is not believed in this city that the visit of the French squadron to Cronstadt will have lasting effect upon the friendly relations existing between the two countries.

Sir John's National Memorial.

Toronto, July 30.—Alderman Macdonald and Mr. McIntyre of Kingston are in this city for the purpose of organizing a committee on behalf of the Kingston National Macdonald Memorial. These gentlemen have met with great success so far having secured the names of the following gentlemen and others to act as a local committee for the purpose of furthering the object in view: Sir Alexander Campbell, who has kindly consented to act as chairman of the Toronto committee, Mr. William Ince, Mr. S. F. McKinnon, Mr. J. Davidson, president of the Board of Trade, Mr. H. N. Baird, Mr. G. W. Yarker, Mr. A. M. Smith, Mr. John Kemp and Mr. Hugh Scott. Great interest is taken in the Kingston movement from New Brunswick to Vancouver. Committees have also been formed in Detroit, New York, Chicago and other American cities with the same object in view.

Shot an Alleged Deserter.

North Sydney, C. B., July 29.—The second mate of the Norwegian bark Train shot one of the seamen last night. The man is probably fatally wounded. The mate excuses himself by saying the man was attempting to desert. Both the mate and the wounded man are young. At the time of the shooting the man was passing a bag over the vessel's side, but the men say the bag contained only rags and that the wounded man had no intention of leaving the ship. The mate and he were grappling for the bag when the shot was fired.

Not Recent Central Birds.

Barrie, July 30.—The deputy warden from the Central Prison visited Barrie for the purpose of seeing the prisoners James Morrison, John Dixon and George Smith, arrested for attempting to kill William Johnson, with a view of ascertaining if any of them were prisoners who had recently escaped from the Central. None of them were the parties he was looking for, but Morrison he said had served three terms at the Central, and the one giving his name as Dixon had served one if not two terms.

Registrar Everard's Death.

Welland, July 30.—Doctor D. Everard, registrar for the County of Welland, died at his residence here at 1.30 yesterday afternoon. Deceased had been ailing for some time and his death has been expected for many months. He being nearly 90 years of age. He received the appointment of registrar nearly 60 years ago.

What is a Gentleman?

What is a gentleman? Is it a thing
Decked with a scarfpin, a chain and a ring,
Dressed in a suit of immaculate style,
Sporting an eyeglass, a lisp and a smile;
Talking of races and concerts and balls,
Evening assemblies and afternoon calls,
Sunning himself "at home" and bazaars,
Whistling mazurkas and smoking cigars?

What is a gentleman? Say, is it one
Boasting of conquests and deeds he has done?
One who unblushingly glories to speak
Things which should call up a flush to his cheek?

One who, while railing at actions unjust,
Robs some young heart of its pureness and trust?
Scorns to steal money or jewels or wealth,
Thinks it no harm to take honor by stealth?

What is a gentleman? Is it not one
Knowing instinctively what he should shun,
Speaking no word that could injure or pain,
Spreading no scandal and despising no stain
One who knows how to put each at his ease,
Striving successfully always to please—
One who can tell, by a glance at your cheek
When to be silent and when he should speak?

What is a gentleman? Is it not one
Honestly eating the bread he has won,
Walking in uprightness, fearing his God,
Leaving no stain on the path he has trod,
Caring not whether his coat may be old,
Prizing sincerity far above gold?
Recking not whether his hands may be hard—
Stretching it boldly to grasp its reward?

What is a gentleman? Say, is it birth
Makes a man noble or adds to his worth?
Is there a family tree to be had
Shady enough to conceal what is bad?
Seek out the man who has God for his guide,
Nothing to tremble at, nothing to hide,
He he a noble or be he in trade,
He is a gentleman Nature has made.

British Cattle Regulations.

London, July 29. The order in Council for the regulations of the Atlantic cattle trade has now been finally arranged between the Board of Agriculture here and the shipowners and will be issued very shortly. I have reason to know that they will be found less rigorous than feared in Canada. Mr. Chaplin's secret desire may be, as one allege, to shut down on the live cattle trade, but the new rules make little difference beyond compelling irregular steamers to take precautions now generally adopted by the regular liners.

A Child's Awful Fall.

Hamilton, July 28.—Mrs. Roach of Milton, while stopping in R. Duncan & Co.'s stationary establishment, placed her child on a counter close to an open window. Just then the Ham Battalion Band struck up a lively tune in passing, and the youngster caught hold of the string of the window blind. It flew upward and the infant fell out, and in taking an iron rod which supported a sign, rolled off the down to the pavement beneath. She is suffering from concussion of the brain, and received terrible injuries on the head and face.

Rhyme With Reason.

To guess the number, who won't dare to?
Of all the ills that flesh is heir to,
To bear the half you could not bear to;
And lovely woman has her share too;
She'd have some less if she'd repair to

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For "run down," debilitated and over worked women, it is the best of all restorative tonics. A potent specific for all those chronic weaknesses peculiar to women; a powerful general, as well as uterine, tonic and nervine. It imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness of the stomach, nausea, indigestion, bloating, debility, and sleeplessness in either sex. It is carefully compounded by an experienced physician and adapted to woman's delicate organization. Purely vegetable and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. The only medicine for women sold by druggists under a positive guarantee of satisfaction in every case, or price ($1) refunded. b

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of a flesh and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Hotel Dieu, and General Hospital in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c. and $1 at Peterborough drug stores. dw

Imperial Federation.

Will present an opportunity to extend the fame of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry the unfailing remedy for cholera, cholera morbus, colic, cramps, diarrhœa, dysentery, and all summer complaints, to every part of the empire. Wild Strawberry never fails.

The action of Carter's Little Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver, and regulate the bowels, but do not purge. They are sure to please. Try them. dw

A Nationalist Plan.

A proposal, which would obtain favor with even the opponents of Nationalism, contemplates the placing of a supply sufficient for each family of nature's great dyspepsia specific and blood purifier, B.B.B., in every home in the land. The benefits of such a boon to the people would be incalculable.

Mining News.

Mining experts note that cholera never attacks the bowels of the earth, but humanity in general find it necessary to use Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for bowel complaints, dysentery, diarrhœa, etc. It is a sure cure.

A Welcome Announcement.

Those who have tested it say that for the grippe, and especially for the cough that hangs on after the disease itself seems cured, there is nothing equal to Kemp's Balsam, the specific for all throat and lung diseases, and the best cure for coughs and colds. The first dose will convince you of its excellent effect. All druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a bottle. dw

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural. dw

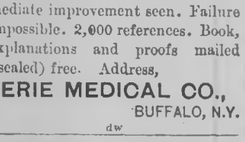
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliances. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

There is more than reasonable ground to suppose that there will be unearthed a large amount of jobbery and corruption in connection with the school buildings addition and the street railway franchise. What Sights are Seen When you Have no Gun.

Mr. Wm. Brownecombe states that the other day while he and a friend were paddling quietly along the shore of the mainland at Stony Lake they surprised a full grown deer which was drinking at the water's edge. The frightened animal fled into the woods, and escaped. It is not often a wild deer is seen so close to the haunts of man as the vicinity of Stony Lake. This incident taken in conjunction with the shooting of the bear at Beecklink last spring, would seem to indicate that our boasted civilization is not making such rapid advances after all.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J. Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed hard, was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

A Weather Forecast Vindicated.

Mr. Thos. Telford sends us the following kind information:—I met an acquaintance yesterday who said:—"Ah ha! the weather has betrayed you this time." In reply I said: 'Let me see now concerning the rain and thunder—oh, yes, 'after the frost,' I said, 'probably rain and, it might be, thunder.' Now, sir, on the afternoon of the frost we had slight showers both north and south of us; on Tuesday a heavy thunder storm to the north of us and rain to the south; on Wednesday again two storms from the west went around to the north, we getting a few drops of rain; during the night some rain fell, and on Thursday (yesterday) we had considerable rain, so I think, my kind friend, I am not far astray. I did not mean all the rain and thunder would fall on Peterborough market square."

Calder Not Convicted.

Discharged (But Scarcely Honorably) on the Charge of Burglary and Carrying Fire Arms—Ordered out of Town.

A week ago this morning Ashburnham was convulsed with a sensational attempt at burglary and shooting which occurred during the night. It will be remembered that the stores of Messrs. Madill, Collins and Moore were entered, and while in the store of the latter the midnight mechanic was disturbed in his nefarious work by Mr. John Throop, who boldly attempted to capture the rascal, and nearly lost his life in the effort. On Saturday a man named George Calder was arrested on suspicion. Calder came to town about the middle of April, and though apparently without any means of support, was known to have a disreputable connection with a bawdy-house in Ashburnham. The prisoner elected to be tried summarily, and his case came up for hearing before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning. There was a large crowd in court. The prisoner was discharged, but Chief Rozel advised him to leave town before six o'clock to-night. He is regarded by the police as an idle and dangerous character.

Mr. R. E. Wood, C. C. A., conducted the prosecution, and Mr. J. H. Burnham the defence.

Mr. C. H. MOORE, whose grocery store in Ashburnham was one of the places entered, was the first witness. He detailed the circumstances of his being awakened by Mr. Throop and of his finding the door of his shop open, and a chisel sticking between the top of the till and the edge of the counter.

Mr. JOHN THROOP was the principal evidence. His story is exactly opposite that of Mr. Moore. He said that about half-past three on the morning of the 24th his wife awakened him by saying that she thought there was some one in Mr. Moore's store. He got up and dressed, and as he went out a dog passed him and his wife said perhaps the dog made the noise. As she said this, he heard a noise in Mr. Moore's shop, and after putting his boots on and taking a stick in his hand he went across the road. He saw the flash of a match in the shop, and when he got to the door he shouted to the person inside to stay where he was. He raised his stick so as to be ready to strike if the door opened. He waited a moment, when he saw a flash and a bullet crashed through the glass door and sped by so close to his face he felt its force. Mr. Throop then ran back to the street, and the burglar came through the door, holding out his hand warningly and telling him to "go away" and "keep back." The burglar ducked eastward along the sidewalk and as he moved away, keeping his eye on Mr. Throop, he fired a second shot. He was now about eighteen or twenty feet from the door, and after firing the second time he ran off. Then as he was running, with Mr. Throop after him, at a distance of about sixty yards down the street, the burglar, who was about 20 yards ahead of Mr. Throop, turned as he ran and fired a third shot. The fugitive turned the corner of Elizabeth and Mark streets southward, Mr. Throop following and calling for help. The night was dark and the burglar escaped. Mr. Swanston was the first to rake the alarm, and subsequently Constable Craig and others arrived. Looking at the prisoner in the box, Mr. Throop said he had seen him frequently during two months back, and was of opinion that the prisoner was the man. When he saw burglar come out of the store that night he took him then and there to be this man by his general appearance, and he told Constable Craig his opinion as soon as the latter met him. The man he saw was dressed in dark clothes, of slight build and about 5 feet 10 inches in height, but it was so dark he could not distinguish his features.

Under cross-examination Mr. Throop said it might have been some other man and he would not swear any more positively than that to the best of his knowledge the prisoner was the man.

Mr. Geo LIPSETT testified to hearing some shots fired that night. After the first shot he looked out of his window, and saw a man running down the sidewalk eastward just across from his hotel, and by the flash of powder saw the man fire the pistol a second time. Another was chasing him, and the one in front fired a third shot further up the street. He thought the man who did the firing was shooting into the street to scare the one behind. Witness could not distinguish the man who was running ahead, but when he first saw him he formed the opinion in his own mind that the prisoner was the man. He thought so then and he thought so still. He formed this opinion before he spoke to anyone else on the subject. He had frequently seen prisoner and knew his appearance pretty well. He had told others his opinion on the subject. Mr. Lipsett said he could not identify the second man in the darkness, and formed his judgment concerning No. 1 from the instantaneous flash of light from the pistol.

Mrs. CUNNINGHAM, who keeps a boarding-house in town, said the prisoner roomed at her place and took occasional meals there. She had seen him have a revolver, but not recently. He was very seldom in his room at night or during the day. On the night of the 23rd prisoner was very drunk and she had some difficulty in persuading him to come in off the verandah. She locked the front door and left the prisoner sitting in a corner. She did not see him next morning, though he might have been in the house and she not know it. The window and back door were not locked.

Some questions regarding the prisoner's finances were asked with the object of ascertaining if he was "hard up" lately, but nothing definite was learned except that he used to spend money liberally as Mr. Lipsett's hotel when he first came to town, and that prisoner owed Mrs. Cunningham two weeks room rent and a board bill of 14 meals at 20c. per meal.

WILKINS HASKELL the young man who occupied a double room with the prisoner at Mrs. Cunningham's boarding house, said that on the night in question he (the witness) went to bed at ten o'clock, and some time during the night, he could not say what hour, his mate came into the room and he was there in bed at a quarter after six o'clock when he (the witness) was called for breakfast. When prisoner came into the room witness awakened up just as the light was blown out and the prisoner got into bed.

Counsel then addressed the court. Mr. BURNHAM submitted that there had been not the least positive identification of the prisoner and that the prosecution had failed in showing even that the prisoner had an opportunity for committing such a crime more than any other person.

Mr. WOOD laid great stress upon the collateral evidence of opium on the part of two reliable witnesses that prisoner was the guilty man, and argued that two such unbiased beliefs were stronger evidence than the positive statement of a single witness. Mr. Wood also held that the habits and manner of living of the prisoner would make him a likely person for such a crime. He spent his nights abroad, was known to carry fire arms, and was drunk on the night in question, and to respectable citizens would follow such a course. The reasonable theory, he contended, was that prisoner had left Mrs. Cunningham's house, by the back-door or window, the night in question and committed the burglary, and the race he had with Mr Throop had sobered him up so that he could afterwards get quietly home and to bed.

The MAGISTRATE after some moments of consideration, said he would not dismiss on the evidence render conviction. In giving this judgment he had to strip his mind of all previous knowledge of the prisoner and his antecedents. The evidence of the identity of the man was not such as to leave him without very reasonable doubt. He had strong suspicions, but that was not enough. The witnesses could identify him only by his general appearance, neither of them having seen his face. On the bare evidence, therefore, he must discharge the prisoner.

Calder left the court room and was warned by the Chief to get out of town immediately.

The Mechanics Institute Improvements.

In the paragraph in yesterday's EXAMINER referring to the improvements of the Mechanics Institute building, it was mentioned that it was being done by the representatives of the Nicholls estate. This hardly conveys the full idea. The administrators of the estate, Messrs. Richard Hall and C. McGill, did the whole work without solicitation or expense—which was between $500 and $600—to the Institute, whose patrons and the reading public who make use of the advantages it supplies, will heartily appreciate the generosity of these gentlemen, especially in view of the fact that this expenditure is an extra grant made by the administrators of the estate, and not deducted from the large bequest made by Mrs. Nicholls to the Institute.

The evils resulting from habitual costiveness are many and serious; but the use of harsh, drastic purgatives is quite as dangerous. In Ayer's Pills, however, the patient has a mild but effective aperient, superior to all others, especially for family use.

Through a Salmon Cannery.

An Interesting Description of the Salmon Canning Industry in British Columbia.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—As I am now spending a short time among the Niska Indians on the Nass river where they are engaged in fishing for salmon to supply the canneries, I thought there would be no time more opportune than the present for presenting to your readers a full and true description of how these creatures of the finny tribe are prepared for the markets. So many erroneous ideas—but I cannot call them ideas, they are only notions—are held by our eastern friends to the effect that it is almost unsafe to eat a can of salmon. I myself (before I came out to the coast) have been told that the course of preparation goes through was a dirty and very repulsive one to such whose tastes are in anywise delicate. Now allow me to assert that such is altogether untrue, and, to substantiate my assertion, I submit to your readers a complete and reliable account of how the fish is handled from first to last.

True the labour employed is Chinese and Indian, but when the celestial has arrayed himself in his clean derry suit and tied up his much beloved queue, and the Indian woman, or blanketman, has donned her white apron and arranged her toilet carefully, who would not accept a dish from such? Besides, we have our own of the white element, who—I am speaking particularly of the employees of the McLellan cannery—are honourable men and can be relied upon in their purposes to discharge the duties of overseers carefully and well.

Of course I can relate to you only what I have observed in the above cannery, and do so without the slightest prejudice to other canneries, or partiality towards Mr. McLellan. I am sure he would rather have his manufacture ensure its own recommendation and consequently its acceptance than what my poor pen might solicit for him. Nevertheless to assure my friends who are salmon-lovers of a good brand I gladly recommend to them the "Express Brand," packed at Nass Harbor, on a river of the same name. It stands to reason that the fish canned on the Nass has the benefit of a colder climate than that experienced on the Fraser or Columbia rivers. Not but that every precaution is used by the southern canneries, we shall not for a moment question their carefulness. But you will admit the advantage in this respect is with the north.

To begin with my description: I go on board the steam yacht used for towing the fish barges to the several camp stations. A pleasant sail is had up the river in company with Capt. Charlie Smith, and Engineer Randy, who have their respective epithets—Charcoal Charlie and Frank. When we see a boat drifting aimlessly, you would think with the side, but not so, for the occupants are watching anxiously their net as they drift along with it, and when a float is seen to struggle for its position above water, the gladdening countenance of the fisherman tells you a poor salmon has been snared.

Soon we reach one of the camp stations and Dick, the Indian in charge of the barge, sets to work transferring the fish from the scow, stationed at the camp, to the barge.

This completed off we steam again for another camp station, and when the third and last has been left wet steam off for home again.

The cannery reached, the fish are unloaded into the gut house where they remain until next morning. Then begins the real work. The busy Chinamen enter their work with a real energy. One stands on each side of the offal table and with his large knife strips the fish of head, tail, and fins. The fish are immediately passed to another on each side of the same table who rips open the fish and clears away the offal. He in turn passes them into a large vat, where they are carefully washed by three or four Indian women. After receiving a final and thorough washing in a second vat they come under the sharp gang—knives which cut them into pieces the length of a salmon can. They are still further dissected by two Chinamen with large knives, who also cut off any bloody portions of flesh. Another Chinaman gathers the pieces into a tray and distributes them among the several cannery busily engaged in packing in the bright, red and fresh flesh of the salmon.

Here the labour of the work comes in here for explanation—the manufacture of cans.

About two months before the salmon season opens, the foremen with the boss fishermen and several others come up to have everything in readiness; the nets need looking after, and many other things attended to. Along with these come the Chinamen, who, under their own boss—one who has contracted for the season's pack, act to work to make half a million or so of cans required for the work. And the Chinaman knows how to make cans especially so when such convenient machinery is supplied him.

First the tin is cut into oblongs the proper size and passed through the rounding process. They are then passed to the man at the seamer who joins the edges neatly together. They are then ready for the bottoms. These bottoms are made by passing the tin through a die which cuts the bottom the right size and also turns an edge up on the same. The bottoms are then fitted on the cans and the parts already made pass through a crimping machine previous to their being soldered.

The solder machine consists of a furnace and a cavity full of molten solder. By means of a tunnel the cans are conveyed to this machine and passing under a continual dropping of solid from a can above they glide into the machine their lower edge just touching the solder as they pass along. They are carried through by an endless chain which passes over them, the links dragging them along. They then slip into another narrow passage and drop to the floor or rather in baskets from whence they are taken and stored away for future use.

To return. These cans before being given to the canners pass under the salting table where they receive sufficient salt for the fish picked in them. The canners then fill the cans and they are passed over to be weighed and thoroughly wiped. This work having performed in a great exactness the cans are then covered with lids having a small hole punctured in them the necessity of which will be explained shortly. Again the cans pass through the crimping and soldering machines, but this time full of fresh salmon. Down the cones they again glide, the steam issuing from the puncture in the lid, until they pass under a water jet, which soon cools the hot tin. Here they are closely inspected and if any are found not well soldered they are soon properly fixed. The whole is then made air-tight and to make they are tried in the tester under the close eye of Mr. Morris, the foremen of the bath room. Any defective cans are taken out and sent over to the soldering furnaces, while they are replaced by sound ones No less than 84 dozen cans pass through the testery every fifteen minutes.

They are then boiled in the boiling kettles for one hour and ten minutes, after which they are again tested, and then punctured again to allow the water to escape. After being thoroughly wiped they are again sealed with solder and once more tested to prove they were air tight.

They are then wheeled on little tram cars into a large retort capable of holding the 84 dozen, where they are left for one hour and a quarter under a pressure of 15 lbs steam and a temperature of 240° Fahr. therein.

On leaving the retort they are thoroughly cleansed with first a lye wash, and then two cold water baths. They are then sent off to undergo a final test before they are labelled. But before the labels are put on the head and bottom of each can are covered with lacquer to preserve the tin. After the labelling process has been gone through they are packed in cases—4 dozen cans to a case—and left ready for shipment south.

All this process is gone through under the careful supervision of Mr. D. Cook, who is an eastern maritime boy, and from varied experiences gleaned in his native province he superintends the whole management with a skill which deserves our utmost confidence in the man.

I now call upon the connoisseurs of the east to verify the account I have submitted to you, and I only trust that such statement may settle the mind of the esthetic lover of salmon, so as to allow him to enjoy, with unalloyed pleasure, his favorite dish.

Yours respectfully,

W. S.

A Long Journey, Indeed.

A Gentleman Dies on the Journey to meet his Family—Death of Mr. Joseph Craig, Collector of Inland Revenue—Seized With Apoplexy on Board Train.

A very sad, as well as very sudden, death was that of Mr. Joseph Craig, collector of Inland Revenue at the port of Prescott, who died at the Nicholls Hospital this morning about 10.30 o'clock.

Mr. Craig left Prescott this morning full of pleasurable anticipations of a happy reunion with his family, who were sojourning at their summer cottage, Stony Lake, and a delightful holiday on the lakes. At Belleville he boarded Conductor Stanton's train for Peterborough, where he expected to meet his brother Mr. John Craig of the Fergus News-Record and then join his family for a fortnight's outing and enjoyment of the deceased gentleman's favorite pastime, fishing.

As conductor Stanton was collecting the tickets between Belleville and Steeling he noted that when he addressed Mr. Craig the latter and the perception of what was required of him appeared to dawn upon him very slowly. He, however, produced his ticket, but Mr Stanton observed him more closely afterward and saw that he was seriously ill. At the first opportunity he telegraphed for a physician to meet the train at Campbellford. The medical man said that there was no immediate danger but Mr. Stanton seeing the poor man growing worse, had Dr. King meet the train on the arrival at Peterborough. Dr. King found Mr. Craig suffering from paralysis due to apoplexy. The left side was completely paralyzed, and the patient unable to speak or swallow. Dr. King saw that the case was hopeless, and had Mr. Craig at once removed to the hospital, where he died about 10.30. Mr. Craig's sad and sudden death will be a very severe blow both to his many friends and to his relatives, and particularly to his bereaved wife, who arrived in town this afternoon at 3.30, a special steamer trip having been made to permit her to reach town at the earliest possible moment.

The deceased gentleman was well known in town, where his youth was spent. He was at one time employed as a printer in both the EXAMINER and Review printing offices. In 1877 he received the

APPOINTMENT TO THE COLLECTORSHIP OF INLAND REVENUE,

Prescott. He married a daughter of Mr. Arthur May, who died in town last spring. Mr. Craig having at that time, visited Peterborough to attend Mr. May's funeral. Mr. Craig was a man of unusually high character and principles and of a most kindly disposition. Both his late father and his father-in-law had reason to remember his kindness. His kind heartedness and filial piety were characteristics of his youth which remained with him through life. By his death a wife is made a widow and a family of five children all grown, are left fatherless.

The body was removed to the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. George May in the southwestern part of the town. Pending the arrival of immediate relatives, no arrangements have been made for the funeral.

Mr. Craig was about 65 years of age and was a fine robust-looking man, whom one would think had a strong hold on life. But it seems he was a subject of heart disease, and carried with him a remedy for use in case of sudden attack.

Drinking in an Eating House.

A Case Which is now Before the Magistrate.

There were two liquor cases on the docket this morning at the police court, both arising from the same circumstance. Chief Rozzel charged F. J. Daly, of the Grand Central, and Thos. Pratt, proprietor of the eating house three doors south, with violations of the license law. The former pleaded guilty and was fined $20 and costs, but Pratt contested the case, Mr. R. R. Hall being his counsel.

Constable Stewart testified that on Saturday night after two o'clock he saw some strangers enter Pratt's eating house, and presently one of them came out and went into the Grand Central and presently emerged again and returned to Pratt's place, apparently with a bottle in his pocket. The constable followed him in after a few moments, and saw the three men sitting around a table drinking beer from glasses. He did not see any glasses on the other tables. There was no food on the table, though the men might have been waiting for their orders. The constable had previously notified Mr. Pratt that it was contrary to law to allow liquor to be drunk on his premises, hence the complaint.

The defendent in his evidence stated that the men were strangers in town, commercial travellers, and he knew only one of them. They gave an order for some dishes, and asked for beer. Defendant replied that he could not allow them to drink liquor in his place, let alone sell it to them. While he was getting up their order one of men went out. He did not see the men go out but saw him come in. He did not know the men were drinking beer or any other liquor until Constable Stewart came in and told him. The men were drinking out of the glasses, which were set on every table. He did not lay out glass specially for them. They did not finish their glasses after the officer interfered, but walked out.

The magistrate withheld judgment in this case.

One of the Regulars.

Martin Welsh, one of the "regulars," was again on deck on the old charge of being found drunk in a public place. Martin, it seems, has been keeping pretty straight since his last appearance in court but yesterday he had cramps and took something for his stomach's sake. Martin promised if allow to go that he would not bother the court again for a long time, and on the understanding that he was going out into the country to work he was discharged.

The Progress of the Work—Important Nature of the Changes now Being Made.

Mr. Rutherford is literally making the dust fly in the prosecution of his contract for the Central School building renovation and enlargement. The old building is being almost demolished, holes knocked through for windows and doors, windows and doors bricked up, all the floors ripped up and a general demolition and upbuilding simultaneously going on. The work is greater than one would think without actually visiting the scene. It will take Mr. Rutherford all his time to hand over the keys to Chairman Bradburn on September 1st and November 1st. The work is being pushed as fast as possible. Fifteen hands are now employed, as many as can be employed to advantage at this stage of the work. The iron work for the Smead-Dowd heating system is on hand already and work in putting it in place was begun to-day.

Mr. R. H. Smith is pushing work on his sub-contract for the stone masonry of the new portion. The walls are already up quite a distance. This part of the work could be pushed faster if it were possible to secure the necessary supply of quarry stone. The stone used is a good hard quality of limestone, procured at Bickle's, on the south side of the river, about half way to Lakefield. The new portion of the building is 71 ft 3 in. x 48 ft. 3 in., in area. This will make the completed structure the same size as the large central school building, the new portion being considerably larger than the small school building. The general superintendence of the contract is vested in Mr. Robert Clinksole, a careful and capable mechanic. At the rate the work is being pushed, every week will reveal a noticeable advance.

More Police Protection Demanded.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR.—On Wednesday night about 11:40 the inhabitants on the corner of Water and London streets were startled by the piercing shrieks of a woman in great distress. There cannot be any doubt but that it was a girl or woman in the hands of some ruffian or ruffians, and I think it is high time our council should take immediate steps to give this large town more protection, and not leave every female that happens to be on the street at night to be outrageously insulted by the ruffianism of this town. What we want is more policemen. What are two men to guard this large town at night, especially now that there are so many strangers about? One man, I believe, must stay continually at the station to answer calls and how, I would like to know, can one man be north, south, east and west at the same time? Our city fathers seem willing to spend money for bonuses and bring all classes of people to the town and then leave us exposed to their "tender mercies." Perhaps next election will see some change in the council, for it really is time that something should be done to afford us more protection. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for so much space in your valuable paper.

Bad Eczema on Baby

Head One Solid Sore—Itching Awful—Had to Tie His Hands to Cradle—Cured by Cuticura.

Our little boy broke out on his head with a bad form of eczema, when he was four months old. We tried three doctors, but they did not help him. We then used your three CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after taking them eleven weeks exactly according to directions, he began to improve, and after the use of them for seven months his head was entirely well. When we began using it his head was a solid sore from his crown to his eyebrows. It was also all over his ears, most of the face, and small places on different parts of the body. There were sixteen weeks that we had to keep his hands tied to the cradle and had them when he was taken up and had to keep mittens tied on his hands to keep his finger nails out of the sores, as he would scratch if he could in anyway get his hands loose. We know your CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. We feel safe in recommending them to others. GEO. B. & JANETTA HARRIS, Webster, Ind.

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64,824 07

A CRY OF ANGUISH

Forced From Mr. Perley While Giving Evidence Yesterday.

SIR HECTOR'S EPISTLE.

Puzzled and Perplexed Perley Almost Faints Away P. Larkin's Testimony in Some Points in Direct Opposition to That of N. Connolly.—The Evidence.

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—Henry F. Perley, the suspended engineer, was the first witness called before the Privileges and Elections Committee yesterday forenoon. He seemed to be in wretched health and spirits haggard, pale and emaciated to an extreme degree. Questioned by Mr. Tarte in reference to the books containing letters between himself and the Quebec Harbor Commission he said they were in the pigeon-holes in his late office in the Public Works Department, but he was forbidden to touch them.

Mr. Gobeil, the Deputy Minister, was thereupon summoned to produce these before the committee.

Mr. Osler read to the witness the words, "Added by Boyd 100,000 yards," as written in R. H. McGreevy's diary. He told Mr. Perley that Robert stated in evidence that he wrote these words in accordance with a report made by him (Perley).

Witness said that he had no recollection of making such a report.

To Mr. German—He said that he had not made the estimates in regard to the south wall prior to the awarding of the contract.

Mr. German reminded him, however, that in a letter to Sir Hector he said that Gallagher's tender was lower than the work could possibly be done for.

Witness replied that his opinion as to Gallagher's tender was based on his knowledge of the work in 1887, and not any estimate. Mr. Perley then produced the date on which he based this letter to the Minister. He denied that he ever saw the tenders before the opening of them.

Mr. Edgar—He said he must have concluded that Gallagher's tender was too low from a conversation he had with Boyd, the engineer.

Mr. Edgar—Did you have no other information besides this talk with Boyd? You could not have decided on a question involving a loss of $100,000 to the country merely on a desultory conversation with Boyd.

The witness who had been sitting on account of his weakness, rose to answer, but immediately fell back in his chair exclaiming, "I know nothing about it. I know nothing about it." He did not absolutely faint but his head fell forward on his breast, and then slightly recovering he threw both hands upward as far as he could reach and again cried out, "I know nothing about it." Tears rolled down his furrowed face and his whole appearance was one of uncontrollable agony. He sank again in his chair, and the committee, moved to compassion, adjourned the examination. Mr. Perley was given some water and brandy, assisted from the room, and the next witness was called.

After his examination Mr. Perley was taken into Mr. Chapleau's room, where he gradually recovered under the attention of Dr. Sproule. When fully recovered he wept like a child and said repeatedly: "My God, to think that all this is coming on me!"

The next witness was Charles McGreevy, son of Robert, who corroborated in full the testimony given by his father and Murphy.

Simon Peters, contractor of Quebec, produced this letter, which he had received from the Minister of Public works:

QUEBEC, June 17, '86.—

MY DEAR MR. PETERS,—You promised to lend something for the elections, will you kindly do it to-day. Yours very truly, (Signed,) H. L. LANGEVIN.

Asked if he had complied with the request contained in the letter, witness said: "Yes, I gave Sir Hector $1000, $400 of my own money and $600 of my colleagues, Moore and Wright. When he was asked to subscribe to the Langevin testimonial he was known as a contractor and had at that time accounts against the Harbor Commissioners for contract work. His claim against the Government amounted to $170,000. The list of contributions to the Langevin testimonial fund of $30,000 was produced. Collection began April 8, 1890, and ended in November, 1887. It took nearly four years to collect the amount and the bulk came from contractors. The $1000 contributed by Larkin, Connolly and Co., Mr. Noel explained, is included in the amount returned as collected by Mr. McGreevy in Quebec.

The list is as follows: Cash $1000, Goodwin $1000, Davis & Sons $500, William Smith $500, Lemoine $25, Ryan $200, Starnes $25, Chanteloup $100, Allan $100, cash $10, cash (small sums $40, Chochrane $300, Oswald $50, Magee $500, Coghlin $25, Gault $25, Nelson $272, Hickson $250, Foote $100, Hogan $25, cash (small sums $50, Macdonald $50, cash $500, Hamilton Bros. $500, Schultz $50, Murray $500, N. Hamel $600, McGreevy collected at Quebec $1800, Romtaille $250, Harper $10, Perault (again) $250, Askwith $50, Booth $1000, Chabot $50, C. Martin $100, Cook & Sons $499, A. Cole $1100, cash $100, total $26,731.

P. Larkin was examined in the afternoon by Mector Cameron. He said that there was a good deal of prejudice against the firm in Quebec because they were outsiders. They had some complaints to make to the commission. For these reasons, Robert McGreevy, a Quebecker, was brought into the firm in order that the firm might have more influence with the commission. With regard to the famous $25,000 notes, he said that Mr. Murphy came to him about the time of signing the Cross wall contract and said Robert McGreevy was badly in need of money and suggested this way of giving it to him. He said he had no objections provided Robert McGreevy retired the notes when they became due. The notes were made and signed in an office which he thought to be Robert McGreevy's. He did not enter through a trap door and saw nothing of it. He heard nothing more of these notes until the audit of 1885, when he found the notes were charged to the firm and not Mr. McGreevy. He strongly objected, but none of the others objected. He saw he could do nothing and had to submit to the charge. The first he heard of the Esquimalt dock was when he saw it in a newspaper that the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co had been awarded the contract. He was unwilling to go into this contract because he wanted to get out of the firm. But he finally consented to Nicholas Connolly's arguments and went into the contract. Sir Hector Langevin also met him at the Grand Trunk Quebec, and asked him when he was coming to Ottawa to sign the contract. After considering the matter with Nicholas he concluded to go into the contract. He came to Ottawa and after looking over the specifications called on Sir Hector. He told Sir Hector that one-half the material at Esquimalt they were required to pay $50,000 for was useless. Mr. Perley was called in. He witness wanted a clause inserted that they should pay only for what they used. Mr Perley refused and some warm words ensued. Finally Sir Hector said the matter of a reduction on the $50,000 would be considered, and it was on this condition that he signed the contract. Regarding the Levis Dock he described how he came to sign some of the $2,000 notes out of the $75,000, the amount of the contract. Mr. Murphy came to him one day and said this amount would have to be paid. He asked why. Mr. Murphy said that it was not for him to know, and that was all the satisfaction he got. Mr. Morphy said he had promised these notes and it would be very injurious to the firm if they were not paid. Witness had a suspicion the notes were going where they ought not to go and made up his mind to get out of the firm as soon as possible. He always felt very sore about those $22,000 and told Robert McGreevy one day that it was $22,000 taken out of that Dock. Regarding the payment of $25,000 in notes in Feb 1887, he said he was summoned to Quebec on important business on Feb. 1. They had a meeting in Nicholas Connolly's house. The question of giving $25,000 for election purposes came up. Those present were Nicholas Connolly, O. E. Murphy, Robert McGreevy and himself. He thought so much of it at the time that he immediately made a memo of it. He produced the memo which read:

QUEBEC, Feb 1, 1887.

Memo—at meeting this afternoon at residence of N. K. Connolly, between N. K. C., O. E. Murphy, R. H. McGreevy and P. Larkin. And agreed that twenty-five should be given and charged to dredging contract if obtained. If not obtained to be charged to R. C. and O. H. I., and that a former memo of which was taken by Mr. Connolly be cancelled.

This testimony of Mr. Larkin's is in direct opposition to that of Nicholas Connolly. When the latter was questioned about these same notes he was asked: "Do you know that any money was paid for elections out of the firm's funds?" and answered, "I do not." Connolly was asked again: "Is it not possible you were asked to sign these checks for political subscriptions?" A. "I do not remember. Q. "Were you aware at the time you signed the check they were requested for that." A. "No."

Witness said he had no personal knowledge of payments made to dredging inspectors. In February, 1888, the day before he left the firm Mr. Murphy told him that these payments had been made. He went to Nicholas Connolly and told him of Murphy's statement. Nicholas simply said: "Murphy is the last man to say anything of that kind." Nicholas neither denied nor admitted the statement. He was bound to get out of the firm.

Mr. Murdock: What was the reason you wanted to leave the firm?

Mr. Larkin: "Well, in the first place, I did not like my associates. I did not like Murphy or Robert McGreevy. Then there was a little transaction of Michael Connolly's that I did not think fair. He wanted to charge some things in British Columbia to my account which I thought was not just. I also told them that it was a very dangerous thing to tamper with the Inspectors."

To Mr. Mulock he said this transaction of Michael Connolly's was a business matter relating to some horses he had.

To Mr. Osler witness said he never heard that any of the firm's money was ever paid to Thomas McGreevy or Sir Hector Langevin. But there were large items in the expense account which were unexplained, and if any sums were paid to these parties the fact would not be mentioned to him. The firm gave Bennett, the resident engineer at Esquimalt, when he left Canada in February, 1888, a ring worth $112.

Mr. Osler read from a letter written by Mr. Larkin to O. E. Murphy, dated St. Catharines, Feb. 19, 1886, in which he said: "Our friend's call for another $5000 on account of British Columbia is not in accordance with the agreement we had when the $50,000 was divided should we get an order to lengthen the dock 100 feet or even 75 feet. I would be quite willing that $5000 should be given at once If we continue donating as we have been doing there will be nothing left to pay us except old paint. Mr. Osler asked who "our friends" were. Mr Larkin said that one of these friends he took to be Thomas McGreevy and the other he did not want to know. This $5000 was to go to the same parties who got the $25,000 and the $22,000 and various other sums.

300 People Drowned.

BOMBAY, Aug. 1.—Fifteen inches of rain have fallen within the last 24 hours. The towns of Mahooda and Rhownugger, in the province of Gujerat, are flooded with water, which rises breast-high in the streets. Three hundred people and a countless number of live stock have been drowned.

THE CENSUS COMPLETED.

THE FRANCHISE ACT PASSED TO RECEIVE ROYAL ASSENT TO-DAY.

The Hudson Bay Railway Debate in the Senate—Hon. C. H. Tupper Introduces the Cattle Bill—The Criminal Code Printed—A Bulky Volume.

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—In the Senate yesterday the bill to amend the Franchise Act was passed through all its changes in order that it might receive the royal assent to-day.

The debate upon the Hudson Bay Railway bill was resumed by the Hon. Mr. Howlan, continued by Senators Poirer, Girard and adjourned upon motion of Hon. Mr. Clemow.

Before the House adjourned Hon. Mr. Abbott announced that he would in committee move an amendment to provide that the route of the railway must be approved by the Governor-General-in-council. This will in all probability secure the passage of the bill.

Mr. Barron has another grievance. He alleges that the Quebec agent of the Intercolonial Railway has stated that the reduced rate given clergymen on the railway is confined to the clergy of Quebec, and announces his intention of asking the Government whether it is correct.

All the returns for the census are now in and the statistician and his staff are busy in making their preliminary calculation. The result of the census must by law be communicated directly to Parliament. This will it is expected, be done some time this week. Then the total population of the Dominion will be known and it is probable that the growth of the cities will also be announced. Both are understood to be satisfactory.

The cattle bill introduced yesterday after noon by Hon. C. H. Tupper is the same as was agreed upon by the representatives of the cattle interests in Montreal last spring. It will be pushed to a passage as soon as possible.

The new Criminal Code bill has been printed and will, in a few days, be distributed among the judiciary and the legal profession. It is a bulky volume and will require the whole time between now and next session for the consideration.

A BEAR GARDEN.

The Public Accounts Committee Has a High Old Time.

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—The Public Accounts Committee had three hours of a wrangle that at times filled the room with the disturbance of a bear garden yesterday. A local lawyer, D. O'Connor, who has done considerable work for the Department of Public Works, was called by Mr. Mulock. He was employed in the purchase of the site of the Langevin block, and Mr. Mulock questioned him with regard to how he came to be employed. He was asked if he had contributed to the Langevin testimonial of 1887, and his reply was that he had.

He was asked if any of the contractors on the block had contributed.

This question raised the row The Government objected to the investigation of the testimonial on the ground that it was not a public account.

Sir Richard Cartwright claimed that while the amendment was in order it was very injudicious for any member to oppose the question whether or not they should enquire into the contractor's reasons why the persons mentioned should not appear before the committee and say why they gave the plate to Sir Hector Langevin.

The two sides argued with raised voices and exchanges of hot words.

Mr. Mulock contended that the testimonial was a feature of the Langevin block, into which the committee was enquiring. The Government denies this.

Mr. Mulock moved that the House be asked to widen the scope of the committee to allow them in this matter to investigate the testimonial and the accounts, so paid to Sir Hector by tenderers for work on the block. This was voted down by 78 to 13, by the Conservatives.

At 1 o'clock the committee rose, having done nothing but spend the morning in a fiery and contentious debate. Mr. Barron was prepared to go on with the postoffice scandal but did not have an opportunity to do so.

A HORRIBLE CASE.

The Roadside Child's Father and Mother are Brother and Sister.

FERGUS, Aug. 1.—About two months ago a healthy infant of a few weeks' old was deserted on the road between Fergus and Orangeville. The child-deserter has since turned out to be Alexander Watson, a well-known and wealthy Caledon farmer, and he and his 16-year old daughter were arrested last week on a charge of child-desertion and taken to Guelph, afterwards regaining their liberty by furnishing substantial bail. Since his arrest Watson has made a clean breast of the affair.

The child's mother is one of his daughters, a rather nice-looking and fairly intelligent girl, who was only 16 years of age last March, and its father is his son, a lazy, slouching, useless fellow, aged 24. The unnatural intimacy was going on between them for nearly two years and a half, and first commenced before the girl was 14 years of age.

Watson is a prosperous farmer, lives in a fine brick house, and owns and works 200 acres. He has a large family and is extensively connected in the township on both his own side and on the side of his wife. It was for the sake of this connection, he says, that he took his daughter away to Waterloo poorhouse, where the child was born, and left the child on the roadside, but now that the exposure has come out he expresses an anxiety to do anything in his power to bring his scoundrel of a son to justice and have him punished with the most extreme rigor of the law. He is now supposed to be in Toronto, and efforts will immediately be made to secure his arrest if possible.

Another Ballet Girl Countess.

VIENNA, Aug. 1.—Count Strachwitz, who married the widow Makarat, formerly Bertha Linde, a ballet girl, has begun divorce proceedings against her. The countess will make no defence.

Samoa Quiet.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Aug. 1.—Advices received here from Samoa dated July 21 state that Mataafa remains peacefully at Mulie and that all was quiet when the despatch was sent.

A Missing Boy.

KINGSTON, Aug. 1.—Yesterday morning the hat worn by Eddie Merrison, son of Frank Merrison, who left home on Tuesday and has not since been seen, was found by officer Varbeck, floating near the G. T. R. wharf. It is supposed the boy was trying to walk a plank which leads from the foot of Johnston-street to the wharf and fell off. His dead body was found in the harbor by the men who grappled for it.

Crops in Prince Edward Island.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Aug. 1.—We never saw a finer appearance of grain and root crops on this Island. Hay in some places will be light, but in most fields the yield will be quite an average. The grain harvest will be late, but the drop green of oats and wheat all over the country, betoken plenty of straw and full grain. In the turnip field not a miss is to be seen, and potatoes look exceedingly well. This province will have an immense quantity of potatoes to ship this autumn, if the rot, bug, or any other destroyer does not blast the farmer's hopes.

Outwitted by Whisky Smugglers.

QUEBEC, Aug. 1.—It has been ascertained that the schooner Marguerite, which was seized lately at Trinity Bay for smuggling, was only a decoy to allow another vessel with a valuable cargo to get away. The quantity of liquor seized on her is small, and the barrels show signs of having come from Illinois via Boston, Mass., to St. Pierre. The Marguerite is an old tub, and is "leaking like a basket." The smuggling business is on the increase in the Lower St. Lawrence, and it threatens to take on enormous proportions. It is estimated that over 1,000,000 is at the present time employed in illicit whisky trading.

WITH A BULLET IN HIS HEAD.

A Toronto Man's Body Found Floating in the Rouge River.

WHITBY, Aug. 1.—Inside of the bar of the mouth of the Rouge River, near Port Union, was found yesterday the body of a man 5 feet 5 inches in height, heavy sandy moustach, rest of face clean shaved, sandy hair, weight 140 pounds. Deceased was dressed in dark worsted suit, diagonally marked, and had on a new shirt with a reinforced front, there were white bone buttons in collar and cuffs. A leather pocketbook was found on his person, no money being in it. There were in his pockets, three slips of paper on which were the addresses of Charles Clathe, King-street west, near Yonge; T. Heintzman, King-street west, Toronto, and M. L. Shane. The body had been in the water less than ten days. There was blood oozing from the mouth and a bullet wound in the right temple. The bullet appeared to have taken a downward direction into the head Three men were in the neighborhood last Saturday, one of whom is supposed to be the deceased, who was offering $5 to two persons for a horse to drive them to the nearest hotel. These men were thought to be on a fishing expedition. On Monday last a brown christie stiff hat was found near where the body was found yesterday.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED.

William White's Body Exhumed for Further Investigation.

HAMILTON, Aug. 1.—There is a suspicion that William White, the young Hamiltonian who is supposed to have been drowned at Toledo, met his death by foul play. There are suspicious circumstances connected with his death and the young man's relatives will not be contented until there is a thorough investigation. White was about 18 years old and lived with his mother at 300 Simcoe-street east. He was an exceedingly industrious boy, but unfortunately he was out of work for some time. Getting an opportunity from the captain he shipped on the propeller St. Magnus a week ago last Monday. It was the propeller's first trip of the season.

Mrs. White was greatly distressed on Monday when a telegram was received from Toledo conveying the sad news to her that her son had been drowned in the Maumee River. The body arrived here Wednesday night. When the heartbroken mother looked upon the face of her favorite boy she discovered several suspicious looking marks. The body was interred, but yesterday morning Crown-Attorney Crerar was made aware of Mrs. White's suspicions and ordered that an inquest be held by Coroner Wolverton. The body of young White was exhumed and was viewed by the jurors in the new public vault. There were several marks on the face. It is suspected that White was given a blow on the head or face and knocked into the river.

TALKED OF IN TORONTO.

The Principal Items of News From the Busy Queen City.

TORONTO, Aug. 1.—There is considerable interest being taken in the approaching preliminary examination of Mr. and Mrs. Handcock for the murder of their daughter next Tuesday. Mr. W. G. Murdock has been retained for the defence and will make a vigorous fight. Meanwhile Detective Greer is getting evidence into shape to present when the prisoners next appear before the Police Magistrate.

Albert Kelly, who killed a man named Sloan about five years ago on the farm of Robert Atkins in Simcoe county, has died in the General Hospital. Kelly and Sloan worked together on the Atkins farm and both were in love with the same girl. One evening they had some words, and Kelly struck Sloan with a whiffletree on the head. Sloan died of the injuries received. Kelly was tried and sentenced for 15 years to the penitentiary, but became remorseful and melancholy soon after his confinement. He took a decline and was pardoned on Good Friday of the present year. He was removed to the Toronto General Hospital about seven weeks ago.

Mr. Justice Meredith yesterday dismissed an appeal from the order of the master in chambers in the case of W. D. Butterfield, an Ontario lawyer, whom a client accused of overcharging. When the complaint was made the master ordered the bill to be taxed, and it was found that some $80 or $100 should be returned to the client and the master made the order which is now confirmed by Justice Meredith.

The mortality returns of the city show a decrease in the number of deaths in July compared with the same month last year. The figures are: July, 1890, 279; July, 1891, 244.

Analyst A. R. Fyne's last analysis of city water proves it to be first-class and much purer than ever before. Strangers in the city need not therefore fear to drink it.

Last night the Single Tax Association concluded that "the Government should equitably distribute the national wealth of the country."

WON WIFE AND WAGER.

A Romantic Story of a Young Englishman in Canada.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 1.—There arrived in this city on Wednesday evening a wealthy young Englishman named H. J. Brocklehurst, who had just arrived from the Old Country on a peculiar errand. It seems that a family who formerly lived in England are now residing in this city, one of the lady members of which the young man formerly kept company with. Since the removal to this city of the young lady, the young couple have kept up a regular correspondence, and it was supposed that the young man had no rival for the hand of the young lady. A short time ago it transpired that another young Englishman, also a particular friend of the family, residing in this city, had also been corresponding with the fair young lady, and also thought he would shortly come to this city and claim her as his bride. By chance both young men met, and in the course of their conversation the facts leaked out that both were in love with the young lady, each claiming to be engaged to be married. The conversation waxed warm, when it was agreed that each party deposit £1000 and that the young man marrying the young lady within three months should win the wager. The money was accordingly deposited and nothing thought of the matter further. The young man then went home, and packing his luggage took passage on the first out-going steamer for this country arriving in St. Catharines last evening from Woodstock, where he has been residing for the past three months. He immediately repaired to the residence of his affianced, who was overjoyed to see him. The object of his long journey was explained, and a quiet wedding will take place in a few days, when the couple will immediately return to England and the gallant and venturesome young Englishman will claim the amount deposited.

Parnell will Appeal.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Mr. Parnell intends to enter an appeal against the decision of the Bankruptcy Court which held his plea of non-residence as the ground for not paying the cost in the O'Shea divorce suit as untenable.

An All-Night Session.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The House of Commons sat until 4.30 o'clock yesterday morning. The members engaged in a prolonged discussion of the amendment to the Education Bill made by the House of Lords, which the Government supported. There was also a strong opposition to the grant of money for the Training Colleges (Ireland) Bill by the Irish Conservatives and Radicals, who accused Mr. Balfour of bolstering up Popery. Mr. Balfour declared his firm intention to adhere to the original form of the bill.

The Freeman's Journal and Parnell.

DUBLIN, Aug. 1.—O'Dwyer Gray, proprietor of The Freeman's Journal, publishes a letter yesterday in that paper stating that in view of the revelations of the Campbell lawsuit, and in view of the utterances yesterday of Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien, he will henceforth reject the leadership of Mr. Parnell.

The Great Benefit

which people in run down state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength, but Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up a perfectly natural way all the weakened parts, purifies the blood, and assists to healthy action those important organs, the kidneys and liver.

Sir Hector's Position.

Le Monde, Sir Hector's organ, pleads, as many hard shell Tories in Ontario do, that the public journals should not comment upon his case. Trials by party are not conducted in that fashion. The majority on the committee struggled hard at the outset to minimise the charges and keep back the facts, though it is only right to say that Sir John Thompson took a manlier course. For weeks the out-and-out Tory papers did their best to discredit Mr. Tarte, who deserves the best thanks of the country, and to make it appear that Sir Hector was the victim of Grit persecution. Le Monde itself sinned grievously in this respect, speaking nearly always of the inquiry as a foul conspiracy against the Minister. It was only when the mass of incriminating facts had grown too large to be lied away that our contemporary fell back upon the cry that we should wait until the partisan majority had rendered its verdict. No one desires to absolutely prejudge Sir Hector's conduct. He has yet to be heard in his own behalf, and Uncle Thomas may help him to some extent. But whilst it is necessary to wait until the last word has been spoken before finally summing up, why should any Liberal newspaper be prevented from pointing out what is obvious to every one, namely, that he can clear himself of complicity only be pleading incapacity—by saying that he did not know that his department was corrupt from top to bottom, or that the treasury was being robbed by those doing business every day with him and his subordinates; and that he was equally in the dark about the source from which the election funds came. The judgment of Mr. Girouard and the Tories on the committee cannot, whatever it may be, extricate him from the dilemma of having to choose between confessing his guilt or acknowledging that he was mentally unfit to preside over the bureau; and whichever horn he selects must prove fatal to his career as a Minister, provided the Conservatives in the House and country are prepared to do right by the public interest.

The Liberal press has done no more than this. The Tories themselves have admitted the justness of the demand for Sir Hector's suspension until his character has been rehabilitated by suspending subordinates against whom practically no more has been established. Arnoldi took a suspicious-looking testimonial, so did Perley, so did Sir Hector when he accepted the contractors' gifts a few years ago, and later when he took their money for political purposes. His own instinct of decency, if he has any, should have led him to withdraw from the department the moment his administration of it was impeached on the floor of Parliament. It was grossly improper for him to remain in control of the books and papers relied on by his accusers to prove his wrongdoing. We admit that his long service should count in his favor for all they are worth, and that he should have the benefit of every reasonable doubt; but on the other hand all honest men will look at the enormity of the frauds committed and at the frightful carelessness, if nothing worse, which he must have displayed from first to last in his dealings not only with Larkin, Connolly & Co., but with "Bancroft" alias Connolly, the Kingston contractor, and with Charlebois, the contractor for the Langevin block. It is necessary to make an example of somebody for allowing thieves to have the run of a public office, and how in the name of justice and equity are you going to punish the understrappers and acquit the man who above all others was responsible to the people? This is the ultimate question in the whole case, and unless he is a moral idiot Sir Hector must see it, and seeing it, ought to relieve his friends of further pain and disgrace by retiring into private life. It does him no good to hang on and set his newspaper to shouting that he is no worse than the Old Man was in 1872. A courageous man would not attempt to shield himself behind the escapades of the dead. He would cover his face and step into the darkness of oblivion with nothing on his lips but thankfulness for getting off so easily.—Globe.

An Incapable Minister.

"The Conservate party," says the Ministerial organ at Ottawa, "is possessed of "vitality, energy, ability, and honesty "enough to purge itself from any corrupt, "gangrenous elements with which it may "have become infected, and to carry on the "government of the country vigorously, on "the lines which have already resulted in "such great and lasting benefits to the Do-"minion." Then the Conservative party should prove that this is true by insisting upon the immediate removal of Sir Hector Langevin from the Cabinet and from the position of leader of the party in the House. The purging process has in a way been begun, it is true, by the suspension of some of the minor Government officials who have been proved guilty of corrupt or improper actions; but the country can have little faith in the Administration so long as it retains as one of its members a Minister who, unless rascality on his part be admitted, has been shown to be capable of no more vigour and vigilance than one of Mr. John R. Arnoldi's bronze dogs—possibly not as much, for the latter appear to have been smart enough to pass the Customs barrier without detection. Who can believe that the Government of the country will be carried on vigorously and faithfully so long as one of the most important departments of the public service is under the management of a man who, if he knew nothing, as we are asked by his friends to believe, of the doings which the two investigating committees have brought to light, must have been either blind, or asleep, or grossly negligent during the past eight years? As a striking instance of the results of Sir Hector's mode of guarding the interests of his department and of the public treasury, let us take the statistics of the Esquimalt "job," as dug out of the contractor's books by the auditors:—

Original estimate	$374 589
Accepted tender	374 559
Cost to Government	$586 445
Cost to contractors, work, etc	$304 780
Cost to contractors, business expenses	6,665
Cost to contractors, "donations"	35 000
	346 445
Contractors profits	$240,000

Here is a profit amounting to 65 per cent. on the original estimate, the latter including, of course, the profit which the Government was willing to allow and the contractors were in the first place willing to accept. To most business men the thought will suggest itself that if Sir Hector displayed any vigour in connection with this contract it must have been exerted in efforts to keep his eyes shut. It is urged on behalf of the Minister that resignation of his office at the present would be regarded as a confession of guilt with respect to the charges of corruption brought against him by Mr. Tarte. This does not follow, and, even if it did, Sir Hector has only himself to blame for the position in which he is placed. But his resignation will not stop the enquiry into the charges, nor prevent him from making his defence, nor will it hinder him in any way from establishing his innocence, if he can do so. Whether he can or not, however, his usefulness as a Cabinet Minister is gone. If found guilty he will be disbonoured and disgraced; if found innocent the proof of his incapacity will be thereby established. In such a situation as this the interests of the Conservative party and of the country demand the offender's removal. The party cannot afford to be led, even nominally, in the House of Commons by such a leader. The great Department of Public Works should not remain for a moment longer in such hands. The members of the Government should no longer tolerate such a colleague. The Governor-General should no longer have such an adviser, and it is surprising that he has not taken steps to set himself right in this respect. Incapacity such as Sir Hector Langevin has, on the showing of his own friends, displayed in the discharge of the great trust reposed in him comes little short of a crime.—Mail.

Chemong Park Notes.

ANOTHER HOP.—A select dancing party from Peterborough took possession of Mr. Elliott's pavilion Thursday night and indulged in the delights of the misty dance until after midnight. The party to the number of about forty persons arrived at the park in busses and private rigs about nine o'clock in the evening, chaperoned by Mr. T. Dunn Peterborough's popular baritone. The services of Mr. F. W. Miller's quadrille band was secured for the evening, and furnished spirited dancing music. About 12 o'clock the party partook of lunch in the reading room of the hotel, and started for home about one o'clock, much pleased with their evening's amusement.

COOL WEATHER.—The weather is remarkably cool and windy here, and it is not an unusual sight to see ladies going about during the day with fur capes on their shoulders and the gentlemen wearing their overcoats. The lake has continued rough for the past week, but warmer and calmer weather is now expected.

SERIOUS ILLNESS.—Mrs. John Fraser, of town, who has been summering here in one of the cottages, has been seriously ill during the last few days. Dr. King was telephoned for, and her friends will be glad to learn that she is now recovering.

AT THE HOTEL.—New guests are arriving daily at Chemong Park Hotel, and quite a number of Americans and strangers from a distance are expected here next month. The following arrived on Thursday:—Mr. Chas. C. Rose, Montreal; Mr. Richard Gough and wife, Peterborough; Mr. B. McManus and wife, Cairo, Ill.

"Oh, if I had only taken this medicine earlier in life, what years of suffering it would have saved me!" was the touching exclamation of one who had become cured of rheumatism by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Scores of such cases are on record.

Stop Thief!

The cry of stop, thief! when it rings out upon the quiet midnight air, has a most thrilling effect upon most persons. And why? Surely not because we are made conscious of something having been stolen; for every day we see women allowing the roses to be stolen from their cheeks and the light from their eyes, without even a protesting voice being raised. Perhaps the reason for this seeming indifference is to be found in the fact that whatever charms may be stolen can always be brought back by the use of Beecham's Pills, the great Female Restorative. Price, 25 cents a box. If your druggist does not keep them, send to B. F. Allen Co., 365 and 367 Canal St., New York. w321d

Nicolet Notes.

"I suffered continual pain from canker of the stomach and my face and body were almost covered with pimples. I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, the first dose occasioned slight pain, but I soon found relief, and after taking 5 bottles I became completely cured. I think B.B.B. the most powerful remedy known to science."—Stephen Edge, Nicolet, P. Q. dw

A Pleasant Herb Drink—A Spring Medicine.

The druggists tell us that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache discovered by Dr. Silas Lane. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells for 50c. and $1 a package, and is called Lane's Family Medicine. dw

The Safest

AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use. For the eruptive diseases peculiar to children nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.

"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla presents, for chronic diseases of almost every kind, the best remedy known to the medical world."—D. M. Wilson, M. D., Wiggs, Arkansas.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hore, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as well as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston Ont.,) Daily British Whig. June 27th, 1891.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and herbs, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache, and is the best spring medicine. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. and $1 a package. dw

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Doings of a Day in the Busy Queen City.

TORONTO, July 31. Another name has been added to the accident list of the Belt Line Railway in course of construction. The victim is Pasquale Sandri, an Italian, living at 127 Chestnut street. About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon he was knocked down and ran over by a construction truck on the line near Rosedale. He was terribly cut and bruised. His left leg was nearly severed below the knee, and will be amputated. He was removed to the hospital in the ambulance. At a late hour last night he was reported to be low, and his recovery is not anticipated.

Said a well-known farmer from East York yesterday: The fall wheat is nearly all in Scarboro and Markham and will yield an average of 35 bushels to the acre. Barley is being cut and will average between 35 and 40 bushels. Oats are excellent, running up to 70 bushels an acre. Peas are an average. Spring wheat promises well, but the acreage is small. Hay is below the average, but the quality is good and the rise in prices will make it pay.

Some time ago Judge Morgan made an order for the extradition of Henry Garbutt on a charge of uttering two forged checks for $500 each in Texas, although he swore he lived in Wingham for two years previously. Yesterday his council obtained a writ of habeas corpus directed to the York County jail to produce him on Tuesday next at 12:30 o'clock, when Mr. W. G. Murdoch is certain he can now prove an alibi.

The Empire Newspaper Company will on Sept. 15 remove to Chas. Hubbard's new brick building on the north side of Adelaide-street opposite the Toronto Opera House. The western half of the big pile will be occupied by the Conservative organ, and the whole top story will form the composing room.

Strong efforts are now being made to secure the St. Catharines and Niagara Central Railroad for this city, the general belief being that the making of Toronto the terminus of a coal road is only second in importance to securing the Canadian Pacific.

The Baron of Bellamy's recent backdown in the street railway fight still continues a serious topic of conversation. What did he get is the great question. The papers all require the city to take up the reins of the empire.

After eating his breakfast in apparently good health, James Walker, 820 Queen street east, died very suddenly about 10 o'clock yesterday a.m. He was assisting in loading hay. Cause of death heart disease.

Mary Ward, an employe of the Parisian Steam Laundry Company, has issued a writ against the company, claiming $1000 damages for injuries sustained by her while in their employ.

Isaac J. Cooper, the well-known shirt manufacturer and dealer in gents' furnishings, of Leader lane, has assigned to R. & T. Jenkins. Liabilities are estimated at $8000.

SHE NEVER LOVED HIM.

A Niagara Falls Lady Supposed to Have Eloped.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 31.—Nearly everybody in Ontario either knows or has heard of Mr. George Margetts, proprietor of the Rosh House. He was formerly a dining-car conductor on the Grand Trunk Railway, and was badly injured in the famous accident at the St. George viaduct. After that he bought the Rosh House at the Falls, where he has since lived and prospered with his wife and family.

Last week Margetts was called to Hamilton on business, where he remained a day or so. On his return his wife was gone. He found a letter from her, however, stating that she had left to return no more; that she had never loved him, and that it would be useless for him to try and trace her up as she was never coming back. Mrs. Margetts was formerly a Miss Little, daughter of a custom house officer at Niagara Falls, who is now dead. She was a tall, fine looking woman of striking and pleasing appearance. Gossips say that when a couple of boarders were here a couple of months ago she fell in love with one of them and has gone to join him in some unknown place in the States. She deserted not only her husband but her four children, two boys and two girls, the oldest being but 11 years of age.

Giving Animal Food to Infants.

There is no greater error in the management of children than that of giving them animal diet very early. To feed an infant on solid animal food before it has teeth proper for masticating, shows a total disregard of the plain indications of nature in withholding teeth suited to this purpose until the age at which the system requires solid food.

Before that time, milk, farinaceous food and animal broths afford the kind of nourishment which is at once best suited to the digestive organs and to the nutrition of the system. The method of mincing and pounding meat, as a substitute for masticating, may do very well for the toothless octogenarian, whose stomach has been habituated to concentrated nutriment, but the digestive organs of a child are not adapted to the due preparation of such food, and will be disordered by it.

Germany's Finances.

BERLIN, July 31.—The final budget of the empire for the year 1890-91 shows a surplus of 18,148,301 marks over the estimate.

Lightning's Fatal Stroke.

TRENTON, Ont., July 31.—Last night about 11 o'clock three boys named Arthur Crowe, Clayton Potts and Gerald Macdonald, who had been spending the day at Presque Point and were returning in their boat to "12 o'clock Point" on this bay where they were camped, and when about a mile from the western entrance of the canal a thunderstorm came up and the boat was struck by lightning. Macdonald and Potts were knocked senseless and when they came to themselves they could find nothing of their companion Crowe, who it is supposed was also struck and in that condition fell out of the boat and was drowned.

A Horse's Revengeful Attack.

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont., July 30. A horse belonging to Mr. C. Gillespie of this town sadly avenged a punishment which had been previously inflicted on him. Gillespie went to put on the halter, when the animal turned on him, caught him by the arm, and brought him to the ground. The arm was broken and the flesh badly lacerated, and no doubt he would have been killed had not a second person come to his rescue and knocked the beast down, when it let go its hold.

A Girl Found Drowned.

MONTREAL, July 31.—The body of Eliza Lavallee, aged 18, daughter of a shoemaker in Duluth-avenue, was found floating in the canal at St. Henri yesterday. Her identity was established by a religious book entitled "Guide to Young Girls," which she seemed to have clung to during the death struggle. On the fly leaf was written her name and address. Some months ago she had been ill and since her recovery has suffered greatly from fits of melancholy.

BELFAST'S BEAUTIFUL TRIPLETS.

Two Very Bright Boys and a Sweet Little Girl.

Just beyond Primrose Hill, in the suburbs of Belfast, overlooking the Penobscot River and Bay, is the comfortable cottage home of Mr. Harvey S. Cunningham. It was here that a reporter made the acquaintance of the three beautiful children whose innocent little faces look out from the picture herewith.

THE TRIPLETS.

They are more interesting than ordinary babies from the fact that they came into the world together. They are almost two years old, and are as healthy and playful as three little kittens.

The one on the left in the picture is Roy Elijah, the baby in the middle is Ralph Harvey, while on the right, and perhaps the sweetest one of the three, is Rena Elsie.

They were born Sept. 29, 1889. At birth Roy weighed 3¾ pounds, while Ralph and Rena each weighed just 5 pounds. Now Roy weighs 21, Ralph 23 and Rena 21 pounds. All three have sparkling black eyes and very light brown hair, Ralph's being curly. His roguish little face is almost hidden by the profusion of ringlets.

The photograph was taken when they were about six months old, and lovers of babies can easily imagine how much prettier and more interesting they are now toddling about, playing among the daisies and buttercups and sweet clover blossoms in the orchard near the house.

Their mother thinks there is a wonderful sympathetic bond between them, for they cry, laugh and do almost everything in concert. They have a baby carriage with as many seats as babies, and when the weather is fine the nurse or mother wheels them to the city, where they always become a centre of attraction.

"We have one good cow," said Mrs. Cunningham, "but if the little ones continue to grow as rapidly as they have for the past few months we shall be obliged to get another to supply their constantly increasing appetites."

There is one other child in the family, a boy, who was about four years old when the triplets came. On being taken in to see the babies the doctor had brought, this big brother began to cry bitterly and asked if that were all there were of them.

Before the reporter left Mrs. Cunningham the time for the babies' afternoon nap arrived, and he was permitted to see them all sleeping in an overgrown crib, with their sweet little faces close together and three pairs of pink and white arms twined lovingly around each other—a grand picture of health, innocence and beauty.—Boston Globe.

Put Up and Put Down.

I want a word to rhyme with ills,
I have it now: I'll put down pills.
Excuse me though—than put down pills
I'd rather suffer some big ills.

To put down the old-fashioned, huge, bitter pills, that griped so and made such disturbance internally is more than a wise man will do. He will not put up with such unnecessary suffering. He uses Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. As a liver pill they are unequalled. Smallest, cheapest, easiest to take. Put up in vials, hermetically sealed, hence always fresh and reliable, which is not true of the large pills in wood and pasteboard boxes. As a gentle laxative, only one pellet for a dose. Three or four of these tiny, sugar coated granules act pleasantly and painlessly as a cathartic. o

From the Jaws of Death.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desperate cases of consumption. When all other remedies have failed Miller's Emulsion nearly always succeeds. It is the best kind of a flesh and blood maker, and has been used with marked success by the physicians in the Insane Asylum, Penitentiary, Hotel Dieu, and General Hospital in Kingston, Ont. In big bottles, 50c. and $1 at Peterborough drug stores. dw

Consult Your Neighbors.

Any one may find out just what Burdock Blood Bitters is and does by asking a neighbor who has tried it. It rarely fails in making a complete cure of dyspepsia, constipation, sickheadache, biliousness and diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels and blood. dw

To get relief from indigestion, biliousness, constipation or torpid liver without disturbing the stomach or purging the bowels, take a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills, they will please you. dw

Baby was Sick.

"My baby was very sick with diarrhœa and after everything else had failed I tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry; the first dose gave relief and a perfect cure soon resulted."—Mrs. John Clark, Bloomfield, Ont. dw

Can Not Compete

Miss Maud Grant, of Mountain, Ont., writes, "I can recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for summer complaints and diarrhœa. There is nothing to compete with it as it succeeds even in the severest cases." dw

If there ever was a specific for any one complaint, then Carter's Little Liver Pills are a specific for sick headache, and every woman should know this. Only one pill a dose. Try them. dw

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—108 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not claim this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Municipal Jobbery.

There is more than reasonable ground to suppose that there will be unearthed a large amount of jobbery and corruption in connection with the school buildings addition and the street railway franchise. A public meeting of ratepayers would be a wise move, especially as it is certain it would unanimously endorse the univeral use of hawley bros.' peerless teas.

A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed the ad. was read, learned and inwardly digested, for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

Society Funeral.

The funeral of the late Wm. Holland took place Friday afternoon under society auspices. The different organizations to which deceased belonged turned out in large numbers to pay their last respects to their departed comrade. The battalion band led the funeral cortege, and while passing down George street the solemn strains of the Dead March brought hundreds of people together to witness the sad scene. Following the band came the employees of the Lock Works to the number of seventy-five, then twenty-five members of the Y.M.C.A., and next the Sons of England fifty strong. The hearse came directly after the foot-passengers. The coffin was draped with the Union Jack. A long line of carriages terminated the procession, which wended its way to Little Lake Cemetery, where the remains were laid at rest.

ENFORCED EXPANSION.

The "Examiner" Publishing and Stationery Establishment.

Increase of Trade Demands Enlarged Premises—The Business Facilities Doubled in Sympathy With a Duplication of Business—An Elegantly Equipped New Shop—Brief Description of the New Premises.

In the beginning of the year 1889, the EXAMINER printing and publishing establishment was removed to the premises in connection with the Book and Stationery store of Mr. A. L. Davis, the business under the management of the present proprietor, Mr. J. R. Stratton, becoming the Peterborough Bookstore, which was amalgamated under the one management with the newspaper and printing department. Since that time the growth of the business in both branches has been of the most gratifying and encouraging character. The growth of the printing business has assumed very large proportions and the accommodations, that, two years ago, were considered ample, were soon found too limited for the demands of the business. The proprietor was therefore confronted with a double problem—to provide more room for the printing department as well as for the book, stationery and wallpaper business, the latter having shown, so far in this year, of the year preceding. A division of the bookstore department and the placing of two branches in a building adjoining, was the solution of the problem. The premises occupied by Mr. James T. Stenson were secured and have been elegantly fitted up for the miscellaneous books, fancy goods, wallpaper and window shades departments, and they are now occupied and equipped with one of the finest, most varied and most complete lines of these goods ever placed on commercial display in Peterborough. The combined business of the Peterborough Bookstore and printing establishments will therefore, be seen to occupy two buildings, comprising six floors each 20x100 feet in area.

DOUBLE THE VOLUME OF TRADE

THE PRINTING AND PUBLISHING DEPARTMENTS

The originally occupied building, 419 George street, is devoted to the stationery, printing, bookbinding and newspaper branches of the business. The first floor, with which the public is already familiar, contains in front the stationery department, in which will be found a most complete and elaborate stock of every variety of stationery including all varieties of writing, note and letter papers, envelopes, papeteries, etc; office supplies of every description, blank books, letter books, inkstands, pens and in fine everything that the counting room, school, college or private library can require in the way of stationery. Here is also to be found a most extensive supply of school books, school stationery, school supplies, maps, etc. The rear part of this floor is the press room where are situated the five presses used in the printing business, the power paper cutter, and the folding machine used for folding the large daily and weekly editions of the EXAMINER, and capable of doing the work of a dozen girls.

Ascending the stairs at the rear end of the stationery shop, the second floor is reached. Here are the editorial rooms, the office of the manager, also the large supply of printing and blank book stationery. The rear half of this floor comprises the job composing rooms, and also contains the stairway leading to the third floor, the front half of which is devoted to the compositors, and the rear contains the bindery department. In the first, the type is set for the newspaper, and the forms are imposed and rent by elevator to the press room on the first floor.

THE GENERAL BUSINESS OFFICES,

The newly-occupied premises, 417 George street, has been specially and elegantly fitted up for the new business it contains. This shop is twenty feet wide and one hundred feet deep, running through to a rear entrance, for receiving stock, on Chambers street. It is finely lighted with plate glass windows in front and rear. Over the latter are placed transom lights of cathedral glass. The front portion of this shop is devoted to Bibles, church services, hymn-books, Sunday school libraries, miscellaneous books, and general bric-a-brac. This is beautifully in the Queen Anne style, to correspond with the fittings of the adjoining stationery department, with which it is connected by a wide arch, practically making the two shops one, and placing within reach of the customer perhaps the widest range of goods to be found under one roof in any establishment between Montreal and Toronto. There are no counters, properly speaking, in this shop, their place being taken by tables, on which rest handsome mahogany and plate glass show cases of modern design. The rear portion of this elegant shop is specially fitted up for the wallpaper and window shade department, which is a specialty of the establishment and the most elaborate, in the way of extent and variety of stock, choice of choice patterns and late designs, to be found outside the metropolitan cities. In Mr. Stratton's hands the wallpaper trade has grown to enormous proportions. The beauty, variety and amount of stock, is adapted to the most extravagant demands of the wealthy or the most modest requirements of the humblest home. In addition to these advantages the of the wall paper rooms is a great point in favour of the ladies, and one which the experience of even the few days during which the stock has been on sale here shows it is sure to be extensively appreciated.

It is to be mentioned that the walls and ceilings of this shop, as well as those of its fellow, are covered with beautiful designs of artistic paper, and lighted with fourteen incandescent lamps. No expense has been spared to make it one of the most beautifully equipped, as it is one of the most completely stocked shops of its kind in Ontario.

The second floor of this building is devoted, in the rear portion, to the picture framing department, and the front half, as well as that part of the third floor not required for the book bindery, is used for storing surplus goods, required to keep the various departments at all times completely in stock.

Such is a brief outline of the different departments and features of this large business.

THE DOUBLE ESTABLISHMENT

is now complete and in running order, and ready for that extensive trade, which the desire to meet, in the fullest way, every want of the public, great or small, in the several departments is sure to bring. Not only in variety and range of choice are the public requirements fully and adequately met, but the ever present want of the best goods at moderate cost is met by the reasonable prices which buying in immense quantities at consequently low rates, enables the proprietor to offer the purchasing public, who are cordially invited to visit the Peterborough Bookstore and the allied departments, whether the desire of the visitors is to make purchases or to view the beautiful stock to be found on display. They will be met with the same welcome and treated with the same courtesy, which means an extension and variation of the old assurance—"no trouble to show goods," and no trouble to sell goods, for the goods of the establishment once shown and seen will by their excellent quality, wide variety and reasonable prices, sell themselves.

Vagrant Cow Cases—Stone Throwers—Drunks—The Dunford-Wylie Assault Case.

SATURDAY, August 1st.

There was quite a little bill of business at the court this morning.

Mr. John McLelland was charged with allowing his cow to run at large. A fine of $2 and costs was imposed.

G. A. Hartley was charged with allowing his horse to run at large contrary to the by-law. A fine of $2 and costs were imposed and paid.

James O'Brien who said he was just discharged from a ten months session in the Kingston hospital, charged as a drunk, was discharged and given an hour to shake off the dust of Peterborough from his wanderfeet.

Charles McKnight, of Glengarry county, a discharged soldier, got drunk—"the first time for a long time,"—was discharged.

Henry Tighe and George Johnson were charge with throwing stones on the street, near the Bank of Commerce offices, and were allowed to go with a caution from the bench.

The case of assault committed by Enos Dunford upon B. M. Wylie was brought up to admit evidence as to the nature of the complainant's injuries and as to loss sustained, Mr. Stone appearing for Wylie and Mr. Ponnette for the accused.

Dr. Goldsmith testified that he had attended Wylie since July 10, and that since that time he had not been able to follow his usual avocation, and that his bill for attendance would be between $12 and $15. To Mr. Ponnette Dr. Goldsmith stated that there was a contused wound and concussion of the brain, threatening inflammation, and that men had died of less serious wounds.

B. M. Wylie testified that he had been unable to follow his usual business since the assault. He was able to earn when in health two dollars per day. He had to pay his lawyer $15 and was satisfied with his charge and—

The Magistrate.—A very proper frame of mind.

Dunford had a claim against him (the witness) for about $31.

The Magistrate, in addressing the accused said that though he had admitted the assault, the evidence showed that it had been a wilful and malicious act. It was not done, evidently on the impulse of the moment, under any irritation, caused by insulting or annoying words on Wylie's part, for when arrested the police had found stones in his (Dunaford's) pockets, showing that he had a continuous feeling of malice towards the complainant. The assault he had committed was a serious one and it was fortunate for him that the injuries had not had a more serious termination, both for himself and the complainant. The magistrate would, he said, impose the lightest penalty which had been in his mind since he had been seized of the facts of the case, and he sentenced Dunaford to a month's imprisonment in the common jail and to pay, by way of compensation, the sum of $50, and, in default of payment, to be imprisoned two months in jail.

The Tables Turned on a Baggage Smasher

Mr. Wm. Duggan while driving the baggage waggon of the Oriental hotel met with a serious accident Friday. A trunk slipped off, bearing Duggan to the ground with it, and the heavy piece of baggage fell on the unfortunate man. He received a bad scalp wound and severe abrasions and injuries to his arms and back. Dr. Goldsmith attended him.

The Late Joseph Craig.

Mr. John Craig, of the Fergus News Record, arrived here late last night. He left home yesterday morning with the expectation of joining his family at Stony Lake, but his plans were sadly altered by the sudden death of his brother. The funeral of the late Mr. Craig takes place Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of Mr. Geo. May, under Masonic auspices.

The Fatal Fever.

The death of Mr. Will R. Erratt, son of Mr. R. W. Erratt, this morning, was a sad surprise to his many young friends and acquaintances in town. Deceased has been ill for about two months with intermittent fever, but few were aware that his case was dangerous. "Billy" was a printer by trade and has worked in the different town offices. His death will be doubly regretted on all sides.

The Catholic Club Social.

The Catholic Club social, held in St. Joseph's Hospital grounds on Friday evening, was a most successful and pleasant affair—one of the best ever held in town. The grounds, which were beautifully lighted with electric lamps, were well filled, about 400 persons being present, including Rev. Fathers Scollard, McColl and Doube. The Fire Brigade band furnished selections of choice music. Miller's quadrille band furnished excellent music for dancing, which was vigorously enjoyed under the direction of Mr. James Coughlin. All present enjoyed themselves in a very agreeable manner, and will long have pleasant recollections of the event.

Oh, Ho! There!

How about Civic Holiday, Joe? What excursion are you going on?

Well, Ed., I am going to take in the best one, and that goes to Sturgeon Point with the C. M. B. A. Society.

Might I ask for what reason?

Simply because the trip is somewhat original, the sail is grand, the scenery fine. They also give you every amusement and comfort, and the fare is only a trifle. Just think of it—only a dollar for such a day's outing.

That's a fact, Ed., you are right. They have also chartered the fastest boat on the northern waters, as well as a palace scow, and the very best music for dancing. Therefore I am with you. Anyhow the C.M.B.A. always has a first class excursion in every respect. d27 28

The Grand Encampment.

To Galt With Canton Peterborough and the 57th Battalion Band.

The Canton and 57th Battalion Band excursion to Galt was quite a success. A large party was at the Canadian Pacific Railway station on Tuesday to meet the early morning train, where we joined Canton Mount Royal of Montreal, with the Manchester Unity Oddfellows fife and drum band, 18 strong, and permit me to say that the tall brother who carried the big drum was a dandy. He could 'do' the big drum better than any man I ever saw, wielding the two drum sticks in the most enthusiastic and dignified manner, and with such masterly science as would put to shame all the champion club swingers of America.

We had a pleasant run to Galt, and the first thing we did after landing at the station was to follow Canton Mount Royal in mounting the bank to have our pictures "took" by the enthusiastic photographers, Messrs. Green and Fisk of Peterborough, who were on hand to immortalize the Grand Canton ment at Galt. Our Canton and the band then took the lead, followed by Canton Mount Royal and the Oddfellows band and escorted by one of the Galt bands to the Oddfellows hall, where we partook of refreshments, and were then escorted to the canton headquarters in the town hall, which was filled with cots, even to the stage which were very comforting to gaze upon, but which, owing to the uncertainties of human life, proved rather deceptive, as many a tired and weary chevalier knows to his sorrow, when, on lying down to pleasant dreams, he suddenly awakened to the realities of life with a doubt in his mind as to whether the bottom had fallen out of the earth and the noise of thunder in his ears, for the orchestra was playing "Awake Thou that Sleepest."

After stowing our baggage in the choicest locality and doffing the trappings of war, we repaired to another building across the square, which was decorated to kill, but was filled with tables covered with the good things of life, which made glad the hearts of hungry chevaliers, especially when served by the fair maids of Galt, with their bewitching smiles and pretty costumes.

After dinner we repaired to the grand encampment hall where addresses of welcome were made by the Mayor of Galt on behalf of the citizens, and by Bro. Wilkins on behalf of the Oddfellows, and which were suitably replied to by the Grand Patriarch, John A. Macdonald. The Mayor of Galt in concluding his address said "the town is yours, take it," we didn't need a second invitation, we took it.

The town of Galt is pleasantly situated in the valley of the Grand River, a high range of hills flanking it on either side, most of the public buildings are of stone and are of an elegant style of architecture, particularly the post office, town hall, and several of the churches, notably the Presbyterian church, with graceful spire, built on the river bank with a high stone wall reaching up from the river bed to the lawn above, from which rises the beautiful grey stone church.

The streets were gayly decorated with flags, streamers, evergreens and mottoes, and many of the private residences were beautifully decorated; and at night the gardens were illuminated with Chinese lanterns. Many of the buildings on the principal street were literally covered with flags, notably the Oddfellows hall.

In the evening the canton and band paraded to Dickson park to a promenade concert and other sports. The park was brilliantly illuminated by electric light. Later on the irrepressibles were out in full force and street parades of the fantastic order were in vogue.

Wednesday was the great field day. In the morning the gathering crowds were startled by the alarm of fire, and the question was "where's the fire?" and the answer was an exhibition by the Galt fire department. Crowds lined the streets at 10 a.m. when all the cantons and bands paraded in full dress to the brigade quarters for inspection. It was a very pretty sight when the whole brigade was drawn up in an oblong hollow square with the field officers in the centre, and were photographed by Messrs. Green and Fisk of Peterborough. The cantons then marched through the principal streets to the residence of E. J. Wilkins, Esq., where they partook of refreshments, and each visiting canton was presented with an elegant silver bugle as a souvenir of their visit to Galt. At 1.30 p.m. the cantons again paraded in front of the Queen's Hotel, where they were formed in brigade order, and, although the sky was ominous of an approaching storm, the grand march commenced, headed by the 57th Battalion band of Peterborough, but before half the route was traversed down came the rain in torrents and soon the streets were flowing in liquid mud. Canton Peterborough found a convenient shelter in a long verandah, while one of the bands found an open door in a warehouse across the street, and so one after another left the shelter of the spreading oak and made a dive for the open door the band played the comforting air of "One More River to Cross." Thus ended the grand parade. However, a little later when the rain was over, although still threatening, several of the cantons, including Canton Peterborough in their waterproof caps and capes, formed up at headquarters and, headed by one of the Galt bands, again started for Dickson park, the girls on the street remarking "What a wet looking crowd." A very pretty sight was the procession of school children carrying flags, which took place before the rain came on.

At Dickson park the cantons did some marching and wheeling in line, and exhibition drill, and were then formed in hollow square and addresses were made by Major-General Woodward, commanding the division of the Atlantic; Brigadier General Slatter, commanding department of Ontario, and Col. Units, commanding 1st Ontario Regiment. Games and sports, dancing in the large roller rink at the park, a balloon ascension, and other amusements occupied the remainder of the afternoon.

At 7 p.m. Cantons Peterborough and Mount Royal, with the 57th Batt. and Oddfellows band fell in at the market square and amid cheers started for the C.P.R. station, the citizens along the line of march, particularly the fairer portions evincing a friendly interest by coming to their doors and garden gates to smile and wave a parting farewell to the departing cantons.

We had a very pleasant run through a delightful country till West Toronto Junction was reached, where several of the Chevaliers of Cantons Mount Royal and Peterborough left the main line to visit the metropolitan city of Toronto. I cannot close without complimenting Capt. Mills of Canton Peterborough for the able and efficient manner in which he handled the Cantons at Galt; and now the Grand Cantonment at Galt is but the memory of a scene that is past, excepting for the fact that Major D. H. Moore, of Peterborough, is now Grand Patriarch of Ontario.

Purify the blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

On Fire with Eczema

Terrible Sufferings of Little Baby. Seven Doctors and Two Hospitals Fail. Cured by Cuticura.

My baby boy, 4 months old, broke out with eczema. The itching and burning was intense, the eczema spread to his limbs, breast, face, and head, until he was nearly covered; his torments at nights were pitiable to behold; he had no peace and but little rest night or day. He was under treatment at different times at two hospitals and by seven doctors in this city without the least benefit; every prescription of the doctors was faithfully tried, but he grew worse all the time. For months I expended about $3 per week for medicines, and was entirely discouraged. I purchased CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP and CUTICURA RESOLVENT and followed the directions to the letter. Relief was immediate, his sufferings were eased, and rest and sleep permitted. He steadily improved and in nine weeks was entirely cured, and is now as clear a skin and is as fair a boy as any mother could wish to see. I recommend every mother to use it for every Baby Humor.

MURDER MYSTERY

Tracing the Man Found Dead With a Bullet in His Head.

BELONGED TO TORONTO

Although His Body Was Found in the Water at the Mouth of the Rouge River Near Port Union The Facts Elicited at the Inquest.

WHITBY, Aug. 3.—An inquest was held on the body of the man found on Thursday afternoon by Wm. Taylor, a young Toronto camper near Port Union, on Saturday evening. The corpse was that of a man about 35 or 40 years of age, and the face of the body was much decomposed when found. The body could not have lain where found many hours, as the spot is much frequented. Young Taylor and several others testify that it was not floating there on the previous day as they traveled the whole stream in the vicinity. The water is four feet deep at this point, and there is a current running in from the river to the lake. The Grand Trunk Railway bridge crosses the stream a few rods nearer the lake.

DESCRIPTION OF THE BODY.

When Dr. R. W. Bateman of Pickering, who had been summoned, examined the body he discovered a bullet hole in the right temple, and blood was also oozing from the mouth. The corpse was that of a man of 5 feet 3 inches in height, weight 140 lbs. He was clean shaven with the exception of a heavy sandy mustache, his hair being of the same color. The body was clothed in a slate colored tweed of diagonal marking. He had on a white shirt, evidently worn for the first time, and the presence at the small linen buttons at the neck and wrist bands usually sold with shirts indicated that the article had been recently purchased. His collar, a 16½ "Pilot," with turned down corner, was of fine quality and he wore a black necktie with red stripes. His feet were encased in a pair of fine black stockings and coarse rough boots. Everything about the man's appearance went to show that he was in middling circumstances. On the inside of the vest, coat and pants was this stamp:

A. Simon,
187 to 141 York Street,
Toronto.

A search of the pockets revealed little clue to his identity. A leather pocket book, empty with the exception of a ten cobacco stamp, was found in one of his pockets. A small black pipe and a white handkerchief were found in the inside coat pocket together with an appliance for removing car cinders from a revolver. In another pocket were six cartridges of 30 calibre. In his left pants pocket were three slips of paper containing these addresses: Charles Hodge, King street west near Yonge; J. Henderman, King street; F. J. Shane.

The body had evidently been in the water about a week. The head and face, which had been exposed to the sun, was considerably bloated and blackened, but the rest of the body had been well preserved by the water. A brown Christie stiff hat, purchased at Dineen's hat store, Toronto, was picked up on Monday, July 27, near the spot where the body was subsequently found, and is known to have belonged to the dead man. The hat was 7¼ size and had been too large for its wearer, as inside the lining were portions of The Toronto World of Saturday, June 27, 1891.

WHAT THE JURY FOUND.

Coroner Ferrier caused a jury to be summoned, with Howard Smith as foreman, and Saturday evening an inquest was opened in the blacksmith shop of Mr. W. Cowan, lot 30 and 31, township of Pickering, a few rods from where the corpse was found. Mr. J. E. Farewell, Q. C., of Whitby, Crown Attorney for Ontario county, was present. Telegrams had been sent to the addresses in Toronto found in the pockets of the dead man, and the inquest was delayed until evening pending the arrival of either Mr. Cluthe or Mr. Hemtzman, a boat being dispatched to Port Union to meet the Grand Trunk Railway express. They did not, however, arrive, and the inquest was thereupon resumed.

TRACING THE DEAD MAN'S MOVEMENTS.

On Saturday, July 25, three men, of whom deceased was one, were observed by several persons in the vicinity. All three were respectably dressed and those who saw them came to the conclusion that they were out on a holiday on a fishing excursion. Deceased was under the influence of liquor and looked as if he had been lying down somewhere. His companions wore black clothes and dark Christy hats and one had a black moustache. They were first seen by James Found who lives near Dunbarton school.

James Black saw the three men and had a conversation with deceased, who came in to the field where Black was working and enquired if a horse could be secured to drive to the nearest hotel promising to pay what was required. Deceased's companions remained outside the fence. Black told deceased it would be no use trying, it would be impossible to obtain a horse. The three then left. They subsequently entered M. Cowan's stable and made the same request for a horse from James Marks, a farm hand. Chance Long of Dunbarton also saw deceased and his companions on the Saturday and was questioned concerning the probability of securing a horse. Long noticed the three men enter Cowan's lane and go down the track towards the railroad bridge.

All the witnesses were positive in their identification of the corpse as that of the man who questioned them about the horse. When the three strangers entered Cowan's lane it must have been close on to 6 o'clock. The railway bridge, towards which Chance Long swears they were headed, is within a half or two from where the body was found.

HIS DEATH A MYSTERY.

Cases of floaters being discovered have been so numerous lately that but for one circumstance people would have probably concluded that the man had fallen off the bridge while intoxicated and the matter would have been dispelled from their minds until the discovery of another body. But the presence of the bullet in the head furnishes a genuine mystery and one that the Attorney-General's department should lose no time in putting a detective at work to unravel. The case is all the more mysterious from the fact that the identity of the victim cannot be established. That Chance Long was the last man who saw him alive other than his two companions is established by all the facts. The body had evidently been in the water nearly a week, and the discovery of the hat floating in the stream Monday showed that the man was then in the water. How did he meet his death? There are but three explanations:

1. He either waded out into the stream, fired the bullet into his head, then threw the revolver away and sank to the bottom of the river; or

2. Was accidentally shot by one of his companions, who, becoming alarmed, threw the body into the river, and resolved to keep their own counsel; or,

3. He was murdered by his companions, and the waters of the Rouge furnished the means of hiding the crime until the assassins were far from the scene.

Whatever the explanation, how is the silence of the man's companions accounted for? Where and who are they? Where did they part with deceased and what was the cause of their separation?

HE BELONGED TO TORONTO.

Mr. A. Simons, second hand dealer, York street, fully identified the piece of clothing shown him as being a portion of a suit of second hand clothing sold to a man answering the description of the floater about a month ago. He was not acquainted with the man, but understood him to say that he had been employed on the Belt Line. Simons is of the opinion that the man boarded somewhere in the vicinity of York street, as he had seen him pass the store frequently the last time about a fortnight since. The names on the slips of paper possess no significance. Mr. T. Heintzman, who was telegraphed for, could see no use in viewing the body and did not go over. He thought perhaps he was a piano tuner out of work. Mr. Cluthe was also at a loss to account for the fact of his name being in the dead man's possession. M. L. Shane does not appear in the Toronto directory. He may have been an acquaintance of the deceased.

THE INQUEST ADJOURNED.

After hearing the evidence the inquest was adjourned for a fortnight in order that a post mortem examination might be made of the remains and in the hope that in the meantime some clue to the identity of the deceased may be obtained. It will resume again at Secker's Hotel, Liverpool, on Monday, Aug. 17.

Constable Dennis O'Connor of Pickering has taken charge of the effects and to-day the corpse will be interred at the expense of the township of Pickering, it being impossible to preserve the body for identification owing to the advanced stage of decomposition.

THE POSTMORTEM.

Dr. Baleman of Pickering and Dr. J. R. Dales of Dunbarton, made the postmortem. The exposure to the air during the previous 48 hours had hastened decomposition greatly, and the task of the doctors was not an enviable one. The result of the examination was to prove unmistakably that the man was dead when placed in the water, death being directly due to the bullet wound in the right temple. The bullet was found imbedded in the brain. The utter absence of water on the lungs established the fact that death was not caused by drowning. There were no other marks of violence on the body, which was that of a man in good health and well nourished.

The most suspicious feature of the whole affair, however, is the continued silence of the two men who were with the dead man the last time he was seen alive? If the man's death was accidental, why do these men not come forward and tell what they know concerning his identity and his movements?

An effort will now be made to find the two companions of the deceased, who if found can doubtless throw considerable light on the tragedy. A fairly accurate description of these men can be obtained from parties in the locality who saw them.

RUSSIA AND FRANCE.

AN ALLIANCE BETWEEN THESE POWERS BEING NEGOTIATED.

A Rumor With Some Foundation That There Will be Joint Interference in Egypt—The Meaning of Lord Salisbury's Mansion House Speech.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The visit of the French fleet to Cronstadt has filled Europe with rumors. The sky is black with them; mostly canards, one may be permitted to think; but there are one or two of extreme gravity, for which there is some authority. The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Times sends one. He receives from a good source the positive statement that negotiations for an ultimate alliance between France and Russia have been going on in Paris. Some kind of agreement has been reached between the Russian Ambassador in Paris and the French Foreign Minister. The French fleet is the bearer of a rough draft of this agreement which the Czar and his Ministers have been considering all the week, amid the blaze of festivities, with Admiral Gervais to help them. It is to be the basis of an alliance in future, not at present, says this authority. The account is full of obvious improbabilities, not least of which is the improbability that Baron Mohrenheim should be the chosen negotiator of such high matters.

Next comes a story of joint interference in Egypt. This is more serious, if true, because immediate. France, of course, longs for the expulsion of the hated English from the country they have regenerated. Her uninterrupted intrigues at Cairo have failed. They are now to be carried on at Constantinople. The Khedive, devoted first of all to his own country, is loyal to the English as benefactors of his country. He has shown himself superior to French diplomacy and indifferent to French menace. The Sultan is, therefore, to be asked to get rid of him and to replace him by somebody who will be more pliable to French manœuvres. Such an attempt by France alone might have little chance of success. Supported by Russia, it may have more. If the Sultan be weak enough to yield, England will find herself in a dilemma. She will have to elect between resisting the mandate of the Sultan, whose right of suzerainty she recognizes, and trying to govern through an Egyptian Executive, avowedly hostile to her. It is a clever move on the part of the French whose moves on the Egyptian board have never been hampered by any sentimental concern for the welfare of Egypt or the Egyptians. This report was mentioned last night in the House of Commons. Sir James Ferguson took the usual official view of it. Neither he nor any diplomatist would admit the truth of it, unless official, and then would not admit it because official. What he said has really no bearing on the question whether the story be true or not.

Great quantities of ink have been shed over the visit of the French fleet to Cronstadt. The descriptions of the French-Russian festivities are interesting, the political speculations based on them are interesting, and the telegrams exchanged between the Czar Alexander and President Carnot are most interesting of all. Paris is beside itself with joy. You may almost hear the echo of that fatal cry of the boulevards in 1870, "To Berlin!" The politicians of France, including, I think, some of her Ministers, do believe in a coming alliance between France and Russia. The prospects of such an alliance are more freely discussed than the objects of it. What would be the objects? It would be an alliance of war. Of an alliance for defence there is no thought and no need. There is not in all Europe a single Power which dreams of attacking either France or Russia. There is no Frenchman or Russian who believes there is. Germany is intrenched on the Rhine, Austria is threatened in the Principalities and Italy is threatened in Africa and in Italy. They therefore alley themselves for defence. Where, or by whom, is either Russia or France menaced? Not one of the French papers, the most imaginative in the world, can tell you.

The Prime Minister's Mansion House speech at the end of the Parliamentary session is always expected to contain matter of interest. Sometimes it is a retrospect, sometimes a disclosure and occasionally a prophecy. Lord Salisbury's on Wednesday is perhaps most remarkable for its omission of any direct reference to the French fleet at Cronstadt, or to those ominous rumors of a warlike alliance between France and Russia which will fill the press of Europe. He prefers to dwell on the German Emperor's visit to England, and, most of all, on the Emperor's Guildhall speech. "His pacific sentiments," said Lord Salisbury, "were expressed in language of great simplicity and power, which must have carried conviction to all who heard them." It would be odd if the Emperor's speech did not carry conviction to the mind of Lord Salisbury, considering that it was submitted to him for revision before it was delivered. What the Prime Minister said on the subject of alliances is more significant still. He declared categorically that he does not know what the treaties between Germany, Austria and Italy may contain; he has carefully abstained from asking; but he repeats what he said not long since that treaties by themselves are little; it is community of interests which is important. It is that which will bind nations to act together, not because they have bound themselves to each other by protocols. He makes light of engagements arising out of signatures upon a piece of paper. Then follows a declaration, simple enough in terms, but memorable for what underlies it:

"For ourselves," says the Prime Minister and Foreign Minister of England, "we have a simple rule. Our allies are all those who wish to maintain territorial distribution as it is, without risking the terrible arbitrament of war. Our allies are all those who desire peace and good-will."

Lord Salisbury's words are a plain warning to France. They sound like an echo of that too famous exclamation which Mr. Gladstone addressed from Midlothian to Austria: "Hands off!" Mr. Gladstone, to whom exercises of humiliation seem pleasing, whether in Southern Europe or Southern Africa, apologized for the outburst. Lord Salisbury is not an outburst; it insults nobody, requires no apology, and will be followed by none. There is not in all his speech a single word of which France can scomplain. None the less does she resent it, and none the less does it pledge this Government in the face of Europe to the party of the status quo.

A MAN TRANSFIXED.

Horrible Accident on the Gatineau Valley Railway.

OTTAWA, Aug. 3. The Gatineau Valley railway was the scene of a terrible accident yesterday. It seems that three men, John Sullivan, Geo. Laing and Joseph Ardain went up to the peche on a hand car or pumper early in the morning. Within a short distance of Chelsea the pumper suddenly left the rails throwing the men off and hurling them headover heels to the bottom. Sullivan and Laing were dashed some 60 feet through the scrub but picked themselves up, not much the worse for their experience except many scratches and a few bruises. When they had fully come to their senses and rubbed themselves down, they looked for their comrade, whom they found crushed and bleeding under the truck. Having lifted off the pumper, they found poor Ardain hardly able to speak. The handle of the pumper had struck him at the juncture of the breast and bowels and completely transfixed him. In horror they hurriedly hauled the truck up the steep bank and getting it on the line left the bleeding sufferer where they found him and made the best pace they could to Chelsea where they secured a doctor. Directly the doctor saw him he knew death was certainly a speedy result. Still he did all he could to alleviate the agonies of the dying man and having him carefully lifted took him back to Chelsea. Arrived at Chelsea the poor fellow breathed his last at 5 o'clock. An inquest may be held.

Frank Graham, manager of the Royal Exchange Hotel, had one of his ribs broken last night in an altercation with a ruffian in the bar whom he ordered out. On the order being given he picked up a large piece of phosphate weighing about two pounds and hurled it at Mr. Graham and broke one of his ribs on the left side. The man was finally ejected.

WHEN THE END WILL COME.

P. Larkin as a Witness for the Defence—a Letter to Mike Connolly.

OTTAWA, Aug. 3.—Government counsel think that the taking of evidence in the Privileges and Elections Committee will be finished on Saturday. This means that there is to be no elaborate attempt at a defence. A great deal will depend upon Mr. Thomas McGreevy's attitude. What time the committee will take to consider their report, whether they will hear argument, whether one report or a minority report as well will be drawn up, what time will be occupied in the debate in the House—all are questions determining the length of the case and of the session.

When the committee met on Saturday morning Larkin, witness for the defence, was cross-examined by Geoffrion. He said he had several interviews with Sir Hector Langevin respecting contracts.

Mr. Geoffrion then showed Larkin a letter written in 1881 by him to Mike Connolly. It mentioned his having seen one Simard, and he tells Mike: "Simard is a cousin of Sir Hector Langevin and has said to me that whenever I want anything done with him to let him know. This is not a bad card."

Sir John Thompson warmly objected to the reception of this letter. He contended that it was put in merely because it contained an insulting reference to a minister.

Mr. Lister replied that the letter showed Larkin to be one of those seeking to obtain by underground influence undue advantage.

If the letter was pressed the Minister of Justice threatened to see in future that the case was conducted strictly according to the rules of evidence and law.

Considerable discussion followed. Finally the letter was used simply to cross-examine the witness upon.

Witness admitted having Thomas McGreevy in mind in taking Robert into the company. He did not let the harbor commissioners know Robert was one of his partners. Robert never put in a cent of capital in return for the 33 per cent. interest. He did not look upon Robert as a regular partner, but simply as an outsider having an interest in certain contracts. He expected that Robert would have his brother Thomas' ear. He supposed that Thomas would be aware of Robert's interest. He swore that he had no recollection of ever urging others to use their influence with Sir Hector Langevin.

Mr. Tarte thereupon showed him a letter written by witness to Mike Connolly Dec. 18, 1880, saying: "Bring your friends to immediate action. What about Shanly? Has he been appointed yet? Tomlinson has made his report to the Minister. It is short and to the point, and I judge favorable to us."

Witness swore that he had no recollection of this, that and the other transaction and interview, and was invariably confronted with documents, chiefly his own letters and telegrams, showing that he did do those things he now pretended he did not remember.

Witness said he knew that some of the stone left over from B. C. graving docks was taken to Quebec, but whether it was paid for by the Government at both ends he did not know. On the 16th June, 1881, witness wrote to Mike Connolly, saying: "I am in hopes Sir Hector will not recede from what he said about furnishing the funds for the work controlled by Kinniple & Morris. In that case all may be right yet, and if not the charges contemplated must be of considerable advantage if proper prices are obtained, which no doubt you will look sharply after."

Witness swore that most of the letters he received from the partners he had destroyed.

At present I want to sell, and I have a fixed location at 357 George street. You can have no difficulty in finding my office, and I want any and every person who wishes to buy to come to, talk matters over, tell me what you wish to buy, where you want to buy, when and how you can pay—give me full particulars, and then I can, and will, give you intelligent advice. I claim that thirty years practical business experience has qualified me to do so. In the past many have acted upon my suggestions and made their fens, hundreds and thousands by doing so; as many more who would not be advised are regretting their loss, instead of counting their gain.

The Scandals.

The St. John's, P.Q., News is a strong Tory paper, but not an absolutely blind one. In its last issue it admits that the testimony taken by the investigating committees reveals a most discreditable state of affairs:—

"Men in high positions of trust, whose characters were supposed to be unimpeachable and who were in receipt of high salaries, have been shown to be nothing better than is commonly termed boodlers—that is, they have prostituted their position to make money irregularly and illegally. The have accepted bribes from contractors for betraying their trusts; they have certified to false accounts; they have drawn money to which they were not lawfully entitled, and in various other ways have made themselves fit candidates for a Provincial penitentiary. Unfortunately these irregular proceedings are not merely of a recent date. From the evidence before the committee it by had their origin over twenty years ago, and they have continued ever since with little variation, except that they have steadily grown in volume and magnitude."

So far so good. But the old Adam here asserts itself and instead of demanding a clean sweep of the boodlers, high and low. The News says it is not desirable that the Liberals should obtain office; it wishes to see "the Government go on with its important work unimpeded by traitors within its camp and fearless of foes from without." The only work the Government has done of late has been that of impeding the investigations. Sir John Thompson has shown to fairly good advantage, but his colleagues have used every effort to keep the truth from coming to light. Even now, when the proof of wrong-doing has been piled to the ceiling, the cry is raised that while the minor rascals must be punished for the sake of appearances it is necessary at any cost to save Sir Hector, though manifestly he was either an accomplice or an incompetent who allowed the thieves to break in and steal under his very eyes. If the editor of the News were a shareholder in a bank and Sir Hector the cashier, how long would he permit the latter to remain in office under the circumstances existing in this case; and what would he say to the other officials if they proposed merely to dismiss the porter or some poor devil of a clerk by way of discouraging robberies in the future? The News makes out that the country is not favorable to the Liberal policy and argues from this that a change of Government is not to be thought of. But how does it know what the honest opinion of the people is? The election returns do not help us to arrive at any satisfactory conclusion. It has been shown by the testimony that at the general election in 1887 huge sums were contributed by Larkin & Co. from their stealings to Sir Hector's reptile fund. For all any of us know to the contrary, Charlebois, the contractor for the Langevin block, and "Andrew C. Bancroft," who is building the Kingston dock under the style and title of Bancroft & Connolly, may have poured in money at the elections last March; in fact it is of all things the most probable. The Chapleauist writer in La Presse declared in 1886 that every single contract let by Sir Hector had been manipulated in order to keep the pot boiling for the elections, and the News must allow that wherever light has been turned upon the operations of the department investigated fraud and corruption has been found. It is equally notorious that the protected manufacturers supplied money for the purchase of voters out of the proceeds of taxes levied in their behalf upon the people at large. They paid in bribery funds for their licenses to fleece the consumer just as Larkin & Co. paid for leave to put their hands into the treasury. Having debauched the electors by this means, the Tories have no right to assume anything about the feeling of the country on the trade question or any other issue. A verdict rendered by a bought jury has no meaning except those that administered the bribe were afraid of a fair expression of opinion; and so that extent Liberals may reasonably assert that their policy is the more popular of the two.

It is sniffing with public intelligence for the Tories to pretend that the men responsible for all this hideous uncleanness are just the men to undertake the work of reform. A case very much to the point has lately occurred in the United States. The Republicans in Pennsylvania had been disgraced by scandals in which members of the party had been implicated. They saw that they must redeem themselves or thy and the party throughout the country would have to dance in 1892 to the tune of "Tu n the rascals out." Their chief leader was United States Senator Quary chairman of the Executive Committee of the Republican National Committee, and a "bar tal noise in State politics. Quay had charge of Mr. Harrison's election in 1888 and directed the campaign. Since then he has been accused of boodling in State affairs, and has been unable to offer a satisfactory explanation. Accordingly the better reasoning Republicans demanded that he should withdraw from the National Committee, though the "workers" who had handled his money be kept about his long services, his brilliant work for the party and all the rest of it, and protested that he would be the best man to ply the broom. But public opinion was proved too strong for this sort of shilly-shallying, and on Wednesday Mr Quay placed his resignation from the National Committee in the hands of the Secretary. He will not be returned to the Senate again, and his usefulness as a local politician is gone. This is as it should be. Ye Quay posing as a reformer would not have been half so grotesque a spectacle as Sir Hector will be with the contractors' testimonial at his credit in the bank and the theft of a round million from his department to answer for to the people. Then what of his colleagues? Are we so believe that they did not know that he had a repute fund, or that they fancied it came from the farmers? Sir Adolphe at least must have had a pretty good idea where it came from, for, according to Uncle Tarmac, he was an old provider than Sir Hector. The action of Parliament in this matter will be watched with interest far beyond the bounds of Canada. The whole English-speaking world is aware of the iniquities that have been laid bare, and is waiting to see whether as a community we still possess sufficient moral stamina to punish the guilty without regard to rank or station. The reputation of the country is at stake, and it may be said that the public credit is also involved, for every foreign investor and money-lender to whom we owe a dollar will shiver if he hears that gigantic swindles can take place at Ottawa and nobody be laid by the heels except a subordinate or two who merely followed at a distance the example of a Minister of the Crown. This is a consideration which it is worth while to press upon Tory merchants and bankers too busy to analyze the ethical side of the question. A higher aspect is whether as a people we ought not to do right for the sake of right, as well as for the effect which our decision, whatever it may be, must have upon the minds and habits of the rising generation. It should not be difficult to induce respectable Conservatives like the News to put aside party prejudice in reviewing an issue of this simple character. If we palter with wrong and pervert equity for the benefit of those in high places, it we permit it to be said that in Canada "the tabernacles of robbers prosper and they that provoke God are secure," provided they are political leaders, the life of Confederation must soon come to an end, and the sooner the better for us all.—Globe.

Manitoba Crops.

The intelligence respecting the condition of the crops in our Northwest provinces continues to be very encouraging, and so is that from Ontario. Indeed, in some parts of the latter province wheat has been harvested of excellent quality and of generous yield. The Government of Manitoba issued a crop bulletin to July 16, giving information received up to July 1, under a variety of headings, and regarding the outlook then as very encouraging. We append a statement giving comparisons with 1890, of a number of items dealt with in the report:—

	1890	1891
Rainfall recorded in June	2.94 in.	5.57 in.
Average cash price of improved land	$9.43	$10 85
Average cash price of unimproved land	$5.43	$6 96
Percentage of land occupied	57.2	62.7
Percentage of land fit for cultivation	71 4	74 8
Number of farms in the province	13,877	18,937
Average acreage put under crop by each	72.0	78.5

Wet weather set in during the first week, and throughout the month a great deal of rain fell. The rainfall was general over the vince, but heavier in some parts than in others. The heaviest fall was in the eastern and southwestern parts of the province. The average rainfall in Manitoba, at thirty-two stations, during June, was 5.54 inches.

DAIRYING.

This branch of industry is not receiving the attention it should in a province like this, which is so eminently adapted for dairying purposes. The reasons are many, among which may be mentioned the long distances in many cases that cream and milk have to be drawn, the unsatisfactory prices realized by farmers for their milk, and the want of factories and creameries in many places where at present there are none.

One of the great drawbacks in the past has been the cost of delivering milk, but the rapidity with which the number of milch cows are increasing is an indication that this item of expense will soon be overcome. The number of milch cows in the province is shown to be 75,968. Of this total the greatest numbers are found in the eastern, south, central and the north-western districts. These figures would seem to bear out the statements of many correspondents that the number of cheese factories and creameries in the province are not sufficiently numerous to utilize the cream and milk that could be and is produced in a great many localities.

LIVE STOCK.

As might be expected from the very favorable weather of June, reports of the most satisfactory nature are made of the condition of stock. During the month the pastures provided an ample supply of rich grass, and a rapid change in condition was the result. Stock are reported free from disease and in a most healthy and thriving condition.

FODDER CROPS.

A good deal of attention is apparently being paid to growing green crops for fodder, this season, over the province. From almost every point reports state that more or less area has been put under crop of this kind. Millet, Hungarian grass, corn, oats and peas are among the varities principally mentioned as being sown. Large areas are apparently devoted to Hungarian grass and millet. Corn is also reported from quite a few places. Peas and oats, mixed appear to be sown quite generally, and in many cases oats alone are sown for the purpose of being cut for fodder. In many instances mixtures of oats and other seeds are sown together, all apparently experimenting for the purpose of arriving at the best possible results.

GENERAL FARMING.

The total number of farmers is shown to be 18 937, and the average area put under crop by each is 78.5 acres. This area is an increase of 5 5 acres over the average of last year. Taking the number of farmers and the average area put under crop by each, the total acreage that this would show to be under cultivation corresponds very closely with that shown to be under crop in the Province on the 1st of June last.

FARM LANDS.

The respective cash prices of improved and unimproved lands are shown to be $10 85 and $6 96 per acre. These figures are somewhat higher than those reported at the corresponding date of last year, the difference in improved lands being $1.42 and unimproved $1.53 per acre. The highest priced lands are shown to be $14.39 per acre, in the central group, and the lowest in the north-western—$6 11. Unimproved lands vary in prices from $3.66 to $10 37 per acre.

The percentages of the land shown to be taken up by settlers is 62 7 per cent. of the whole. This is 5.2 per cent. more than was shown to be taken up last year. The proportion of land suitable for cultivation is 74 8 per cent.

"Oh, if I had only taken this medicine earlier in life, what years of suffering it would have saved me!" was the touching exclamation of one who had become cured of rheumatism by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Scores of such cases are on record.

The Safest

AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use. For the eruptive diseases peculiar to children nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.

"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla presents, for chronic diseases of almost every kind, the best remedy known to the medical world."—D. M. Wilson, M. D., Wiggs, Arkansas.

A Handsome Prize.

An Evidence of What a Genuine Magazine Competition Offers.

On Friday there arrived from Toronto, for Miss M. Hora, a handsome Shetland pony, harness and cart, being the first award in the Royal Quilt Competition of The Canadian Queen magazine. It attests the genuine nature of the magazine's contests by its excellent condition and value. The Queen has frequent competitions and has made innumerable awards, displaying a generosity quite surprising to those who have had experience of the limited field for Canadian journalistic enterprise. But the Queen has been a success as a business venture from the start, and is growing in literary excellence steadily. It covers the field of fashion, as we as light reading; talks to the household, the young and indeed all home classes. The competitions have been used to assist the introduction of the magazine, for where it is introduced it is quite certain to remain a monthly guest. The leading prizes have been made, as instance this latest to Kingston, while many smaller prizes have rewarded the moderately successful among competitors. The Canadian Queen is truly royal in its ways.—The (Kingston On...) Daily British Whig. June 27th 1891.

The Safest

AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use. For the eruptive diseases peculiar to children nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable flavor makes it easy to administer.

"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. Two physicians attended him, but he grew continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on its head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, its skin is fresher, and its appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla presents, for chronic diseases of almost every kind, the best remedy known to the medical world."—D. M. Wilson, M. D., Wiggs, Arkansas.

ARSON WITH INTENT TO MURDER.

Benjamin Barnes Committed for Trial on a Serious Charge.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Benjamin Barnes and Frances J. Garraway, of Parkhill, on Friday, were brought before Squire Wells. The former is a West Williams farmer, and is charged with having set fire to his house on April 24 last. The girl Garraway is a recent importation from England, not yet 21 years old, and is charged with inciting Barnes to commit the deed alleged against him. After hearing the testimony, the magistrate committed Barnes for trial, refusing bail, and discharged the girl. Some startling testimony was elicited in the course of the proceedings.

Mrs. Dignan but for whose daring rescue of Mrs. Barnes the latter would most assuredly have been burned to death, told her story. In reply to questions Barnes had informed her that he had asked his wife to get up several times. The witness then rushed into Mrs. Barnes' bedroom and found the old lady, who was a sufferer from rheumatism and partial paralysis and utterly helpless, in bed, with her head propped up on one elbow. She was undressed, and, naturally enough, was in a terribly excited state of mind. The flames were already bursting in through the bedroom window, which looked out on the front lawn, and the room was filled with smoke.

Thomas Skerratt told the court that four years ago the prisoner said he wished his place was burned down, as the money would be of more use.

Mr. McPherson: How did he beat his wife?

Mr. Judd: I object. Such testimony is not relevant to the case.

The objection was overruled, and witness answered, "The last time I asked prisoner about his wife he said, 'The old b——h is likely to live as she was six years ago. I have heard him abuse her with his tongue and often wish her dead. Prisoner told me that if the old woman died he would marry Miss Garraway and settle half his property upon her." Witness admitted that he and the prisoner were not on good terms because the latter had scandalized witness' wife.

George Snowden, at one time an employe of Barnes, said prisoner had often wished to him that his buildings would burn down. Last October he said it would not take much for him to set fire to them, and he offered witness a consideration to burn the buildings, which offer witness decidedly refused to accept. Witness told how on two occasions he had put out a fire started by the prisoner, which threatened to burn the house. "In November last," witness continued, "I saw prisoner with a piece of fire wood in his hand take his wife by the breast and threaten for two cents to kill her."

THE DAILY R. R. ACCIDENT.

seventy Passengers Hurled into a Ditch and More or Less Injured.

BELLAIRE, Ohio, Aug. 1. At about 10 o'clock yesterday passenger train No. 4 on the Bellaire, Zanesville & Cincinnati narrow-gauge railroad left the track three miles south of Bellaire, two cars being overturned and dragged some distance by the engine. There were 70 passengers on the train, and the two cars that turned over were crowded with well-known people of this section. The rain was running at the rate of 35 miles an hour and as it reached a curve the cars were noticed to sway violently. Somebody shouted to the passengers to keep their seats, but a rush was made for the doors. Many passengers had reached the platform when the cars jumped the rails and then they turned over. These were hurled into the ditch in an indiscriminate mass of men, women and children, the latter shrieking fearfully as they went down. The shock was awful. Many who clung to the seats were hurled from one side to the other, those not badly injured being terribly shaken up. Assistance was soon at hand from other passengers and the trainmen, and when all were taken out of the wrecked cars it was found 14 people had been injured, four of them seriously and one fatally. The seriously injured are: John Morris, baggage master, hurt internally, badly bruised and will probably die; Charles McElroy, leg broken and otherwise bruised; William McElroy, head hurt and internal injuries; John Irwin of Bethel, Ohio, head crushed and scalp injured; J. P. Wilcox of York, Pa., head badly injured. Last night all except Morris were reported to be in a fair way of recovery.

A Riot From Famine Misery.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—A St. Petersburg dispatch states that the greatest misery exists in Bessarabia owing to the failure of the harvest and the scarcity of food. In the village of Koushany the people broke out into a riot and plundered shops of provisions. The local police tried to restrain them, and were badly beaten and one of their number killed. Reinforcements arriving from the town of Beuler, the rioters were at length dispersed, and a large number were made prisoners. Two or three prisoners were mouthed to death in the public street as a warning to their late companions, and six were selected for immediate transportation to Siberia. The wives and children of the exiles were not permitted to speak to them before departing and nothing was spared that would be likely to strike terror into the unhappy peasantry. At Kishenau, the chief place of the province, it is said that not less than twelve persons have died from starvation this month.

A German Bank Forger Arrested.

BERLIN, Aug. 1. The sensation caused by the fact that forgeries to a large amount on the Deutsche Bank had been discovered is gradually disappearing as the facts in the case are made public. A clerk named Hoess, in the employ of the bank, and a stock broker named Schweiger were the guilty parties. Franck, it appears, who was allowed to draw bills of exchange, forged some bills and with them purchased Russian roubles through Schweiger. Schweiger was arrested last night and Franck is believed to be on his way to the United States.

Damages for False Arrest—Train Wreckers Sentenced to Penitentiary.

HALIFAX, Aug. 1.—Some time ago Albert Newton, a waiter in a Halifax hotel, was arrested upon a charge of stealing $400 from Robert G. Leckie, manager of the Londonderry iron mines, then a guest at the hotel. Subsequently Leckie found the money in his boot, where by some means it had slipped down. Newton now sues Leckie for $5000 damages for false arrest.

William and Angus McDougall, two brothers, aged 16 and 18 respectively, have been sentenced to the penitentiary for six and eight years respectively for attempting to wreck the Cape Breton express. They did it for a joke and from behind the bushes watched the result of the train being switched into the gutter.

The express on the Nova Scotia Central ran off the track near Bridgewater last night and was wrecked. None of the passengers were hurt.

Nearly Killed Her Husband.

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Margaret Sims of 12 Anderson street nearly killed her husband during a quarrel yesterday. She stabbed him twice with a table knife in the right cheek and once in the neck, nearly severing the jugular vein, which the knife missed by only an eighth of an inch. The husband, who lied profusely, was taken to the General Hospital where he lies in a critical condition.

Death of Miss Littlehales.

HAMILTON, Aug. 1.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Littlehales are mourning the death of their eldest daughter, Edith Annie, who died yesterday. Deceased had been ill for some time. A few months ago she went south for a few months, but on returning home she became worse and gradually sank until death came. Deceased was a talented violinist, and spent two years in Leipsic studying the art she loved so well. For several seasons she was leader of the Philharmonic orchestra.

A Coming Aquatic Event.

BURLINGTON BEACH, Aug. 1.—The four great oarsmen who will try double scull conclusions on the bay here on the 8th are now here in training. Gaudaur and McKay had a couple of fast spins yesterday afternoon before an admiring throng. Hanlan and O'Connor arrived yesterday accompanied by their trainer, Rice, and having with them their new Warrin shell, the Argonaut double and other impedimenta necessary. All the men are in fine condition, but although the odds are 100 to 90 on Gaudaur and McKay there were no takers, speculators desiring to see both doubles at work before laying any wagers.

THE HORRIBLE COST OF WAR.

Millions of Lives Sacrificed in the Wars of the Last Thirty Years.

According to the estimates of French and German statisticians there have perished in the wars of the last thirty years 2,500,000 men, while there has been expended to carry them on no less than the inconceivable sum of $13,-700,000,000. Of this amount France has paid nearly $3,500,000,000 as the cost of the war with Prussia, while her loss in men is placed at 155,000. Of these 80,000 were killed on the field of battle, 36,000 died of sickness, accidents, or suicide, and 20,000 in German prisons, while there died from other causes enough to bring the number up to the given aggregate. The sick and wounded amounted to 477,421, the lives of many thousands of whom were doubtless shortened by their illness or injuries.

According to Dr. Roth, a German authority the Germans lost during the war 60,000 men killed or rendered invalid and $600,000,-000 in money, this being the excess of expenditure or of material losses over the $1,-250,000,000 paid by France by way of indemnity. Dr. Engel, another distinguished German statistician, gives the following as the approximate cost of the principal wars of the last thirty years: Crimean war, $2,000,000,000; Italian war of 1859, $300,000,000; Prusso-Danish war of 1864, $35,000,000; War of the Rebellion (North), $5,100,000,000, (South) $2,300,000,000; Prusso-Austrian war, of 1866, $390,-000,000; Russo-Turkish war, $125,000,000; South African wars, $8,770,000; African war, $13,250,050; Servo-Bulgarian war, $176,000,000.

All these wars were murderous in the extreme. The Crimean war, in which few battles were fought, cost 750,000 lives only 50,000 less than were killed or died of their wounds, North and South, during the War of the Rebellion. The figures, it must be remembered, are German, and might not agree precisely with American estimates. The Mexican and Chinese expeditions cost $200,-000,000 and 65,000 lives. There were 250,000 killed and mortally wounded during the Russo-Turkish war, and 45,000 each in the Italian war of 1859 and the war between Prussia and Austria. In the other wars the loss of life was relatively less, which did not make either the men or money easier to part with in the more limited areas where they occurred.

And this is but a part of the accounting' since it does not include the millions expended during the last 20 years in maintaining the vast armaments of the European Powers, the losses caused by the stoppage of commerce and manufacturers, and the continual derangement of industries by the abstraction from useful employment of so many million of persons held for a period of military service extending from three to five years.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Blood Will Tell.

Of course it will—that is if it is good, healthy blood. It will glow in the cheek, and tell the story of perfect physical health. If it does not, if the complexion is devoid of colour, the muscles weak and flaccid, something is wrong, and something ought to be done about it at once, for in such cases delays are dangerous. For torpid liver, biliousness and the thousand and one ills to which these conditions of the system lead, there is no remedy in the world equal to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Boils, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous sores, salt-rheum, and all blood diseases are cured by it. a

It is a Very Sad Thing

To see young and beautiful people die when they might just as well live and enjoy health and strength. Many who suffer with coughs, colds and lung troubles, leading to consumption, imagine there is no hope for them, when in reality there is every hope if Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is taken regularly. Spread the news everywhere that this great emulsion will make flesh and blood, cure coughs, colds, bronchitis, sore throats and lung troubles tending to consumption. In big bottles, 50c. and $1 at Peterborough drug stores. dw

Consult Your neighbors.

Any one may find out just what Burdock Blood Bitters is and does by asking a neighbor who has tried it. It rarely fails in making a complete cure of dyspepsia, constipation, sickheadache, biliousness and diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels and blood. dw

To get relief from indigestion, biliousness, constipation or torpid liver without disturbing the stomach or purging the bowels, take a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills, they will please you. dw

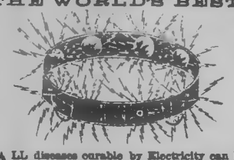
Self Application of Electricity
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES
BY THE
DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto
THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the NERVOUS and Muscular Systems.
Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.
Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Municipal Jobbery.

There is more than reasonable ground to suppose that there will be unearthed a large amount of jobbery and corruption in connection with the school buildings addition and the street railway franchise. A Point Scored by Advertising.

Two weeks ago there was inserted in this paper an advertisement from Mr. J. J Sheehy announcing the fact that he had about 200 dozen of straw hats which were to be sold at the rate of two for five cents. It seemed he had, was read, learned and inwardly digested for to-day scarcely twenty dozen hats are left. The balance will be cleared out this week at even lower prices, so look out for bargains in the "millinery line." Mr. Sheehy will also offer this week the following great inducements to the purchasing public:—Silk lace mits in all colours at 10c., pure silk gloves at 20c., 100 pieces of beautiful prints, worth 12½c., at 10c. The Cash Dry Goods Store is bound to keep faith with the public, and now it will devolve upon the public to call and see if this is or is not a bona fide offer. dwtf

Oh, Ho! There!

How about Civic Holiday, Joe? What excursion are you going on?

Well, Ed., I am going to take in the best one, and that goes to Sturgeon Point with the C. M. B. A. Society.

Might I ask for what reason?

Simply because the trip is somewhat original, the sail is grand, the scenery fine. They also give you every amusement and comfort, and the fare is only a trifle. Just think of it—only a dollar for such a day's outing.

That's a fact, Ed., you are right. They have also chartered the fastest boat on the northern waters, as well as a palace scow, and the very best music for dancing. Therefore I am with you. Anyhow the C.M.B.A. always has a first class excursion in every respect. d27 28

The Diamond Dusters.

Another Victory for the Peterboroughs Over the Wm. Hamilton Company's Team.

Another of the interesting series of matches between local baseball nines took place on the P.A.A.A. grounds Saturday afternoon, when the Association team were again victorious. To spectators the game appeared to be good amateur ball playing. In the first half it looked as though the Wm. Hamilton Company's nine were going to win, the score at the end of the fifth innings being 6 to 2 in their favor. Then the Peterboroughs donned their batting clothes. Lovett appeared to weaken, and before the side was retired 16 more runs had been added to their total. Grange then went in the box for the Hamilton team. As a rule playing was sharp and quick on both sides, and comparatively few errors were made.

For the winners McCabe pitched a rattling game, striking out 11 men, and in two innings disposing of the three batsmen without allowing them to touch the ball. Graham was behind the bat and played his usual good game. The fielding of the Peterboroughs was no better than their opponents, but they won the game by their superior stick work, as the record of 16 hits shows. Of these Pomfret made a beautiful "homer" over left field fence, and Hay made a clean two-bagger.

The defeated nine having nothing to feel ashamed of. They played a good all-round game. Lovett proved a puzzling twirler at first, and struck out 5 men, but his arm did not seem in shape and he weakened in his delivery. McKim received him in good style. Johnston put up a good game at second, making the only double play of the day, and Holmes on left field raked in three successive flies.

Mr. B. McManus umpired impartially and satisfactorily. Following was the score:—

Leonard vs. Town of Peterborough.

Judgment Given in Favor of Plaintiff

CHANCERY DIVISION.

Before MacMahon, J.

Leonard v. Town of Peterborough.—Judgment in action tried at Peterborough, Ottawa, and Toronto. Action for damages for trespass on the plaintiff's premises, lot 1 and 2 in block C, east of George street and north of Wolf street, in the town of Peterborough. The trespass committed by the defendants on the premises was justified as being done on an original road allowance known as Water street. The question as to the declaration by the Crown of a street the learned judge finds against the defendants, and holds that the defendants are liable for the damage caused by the destruction of the trees which she had planted and the removal of the soil, etc., and he assesses the whole damages at $500. If, however, the defendants are only liable for the damage caused by the trespass over four and eleven feet (and he finds that they intended to cut twenty feet further into the plaintiff's land, and had staked it out for that purpose, claiming that the street went twenty feet beyond the four feet and the eleven feet), he holds that the plaintiff is entitled to damages occasioned thereby, which he assesses at $75. If (as the learned judge understands to be the case) the plaintiff is willing to accept the damages assessed for the lesser trespass, judgment for her for $75 with full costs, and for a perpetual injunction restraining the defendants from going on or interfering with the plaintiff's land to within four feet of the present cutting in the centre of the plaintiff's lot and within eleven feet of the cutting on the north. If the plaintiff is not willing to accept the smaller amount, judgment to be for the $500, and the injunction to be extended so as to cover the land on the bank of the river.

Congregational Meeting.

In answer to a largely signed petition, the Rector of St. John's has called a meeting of the congregation in the School House tonight at the usual hour. The object of the meeting is to consider important matters in connection with the musical services of the church.

Stony Lake Habitues.

The Stony Lake local was crowded this morning with campers and their canoes and baggage, and the beautiful weather outlook put them all in the best of spirits. It is hoped that August will prove more propitious for campers than July has been.

Police Magistrate Dumble and family were destined for Chemong Bay, as the mouth of which Mr. Dumble will build a cottage.

Mr. J. T. Stenson, the Misses Stenson and Mrs. Polley have engaged Mrs. Wm. Lowe's lodge at "Glenwood."

"What" Camp will pitch its tents on Juniper Island for the coming fortnight. Most of this party went up Saturday, the remainder following to-day. They were:—Mrs. Hooper, of Toronto, Miss Nattress and Miss O'Brien, of Port Hope, Misses Brandstetter, Barrie, Edith Clegg, Messrs. Jenkins, sr., and jr., of Madoc, A. Clegg, T. Barrie, Jno. Crane, A. McCallum, W. Crosby, with Sergt. Billings as cook. The camp will be joined later by others, among them Messrs. F. Grimmon, F. Nattress and W. C. Badge of Port Hope.

The remainder of the party destined for Mr. Connal's cottage went up Saturday night, viz., Misses Nettie and Flora Patterson, Messrs. H. Fitzgerald, C. Bunt, D. Davidson and Bolton Armstrong.

A jolly party of young men will crown the steeple of Otter Island with their canvass, and for the next two weeks their "Echo" will be heard from the Blue mountains to Beckhorn. There are in the party:—Bert. Shaw, Jas. A. Tully, W. D. Jewett, Jos. Cahill, R. Gillespie, J. Gemmil, A. Payson, W. Ivory, R. Petrie, B. Uin, G. Russell, C. Ostrom, R. Armstrong, Joseph Hurley and Stewart Robinson. They will be joined by W. Wright, Ed. Cox and Frank Nicholson, of Toronto.

The family of Mr. E. Peplow have occupied their cottage at "Anchorage" Island.

Messrs. Robt. and Geo. Jaffray, of Toronto, and their families are spending a few weeks at Stony Lake.

News Nuggets.

—The Town Council will meet to-night and the School Board to-morrow night.

—Mr. J. D. Tully's drug store has been considerably brightened and improved, and a handsome, substantial sign placed over the door.

—Miss Jennie Moyse received rather painful injuries from the effects of a fall from a buggy on Saturday. She jumped out as the horse she was driving took fright and gave indications of running away, with the above results.

Harvey's Hail Storm.

Crops Beaten Down and Destroyed—Fruit Perished—The Summer's work Ruined

Mr. Allan Irwin, of Harvey, was in town on Saturday and gave particulars of a terrible hail, thunder and rain storm that visited Northeastern Harvey on July 16th. About 7 o'clock the black clouds discharged a terrific volume of hailstones upon the devoted country cutting down the standing crops like as with a volley of knives, beating the fruit from the trees and making destruction of green things practically as complete as that wrought by an army of locusts. Some of the hail stones were as canoes in weight, and the hail covered the ground to the depth of four inches. The ice shower was followed by a literal downpour of rain, which fell during the night to a depth of twelve inches on the level.

The hail storm, as far as Mr. Irwin knew, was about three miles in length, and its destructive width about half a mile—reaching Flynn's Corners, half a mile southward. Within this area the crops are totally destroyed, the grain being cut into shreds. On many farms there is not a square rod worth cutting. The potato crops were also riddled by the hail, but there are indications of a second growth of the tops which may result in a very late crop. The apples which were not knocked off the trees were furrowed and grooved by the driving hail. On many of the farms the result of the season's work has been practically destroyed.

The Amusing Reply to a Young Lady's Application for a Position as Governess.

A young lady in a town not far from Peterborough advertised in the Mail for a position as governess, and before many days she received the appended unique reply. The following is a copy of the letter, as nearly exact as it was possible to make from the scrawling hand of the writer:—

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The memorial service on Saturday evening was a very impressive and solemn service. Appropriate addresses were given on the need of preparation for the next world by accepting Christ as a personal Saviour and living and serving Him by Mr. D. C. Stephens, general secretary, Sherbrooke, and lessons from the life of our late brother Wm. Holland by Mr. W. N. Simons, Norwalk, Conn. Others spoke of the influence for good our late brother's life had been to them. Mr. Stephens sang very sweetly "Jesus, Pilot Me." The attendance was good, and eternity will alone reveal the results. All present felt the power and helpful influence of the Holy Spirit and fruit was borne for Christ among the young men.

The open air service in Central Park was attended by a vast number, especially young men who listened attentively, and we trust profitably, to the gospel addresses of Mr. D. C. Stephens, Sherbrooke, one on "Sowing and Reaping," which was apt and practical. He also sang very acceptably a sacred solo. The Y.M.C.A. band led the singing, Mr. Simons also assisting in the service, which has been the best yet held, and we are believing for results.

Last evening the hall was crowded at the Gospel and song service. Owing to a pressing official engagement Rev. Mr. Edwards was absent, to the regret of all. Being missionary evening, extracts were read from letters received from Mr. F. G. Saunders, China, and the General Secretary spoke on personal consecration and drew lessons from the life of our late Bro. Holland, whom we shall miss so much in our work, his Christ-like character endearing him to all. "Our loss is his gain." The spirit of the Lord was with me.

Monthly meeting of the Board of Directors Tuesday evening at 8 p.m.

Church Chimes.

At St. Andrew's and the Baptist church yesterday the pastors conducted the services and occupied the pulpits.

In the Mark street Methodist church, Ashburnham, on Sunday morning the services were conducted by the pastor, and in the evening Rev. Dr. Campbell, of Listowel, occupied the pulpit.

In the Charlotte street Methodist church on Sunday morning and evening the pulpit was occupied by Mr. A. E. Swarthout, a student minister at Victoria College, who preached acceptable and able sermons. He will have charge of the church services during Rev. Mr. Edwards' absence on his holidays. At the close of the evening services the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered by Rev. Mr. Edwards.

In St. John's church on Sunday, Rev. John Vicars of Cannington, assisted the rector in the services and preached the sermon in the morning, and conducted the services and preached the sermon in the Mission school building on Sunday evening.

In St. Luke's on Sunday, W. C. W. Hedley, Trinity College School, Port Hope conducted the services both morning and evening.

In St. Paul's church yesterday, both morning and evening, the pulpit was occupied by Rev. R. Canfield Jones, Port Hope.

Rev. John Vicars, of Cannington, held services in the pavilion at Chemong Park yesterday. There was again a large congregation present, and practically hearty interest was taken in the services.

Yesterday was the festival of St. Peter in Chains, the patron saint of the cathedral. Grand high mass was celebrated at 10 a.m. by Rev. Father Dube, assisted by Rev. Father McColl and Mr. Collins.

At the George street Methodist church Sunday, quarterly services were held, Rev. W. J. Ford, L.L.B., of London, preaching in the morning and Rev. D. S. Houck, of Bridgenorth, in the evening. At the evening services Mrs. Emmerson, nee Miss Wells, a former member of the choir, sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," in fine contralto voice.

A Mason's Funeral.

In accordance with the wishes of the relatives of the late Joseph Craig, and in compliance with a message received from Prescott lodge of Masons requesting the Peterborough brethren to extend every fraternal courtesy to the deceased, the remains of the late Mr. Craig were interred Sunday by the Peterborough Masons with appropriate ceremony. Over fifty members of the Order took part in the funeral obequies, and there was besides a large attendance of the public in carriages. Messrs. John and Robert Craig, brothers, the sons and other near relatives of the deceased followed the remains to their last resting place. The funeral took place from the residence of Mr. Geo. May to Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. Geo. Edwards was the officiating clergyman. The solemn burial rites of the Masonic Order were said over the deceased by W. Bros. Brandrette and McFadden, assisted at the grave by V. W. Bro. John O'Donnell and H. Rash. The pall bearers were W. Bro. A. H. Melville, Lindsay; Bro. R. M. Roy, W. Bro. W. J. Martin, W. Bro. Geo. McWilliams, Bro. S. Price and Bro. Thos. Lee.

The Mill of Justice

Sometimes Grinds Slowly, But It Gets There Just the same.

A new Cadi occupied the red plush covered chair at the police court this morning. In the absence of Police Magistrate Dumble, Mr. A. V. R. Young, who has recently been appointed a Justice of the Peace, presided, and received his official baptism as "Your Honor." Mr. Young bore the title with becoming dignity and dealt out even-handed justice "with neatness and despatch."

P. M. Dumble held two special session of the police court Saturday afternoon so as to leave his successor as clean a sheet as possible.

Paul Geerin was fined $2 on a charge of drunk and disorderly. He engaged in an altercation with Dennis McMartin on George street Saturday afternoon, and when ordered by Constable Stewart to move on, did not comply with the request but began arguing the circumstances of the case. The officer had neither the time nor inclination to listen and Geerin was locked up after a short struggle.

Wm. Neil, a farm labourer from Bridgeville, was picked up drunk on Saturday, and after he had sobered up was allowed to go on consideration that he went straight home. Neil, however, was again found drunk on Sunday, and this morning in lieu of payment of a fine of $5 was committed to gaol for twenty days.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

The police made an important arrest Saturday afternoon. For the past six weeks ladies in the west end of the town have frequently been insulted in the most wanton manner by a human being of the male persuasion, who regularly haunted the back street and at every opportunity deliberately exposed his person. The fellow followed his bestial practices continuously and up till Saturday had escaped detection. Complaint after complaint was made to the police, and descriptions of the man given, though not sufficiently minute to fix the identity of the rascal. On Saturday, however, he played his filthy trick once too often. A gentleman, a lawyer, while driving along the boundary road Saturday afternoon, saw a man answering the description given to the police of this insulter of women, and decided to watch him. Before many minutes he saw the fellow commit the offence in front of a young lady who was walking by alone. He immediately telephoned to the police, and after a sharp chase Constable Stewart overhauled the fellow and took him prisoner. He gave his name as Chas. Allard. He is an intelligent and respectable looking man, married and with a family, and is foreman of a department in the Edison Works. He pleaded guilty to the charge in question, and subsequently two ladies identified him as the person who had repeated the act in their presence, one a week ago Sunday, and the other the previous Sunday, both in the outskirts of the town. Allard was convicted on the one charge and remanded a week for sentence. The police claim that they can prove a number of other cases against him. If that is the case the fellow ought to receive full justice for his beastly behavior.

NAMELESS CARES.

A young man was charged with assaulting his father, but no complaintant appearing the case was dismissed.

A case of furious driving was disposed of, the defendant being fined $2.

Wesleyan Ladies' College.

A Splendid Educational Institution—The Advantages it Offers.

In another column of the EXAMINER will be found the announcement of the Wesleyan Ladies' College, Hamilton, one of the finest educational institutions of the kind in Canada. The school is now in its thirtieth year and the reputation it has established almost renders superfluous any reference to its great advantages. It can accommodate 250 boarders without crowding. Its class rooms and general apartments are large, lofty and splendidly furnished and equipped. The rooms for boarders are also lofty and have glass ventilators connecting them with unusually spacious halls. Hot and cold baths are at all times. There is, it is safe to say, no better ventilated building anywhere. No college in the Dominion has a better healh record. Add to these material advantages a thoroughly competent faculty of instructors in every department of politics, as well as useful learning—in music, painting, sewing, art needle work, ect., and combine with these a healthful moral atmosphere, a careful supervision of pupils, and we have an array of advantages which should gain the attention of every parent who is contemplating giving his daughter or daughters the advantages of a superior and refined education, both mental and moral. Send for the thirtieth annual catalogue to Rev. A. Burns, Wesleyan Ladies' College, Hamilton.

Personal.

The Winnipeg Daily Tribune says:—Mrs. J. R. Stratton, wife of Mr. Stratton, M.P.P., West Peterborough, is in Winnipeg visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ormond, on McWilliam street. Mrs. Stratton visits the prairie provinces once a year. She will visit Banff and the coast before returning east after Mr. Stratton arrives during August.

This morning Rev C. B Kenrick, curate of St. Johns', returned home from the old country, where he went primarily for treatment for a persistent throat affection. His many friends will be pleased to learn that his voice is restored to its normal strength, and that his general physical condition is greatly invigorated.

Mr. J. H. Ketcham, director of music in Peterborough Public Schools and Collegiate Institute, left this morning for Chicago to attend the Western Normal Music School, which opened August 1st and closes August 21st, and is under the direction of Prof. E P. Russell and Prof. L. B. Marshall, of Boston, the most able teachers in the United States. The object of the school is to train teachers in methods, and to prepare them for the special work of teaching music in schools. Mr. Ketcham will return in time for the opening of the schools.

The distension of the stomach which many people feel after eating, may be due to improper mastication of the food; but in most cases it indicates a weakness of the digestive organs, the best remedy for which is one of Ayer's Pills, to be taken after dinner.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PIERRE MOSHER, 90 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

Stop Thief!

A gentleman well known in Peterborough sends the following letter to the Globe:

SIR,—It is amusing to watch a man when getting away with the swag joining in the cry of "Stop Thief!"

It is amusing and sad to watch the leaders of the Conservative party joining in the demand for justice and for the use of the pruning knife, and crying out "Purify, purify, purify," as they throw out the head of an underling to the pursuing and even, fag furies, while they themselves sit in the seat of judgment holding the reins of power by virtue of the votes purchased with the money stolen from the public till.

The offence smells rank to heaven, and public decency and the public well-being demand that the great leaders of the great Conservative party should go down from office and from power, and go into political quarantine and fumigate, fumigate, fumigate themselves.

On Fire with Eczema

Terrible Sufferings of Little Baby. Seven Doctors and Two Hospitals Fail. Cured by Cuticura.

My baby boy, 4 months old, broke out with eczema. The itching and burning was intense; the eczema spread to his hands, breast, face, and head, until he was nearly covered; his horrible agonies were pitiable to behold; he had no peace and but little rest; night or day. He was under treatment at different times at two hospitals and by seven doctors in this city without the least benefit; every prescription of the doctors was faithfully tried, but he grew worse all the time. For months I expended about $3 per week for medicine, and was entirely discouraged. I then used CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP and CUTICURA RESOLVENT and followed the directions to the letter. Relief was immediate, the suffering ceased, and rest and sleep permitted. He steadily improved, and in six weeks was entirely cured, and has never an eruption or sore on him. I recommend every mother to use it for every Baby Humor.

WHO TELLS THE TRUTH?

SIR HECTOR OR EX-CHIEF DOMINION ARCHITECT SCOTT

The ex-Chief Architect Says He Did No and Sir Hector Says He Did. The Official Documents Should Decide the Question of Veracity Between Them.

Ottawa, Aug. 4. Mr. T. S. Scott who was chief architect of the Department of Public Works for ten years prior to the 31st of December, 1881, at which date he was superannuated, was asked yesterday whether it was true as stated by Sir Hector Langevin in the House of Commons in 1888 that he, as chief architect reported in favor of paying the claims of Messrs. Goodwin & Becker for extras. "It is the very reverse of true" said Mr. Scott, "instead of reporting in favor of these claims I reported against them as the records in the department will show. Sir Hector stated in Parliament that I when chief architect reported in favor of paying Mr. Goodwin's claim, but he failed to produce any report from me when asked to do so and he can not produce any such report. I repeatedly refused to recommend the payment of the claim though urged to do so because there was no just reason for paying it. Some time after I left the department I was asked to give Mr. Fuller, my successor, some information to enable him to report upon the claim, and did so. Mr. Fuller asked me to attach my name to the recommendation that the claim be paid, but I refused to do it. They cannot find a report from me recommending the payment of the Goodwin claim. I reported against it but it was paid after I left the department. Speaking of the Beemer claim, which was also paid after the presentation of the testimonial to Sir Hector Langevin, Mr. Scott said "I also reported against that claim as unworthy of consideration, but like Goodwin's claim it was paid after I left the department. Sometime after it was paid I met Mr. Beemer and in remarked 'Well Mr. Scott, you see you might as well have reported in favor of my claim—made a little for yourself.' I said, 'Yes' and sacrifice my reputation as an honest man.' Mr. Scott was superannuated on Dec. 9, 1881, about 18 months after the Langevin testimonial scheme was started, and after Mr. Goodwin had contributed his $1000 to the fund. The Beemer claim was paid in 1888 after the testimonial had been presented.

MUTUAL INSURANCE SOCIETIES.

A petition was presented yesterday by Mr. McKay from John B. Buckingham, past high chief ranger, on behalf of the members of the Ancient Order of Foresters for Hamilton. It states that different persons have traveled through the Dominion for the past few years organizing societies purporting to be provident, benevolent, charitable, etc., which, to say the least, are of a very questionable character. After a few years of existence each one, the petitioners say, have left the country or town, others have wound up the affairs of the association, or in some other way have defrauded the members by their beguiling language or high sounding titles thereby bringing respectable and solvent societies into contempt with the general public. Under the Benevolent Societies Act of Ontario the method to be once a body corporate is so simple that the name of another society is not protected from these unscrupulous organizers who can, with very little trouble and without an outlay as to the stability or financial standing of these so called benevolent societies, procure the necessary registration papers and have the word "incorporated" emblazoned conspicuously on the circulars thus giving an air of respectability to their schemes, to the delusion of the unwary. The petitioners are of opinion that the Dominion should prevent the possibility of such a state of affairs by the adoption of some such law as the British one, that some action should be taken, and, if necessary, that a royal commission should be issued to take evidence as to the form and nature of all existing societies, and that if they are not to be upon the financial standard they should be requested to bring themselves under the Government regulations.

BEET ROOT SUGAR BOUNTIES.

Mr. Foster has given notice that he will move a resolution to pay producers of any raw beet root sugars produced in Canada wholly from beets grown in Canada between July 1, 1891, and July 1, 1893, a bounty of $1 per hundred pounds and an additional 3½ per hundred pounds for each degree over 70 shown by the polariscope.

ARNOLD'S GREAT HR. THREAT.

There were no committee meetings yesterday, and the members of Parliament who had not left for their homes were spending their time in the Commons Chamber in No. 16, or No 6, or in the smoking-room, quietly discussing additional scandals. To-day, however, the committees will again be at work, and the prospects are that the half of the iniquity done in which places has not yet been exposed.

If report is true Mr. Haggart's department will show disclosures which will shock Canada. Then there is the Immigration Department. Mr. Arnoldi, who has been suspended from his duties as mechanical engineer in the Public Works Department, is vowing vengeance against the department and the Government generally, threatening to tear the whole fabric to pieces if he is not reinstated.

Cable Chat.

King Alexander, the youthful ruler of Servia, arrived at St. Petersburg today on a visit to the Imperial family. He was met at the railway station by the Czar and several of the Russian Grand Dukes.

The British steamer Wallarah, from London for Table Bay and Sydney, has been totally wrecked near Capetown.

Deposits of a Fog.

Observations taken at Manchester, England, this winter are said to show that during three days of fog nearly 600 weight of sulphuric acid per square mile was deposited around the infirmary, while around Owen's college the quantity reached 400-weight, besides 200-weight of hydrochloric acid and two tons of blacks. The leaves of plants growing out of doors yielded a deposit of 6 to 8 per cent. of sulphuric acid and 5 to 7 per cent of hydrochloric acid.

BRITAIN AND EUROPE.

THE QUEEN OF THE BELGIANS AT DEATH'S DOOR.

France and Russia Still Pleasantly Patting One Another on the Back—Baron Hirsch's Jewish Colonization Schemes—Revolution in Barcelona—An Escaped Siberian Exile's Story—The Anderson Case.

Brussels, Aug. 4. The Queen of the Belgians has been seized with a sudden illness and is dying. The sacrament of extreme unction has been administered.

The Queen returned from Ostend last evening. Yesterday she visited Princess Charlotte the ex Empress of Mexico, at the Chateau of Bonchonte. She found the ex Empress in an excited state, and was so much affected that she was seized with a new attack in the afternoon fainted. She afterwards regained consciousness slowly. The Dean of Leeken, who was summoned when she fainted, administered extreme unction. The Queen is now in a troubled sleep. Her condition is said to be critical. King Leopold was hastily summoned from Ostend.

Marie Henrietta, Queen of Belgium, is the daughter of the late Archduke Joseph of Austria and is 53 years of age. She was married to King Leopold in August, 1853.

Later. It is now announced that the queen is recovering. The cause of her illness is ascribed as a nervous attack and her physicians declare she is now out of danger.

Atkinson's Suspension.

London, Aug. 4. The sentence of suspension imposed upon Henry J. Atkinson, M.P. for Boston, for charging the Speaker with abuse of power in placing on the record that Atkinson had frivolously challenged the accuracy of divisions, expired yesterday. Mr. Atkinson was in the House yesterday and asked leave to make a motion to expunge from The Journal the resolution ordering his suspension. He declared he would rather die than suffer the disgrace that attached to his name by reason of the resolution being spread upon the journal.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Goschen, advised Atkinson to let the matter pass.

Mr. Atkinson said he could not let it pass. He had been drummed out of the House and if he was not considered sufficiently respectable to remain within the precents of Parliament he must have the question of ostracism debated. If the House confirmed the disgrace put upon him he would resign.

France and Russia.

London, Aug. 4. The Standard's Vienna correspondent scouts the idea of a regular alliance between Russia and France, but thinks Admiral Gervais discussed at the Russian office the details of a possible cooperation on the part of French and Russian fleets. The correspondent points out that it would be impossible for huge ironclads to pass directly through the sound into the Baltic. Admiral Gervais had found he had to take the route of the great belt, and pass the gulf of Mecklenburg. This, in time of war, would expose a fleet desiring to assist Russia, or Russian vessels wanting to attack the German coast, to an encounter with the German fleet in Kiel bay.

Revolutionary Republicans.

Paris, Aug. 4.—There was a serious uprising in Barcelona yesterday, but the police suppressed it and arrested the ringleaders, who are federal Republicans.

Senor Zorilla, the Spanish Republican, today denies that he was in any way implicated in the Barcelona affair. He said he would do nothing without the certainty of success.

The latest report from Barcelona justifies the belief that the affair was a genuine revolutionary attempt on the part of Republicans.

Baron Hirsch and the Jews.

Paris, Aug. 4.—A conference of the French Jewish associations here yesterday discussed the plans of Baron Hirsch for the amelioration of the condition of destitute Hebrews. The conference approved of the plan of the Baron aiming at the co-operation of the Jews in European and America in organizing the emigration of Jews from Russia. It was decided to again send delegates to Russia in order to constitute a central committee in St. Petersburg and establish provincial committees.

Russia and France Patting Backs.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 4. Yesterday was appropriately observed as the "name day" of the Czarina. The Czar and Czarina visited the officers of the French squadron to attend the ceremonies incident to the occasion, and the visitors were treated with the most marked courtesy. The French fleet will sail to-day. Admiral Gervais, the commander of the squadron, will go to Moscow and will subsequently rejoin the fleet at Biorke.

The Barbarous Turk.

London, Aug. 4.—A dispatch from Crete says: "The house of a Turkish family in the village of Cerumone was recently attacked and two men and a woman and child were murdered. Eighteen Christian subjects were arrested for the crime and were imprisoned with Turkish convicts. While in prison they were stabbed with knives and so seriously injured that they lay for eight days in a dangerous condition."

Liberals and Home Rule.

London, Aug. 4.—Mr. Morley speaking at Leamington yesterday said that if the Liberals dropped home rule as their foremost plank it would lead to the greatest split the party had ever known. He predicted Mr. Balfour's local Government Bill was an irretrievable step toward home rule and mean the suicide of Unionism.

Stabbed a Detective.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—While attempting to arrest the notorious Joseph Selvie last night the latter stabbed Police Detective Burrows in the eye with a knife, and came dangerously near robbing the detective of his life. Although the blood was streaming down his face Detective Burrows re-captured his man and took him to police headquarters. Selvie has already served a four-year term at Penetang through the instrumentality of the wounded detective. Dr. Sweetman, who dressed his wound, does not anticipate sufficient serious.

CANADIAN TRAGEDIES.

CRIMES WHICH ARE OCCUPYING THE PUBLIC MIND.

The Handcock Murder Case—The Rouge River Victim Identified—A St. Mary's Man Hangs Himself—Arrested in British Columbia for a Murder of 16 Years Standing.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—"Sophie Handcock was killed by her father in the course of one of numerous quarrels which occurred between the couple." This is the solution of the Fairbank mystery which Government Detective Greer has arrived at after 10 days investigation into the case, and he has accumulated considerable additional evidence, a portion of which will be laid before the magistrate when the case is called at the Police Court to-day. It has been expected that a further remand would be asked for the prisoners but Detective Greer believes that he has sufficient evidence to make out a prima facie case against Edward Handcock. In the absence of County Crown Attorney Badgerow, Mr. E. F. B. Johnston will probably appear for the prosecution and Mr. Murdock will appear for the prisoners. No evidence will be offered to connect Mrs. Handcock with the crime, and she will probably be released at the outset.

The rumors that Sophie had a lover and that she was about to be married, and that a motive therefore existed for her death, cannot be authenticated, and the belief is general that the murder was motiveless—that it was simply the deed of a man in the heat of passion, and that in order to cover up the crime the accident theory was invented. Such a theory is farcical and impossible of support judging from the nature of the wounds found on the dead girl's head.

There was a ragged wound 3½ inches above the external opening by the left ear, 1½ inches long by half an inch wide. There was a second wound leading upwards towards the top of the head. The bone of the skull was fractured beneath the external wound an inch and a quarter long and half an inch wide, shelving slightly from without inwards. There was a hole in the brain substance which went through the whole thickness of the brain and ended in the left lateral ventricle, communicating externally with the wound in the skull. Radiating from the hole in the skull was a fracture extending to the junction of the horizontal with the vertical plates of the frontal bone. There was a fracture proceeding backwards and upwards from the hole in the skull, ending in the vertical suture at the top of the head. Two inches in front of this there was another fracture passing upwards to the crown of the head.

Detective Greer believes that the missing father's hammer will be in his possession within 24 hours. He yesterday received an anonymous communication indicating the possible place where the weapon is secreted.

THE ROUGE RIVER VICTIM

Identified as August Werner of Toronto—Other Identifications Incorrect.

Toronto, Aug. 4. The identity of the floater found inside the bar at the mouth of the Rouge River down the lake from Port Union last week, is no longer a mystery. His identity is established beyond the shadow of a doubt. The manner in which he met his tragic fate is, however, yet unsolved and is likely to remain so.

HE WAS SIMON'S CUSTOMER.

Once the attention of the Attorney-General's department has been called to the case Mr. Cartwright lost no time in putting an officer at work and Government Detective Joe Rogers visited "Rosebank" yesterday afternoon. Mr. A. Simons, the York street second-hand dealer, who sold the clothes worn by the dead man, and E. Lawson of 16 Washington avenue, and Harry Reid of 9 Washington avenue, went along to see if they could identify the body. The remains were still lying exposed in Cowan's boat house, where they had lain since they were fished out of the water last Thursday. No attempt had been made to preserve the body until Sunday night, when it was placed in a box and packed in ice. Meantime it had decomposed greatly, and to day the features were practically beyond recognition. Photographer W. E. O'Brien of Whitby, Sunday afternoon took a negative of the remains. So on positively identified the clothes as the same as had been sold by him to a man resembling the deceased. The body was too far gone for recognition, but the general color of the remains led Simon to conclude that his customer and the victim were identical.

WHO THE FLOATER IS.

Acting on the clue furnished by Mr. Simon, that the man evidently lodged in York street, the floater's identity was fully established. He was a German named August Werner, and he came to this country from Jaskon, or Jackson, Germany, about eight years ago and lived for nearly two years with a farmer in Waterloo. Since then he has been knocking around the country. In January last Werner came to the cheap lodging house of Edward Nuttrall, corner of York and Pearl streets and remained one night. He registered in a fair hand and was given room 16. He was registered under the name of Evans, through a misunderstanding of the pronunciation of his name. Next morning Werner told Nuttral that he was going to work on the Belt Line, and presumably did so. On July 6 he again put up at Nuttrall's. He only slept there one night, but the landlord saw him in the waiting room several days in succession. On the morning of July 7, he told Nuttral he was going up to buy a suit of clothes at Simons and did so. Nuttral, who was shown a sample of the coat found on the body, joins with Simons in positively identifying the clothing. Werner remained about York street for a fortnight, and on the night of Monday, July 20, again slept at Nuttral's. Next morning he told the latter he was going away "that way" pointing east. Ten days later, on Thursday, July 30, his body was found floating in the Rouge river.

Both Simon and Nuttral say that Werner was of a very taciturn disposition and had little to say. During the time he was in the lodging house he kept to himself and talked with no one. He spoke with a pronounced German accent, in fact his dialect was so difficult to understand, that Simon, in selling the clothes, conversed with the man in German.

SUICIDE OR MURDER.

Granting that the victim is the unfortunate German, August Werner, how did he meet his death? Constable O'Connor, in examining the G.T.R. bridge, discovered what he thought to be blood stains on the girder and on the platform of the lake side of the fabric. Marks were found where what appeared to be the fiber of woolen clothing had been rubbed into the rough grain of the wood and several scratches such as could have been made by dragging something over it. Dr. Bateman cut out a portion of the wood containing the stains and will analyze the marks. The discovery of these stains led to the belief that the victim had been murdered on the bridge and thrown into the river, or that he had shot himself there and fallen into the water. If so 20 feet below. There were no bruises found on the body, but this fact does not disprove the bridge theory. There are several peculiar features in the case. There is nothing to show on what day he (Werner) met his death. That he was in the water on Monday, July 27 is evidenced by the fact of his not having been picked up on that day, but the statement of the medical man on examining the body three days later that it had probably been in the water a week would indicate that he met his death prior to the 27th, possibly a day or two after he left Toronto, July 21. When was the body in the meantime? The post mortem showed that he was killed by the bullet wound—that he was dead before he touched the water. Such being the case the corpse would not have sunk. The decomposed condition of the face compared with the appearance of the remainder of the body, which was remarkably well preserved, showed, moreover, that the head had been exposed to the sun for some time. If the corpse had been floating inside the bar between the bridge and the lake for several days, it seems remarkable that it was not discovered earlier, for almost every inch of water is traversed daily by fishermen in boats. Neither is it likely that it floated in from the lake. True, there are currents running both in from and out into the lake, but the water is so shallow, being barely 18 inches at the deepest part, that it is highly improbable that a corpse could wash in. One hypothesis advanced is that Werner met his death further up the Rouge, and that in the course of time the body washed down. But how did his hat come to be floating on the water Monday within a few yards of where the body was found three days later. A search will be made of the stream underneath the bridge today to see if any trace can be found of the revolver. The fact that deceased was out of work, that he had no money and that the bullet in his head corresponded in size with those found in his pocket made the suicide theory not only terrible but probable. Against this are the bloodmarks on the bridge and the unlikelihood of a man walking along a bridge, loading a revolver calmly buttoning up his coat, sending a bullet into his temple, which must have caused instant death, and then falling down into a stream. From whatever aspect the case is viewed it is full of mystery—a mystery possibly known only to the remnant of humanity, which Constable O'Connor buried in a pauper's grave in the field near "Rosebank" camp last night.

OTHERS WHO ARE MISSING.

The publication of the finding of the body has resulted in the forwarding of several telegrams enquiring after missing friends. This was received yesterday:

London, Ont., Aug. 3.
Chief of Police, Port Huron:

If body found in Rogue River Thursday has not been claimed please send photograph to 284 South street. Reply.

Mrs. Hartel.

Constable O'Connor wired Mrs. Hartel that the body was beyond identification, but a photograph would be sent later.

It was thought early in the case that the body might be that of a baker named Maywald who did business until a few months ago in John street south, Hamilton, the description being about the same. Maywald has been missing from his wife and family for some time. He came to Hamilton from the East a year ago last January and started a bakery in John street south. He was a good baker and was well supported by the Germans of that part of the city. Although he did a capital business he was not careful with his money and as a consequence got involved in debt. The end of it all was that he skipped out during the middle of last April, leaving his wife to get along as best she could with her three children. Maywald was seen in Buffalo a week or two ago, however.

IS THIS ANOTHER?

Government Detective Murray Investigating James Carruthers' Death.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—Government Detective Murray, of the Attorney-General's Department, embarked on the steamer Highland Maid at Rat Portage the other day accompanied by Sheriff Carpenter, en route for for the Rainy River district. His business there is in connection with the mysterious death of James Carruthers some month ago. Carruthers, who belonged to St. Mary's, Ont., and was employed in a saw mill on the Rainy River, was found dead in the kitchen of his house. His wife claimed to have gone outside and while absent heard the report of a gun and going inside found her husband dead, he having accidentally shot himself. Residents of the locality claimed that Carruthers and his wife lived on anything but friendly terms owing to the presence of a young man in the locality who was on friendly terms with Mrs. Carruthers. The condition in which deceased was found also caused some to doubt that death was accidental. Detective Murray will make a thorough investigation. Mrs. Carruthers, it is understood, is now living in St. Mary's

An Old Lady Suicides.

Quebec, Aug. 4.—An unusually melancholy case of suicide occurred on Saturday evening in the Louise Basin. Amongst those who took passage on the steamship Polynesian last week at Liverpool for this port was an elderly couple who were on their way to Chicago to live with a married daughter. On going aboard the steamer the husband fell dead. The widow continued her voyage but it was noticed that she was exceedingly morose throughout. When she was landed on Saturday night on the Louise embankment, whence she was to take the C.P.R. for Chicago, the poor woman stepped on board a large lying in the basin, and when the captain approached her she deliberately threw herself into the water.

Haley Hangs Himself.

St. Mary's, Aug. 4.—John Haley, aged 35, who resided in this town near Knight's Mill, suicided on Saturday night last. The unfortunate man was found on Sunday morning in his own cellar with his hand and knees resting on the ground and his head through a large loose noose attached to a chain, which was suspended from the joist. Coroner Shaver of Stratford held an inquest, which showed that deceased committed suicide while despondent, as the result of excessive drinking and supposed financial troubles.

An Old Time Murder.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 4.—On Sept. 19, 1875, the remains of Isaac Cloake were found in his cabin at North Saanich, burned to a crisp. An inquest was held, and the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death by fire. Yesterday a man named Seymour was arrested on suspicion of having murdered Cloake. The arrest was made as the result of the disclosures of an Indian woman, who formerly lived with Seymour and who claims to have proofs that the man robbed Isaac Cloake and then burned the cabin and its occupant.

Another Suicide at Quebec.

Quebec, Aug. 4.—An emigrant woman named Kathrina Maria Bolin, a native of Sweden, on her way to her son in law who lives at 864 Fairfield street, Chicago, Ill., committed suicide in a hotel here Saturday night by turning on the gas.

THE COMING AQUATIC EVENT.

The Great Rowing Talent Now Quartered at Burlington Beach.

Burlington Beach, Aug. 4. The Ocean House holds four of Canada's leading oarsmen, including two ex-champions of the world. Hanlan and O'Connor arrived yesterday afternoon on the Macassa and they will put on the finishing touches in the pre sence of the enemy. The Toronto men are in fine fettle. Hanlan appears to have overcome his propensity of making flesh and he looks a better man by a great deal than he has been for the past few years All agree that they will take a lot of beat ing, and it is said thousands of Toronto dollars will follow them to the finish.

Ned has taken the cue from his partner, and is not talking as much as usual, but they were never more confident of anything in their lives than they are of winning the great struggle on Saturday next.

Gaudaur and McKay are feeling pretty much at home in the Ocean House now. They too, are confident. They have never been beaten in a double shell and do not expect such treatment. Gaudaur thinks that the race will be a hammer. In addition to the fact that they will have good company he thinks the course at the Beach the finest he has ever seen. Both he and his partner are down to weight now, and take short, lively spins. Gaudaur does not believe in violent exercise, and he attributes Bonchoe's defeat to the heavy work which he performed before the race as exercise. Snap is what Gaudaur worships and he promises plenty of it on Saturday.

The H. & D. Street Railway.

Hamilton, Aug. 4.—B. B. Osler, Q. C. principal owner of the Hamilton & Dundas Railway, yesterday met Messrs. T. Myles & Son and Mr. Wm. Myles of Chicago in reference to the five years' lease of the road to be signed by the Mylesses. Some objection were removed and the new lessees will take possession of the road at once. Mr. Osler is understood to have stated that it was not likely the road would be in the possession of the Mylesses longer than a year, as it is expected the C. P. R. Co., would purchase the road by that time. The new lessees will conduct the line in the most efficient manner.

DRAFT OF THE REPORT.

Presented by the Street Railway Committee.

A Lengthy Report Full of Very Necessary Details—The Terms to Which the Street Railway Company will be Bound.

Following is the full text of the report of the Street Railway Committee presented by Mr. Moore at the meeting of the Town Council Monday night, and which was disposed of as reported in another column :—

PETERBOROUGH, 3rd Aug., 1891.

The Mayor and Council of Peterborough.

The Committee to whom were referred the petitions of Samuel Isaul, John Muir, John Kraus, H. M. Francis, John Langton and Marshall D. Barr, and the Peterborough and Ashburnham Street Railway Co., each asking your permission to construct and operate lines of railway over the public streets of the Town, respectfully report as follows :—

1. That, having considered the above applications, and (for the purpose of gaining all possible information on the subject) visited the Cities of Ottawa and St. Catherines, where horse and Electric Street Railways are in use, and having also considered the requirements of this town for a Street Railway, your Committee are of opinion that a Street Railway would be of great convenience and advantage to the citizens, and would materially benefit the Town as a whole, although there would be, especially in the case of a double track, diminished available space in the streets for ordinary traffic.

2. That the exclusive franchise of the streets of the Town for the purposes of a Street Railway, together with the right to place the necessary poles, wires, ties, rails, turnouts and other appliances thereon, should be given to a Co'y, that would undertake to construct and operate railway in which the motive or propelling power would be electricity, with proper provisions in such franchise or contract made thereunder for securing all the safeguards in use in the modern and approved electric systems for the protection of person and property from injury, in the application of such power, and the operation of the Railway.

3. That, in view of the greater ability of an electric system of railway to fulfill the requirements of travel, and that a double track would occupy about one-third of the space between the sidewalks, the Town should for the present, and until the requirements of the town call for a service every ten minutes, only permit a single track to be laid on the streets.

4. That the term of the franchise should be 20 years from the granting of it, and the franchise should be subject to and in conformity with all the other provisions of section 18 of The Street Railway Act, R. S. O., cap. 171.

5. That, subject to all necessary, reasonable and proper provisions in the franchise or contract with the company, there should be thereby only reserved a nominal rental of $1.00 per year if demanded for the franchise during the said 20 years, and that exemption from taxation should be granted to the company of its franchise, track, rolling stock, and other personal property used in and about the working of the Railway for the period of ten years from the 1st of January next.

6. That there should be provision for forfeiture as provided in section 14 of the said Act, except that the non-user causing such forfeiture should be 3 months instead of 6 months, as therein mentioned.

7. That the track or tracks should be of the standard guage of 4 feet 8½ inches, and the rails to be used on George street, between Charlotte and Brock, being the part of the town where traffic is greatest, should be of the kind known as the "Girder" rail with a flange on the inside and outside, and that permission should be given to use the T rail in other portions of the town, and that the rails to be used should weigh 45 pounds and upwards to the yard.

8. That all the works of the Railway should be executed in a substantial manner and according to the best modern practice, and that the carriages used on the road should be of the most modern design and finish as regards appearance, comfort and safety, and that they should be lighted at night with electricity, and properly heated in cold weather.

9. That when a single line of railway, is put down, the same should be placed in the centre of the street, and when a double track is laid, the tracks should be placed so that the centre line between the tracks should be the centre of the street, and the distance between the tracks should not be greater than will leave a space of two feet between two cars passing each other. That the required poles should be placed adjoining the sidewalks, and that between Brock street and Charlotte street, such poles should be of iron. That when and where wooden poles shall be used the same should be uniform and should be dressed, shaped and painted in a becoming manner.

10. That a company putting down its tracks should be required to lay the same on the present level of the streets or so near thereto as is compatible with a proper execution of the work; and in case the town should hereafter require it, the company should, at its expense, lower and relay its tracks so as to conform to the grade the streets on either side of the tracks may be brought to by the town in the cutting or filling of the streets. That the rails should be laid flush with the streets so as to cause the least possible impediment to the traffic of the streets.

11. That the company should be required to so construct and maintain its railway that the same will not interfere with the town's sewers, water tables, or drainage, and to keep and maintain the roadbed or space between the rails as its own expense clean and in proper repair, and pave and repave and maintain in repair to the distance of 10 feet inside and outside the rails in a good and permanent manner.

12. That there should be provision that, in case of the grading, repairing, paving or sewering of the streets by the town, it shall, in the opinion of the town engineer, be necessary or convenient to remove the rails and ties, the same should be moved when required by the town engineer and relaid by the company operating the railway, at its expense, but this requirement of the town engineer should be so made that the least possible loss, injury or inconvenience would happen to the company.

13. That the company obtaining the franchise applied for should be required to construct and put in operation during this present year, a line of railway on George street, from Smith street to Lake street, and that such construction should commence not later than the 1st day of September next.

14. That the company should be required to construct and put in operation by the 1st day of July, 1892, further lines of railway from Hilliard's mills in the town, southward on Water street to Smith street, and thence westward on Smith street to connect with the said line of railway on George street; and on Lake street from George to Lock street, and southward on Lock street to the Grand Trunk Railway's crossing near Ware street.

15. That the company should be further required to construct in each of the years 1893 and 1894, at least 1½ miles of railway on some one or more streets of the town lying to the westward of George street between Smith street and Lake street or on those or either of those streets as the company may determine and to operate the same respectively from the time of such construction.

16. That the company should be required to operate their cars over its lines from the hour of 6 a.m. until the hour of 11 p.m. each working day, and to run its cars at intervals of at least every 15 minutes during that time over its railway lines, but the company should be permitted to operate its cars on its lines at such other times as it may think fit;

17. That the fares to be charged by the Company should be as follows :—Ordinary fares, including transfer tickets over any line operated or controlled by the Company within the limits of the town, or the village of Ashburnham, not to exceed 5 cents each, or 24 of such tickets for $1.00 working persons tickets to be used between 6 and 7 o'clock a.m., 12 and 2 p.m., and 5 and 7 p.m., at the rate of 6 tickets for 25 cents; school tickets for school children should be issued in a non transferable form to all children attending public, separate or high school upon the written order from the principal of the school where the scholar attends, such tickets to be used only during school session and forfeited if transferred and said school ticket to be issued at the rate of eight for 25 cents.

18. That the electric system and all the plant and appliances (except poles, ties, rails and cars) required to be used on or in connection with the construction and operation of said railway should be that of of the Edison General Electric Company or that which that Company usually makes and supplies, so long as the said Edison General Electric Company or its successors or assigns shall carry on business in the manufacturing and furnishing such electric plant, &c., in the town of Peterborough, as the Railway Company shall require for the purpose of the Railway, and is willing and ready to furnish the necessary system, plant and appliances for a Street Railway, except as above, at fair and reasonable prices therefor.

19 That the feed wires used in the said Railway should be wires having the best insulation, that such wires should be suspended at least 18 feet from the ground, and that the Company should have the right to instal the Edison feed-in trolly system of Electric Railways.

20. That the electric current which the company should be permitted to use on said railway should not exceed 500 volts, and that an alternating current should not be used on overhead wires, and that the town should have the right at any time to test and measure the electric current used by the company.

21. That none of the poles or wires should be erected or strung so as to injuriously interfere with the poles, wires or other apparatus connected with public street lighting, police patrol or fire alarm systems of the town.

22. That there should be a reasonable provision for cutting the company's wires in case of fire in buildings adjacent to the Railway, without cost or damage to the town.

23. That there should be full and ample provision for the protecting and indemnifying the town from and against all suits, action, claims and demands whatever arising or occuring by reason of the constructing, maintaining or operating of the said Railway or in anything connected with or relating thereto.

24. That, in operating the said Railway with its cars for the purpose of taking on or leaving off passengers save at the intersections of streets and at the second crossing of an intersecting street except where the block exceeds 500 feet in depth, in which case the Company should stop its cars in the middle of the block and put up a notice, "The Car stops here."

25. That it should be a condition that the Company should not run its cars on George street, between Townsend street and Smith street, at a greater rate of speed than 10 miles an hour.

26. That each car should be numbered and supplied with a gong to be sounded on approaching an intersecting street, or in case any person or vehicle should appear on or near the track.
